In addition, the course will cover pedagogical and professional concerns. The course may focus on a single genre, such as poetry, fiction, creative nonfiction or drama, or may be taught as a multi-genre course. May be repeated as content changes.

ENGL 6389. TECHNICAL WRITING ACROSS THE DISCIPLINES. 3 Hours.
Offers an integrated-language approach to technical writing across the disciplines designed to improve critical reading, writing, and thinking skills. Provides ESL-integrated feedback for writing projects. Focuses on writing research or grant proposals, but may also include writing abstracts, summaries, reports, and/or literature reviews. ENGL 6389 cannot be counted toward completing the requirements of any graduate degree plan in English.

ENGL 6391. GRADUATE READINGS. 3 Hours.
Supervised reading for the Ph.D. exam.

ENGL 6399. DISSERTATION. 3 Hours.
The graduate student must be registered for this course (a) when in consultation over the dissertation with the supervisory committee, and (b) in the semester or term in which the Ph.D. will be conferred. A minimum of 9 hours of dissertation credit is required for the Ph.D. Graduate teaching assistants must take ENGL 6699. ENGL 6999 must be taken during the final semester of the Ph.D.

ENGL 6691. GRADUATE READINGS. 6 Hours.
Independent Reading for the Comprehensive Exam.

ENGL 6699. DISSERTATION. 6 Hours.
The graduate student must be registered for this course (a) when in consultation over the dissertation with the supervisory committee, and (b) in the semester or term in which the Ph.D. will be conferred. A minimum of 9 hours of dissertation credit is required for the Ph.D. Graduate teaching assistants must take ENGL 6699. ENGL 6999 must be taken during the final semester of the Ph.D.

ENGL 6991. GRADUATE READINGS. 9 Hours.
Independent Reading for the Comprehensive Examination.

ENGL 6999. DISSERTATION. 9 Hours.
The graduate student must be registered for this course (a) when in consultation over the dissertation with the supervisory committee, and (b) in the semester or term in which the Ph.D. will be conferred. A minimum of 9 hours of dissertation credit is required for the Ph.D. Graduate teaching assistants must take ENGL 6699. ENGL 6999 must be taken during the final semester of the Ph.D.

ENGL 7399. DOCTORAL DEGREE COMPLETION. 3 Hours.
This course may be taken during the semester in which a student expects to complete all requirements for the doctoral degree and graduate. Enrolling in this course meets minimum enrollment requirements for graduation, for holding fellowships awarded by The Office of Graduate Studies and for full-time GTA or GRA positions. Students should verify that enrollment in this course meets other applicable enrollment requirements. To remain eligible in their final semester of study for grants, loans or other forms of financial aid administered by the Financial Aid Office must enroll in a minimum of 5 hours as required by the Office of Financial Aid. Other funding sources may also require more than 3-hours of enrollment. Additional hours may also be required to meet to requirements set by immigration law or by the policies of the student's degree program. Students should contact the Financial Aid Office, other sources of funding, Office of International Education and/or their graduate advisor to verify enrollment requirements before registering for this course. This course may only be taken twice. Students who do not complete all graduation requirements while enrolled in this course must enroll in a minimum of 6 dissertation hours (6699 or 6999) in their graduation term. Graded P/F/R.

Doctor of Philosophy in English

About This Program

The Doctor of Philosophy in English prepares students at the most advanced stage in the interpretation and composition of texts. The program emphasizes rigorous critical study in the fields of rhetoric, composition, critical theory, cultural studies, pedagogy, technical writing, and literary studies. Early in the program, each student takes two core courses, one that serves as an introduction to the profession of English Studies, and one that examines theory as it is currently used in English scholarship. Rather than offering separate tracks, the program allows students, in consultation with the Graduate Advisor and the dissertation committee, to design a program of work that best suits their scholarly interests and career goals. The combination of diverse course offerings with the requirement that each student define a focus that reflects their intellectual and career interests provides students with the flexibility to adapt to changes in English Studies. Specifically, the PhD in English prepares students for careers in writing, including professional and technical writing, as well as academic publishing. The Department trains students for college-level teaching in several ways, including graduate courses in the teaching of literature and of composition. Doctoral students in English present papers at scholarly conferences, publish essays in scholarly journals, and participate in other professional activities.

Competencies

1. Students completing the PhD in English will be able to describe, analyze, and interpret literary and non-literary texts within the context of a scholarly conversation, evaluating and responding to others' interventions.
2. Students completing the PhD in English will be able to understand and employ a number of critical theories and methodologies in analyzing literary and other texts, including the ability to understand, analyze, and interpret texts in relation to cultural and historical contexts.
3. Students completing the PhD in English will be able to conduct independent research, including a thorough knowledge of relevant secondary materials, and will produce, in their dissertation and other scholarly writing, original, substantial, and significant contributions to scholarship.
4. Students completing the PhD in English will be able to present, explicate, and defend their findings, in both oral and written form, with clarity and force; they will hone their writing skills and master the conventions of Standard English.
5. Students completing the PhD in English will become familiar with common protocols and practices in the profession of English Studies, but will also graduate with widely marketable skills, such as the ability to conduct research and analyze and synthesize data.

Admissions Requirements

In addition to the basic graduate (p. 26) admission requirements (p. 26) of UT Arlington, the Department of English requires all international students to have speaking, reading, and writing competence in English. We consider four different admission criteria: (1) GPA; (2) writing sample; (3) statement of purpose; and (4) letters of recommendation. Prospective students should submit all the required materials and scores—i.e. official transcripts, a writing sample, a statement of purpose, and recommendation letters—in order for their application to be processed. All criteria are considered together, in a holistic way. No single factor will eliminate a prospective student from consideration.

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

For unconditional admission, candidates must meet the following standards for at least three of the four criteria.

1. A minimum GPA of 3.5 in the student's MA in English or a very closely related field. (If the MA is not in English, we will consider the undergraduate GPA as well as that of the MA. Moreover, if the MA is not in a very closely related field, the prospective student will be admitted to the MA program in English, not the PhD.)
2. An original, single-authored writing sample of 15 to 20 pages that demonstrates a sophisticated prose style, the ability to engage in intellectually rigorous modes of analysis, and a strong knowledge of rhetoric, composition studies, literary studies, cultural studies, or interdisciplinary critical theory.
3. A statement of purpose of 1 to 2 pages in which applicants introduce themselves, explain why they are interested in doctoral study in English, and describe their professional goals and/or research interests.
4. Three letters of recommendation that attest to the student's intellectual and scholarly potential. At least two of these must be from former professors; at least one must be a professor from the student's MA program.

DEFERRED DECISION

A deferred decision may be granted when a file is incomplete or when a denied decision is not appropriate.

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

An applicant unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline but who otherwise appears to meet admission requirements may be granted provisional admission.

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

For both the MA and PhD programs, students may be admitted on probation under one of two scenarios: (1) if the prospective student's application materials do not meet two of the four standards, but are outstanding in the remaining two categories; or (2) if the prospective student's materials come extremely close to meeting the standards in at least three of the four areas. Students on academic probation must make no grade lower than a B in the first 12 hours of their graduate work in order to remain in the program.

DENIAL

Admission will be denied if the application materials (1) do not meet the standards in three of the four categories; or (2) if the materials do not meet the standards in two of the categories, and in the remaining two categories meet the standards but in an unexceptional manner.

ENGL 6699	DISSERTATION
ENGL 6999	DISSERTATION
ENGL 7399	DOCTORAL DEGREE COMPLETION
Total Hours		39

[1] Must be taken within a student's first 12 hours of study unless completed while in the MA program.

Program Completion

The PhD requires basic proficiency in one natural language other than English.

Students are strongly encouraged to consult with the Director of Graduate Studies or Graduate Coordinator in planning their coursework in order to develop a coherent focus and to ensure that they take all required courses. Near the end of coursework, students must establish a dissertation committee and identify the chair, who will become their primary advisor. The committee will help students develop three subject area reading lists for their written comprehensive examination, which will be taken after they complete their coursework and satisfy the foreign language requirement. While studying for the comprehensive exam, students may enroll in ENGL 6391 GRADUATE READINGS, supervised reading for the PhD exam, graded R. By the end of the first semester after successfully completing the comprehensive examination, the student must submit a dissertation prospectus to their committee. The dissertation must be an original, substantial and significant contribution to a scholarly field. Students should work closely with the chair of their committee while researching and writing their dissertation. While researching and writing their dissertation, students must enroll in dissertation hours (ENGL 6399 DISSERTATION, ENGL 6699 DISSERTATION or ENGL 6999 DISSERTATION). In the final semester of dissertation work, students may enroll in ENGL 7399 DOCTORAL DEGREE COMPLETION. Once the student, the chair of the committee, and the primary readers agree that the dissertation is sufficiently completed, the student may schedule the defense. The student must furnish each committee member with a copy of the dissertation, including notes and bibliography, at least three weeks prior to the defense date. The defense of the dissertation is oral. The defense is open to all members of the faculty, graduate students, and invited guests of the university community. Questioning of the candidate will be directed by the student's dissertation supervising committee, but any person attending the defense may participate. Committee members may request that the dissertation be further revised and may withhold final approval of the dissertation until the revisions have been made. For more specific information regarding degree requirements, please consult the Graduate Handbook of the Department of English.

Master of Arts in English

About This Program

The Master of Arts in English is designed to enable students to learn about, critique, and work in teaching, scholarship, writing, or other fields which value a strong background in language, rhetoric, and the study of culture through texts.

Early in the program, each student takes two core courses, one that serves as an introduction to the profession of English Studies, and one that examines theory as it is currently used in English scholarship. Each student plans an individual program of coursework with the help of the graduate advisor (english.gradadvisor@uta.edu (matheson@uta.edu)). This program draws on the department's varied courses, which offer students ways to study literature, rhetoric, and criticism, as well as methods of studying culture through texts and traditions of discourse.

The MA in English provides a strong grounding in scholarly methods and in theory, making it an ideal preparation for doctoral study in disciplinary or interdisciplinary programs. MA graduates in English pursue careers in journalism, educational administration and services, publishing, and many business fields that demand writing and communication skills. The MA in English is also useful for prospective or experienced teachers who want both to sharpen their ability to teach literature and writing and to advance professionally.

Competencies

1. Students completing the MA in English will be able to describe, analyze, and interpret literary and non-literary texts in a clear, coherent written form that follows the conventions of Standard English.
2. Students completing the MA in English will be able to understand, analyze, and interpret texts in relation to cultural and historical contexts.
3. Students completing the MA in English will be able to understand and employ a number of critical theories and methodologies in analyzing literary and other texts.
4. Students completing the MA in English will be able to conduct independent research and use that research to create and defend propositions concerning literature and other texts.
5. Students completing the MA in English will become familiar with common protocols and practices in the profession of English Studies, but will also graduate with widely marketable skills, such as the ability to conduct research and analyze and synthesize data.

Admissions Requirements

In addition to the basic graduate admission requirements of UT Arlington, the Department of English requires all international students to have speaking, reading, and writing competence in English. We consider four different admission criteria:

1. GPA
2. Writing sample
3. Statement of purpose
4. Letters of recommendation

Prospective students must submit all the required materials and scores—i.e., official transcripts, a writing sample, a statement of purpose, and recommendation letters—in order for their application to be processed. All criteria are considered together, in a holistic way, and no single factor will eliminate a prospective student from consideration.

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

For unconditional admission, candidates must meet the following standards for at least three of the four criteria.

1. A minimum GPA of 3.0 in undergraduate work, with a minimum of 3.4 in the English major or upper-level English courses. Applicants who did not major in English should have at least 12 hours of upper-level undergraduate coursework in English. Non-majors who do not meet the upper-level English coursework requirement may still apply, but will likely need to take leveling courses (see below).
2. An original, single-authored writing sample of 10 to 15 pages that demonstrates a sophisticated prose style and the ability to construct complex arguments.

3. A statement of purpose of 1 to 2 pages in which applicants introduce themselves, explain why they are interested in graduate study in English, and describe their professional goals and/or research interests.
4. Three letters of recommendation that attest to the prospective student's intellectual and scholarly potential. At least two of these should be from former professors.

DEFERRED DECISION

A deferred decision may be granted when a file is incomplete or when a denial is not appropriate.

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

An applicant who is unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline but who otherwise appears to meet admission requirements may be granted provisional admission.

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

For both the MA and PhD programs, students may be admitted on probation under one of two scenarios:

1. The prospective student's application materials do not meet two of the four standards, but are outstanding in the remaining two areas; or
2. The prospective student's materials come extremely close to meeting the standards in at least three of the four areas.

Students on academic probation must make no grade lower than a B in the first 12 hours of their graduate work in order to remain in the program.

DENIAL

Admission will be denied if the application materials:

1. Do not meet the standards in three of the four categories; or
2. Do not meet the standards in two of the categories, and in the remaining two categories meet the standards but in an unexceptional manner.

LEVELING COURSES

Students who wish to pursue the MA but who do not have an undergraduate major in English may be required to take between 3 and 12 hours in specified advanced undergraduate courses and make no grade lower than a B. These courses will not be counted for graduate credit, but instead will provide the necessary background for pursuit of the advanced degree.

GRADUATE TEACHING ASSISTANTSHIPS

Please consult the Director of First Year Writing, Dr. Justin Lerberg (jlerberg@uta.edu), for information about Graduate Teaching Assistantships.

One may be taken in a department in the College of Liberal Arts other than English; students may also petition to apply credits taken outside of the College.		18
Thesis
Thesis students must complete at least six hours of the following, enrolling in a course in which the grade of P can be assigned (5698 or 5998) in the semester in which the thesis is defended:		6
ENGL 5398	THESIS
ENGL 5698	THESIS
ENGL 5998	THESIS
Total Hours		30

[1] Must be completed within the first 12 hours of coursework.

Program Completion

THESIS OPTION

Students who would like to pursue the thesis option must apply for it no sooner than their 18th hour and no later than their 24th hour of coursework. A student who elects to write a thesis must select a topic in consultation with their thesis director. Before the student registers for thesis hours, a Thesis Committee (a director and two readers) must be established. Students must defend their thesis to complete the degree.

NON-THESIS OPTION

The final requirement for a non-thesis MA is submission of a portfolio. This will consist of a variety of writing assignments designed to prepare the student to enter the professional and/or academic workplace. The student will establish a Portfolio Committee (a director and two readers).

Bachelor of Art in English

About This Program

The Bachelor of Art in English involves two activities that are essentially and uniquely human: language and art. The curriculum provides students with an understanding of theoretical and analytical processes that enable them to assimilate a variety of textual materials representing many cultures and historical periods. Students will learn to read closely, critically, and empathetically. In addition, students will learn to conduct scholarly research and to produce clear and cogent arguments in both written and oral form. These skills are widely applicable for English graduates who pursue careers in the arts, education, business, research and development, government, media, and publishing.

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, English majors will be able to interpret texts, analyze them critically, and locate them in historical context.
2. Upon graduation, English majors will be able to understand significant critical methodologies and use them to interpret primary texts.

3. Upon graduation, English majors will be able to use library resources to gather research materials and use those materials to evaluate, contextualize, and advance an argument.
4. Upon graduation, English majors will be able to express their ideas coherently in an oral presentation to a group.
5. Upon graduation, English majors will have marketable skills necessary for obtaining employment in fields where analysis, synthesis, research skills, and clarity of expression are required.

Bachelor of Arts in English with Secondary Teacher Certification

About This Program

Like the Bachelor of Arts in English, the Bachelor of Arts in English with Secondary Teacher Certification (BATCH) provides students with an understanding of theoretical and analytical processes that enable them to assimilate a variety of textual materials representing many cultures and historical periods. Students will learn to read closely, critically, and empathetically, and they will become proficient at conducting scholarly research in order to produce clear and cogent arguments in both written and oral form.

In addition to training in English Studies, the BATCH offers a curriculum in pedagogy and clinical student teaching undertaken with the College of Education (the Educator Preparation Program, or EPP). Upon completion of the program and passage of the state-administered secondary teacher certification examination, BATCH graduates will be certified to teach 7th-12th grades in Texas schools.

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, English majors with a teaching certification will be able to interpret texts, analyze them critically, and locate them in historical context; they will understand significant critical methodologies and research methods, using them to interpret and advance an argument about a primary text.
2. Upon graduation, English majors with a teaching certification will have developed an understanding of writing as a rhetorical, context-specific, iterative process and will know how to give helpful, task-appropriate feedback to student writers.
3. Upon graduation, English majors with a teaching certification will be able to apply their content-area knowledge to develop curriculum, carry out instruction, and assess learning.
4. Upon graduation, English majors with a teaching certification will know how to use an inquiry-oriented approach to teaching to engage in reflective practices that develop their understanding of teaching and learning.
5. Upon graduation, English majors with a teaching certification will have developed the disposition of education professionals who prioritize fair treatment, concern for well-being, respect for individuality, and sensitivity toward students' cultural norms.

History and Geography

Department Overview

The Department of History and Geography is committed to fostering a deep understanding of human experiences and diverse landscapes. Through rigorous scholarship, innovative teaching, and community engagement, we aim to:

- Educate: Provide students with a comprehensive education that emphasizes critical thinking, analytical skills, and a nuanced appreciation of historical and geographical contexts.
- Prepare: Equip students for successful careers by providing hands-on experience, industry-relevant skills, and professional development opportunities.
- Collaborate: Foster a collaborative environment that encourages interdisciplinary partnerships and the exchange of ideas.
- Research: Advance knowledge through cutting-edge research that explores the interconnectedness of historical events and geographical phenomena.
- Engage: Promote active engagement with local, national, and global communities to address contemporary challenges and inspire informed citizenship.

Our mission as a department is to serve our students, the campus, and the community at large by exploring how historical events and spatial dynamics collectively enhance our understanding of the present.

HIST 4361. THE GREAT WAR, 1914-1918. 3 Hours.
Beginning with a survey of the international Imperial order c. 1900 and concluding with an in-depth account of the human and economic costs of industrialized conflict, the course examines the fundamental global transformations wrought by history's first total war.

HIST 4362. WORLD WAR II, 1939-1945. 3 Hours.
Various aspects of the Second World War from American, European, and Asian perspectives. Origins of the conflict, national mobilization, the Holocaust, the Soviet-German confrontation, and the legacy of the most devastating conflict in modern history.

HIST 4363. THE SOVIET UNION AT WAR, 1941-1945. 3 Hours.
This course offers students an in-depth look at the largest and most destructive war in world history: the existential conflict between the USSR and Nazi Germany fought from June 1941 to May 1945. In addition to examining the major military encounters that culminated in the Red Army's decisive defeat of the German Wehrmacht, the course draws attention to the consequential ways in which the epochal events of 1941¿1945 radically re-shaped Soviet society and culture and laid the foundation for the Soviet Union's emergence as one of the twentieth-century's two superpowers. It also investigates how the conflict's contested memory has served as a historical, cultural, and spiritual touchstone for post-Soviet citizens and as an ideological weapon for contemporary state agents.

HIST 4366. HITLER'S GERMANY. 3 Hours.
A pivotal event in the history of the twentieth century, Hitler's Germany continues to elicit fascination, revulsion, and controversy. Dealing with this extraordinary and deeply disturbing historical phenomenon, the course explores the origin, nature, and demise of the Third Reich. Beginning with the rise of the National Socialism in Weimar Germany, it goes on to examine the Nazi seizure of power, the centrality of Hitler, the ideology and racial agenda of Nazism, and the destruction of the Reich in five years of war and genocide. These and other topics, such as popular opinion and everyday life, will be discussed from a variety of perspectives - cultural, political, and socioeconomic - to provide a broad interpretative framework for understanding the genesis, consolidation, and criminality of the Nazi State.

HIST 4367. HITLER: HISTORY AND IMAGE. 3 Hours.

Doctor of Philosphy in History

About the Program

The Doctor of Philosophy in History at UT-Arlington is designed for people with a passion for researching the past to inform the present. Students are trained in historical research and writing and can gain further expertise in digital humanities tools and methods, as well as in public history and archival administration. Graduates pursue a range of careers in academia, archives and museums, and the private sector. Students who earn a PhD in History are trained in a wide range of transnational, global, and cross-cultural approaches to historical phenomena.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will possess the ability to discover independently the appropriate primary sources to answer specific historical questions; analyze primary sources at a professional level, in order to build an independent historical analysis or argument using primary sources.
2. Upon completion, students will possess the ability to analyze secondary sources, in order to recognize qualitative differences between such sources, including distinct perspectives.
3. Upon completion, students will possess the ability to articulate the historiography and research methods associated with National and Transnational History.
4. Upon completion, students will demonstrate professional level writing skills, with the ability to present an independent historical argument persuasively, in good style and grammar, in written English, including a dissertation.
5. Upon completion, students will demonstrate professional level oral proficiency, especially by delivering advanced research-based presentations and participating in career-oriented conferences and workshops, and otherwise demonstrating professional standards within the history discipline.
6. Upon completion, students will demonstrate in-depth knowledge of three historical research fields including at least one from National History and one from Transnational History.
7. Upon completion, students will possess the ability to develop a professional portfolio required for future careers, including professional, written documents required when interviewing or teaching a college-level History course or projects indicative of requirements for public history or non-academic careers, as part of the development of the student’s career skills.
8. Upon completion, students will develop cultural competency, including the ability to recognize the reliability of sources and understand and identify implicit bias.
9. Upon completion, students will demonstrate advanced verbal communication skills, specifically in the area of lecture presentations as part of the student’s professional development in teaching college-level History courses.
10. Upon completion, students will acquire a solid command of a language other than English.

Admissions Requirements

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

Applicants presenting the following may be offered unconditional admission.

- A prior academic degree (BA or MA in History or related fields) from an accredited institution (verified by transcripts from each college or university previously attended sent directly from the registrar of that institution to Graduate Admissions).
- A minimum undergraduate GPA of 3.0 in the course of completing a BA degree in History or a related field from an accredited institution (verified by official transcripts from each college or university previously attended sent directly from the registrar of that institution to Graduate Admissions).
- A writing sample demonstrating the applicant's research, writing, and analytical skills. The Department prefers that applicants send a primary source-based research paper not to exceed twenty-five pages.
- A letter of intent of approximately two pages describing the student's historical interests and how they intersect with the faculty and strengths of the PhD program.
- Three letters of recommendation (from university or college professors) mailed directly from the recommenders to the History PhD advisor.

Admissions decisions are not based on one factor alone, but rather a holistic review of the application package, including past academic performance, letter of intent, writing sample, and letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to contact the current PhD advisor if they have any concerns about meeting unconditional admission criteria.

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

An applicant unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline but who otherwise appears to meet admission requirements may be granted provisional admission. Provisionally admitted students must adequately satisfy any incomplete documentation by the end of the semester in which they are admitted. If the applicant fails to do so, the student will be dropped from the program. He or she may seek readmission when provisional requirements are complete.

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

An applicant whose credentials approximate but do not meet minimum admission standards, may be granted Probationary Admission subject to the condition that the candidate must earn no grade lower than a B in his/her first 12 semester hours of graduate work taken at UT Arlington.

DEFERRAL OR DENIAL

If two or more of the criteria have not been met satisfactorily, the applicant will not be admitted on any of the three levels above but will receive deferral or denial. A deferred decision may be granted when a file is incomplete or when a denied decision is not appropriate.

APPLICATION DEADLINE

The PhD admissions committee will begin its evaluation of completed applications on February 15 and will continue to meet periodically until the Graduate School deadline of June 15.

Curriculum

Students accepted into the PhD program are expected to take a total of 46 semester credit hours in a three-year period. During the first or second year, full-time students take HIST 5339, HIST 6100, and two of the following three courses: HIST 5340, HIST 5341, or HIST 5350, as well as three colloquia (reading courses). During their second and third year, students take at least three seminars (research courses), as well as nine additional colloquia or seminars. The colloquia must include HIST 5363 and HIST 5364. The seminars must include HIST 6363 and HIST 6364. In their sixth semester, students commonly enroll in HIST 6690 to prepare for the Comprehensive Exam.

DIAGNOSTIC EVALUATION

At the end of the first academic year or after the student has completed the first 18 hours of coursework, each student will have to pass a diagnostic evaluation. History faculty with whom the student has worked will be asked to submit a written evaluation of the student's potential to continue in the program, using a form developed by the Graduate Advisor. The Graduate Studies Committee will review these evaluations and give each student one of four results:

1. approval to continue in the doctoral program;
2. approval to continue with specified remedial work;
3. failure, but with permission for assessment through a second diagnostic evaluation after no more than one year;
4. failure and referral of the student to the MA program, in which the student will be allowed to work towards a terminal MA degree.

LANGUAGE REQUIREMENT

If the student has not already fulfilled the foreign language requirement before entering the PhD program, he/she is expected to use the first three years in the program to satisfy the foreign language requirement. The student is expected to choose a language that will be required to work on the PhD topic of his/her choice. Each student is expected to have a solid reading knowledge in at least one language other than English. The language proficiency can be demonstrated in three different ways:

1. If the student has not already taken four semesters (from an accredited university) in a single foreign language with at least a B before being admitted to the PhD program (within10 years prior to admission), the student needs to complete four semesters in one foreign language with at least a grade of B prior to taking the Comprehensive Exam.
2. Demonstrating proficiency in a foreign language by taking the CLEP test and scoring 71-80 in German, 68-80 in French, and 67-80 in Spanish.
3. Taking the Reading Comprehension Exercise by an appropriate faculty member in which the student during one semester must read a source of the faculty member’s choosing in a language other than English and submit a summary in English, which must include up to three pages of direct translation.

The language requirement must be satisfied before the student can take the Comprehensive Exam. For the student at the dissertation stage, the candidate's doctoral committee may require that the student demonstrates competency in a second foreign language in the same fashion as the first foreign language if that second language is judged essential for the student's dissertation research.

MA IN PASSING

Students admitted with a BA will be awarded an MA degree after sitting for their comprehensive examination. Students who pass the oral examination unconditionally will proceed to the dissertation (ABD) phase of the program.

COMPREHENSIVE EXAM

Committee

If the student is allowed to stay in the program, he/she should, after consultation with the PhD Advisor, establish a five-member Comprehensive Exam Committee. The student must first ask a graduate faculty member whose research closely relates to the student's anticipated dissertation topic to chair the committee. The chair of the committee will then assist the student in assembling the rest of the committee. Four of the five committee members must be from UTA's History and Geography Department. The Ph.D. advisor reserves the right to attend the oral portion of the Comprehensive Exam. One member can be from outside the department or even from another university.

Exam

After the student has completed all or most of the 48 hours of coursework and satisfied the language requirement, he/she, upon consultation with the Ph.D. Advisor and the Comprehensive Exam Committee, should begin preparing for the Ph.D. Comprehensive Exam. It is strongly recommended that students wait until they have completed all 48 hours of coursework before they take the Exam. To prepare for the Comprehensive Examination, students may enroll in Directed Study courses, HIST 6190, HIST 6390, HIST 6690, or HIST 6990 during their sixth semester.

Only after the student has the approval of the Ph.D. Advisor, he/she may arrange the date of the exam in consultation with all committee members.

The Comprehensive Examination is meant to test the student's knowledge in at least three broad areas of study and to determine whether the student is prepared to teach in those areas. Students work with their professors to define each of their three exams, and students' earlier coursework should be used to help them prepare for their exam fields. One field must be on a national history or topic (for example, "History of Mexico" or "Gender in Mexico"), one must be on transnational field or topic (for example, "Transatlantic History" or "Transatlantic Migration"), and the third field can be individually constructed by students in consultation with their supervisors—this field may be related to certain careers (for example, Public History), a dissertation topic (for example, History of Cartography), or on a related discipline outside of the History and Geography Department (for example, Women's Studies or Sociology).

The student and each exam field supervisor will decide upon a book list of approximately 30-40 books, and choose whether the exam for that field will be a timed essay or a take-home essay. Students may schedule their written exams with no more than one business day between the completion of one exam and the beginning of the next.

- Timed essay exams must be taken on campus, seven hours each exam, from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Students may use a personal computer available in the department to take their examination. They may not use texts or notes during the exam unless expressly permitted by that field's examiner. Chairs should ensure that time-limits for individual parts of the examination are observed.
- Take-home essay exams will begin when a student is given the essay question by the field examiner. The student will hand in an essay responding to the question (~15-20 pages) no earlier than 12 hours and no more than 72 hours later, as agreed upon with the field examiner. The student may consult notes and readings during the writing process.

A member of the department's office staff will email each field's reading list, exam question, and completed written exam to the entire comps committee. After the written exams are completed and the committee has read all three parts, students will take the oral exam (within one week of completion of the third written exam).

Students must take both the written and oral exams or they will automatically fail the comprehensive exam. After the oral exam is over, the committee members will discuss the exam as a whole (written and oral). Then the committee will decided on one of the four options listed below.

1. Passed, approval and recommendation to begin dissertation research under the supervision of the committee chair.
2. Passed, approval to remain in the program upon meeting certain specified additional requirements.
3. Failed, with permission to retake the examination after a certain period as specified by the examining committee.
4. Failed: Recommendation not to continue in the program.

Students are required to pass this examination before they proceed to the dissertation (ABD) phase of the program.

DISSERTATION GUIDELINES

By the end of the first semester after the successful completion of the Comprehensive Examination, the student should submit a dissertation proposal to the committee members and the PhD Advisor who assures that it fulfills the expectations of a doctoral project. The dissertation committee ordinarily consists of three of the five professors involved in the Comprehensive Examination of the student. All three members of the dissertation committee must be members of the UT Arlington History and Geography Department. The student together with his/her primary supervisor may, if deemed necessary, invite outside readers to become additional members of the dissertation committee. Students should work closely with the chair of their committee while researching and writing their dissertation.

During the dissertation phase of the program, students enroll in HIST 6399, HIST 6699 or HIST 6999 and, in exceptional cases with prior approval of the PhD Advisor, in HIST 6190. HIST 6190 may be taken by students following their Comprehensive Exams for a maximum of four semesters, if their dissertation chair concludes that in a given semester they are not engaged full-time in work on their dissertation. In the final semester of dissertation work, students must enroll in HIST 7399 to be in compliance with the requirement of the Graduate School. Students should be aware that the dissertation defense should occur after NO more than four years from the Comprehensive Examination. If the student takes more time to finish the doctoral dissertation, he/she has to file for an extension with the Graduate School.

Once the student, the chair of the committee, and the primary readers agree that the dissertation is ready to be defended, the student must schedule the dissertation defense. Before he/she applies for graduation, the student must receive approval from the PhD Advisor. The student should furnish each committee member with a copy of the dissertation, including notes and bibliography, at least three weeks prior to the defense date. The oral defense of the dissertation generally lasts 1-2 hours. Questioning of the candidate will be supervised by the chair of the student's dissertation committee. Committee members may request that the dissertation be further revised and may withhold final approval of the dissertation until the revisions have been made. If the dissertation has been approved by the committee, the student has to submit the dissertation and the dissertation defense report to the Graduate School. The deadline dates for each semester are published in the Graduate School Calendar.

Advising

Applicants should apply through ApplyUTA and have three letters of recommendation and writing samples sent separately to the grad advisor. First-time college students are also encouraged to reach out to the graduate advisor before applying.

Master of Art in History

About the Program

The Master of Arts in History offers students a general graduate degree, with courses in a broad array of geographic and temporal topics, including U.S., European, African, Latin American, Transatlantic and Transnational histories. In the flexible master's degree curriculum, apart from two required courses early in the program, students tailor their course of study among available course offerings to meet individual interests and career objectives. Students may choose to complete a thesis or select a non-thesis option.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to discover independently the appropriate primary sources to answer specific historical questions; analyze primary sources at an advanced level, in order to build an independent historical analysis or argument using primary sources.
2. Upon completion, students will be able to analyze secondary sources, in order to recognize qualitative differences between such sources, including distinct perspectives.
3. Upon completion, students will be able to articulate the historiography and research methods associated with various historical approaches, especially National and Transnational History.
4. Upon completion, students will be demonstrate advanced writing skills, with the ability to present an independent historical argument persuasively, in good style and grammar, in written English.
5. Upon completion, students will demonstrate advanced oral proficiency, especially by participating in historical debate or by presenting papers in class or at conferences.

6. Upon completion, students will demonstrate (a) broad knowledge of (a) specific historical topic(s).
7. Upon completion, students will be able to develop a professional portfolio required for future careers, including written documents necessary for teaching high school or community college courses or projects indicative of requirements for non-academic careers, as part of the development of the student's career skills.
8. Upon completion, students will demonstrate cultural competency, including the ability to recognize the reliability of sources and understand and identify implicit bias.
9. Upon completion, students will demonstrate broad knowledge of the theoretical, methodological, and practical issues of bringing informative, collaborative historical interpretation to the public (public history).

Admissions Requirements

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

The criteria for admission below are used, without specific weights, as positive indicators of potential success in the program. In all but the most exceptional cases, all three criteria for unconditional admission must be met in order to receive unconditional admission.

- Undergraduate GPA of 3.0 (as calculated by Graduate Admissions) in the last 60 credit hours in the course of completing a BA degree in History (or an appropriate other field) from an accredited institution (verified by official transcripts from each college or university previously attended sent directly from the registrar of that institution to Graduate Admissions).
- A writing sample, sent to the graduate advisor. The Department prefers that applicants send a research paper written in an upper-division history course, but other examples are acceptable. The essay should demonstrate the applicant's writing, research, and analytical skills where possible. There is not a specific page minimum, but papers should not be over 25 pages.
- Three letters of recommendation (preferably from university or college professors if possible) mailed directly from the recommenders to the History graduate advisor.
- Admissions decisions are not based on one factor alone, but rather a holistic review of the application package, including past academic performance, letter of intent, writing sample, and letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to contact the current MA advisor if they have any concerns about meeting unconditional admission criteria.

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

An applicant unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline but who otherwise appears to meet admission requirements may be granted provisional admission. Provisionally admitted students must adequately satisfy any incomplete documentation by the end of the semester in which they are admitted. If the applicant fails to do so, the Department may then reclassify the applicant as Probationary, defer the decision, or ask the candidate to leave the program.

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

An applicant whose performance, according to the criteria, approximates but does not meet minimum admission standards may be granted Probationary Admission. Students admitted under this category must earn no grade lower than a B in his/her first 12 semester hours of graduate work taken at UT Arlington.

DEFERRAL OR DENIAL

If two or more of the criteria have not been met satisfactorily, the applicant will not be admitted on any of the three levels above but will receive deferral or denial. A deferred decision may be granted when a file is incomplete or when a denied decision is not appropriate. A deferred decision may also be granted when the student does not have adequate preparation in the discipline of history. In the latter case, students will be required to take "leveling" courses (make-up coursework) and earn a B or better before reapplying.

Curriculum

Courses taken toward a master's degree should fit into a unified program aimed at providing students with both a comprehensive background and a depth of understanding in U.S., European, African, Latin American, Transatlantic, or Transnational history. Master's students are eligible to take courses at the 6000 level as well as 5000 level, subject to any particular course prerequisites. Students may take upper-division undergraduate courses for graduate credit under certain conditions. With the approval of the graduate advisor, non-thesis students may have a minor of as many as nine hours of graduate and/or advanced undergraduate courses in a discipline other than history. A maximum of nine hours of advanced undergraduate coursework may be taken for graduate credit. In this case and others, students must consult with the graduate advisor to determine their program.

LANGUAGE COMPETENCY

Competency in one foreign language is required to obtain the Master's degree. This may be demonstrated by one of three methods:

- four semesters of credit in an approved language verifiable in an official transcript
- successful completion of an examination administered by an approved UTA faculty member or by an approved outside source such as a CLEP test
- a passing grade in a graduate-level translation course (MODL 5301) offered by the Department of Modern Languages

NON-THESIS OPTION

In the final semester, the non-thesis students are required to form a non-thesis faculty committee in consultation with the Graduate Advisor, consisting of three members of the graduate faculty. The student must submit to this committee a portfolio containing their seminar paper(s) and a selection of three papers that required an analysis of historiography. After reviewing the portfolio, the committee will devise a new assignment for the student to complete based on its determination of what best fits the needs of the student, keeping in mind that the assignment will constitute less than the equivalent of 3 credit hours of course work. The student will complete the assignment during his/her final semester and turn it into the faculty committee, where it must receive an evaluation of "adequate" or better. The committee will meet the student for a final oral exam, in which the student discusses his/her project.

Master of Arts in History (Archival Administration)

About This Program

The Master of Arts in History offers students a general graduate degree, with courses in a broad array of geographic and temporal topics, including US, European, African, Latin American, Transatlantic and Transnational histories. In the flexible master's degree curriculum, apart from two required courses early in the program, students tailor their course of study among available course offerings to meet individual interests and career objectives. Students may choose to complete a thesis or select a non-thesis option. Coursework and internships in Archival Administration certification and/or Public History are also available as part of the master's program.

One of the Department's strengths is the Program in Archival Administration. Archival Administration studies involve application of historical knowledge and methodology in non-academic settings such as private businesses or public historical agencies (e.g., archives, museums, preservation societies). Government organizations, museums, and private companies all need archivists and graduates of this certificate program have become archivists in varied settings including the Amon Carter Museum, the City of Dallas (City Secretary's Office), and Atmos Energy.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to discover independently the appropriate primary sources to answer specific historical questions; analyze primary sources at an advanced level, in order to build an independent historical analysis or argument using primary sources.
2. Upon completion, students will be able to analyze secondary sources, in order to recognize qualitative differences between such sources, including distinct perspectives.

The student must submit to this committee a portfolio containing their seminar paper(s) and a selection of three papers that required an analysis of historiography. After reviewing the portfolio, the committee will devise a new assignment for the student to complete based on its determination of what best fits the needs of the student, keeping in mind that the assignment will constitute less than the equivalent of 3 credit hours of course work. The student will complete the assignment during his/her final semester and turn it into the faculty committee, where it must receive an evaluation of "adequate" or better. The committee will meet the student for a final oral exam, in which the student discusses his/her project.

Advising Resources

Applicants should apply through ApplyUTA and have three letters of recommendation and writing samples sent separately to the grad advisor. First-time college students are also encouraged to reach out to the graduate advisor before applying.

Master of Art in History (Public History)

About This Program

The Master of Arts in History offers students a general graduate degree, with courses in a broad array of geographic and temporal topics, including US, European, African, Latin American, Transatlantic and Transnational histories. In the flexible master's degree curriculum, apart from two required courses early in the program, students tailor their course of study among available course offerings to meet individual interests and career objectives. Students may choose to complete a thesis or select a non-thesis option. Coursework and internships in Archival Administration certification and/or Public History are also available as part of the master's program.

One of the Department's strengths is the Program in Archival Administration. Archival Administration studies involve application of historical knowledge and methodology in non-academic settings such as private businesses or public historical agencies (e.g., archives, museums, preservation societies). Government organizations, museums, and private companies all need archivists and graduates of this certificate program have become archivists in varied settings including the Amon Carter Museum, the City of Dallas (City Secretary's Office), and Atmos Energy.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to discover independently the appropriate primary sources to answer specific historical questions; analyze primary sources at an advanced level, in order to build an independent historical analysis or argument using primary sources.
2. Upon completion, students will be able to analyze secondary sources, in order to recognize qualitative differences between such sources, including distinct perspectives.
3. Upon completion, students will be able to articulate the historiography and research methods associated with various historical approaches, especially National and Transnational History.
4. Upon completion, students will demonstrate advanced writing skills, with the ability to present an independent historical argument persuasively, in good style and grammar, in written English.
5. Upon completion, students will demonstrate advanced oral proficiency, especially by participating in historical debate or by presenting papers in class or at conferences.
6. Upon completion, students will demonstrate (a) broad knowledge of (a) specific historical topic(s).
7. Upon completion, students will be able to develop a professional portfolio required for future careers, including written documents necessary for teaching high school or community college courses or projects indicative of requirements for non-academic careers, as part of the development of the student's career skills.
8. Upon completion, students will demonstrate cultural competency, including the ability to recognize the reliability of sources and understand and identify implicit bias.
9. Upon completion, students will demonstrate broad knowledge of the theoretical, methodological, and practical issues of bringing informative, collaborative historical interpretation to the public (public history).

Admissions Criteria

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

The criteria for admission below are used, without specific weights, as positive indicators of potential success in the program. In all but the most exceptional cases, all three criteria for unconditional admission must be met in order to receive unconditional admission.

- Undergraduate GPA of 3.0 (as calculated by Graduate Admissions) in the last 60 credit hours in the course of completing a BA degree in History (or an appropriate other field) from an accredited institution (verified by official transcripts from each college or university previously attended sent directly from the registrar of that institution to Graduate Admissions).
- A writing sample, sent to the graduate advisor. The Department prefers that applicants send a research paper written in an upper-division history course, but other examples are acceptable. The essay should demonstrate the applicant's writing, research, and analytical skills where possible. There is not a specific page minimum, but papers should not be over 25 pages.

- Three letters of recommendation (from university or college professors if possible) mailed directly from the recommenders to the History graduate advisor.
- Admissions decisions are not based on one factor alone, but rather a holistic review of the application package, including past academic performance, letter of intent, writing sample, and letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to contact the current MA advisor if they have any concerns about meeting unconditional admission criteria.

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

An applicant unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline but who otherwise appears to meet admission requirements may be granted provisional admission. Provisionally admitted students must adequately satisfy any incomplete documentation by the end of the semester in which they are admitted. If the applicant fails to do so, the Department may then reclassify the applicant as Probationary, defer the decision, or ask the candidate to leave the program.

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

An applicant whose performance, according to the criteria, approximates but does not meet minimum admission standards may be granted Probationary Admission. Students admitted under this category must earn no grade lower than a B in his/her first 12 semester hours of graduate work taken at UT Arlington.

DEFERRAL OR DENIAL

If two or more of the criteria have not been met satisfactorily, the applicant will not be admitted on any of the three levels above but will receive deferral or denial. A deferred decision may be granted when a file is incomplete or when a denied decision is not appropriate. A deferred decision may also be granted when the student does not have adequate preparation in the discipline of history. In the latter case, students will be required to take "leveling" courses (make-up coursework) and earn a B or better before reapplying.

Curriculum

Courses taken toward a master's degree should fit into a unified program aimed at providing students with both a comprehensive background and a depth of understanding in US, European, African, Latin American, Transatlantic, or Transnational history. Master's students are eligible to take courses at the 6000 level as well as 5000 level, subject to any particular course prerequisites. Students may take upper-division undergraduate courses for graduate credit under certain conditions. In this case and others, students must consult with the Graduate Advisor to determine their program.

Program Completion

LANGUAGE COMPETENCY

Competency in one foreign language is required to obtain the Master's degree. This may be demonstrated by one of three methods:

- four semesters of credit in an approved language verifiable in an official transcript
- successful completion of an examination administered by an approved UTA faculty member or by an approved outside source such as a CLEP test
- a passing grade in a graduate-level translation course (MODL 5301) offered by the Department of Modern Languages

NON-THESIS OPTION

In the final semester, the non-thesis students are required to form a non-thesis faculty committee in consultation with the Graduate Advisor, consisting of three members of the graduate faculty. The student must submit to this committee a portfolio containing their seminar paper(s) and a selection of three papers that required an analysis of historiography. After reviewing the portfolio, the committee will devise a new assignment for the student to complete based on its determination of what best fits the needs of the student, keeping in mind that the assignment will constitute less than the equivalent of 3 credit hours of course work. The student will complete the assignment during his/her final semester and turn it into the faculty committee, where it must receive an evaluation of "adequate" or better. The committee will meet the student for a final oral exam, in which the student discusses his/her project.

Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Archival Administraion

About This Program

The Certificate in Archival Administration equips students to apply historical knowledge and methodology in non-academic settings such as private businesses or public historical agencies (e.g., archives, museums, preservation societies). The certificate may be pursued concurrently with the Master of Art in History (Archival Administration).

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will understand and be able to explain the environment, role, and work of archivists.
2. Upon completion, students will understand the technological, ethical, and legal issues that archivists face.
3. Upon completion, students will able to identify the current trends impacting archives.
4. Upon completion, students will recognize and be able to define the basic concepts and theories fundamental to modern archival science.
5. Upon completion, students will be able to integrate basic archival concepts and theories while processing archival collections.
6. Upon completion, students will be able to appraise, accession, arrange, re-house, describe, and catalog archival collections using current best practices/archival standards.

Admissions Criteria

The following students may enroll in this program:

- Anyone with a Master's in Library Science (MLS) degree;
- Anyone with an MA in History
- Anyone interested in pursuing an MA in History while pursuing the Archival Administration Certificate
- Students already holding an MA or PhD degree in history or a related field, as well as students enrolled in graduate programs other than history, who desire only a certificate in archival administration should consult the Graduate Advisor.

Because this certificate is attached to a graduate degree, it cannot be earned by those with only a BA.

Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Public History

About This Program

The Certificate in Public History equips students to apply historical knowledge and methodology in non-academic settings, such as private businesses or public historical agencies (museums, preservation societies). The certificate may be pursued in conjunction with either the Master of Art in History or a Ph.D. in History.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to communicate historical insights across a a range of formats—including written, oral, and digital—in order to communicate clearly, persuasively, and with grammatically sound English appropriate to academic, public, and professional audiences.
2. Upon completion, students will be able to demonstrate cultural awareness, identify bias, and produce work that meets professional standards, in order to apply historical thinking in professional contexts.
3. Upon completion, students will be able to create public-facing and professional materials that demonstrate historical knowledge, interpretive skill, and career readiness for a wide range of industries—in order to develop skills needed in education, media, policy, research, and other fields that value critical thinking, analysis, and effective communication.

Admissions Criteria

To pursue the certificate, students must be concurrently admitted to and enrolled in a graduate degree program in the Department of History and Geography.

Bachelor of Arts in History

About This Program

The Bachelor of Arts in History explores the forces that have shaped human affairs, offering insights to address today's challenges and future uncertainties. Examining our traditions allows students to develop a deep understanding of their identity and equips them with the skills needed for successful careers in a wide range of fields.

This degree prepares students for diverse careers in teaching, archival administration, business, journalism, historical preservation and museums, law, and public affairs. It also opens opportunities in emerging fields such as digital history, video game and virtual reality storytelling, historical consulting, and other cutting-edge fields. More importantly, it equips students with the knowledge to understand societal changes, preparing them for life in a complex world. The study of history fosters well-rounded, insightful individuals ready to make a difference.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students shall understand how historical research is conducted, chiefly by learning to identify primary sources and how historians use them.
2. Upon completion, students shall understand how historical interpretations are developed, especially how to assess secondary sources.
3. Upon completion, students shall demonstrate writing skills and be able to present an historical analysis or argument clearly, employing good style and grammar in the English written language.
4. Upon completion, students shall demonstrate ability in conducting research and presenting findings in non-written modalities such as oral presentations or digital history formats.
5. Upon completion, students shall possess a broad knowledge of major developments in (a) field(s) of history.
6. Upon completion, students shall develop marketable skills useful for pursuing the career of their choice.
7. Upon completion, students shall develop cultural competency, including the ability to recognize the reliability of sources and understand and identify implicit bias.

Admissions Criteria

Students must present a minimum 2.25 GPA to declare a history major.

Bachelor of Arts in History (Pre-Law)

About This Program

The Bachelor of Arts in History explores the forces that have shaped human affairs, offering insights to address today's challenges and future uncertainties. Examining our traditions allows students to develop a deep understanding of their identity and equips them with the skills needed for successful careers in a wide range of fields.

The Bachelor of Arts in History Pre-Law track allows students to choose from a wide selection of advanced courses in political science, business law, criminal justice, economics, and related fields in the social sciences. Students also have the opportunity to participate in UTA's highly successful Moot Court, a mock trial program that competes at the state and national levels. The History and Geography department works very closely with the University's Pre-Law Center to help students prepare for the LSAT exam, navigate the admissions process to law school, and, ultimately, succeed in their careers as legal practitioners.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students shall understand how historical research is conducted, chiefly by learning to identify primary sources and how historians use them.
2. Upon completion, students shall understand how historical interpretations are developed, especially how to assess secondary sources.

Minor in Geography

About This Program

Geography is much more than just placing labels on a map, memorizing capitals and countries or just the natural stage upon which human history unfolds. Through the Minor in Geography students will learn how to employ the lenses of place, space, and location to better understand the dynamic nature of human-environmental relationships that shape us and our planet. Geography explores connections between the distinct cultural and physical landscapes and environmental processes of the earth's major continents and regions. Students will learn how to map and explore the earth from their own local "sense of place," to the planetary scale where a 'bird's eye' view of the earth will offer you a new perspective on its oceanic and terrestrial bodies.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, minors will be able to recognize, interpret, and evaluate spatial patterns and spatial relationships from local to global scales through written, verbal, and visual modalities.
2. Upon completion, minors will be able to apply geographical concepts and terminology to the analysis of contemporary environmental and social issues from local to global spaces.
3. Upon completion, minors will understand geospatial technologies as a tool for the analysis of spatial patterns and relationships.

Minor in History

About This Program

The Minor in History allows students to learn both content and skills crucial to success in the modern world. An appreciation for one's heritage as well as how it has differed in the past and for those of different cultures helps to develop our identity. Students of history develop critical skills: the ability to reason and analyze, the capacity to investigate problems and synthesize diverse information and the facility for expressing ideas and information clearly.

A minor in history prepares students for a variety of careers, including business, journalism and communications, law, and public affairs. More importantly, by providing insight into the causes and effects of change in society, a knowledge of history prepares every individual for life in a complex world.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students shall understand how historical research is conducted, chiefly by learning to identify primary sources and how historians use them.
2. Upon completion, students shall understand how historical interpretations are developed, especially how to assess secondary sources.
3. Upon completion, students shall demonstrate writing skills and be able to present an historical analysis or argument clearly, employing good style and grammar in the English written language.
4. Upon completion, students shall demonstrate ability in conducting research and presenting findings in non-written modalities such as oral presentations or digital history formats.
5. Upon completion, students shall possess a broad knowledge of major developments in (a) field(s) of history.
6. Upon completion, students shall develop marketable skills useful for pursuing the career of their choice.
7. Upon completion, students shall develop cultural competency, including the ability to recognize the reliability of sources and understand and identify implicit bias.

Minor in History of Technology and Science

About This Program

The History of Technology and Science (HoTS) minor provides students an opportunity to explore how technological development and scientific innovation have shaped societies, cultures, and institutions across time and place.

While the minor is open to all undergraduate students, those pursuing majors in STEM-related disciplines will find it particularly valuable in advancing understanding of the historical origins and development of their vocational fields.

The minor is particularly valuable for students enrolled in the Colleges of Engineering; Nursing and Health Innovation; and Social Work as it provides them unique opportunities to focus on subjects directly relevant to their future vocations.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students shall demonstrate their knowledge of how technological development and scientific innovation have shaped societies, cultures, and institutions across time and place.
2. Upon completion, students shall demonstrate competency in basic research applied to an issue relevant to the history of science and technology.
3. Upon completion, students shall demonstrate the ability to use technological development and scientific innovation as a category of analysis.
4. Upon completion, students shall demonstrate writing skills and be able to present an historical analysis or argument clearly, employing good style and grammar in the English written language.

Curriculum

Students fulfill the History of Technology and Science (HoTS) Minor requirements by successfully completing eighteen (18) hours of courses chosen from the list below. Although not required, the Department recommends that students include three core curriculum courses HIST 1331, HIST 1332, and HIST 2377 as part of their program of study. When applicable, HIST 3395 Special Topics courses may be counted toward the Minor.

DS 3355. UNIVERSAL DESIGN & ACCESSIBILITY IN THE PERFORMING ARTS. 3 Hours.
Explores the principles of Universal Design using the performing arts as a case study: creating environments, events, buildings, and products to accommodate the broadest spectrum of human ability, size, age, and other characteristics. Investigates how to put into practice the accessibility guidelines of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990. Performing is not required. Offered as THEA 3355 and DS 3355; credit will only be granted in one department.

DS 3399. DISABILITY AND ART. 3 Hours.
Explores the many connections between disability and art, including both art created by people with disabilities and the wide variety of artistic representations about disability. Examines the purposes of art-making by people with disabilities: for therapeutic reasons, as a means of self-expression, to achieve professional goals, or as an act of activism. Investigates historical depictions of disability in art as well as art's role as a visual voice for the disability rights movement. Offered as DS 3399 and ART 3399; credit will only be granted once. Prerequisite: Any two of the three courses ART 1309, ART 1310, and ART 1317; or permission from the instructor or Disability Studies.

DS 4100. WHEELCHAIR BASKETBALL. 1 Hour.
Only open to adapted sports student athletes. May be repeated 10 times. Prerequisite: permission from the director of the Minor in Disability Studies.

DS 4191. CONFERENCE COURSE. 1 Hour.
Directed independent study for the advanced undergraduate. A close examination of a chosen topic through research and/or reading; format designed by instructor and student. Course may be repeated for credit once with a change in faculty. Prerequisite: Prior approval of the instructor and the director of the Disability Studies minor.

DS 4291. CONFERENCE COURSE. 2 Hours.
Directed independent study for the advanced undergraduate. A close examination of a chosen topic through research and/or reading; format designed by instructor and student. Course may be repeated for credit once with a change in faculty. Prerequisite: Prior approval of the instructor and the director of the Disability Studies minor.

DS 4326. TOPICS IN DISABILITY HISTORY. 3 Hours.
Special topics of interest in disability history, such as disability history in global perspective; hard-of-hearing histories, deaf histories, and Deaf History; or disability in the global South. May be repeated for credit when the topic changes. Offered as DS 4326 and HIST 4326; credit will be granted in only one department. Prerequisite: HIST 1301, HIST 1302.

DS 4329. DISABILITY & WORK. 3 Hours.
Explores the complex relationship between disability and work within the United States from a current and historical perspective. Topics include study of the Americans with Disabilities Act; research on the diversity, population, and changes in proportions of people with disabilities; employment rates and experiences of people with disabilities; attitudes and perspectives surrounding and affecting the employment opportunities and experiences of people with disabilities; and ways to provide inclusive, non-discriminatory workplaces. Offered as MANA 4329 and DS 4329; credit will only be granted once. Prerequisite: 60 hours or MANA 4326 or Disability Studies permission.

DS 4391. CONFERENCE COURSE. 3 Hours.
Directed independent study for the advanced undergraduate. A close examination of a chosen topic through research and/or reading; format designed by instructor and student. Course may be repeated for credit once with a change in faculty. Prerequisite: permission from the director of the Minor in Disability Studies.

DS 4395. DISABILITY STUDIES INTERNSHIP. 3 Hours.
Supervised internship in which students apply the academic skills they have acquired in Disability Studies courses by working in a related non-profit or business environment. Prerequisite: HIST 3307 or 3 hours of core disability studies courses; permission of the instructor.

DS 4491. CONFERENCE COURSE. 4 Hours.
Directed independent study for the advanced undergraduate. A close examination of a chosen topic through research and/or reading; format designed by instructor and student. COURSES

GLOBAL 2301. INTRODUCTION TO GLOBAL ISSUES. 3 Hours.
Comparative perspectives on a broad range of cultural, linguistic, economic, political, and social issues confronting a globalized world today. Designed to draw attention to the multifaceted connections among nation-states, nongovernmental organizations, diverse ethnic, cultural and religious groups, and populations around the world.

GLOBAL 2315. INTRODUCTION TO LOCALIZATION AND LANGUAGE TECHNOLOGY. 3 Hours.
An introduction to localization and computational approaches to language and culture. Topics will include: computer-aided translation, machine translation, natural language processing, mining and semantic analysis of language data, machine learning/AI with natural language.

GLOBAL 3301. TOPICS IN INTERNATIONAL CULTURES AND CIVILIZATIONS I. 3 Hours.
Intensive study of a particular world region and/or culture including, but not limited to, its language, geography, history, arts, commerce, politics, and government. Focus on its uniqueness as a culture and its integral place in global society. Repeatable for credit as topic varies. No prerequisite. Recommend enrollment in GLOBAL 2301 concurrently or previously.

GLOBAL 3302. TOPICS IN INTERNATIONAL CULTURES AND CIVILIZATIONS II. 3 Hours.
Advanced study of a particular world region and/or culture including, but not limited to, its language, geography, history, arts, commerce, politics, and government. Emphasis on film, media, international communication, or other subjects of global study. Repeatable for credit as topic changes. No prerequisite. Strongly recommended: GLOBAL 2301 and GLOBAL 3301, concurrently or previously.

GLOBAL 3303. PUTINISM AND THE CULTURE OF RUSSIAN POLITICS. 3 Hours.
A course on Putinism as a governing system and incipient ideology in Russia. The course focuses on the cultural, historical, and biographical roots of Putinism as well as its sociological, institutional, and ideological foundations. The course also examines aspects of Putinism in practice, with a specific focus on the role of the Russian security services and organized crime. Offered as GLOBAL 3303 and HIST 3373. Credit will only be given in one department. Prerequisite: ENGL 1301 with a grade of C or better.

GLOBAL 3310. LOCALIZATION AND TRANSLATION. 3 Hours.
Introduction to cultural and linguistic issues in the translation of language texts. Students will explore current technologies used in various real-world translation contexts and how to adapt texts, products, and services to the locale for which they are intended. Prerequisite: GLOBAL 3301 in the language under study or permission of the instructor.

GLOBAL 3370. THE MAKING OF MODERN UKRAINE. 3 Hours.
This course introduces students to the forces that shaped modern Ukraine. Students will learn how Ukraine came into being and evaluate this post-imperial state and civic nation as an example of anti-colonial rebellion. Offered as HIST 3370 and GLOBAL 3370; credit will be given in only one department.

GLOBAL 4301. RESEARCH IN GLOBAL STUDIES. 3 Hours.
This course examines multidisciplinary problems that fall within the scope of human rights and the UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Students complete coursework which culminates in an original research project on a topic of their choice, which might involve novel approaches toward sustainability, food security, infrastructure, health, water conservation, sanitation, ecosystem resilience, urbanization, recycling, or other issues related to globalization. Students will investigate and propose solutions in the form of a proposal to carry out active field work in partnership with a non-governmental agency or non-profit organization working to promote sustainable global development. For students pursuing a minor or certificate in Global Studies, this course serves as their Capstone. Prerequisite: ANTH 2322, GLOBAL 2301, GLOBAL 3310, POLS 3302, or POLS 3304.

GLOBAL 4312. INTERCULTURAL COMPETENCE FOR GLOBAL COMMUNICATION. 3 Hours.

Certificate in Global Studies

About This Program

The Certificate in Global Studies equips students with a deep understanding of global processes and the responsibilities of global citizenship, preparing them to navigate the challenges of the 21st century. Designed for success in today's interconnected world, the program explores social, political, economic, and cultural dynamics from a global perspective. Drawing from a diverse range of disciplines—including languages, politics, history, sociology, anthropology, art, economics, health, and environmental studies—the minor offers a broad, interdisciplinary approach to contemporary global issues. With a flexible curriculum featuring over eighty course options, students can tailor their degree plan to align with their interests and career aspirations. Unlike the Global Studies Minor, the Certificate in Global Studies does not require a capstone course.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to engage diverse global perspectives in the classroom and beyond.
2. Upon completion, students will demonstrate the knowledge, skills, and leadership abilities necessary for personal and professional growth in a globalized world.

Minor in Disability Studies

About This Program

The interdisciplinary field of disability studies explores the experiences of people with disabilities—one of the largest minorities in the United States and worldwide—as well as the ways in which conceptions and representations of disability and “the normal” have shaped human experiences more generally. Treating disability as a crucial element of human diversity, the Minor in Disability Studies approaches disability as a social, cultural, and political construct rather than just a medical condition (as it is commonly viewed). Taught by faculty from the Colleges of Liberal Arts, Nursing and Health Innovation, Business, and Education as well as the School of Social Work, this flexible and multidisciplinary minor prepares students for a variety of graduate programs and for careers in law, education, public health, engineering, nursing, architecture, medicine, social work, communication, public history and museums, and sports management and coaching, among other fields.

Students seeking to minor in Disability Studies should first consult with advisors in their major departments or programs for approval, then meet with the director and advisor of the Minor in Disability Studies.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, minors shall demonstrate their ability to use disability studies concepts, frameworks, and/or theories to develop analytical claims within their writing.
2. Upon completion, minors shall demonstrate the ability to apply disability studies concepts to a real-world situation.
3. Upon completion, minors shall demonstrate deep knowledge of the disability history.
4. Upon completion, minors shall demonstrate competency in the basic research and communication skills appropriate to their major discipline, applied to an issue relevant to disability studies.

Curriculum

A minor in Disability Studies consists of 18 hours, including two required courses: U.S. Disability History (DS 3307/HIST 3307) and Disability Studies Internship (DS 4395). Students also take two to four core disability studies courses and can take up to two approved electives. No more than four courses may be completed in a single discipline.

Note that some electives change focus from term to term and may therefore not be relevant to the minor during a particular semester. Credit will only be given when the topic of the course (or a substantial portion) focuses on issues related to disability. Other relevant courses not listed may also be used to fulfill the minor, with approval from the director of the Minor in Disability Studies. For that reason and for the purposes of planning the internship, it is important that students consult with the advisor for the minor before registering each semester.

[1] DS 4395 is a supervised internship/capstone course through which students apply the academic skills they have acquired in Disability Studies courses. Interns work at an approved business, academic, or non-profit site that focuses on adapted sports, disability history, assistive technology, disability rights and policy, or universal design and accessibility; they also complete a capstone essay. Students should complete this course as one of their final courses for the minor and must have already taken or be taking DS 3307/HIST 3307.

Linguistics and TESOL

Department Overview

The Department of Linguistics and TESOL at the University of Texas at Arlington provides coursework in both linguistics and in TESOL. Department programs seek to deepen understanding of language by examining how it is represented, used, and processed. We work toward this goal through courses in theoretical linguistics, focusing on phonology, syntax, semantics, pragmatics, and psycholinguistics as well as the interfaces among these domains of inquiry. In order to explore questions in these areas, we provide training in multiple methods, including field methods, corpus-based methods, and experimental research methods, to collect and analyze data from a wide range of the world's languages, and from both native and non-native speakers of these languages. This approach to the scientific study of language is the primary focus of our BA, MA, and PhD degrees in Linguistics.

COURSES

LING 2301. INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF HUMAN LANGUAGE. 3 Hours.
An introduction to the scientific study of human language, using English as an example. Topics in the course include how sounds are produced, how words and sentences are structured, how and why language changes, how language is acquired by children and adults, how the brain processes language, and how language and society intersect.

LING 2321. CONSTRUCTED LANGUAGES. 3 Hours.
This course is an introduction to constructed languages. Presentation, examination, and analysis of constructed languages, such as Esperanto, Klingon, Dothraki, and many others.

LING 2351. LANGUAGE AND TECHNOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Fundamentals of how technology is used to represent, process, and organize human language. We will examine modern technologies such as autocorrect, speech synthesis, speech recognition, machine translation, and chatbots. Students will be able to describe fundamentals of how these technologies work, with a focus on the aspects of human language that present challenges for their development. We will also examine social and ethical considerations surrounding language technology, such as privacy, machine intelligence, and bias.

LING 2371. LANGUAGE IN A MULTICULTURAL USA. 3 Hours.
The relationship between language in the U.S. and social power. This course explores how negative attitudes toward some language varieties and languages spoken in the U.S. arise from social factors, rather than features of the languages themselves. In addition to studying language varieties, the course shows how American institutions such as the educational system and the media reinforce these negative attitudes and contribute to discrimination. Offered as AAST 2371 and LING 2371; credit will be granted in only one department.

LING 2391. CONFERENCE COURSE IN LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Independent study in Linguistics and TESOL. Consultation with instructor on a regular basis. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.

LING 3301. TOPICS IN LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Covers issues related to language and linguistics. Topics may include language and film/literature/pop culture, endangered languages, speech synthesis, applied linguistics, or other topics determined by instructor. May be repeated for credit when content changes. No prerequisites.

LING 3309. LINGUISTICS FOR LANGUAGE TEACHERS. 3 Hours.
An examination and analysis of the linguistic structures of English, with a focus on how this knowledge can inform language teaching.

LING 3311. PRINCIPLES OF LINGUISTIC ANALYSIS. 3 Hours.
This course prepares students for the systematic study of human language. Drawing on data from a range of languages, it will examine the sound patterns of language (phonetics and phonology), words and word formation (morphology), sentence structure (syntax), meaning (semantics), and language in context (pragmatics). Emphasis will be placed on methods of linguistic analysis to solve problems in phonology, morphology, syntax, and semantics. Additional topics may include language acquisition; linguistic variation; and/or historical/comparative linguistics.

LING 3330. PHONETICS AND PHONOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Introduction to the scientific study of speech sounds and sound patterns in the world's languages. We will explore how human speech sounds are produced, how to describe speech sounds, and the patterns in how sounds combine to make words in different languages. Prerequisite: LING 3311 with a grade of C or better.

LING 3340. SYNTAX I. 3 Hours.
An examination of syntactic investigation, developed primarily through the study of central aspects of English syntax. A major purpose is to introduce students to the study of language as an empirical science. Prerequisite: LING 3311 with a grade of C or better.

LING 3345. CRITICAL REASONING IN LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
A survey of formal logical approaches used to describe and explain natural language phenomena. Topics include the fundamentals of logical representation and argumentation, the effective use of inductive and deductive reasoning, and the construction of more complex linguistic arguments. Prerequisites: LING 3311 and either PHIL 1301 or PHIL 3321.

LING 3350. LEXICAL SEMANTICS. 3 Hours.
Examines meaning at the lexical level. Topics may include ways of describing meaning (sense and reference, componential analysis and prototype theory), organizing meaning (the mental lexicon, connotation and euphemism, linguistic relativity), and applying these concepts to analyzing word classes. Prerequisite: LING 3311 with a grade of C or better.

LING 3360. LANGUAGE ACQUISITION. 3 Hours.
An examination of the principles and patterns that underlie the acquisition of language, with a focus on child language acquisition. Prerequisite: LING 3311 or LING 3309, with a grade of C or better.

LING 3366. TOPICS IN RACE/ETHNICITY AND LANGUAGE IN THE U.S.. 3 Hours.
Either an intensive focus within one racial/ethnic group or a comparison between two or more groups. Focus may include language in the U.S. as it pertains to one (or more) of these communities: African Americans, Mexican Americans and Latinos/as, Native Americans, and/or Asian Americans. May be repeated for credit as course content changes.

LING 3370. PSYCHOLOGY OF LANGUAGE. 3 Hours.
An examination of psycholinguistics, or the cognitive processes involved in the acquisition, comprehension, and production of language. The class will focus mainly on language perception and production by native speakers, but will also address issues related to bilingual/second language processing. Prerequisite: LING 3311 with a grade of C or better, or instructor approval.

LING 3391. CONFERENCE COURSE IN LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Independent study in Linguistics and TESOL. Consultation with instructor on a regular basis. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.

LING 4301. PHONOLOGICAL THEORY I. 3 Hours.
Investigation of the sound systems of language with a focus on building analytical skills. Students will conduct hands-on phonological analysis with real language data and develop familiarity with common phonological patterns in the world's languages. Prerequisite: LING 3330 with a grade of C or better.

LING 4303. SYNTAX II. 3 Hours.
Continuation of LING 3340, which explores further aspects of English syntax; universal and language-particular constraints on syntactic structure and rules. Further development and extensions of the generative approach to syntactic investigation. Prerequisite: LING 3340 with a grade of C or better.

LING 4317. SOCIOLINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Language in its social context, including linguistic variation, address and reference, speech levels, bilingualism, code switching, speech acts, conversation analysis, and language and gender. Prerequisite: LING 3311.

LING 4318. LANGUAGE AND GENDER. 3 Hours.
The role of language in the expression and creation of gender identities. Gender differences in language structure and use, women's and men's language in other cultures, the acquisition of gendered ways of speaking, and sexism in language. Offered as LING 4318 and GWSS 4318; credit will be granted only once. Prerequisite: LING 3311.

LING 4320. HISTORICAL AND COMPARATIVE LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
(Also taught as LING 5314). Language development and change; the comparative method and its use in linguistic reconstruction; laws of language change. Prerequisite: LING 3311.

LING 4325. SLA THEORIES AND THE TEACHING OF LANGUAGE. 3 Hours.
An examination of a variety of theories in Second Language Acquisition, with a focus on how this knowledge informs classroom practice for teachers of ESL and other languages. Prerequisite: LING 3309 or LING 3311.

LING 4326. BILINGUALISM. 3 Hours.
An examination of issues related to bilinguals and bilingualism. The areas that will be covered include different types of bilinguals/bilingualism, bilingual education, the cognitive benefits or disadvantages of being a bilingual, and language processing in bilinguals. Prerequisite: LING 3311 with a grade of C or better.

LING 4327. SECOND LANGUAGE ACQUISITION. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on second language acquisition. Topics include the similarities and differences between first and second language acquisition, perception and production in native and non-native languages, and the implications of second language acquisition and processing research for theoretical linguistics and language teaching. Prerequisite: LING 2301, LING 2371, LING 3309, or LING 3311.

LING 4328. PSYCHOLINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
This course will focus on the cognitive processes involved in the comprehension and production of language. The class will involve opportunities for hands-on experience using psycholinguistics research methods. Prerequisite: LING 3370 or LING 3311 with a grade of C or better, or instructor approval.

LING 4330. CORPUS LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Applications of the ways computer science and linguistics inform each other. Corpus linguistics focuses on how computers can be used to both obtain the data that we examine and to provide the tools we use for analysis. Introduces practical experience with concordancing and OCR software, using regular expressions, and sources of online corpora. Prerequisite: LING 3311.

LING 4334. MORPHOLOGY. 3 Hours.
A theoretical and typological investigation into the nature of word-structure and word-formation processes in human languages. Prerequisite: LING 4301 or LING 4303.

LING 4335. LANGUAGE UNIVERSALS & LINGUISTIC TYPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Consideration of universals in human language, their explanation and description, and language types. Prerequisite: LING 4301.

LING 4345. FORMAL SEMANTICS. 3 Hours.
Examination of empirical facts, fundamental goals, and current techniques of formal semantic theory with a goal toward independent research. Topics include basic tools of current semantic theory and various core topics concerning meaning in English and other languages. Prerequisite: LING 3311 with a grade of C or higher.

LING 4347. PRAGMATICS. 3 Hours.
Analysis of how context and form interact with meaning. Topics may include deixis, reference, speech acts, presupposition, implicature, information structure and intonation.

LING 4353. TEACHING ENGLISH AS A SECOND OR FOREIGN LANGUAGE. 3 Hours.
Presentation and critique of methodologies of teaching English to speakers of other languages, with emphasis on teaching techniques of aural comprehension; speaking, reading, and writing skills; testing, language laboratory, and linguistic-cultural differences.

LING 4354. METHODS AND MATERIALS TO TEACH ENGLISH AS A SECOND OR FOREIGN LANGUAGE. 3 Hours.
Systematic study of how to teach English to second/foreign language learners. Topics covered include the teaching of grammar, vocabulary, reading, writing, pronunciation, speaking, and listening. Prerequisite: LING 2301 or LING 2371; LING 4353.

LING 4360. NON-WESTERN LINGUISTIC STRUCTURES. 3 Hours.
Study of a selected non-Western language, language family or language area based on descriptive linguistic analysis. May be repeated once for credit as the topic varies. Prerequisite: LING 3330 and LING 3340.

LING 4362. LANGUAGE DOCUMENTATION. 3 Hours.
The course discusses fundamental issues that are part of language documenting and description. These include project design, research ethics and intellectual property, researcher and community rights and responsibilities, world language ecology, technology and software, archiving issues, grant-writing fundamentals, and related issues that form best practices for language documentation projects. (Also offered as LING 5362. Credit will be granted only once for LING 4362 or LING 5362.) Prerequisite: LING 3311.

LING 4363. LANGUAGE ENDANGERMENT AND REVITALIZATION. 3 Hours.
This course examines language endangerment and what it means for a language to become endangered, and studies language revitalization. Case studies are presented where communities seek to maintain the number of speakers or revive the language. (Also offered as LING 5363.Credit will be granted only once for LING 4363 or LING 5363.) Prerequisite: LING 3311.

LING 4370. HISTORY OF LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Surveys the recent history of the field of linguistics and familiarizes students with the key figures and theories in recent linguistic history, with special attention to the development and emergence of generative theories of syntax, semantics, and phonology. Prerequisite: LING 3330 and LING 3340 and either LING 4301 or LING 4303.

LING 4389. TOPICS IN LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Current topics in linguistics research. May be repeated if topic changes. Prerequisite: Either LING 3330, LING 3340, or LING 4317, and permission of undergraduate advisor.

LING 4391. CONFERENCE COURSE IN LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Independent study in the preparation of a paper on a research topic; consultation with instructor on a regular basis. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: Either LING 3311, LING 3330, or LING 3340, and permission of undergraduate advisor.

LING 4393. INTERNSHIP IN LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Internship (paid or unpaid) in Linguistics, supervised by a faculty internship coordinator, with the student performing duties related to the academic curriculum of Linguistics. Students are required to perform and report on designated career-related duties in a professional environment and submit assignments related to the work performed. May be repeated with the approval of the Undergraduate Advisor. May be repeated for credit once, as internship experience changes. Prerequisite: LING 3311 and permission of the instructor.

LING 4394. LING 4394 HONORS THESIS/SENIOR PROJECT. 3 Hours.
Required of all students in the University Honors College. During the senior year, the student must complete a thesis or project of equivalent difficulty under the direction of a faculty member in the major department. Approval of instructor required.

LING 4395. INTERNSHIP IN TESOL. 3 Hours.
Internship (paid or unpaid) in TESOL, supervised by a faculty internship coordinator, with the student performing duties related to the academic curriculum of TESOL and/or the application of this knowledge. Students are required to perform significant teaching-related duties in an ESL/EFL environment and submit assignments related to the work performed. May be repeated with the approval of the Undergraduate Advisor, as internship experience changes. Prerequisite: LING 4353 and LING 4354 (may be concurrently enrolled in 4354).

LING 5100. THESIS WRITING SEMINAR. 1 Hour.
Techniques for researching and writing a thesis/dissertation in linguistics. Required of all students who have elected the Thesis or Thesis Substitute degree option in Linguistics. Prerequisite: completion of at least 9 hours of LING courses.

LING 5110. TESOL PRACTICUM. 1 Hour.
In this class, students will apply the principles presented in the TESOL Certificate coursework through observing and teaching ESOL classes. Prerequisite: Permission of adviser.

LING 5190. CONFERENCE COURSE IN LINGUISTICS. 1 Hour.
Graded P/F. Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.

LING 5300. LINGUISTIC ANALYSIS. 3 Hours.
This course introduces students to the field of linguistics, the systematic study of human language. Drawing on data from a range of languages, it will examine the sound patterns of language (phonetics and phonology), words and word formation (morphology), sentence structure (syntax), meaning (semantics), and language in context (pragmatics). Emphasis will be placed on methods of linguistic analysis to solve problems in phonology, morphology, syntax, and semantics. May be repeated for credit as the focus of the course or instructor changes. May not be used to fulfill Ph.D. degree requirements in linguistics.

LING 5301. INTRO TO COMMUNICATIVE LANGUAGE TEACHING. 3 Hours.
Presentation and critique of methodologies of teaching English to speakers of other languages, with emphasis on techniques of teaching aural comprehension; speaking, reading, and writing skills; attention to testing, language laboratory, and linguistic-cultural differences. Course includes a practical teaching requirement.

LING 5302. METHODS IN TEACHING READING AND WRITING. 3 Hours.
This course is an in-depth study of how to design ESL/EFL reading and writing classes and how to create instruction and assessment materials for these classes based on sound pedagogical principles.

LING 5303. ERROR ANALYSIS IN THE TEACHING OF ENGLISH AS A SECOND OR FOREIGN LANGUAGE. 3 Hours.
A study of error analysis as a means to diagnose particular patterns in language production of ESL/EFL students. Emphasis on current research and application to specific problems and contexts. Prerequisite: LING 5300 or LING 5309.

LING 5304. PEDAGOGICAL GRAMMAR OF ENGLISH. 3 Hours.
This course is a study of English sentence structure. Topics include article use, phrase structure, verb tense, agreement, pronouns, question forms, and embedded clauses. The course will focus on the second-language acquisition and processing of these structures as well as on ways that they can be addressed during ES/FL grammar instruction. Prerequisite:LING 5300 or LING 5309; LING 5301 or LING 5302.

LING 5305. SECOND LANGUAGE ACQUISITION. 3 Hours.
This course is the study of the processes of first and second language acquisition, their similarities and differences, language disorders, language perception and production, and implications of language acquisition research for linguistic theory and language teaching. May be repeated for credit as topic changes. Prerequisite: LING 5300 or permission of instructor.

LING 5306. TESOL CURRICULUM DESIGN. 3 Hours.
Systematic presentation of elements in development, management and evaluation of TESOL programs. Attention to needs analysis, syllabus design, materials selection and adaptation, teaching and evaluation in language curriculum design. Prerequisite: LING 5301.

LING 5307. PEDAGOGICAL PHONOLOGY OF ENGLISH. 3 Hours.
A study of the sound system of English. Topics include segmental phonemes, stress, length, intonation and variation at the lexical and utterance levels. Application to teaching English as a second or foreign language. Problems of description; means of application; adaptation to current pedagogical methods. Prerequisite: LING 5300; LING 5301 or LING 5302.

LING 5308. LANGUAGE ASSESSMENT. 3 Hours.
This is an introductory testing course. Topics will include different types of language assessment, issues related to language testing, measurement and evaluation of achievement and proficiency in a second language, and developing language tests of various language skills. Prerequisite: LING 5301, LING 5302, or permission of the instructor.

LING 5309. LINGUISTICS FOR LANGUAGE PROFESSIONALS. 3 Hours.
This course is an introduction to Applied Linguistics. It includes examination and analysis of the linguistic structures of English, with a focus on how this knowledge can inform language teaching.

LING 5310. SOCIOLINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
The study of language and social context (made up of society and individuals). Content includes language as a social phenomenon, theoretical perspectives on relationship between language, society and individuals, basic concepts in sociolinguistics; and may include topics in macro- and micro-sociolinguistics such as multilingualism, language planning and standardization, linguistic variation, code switching, conversational analysis, and language and gender. May be repeated for credit as the topic changes.

LING 5311. SOCIOLINGUISTICS OF SOCIETY. 3 Hours.
The study of macro-sociolinguistics, including topics such as multilingualism, language standardization and planning, literacy, language dominance, maintenance and death, language and identity, diglossia, and pidgins and creoles. May be repeated for credit as the topic changes. Prerequisite: LING 5310.

LING 5312. LANGUAGE AND GENDER. 3 Hours.
The role of language in the expression and creation of gender identities. Gender differences in language structure and use, men's and women's languages in other cultures, the acquisition of gendered ways of speaking, and sexism in language. May be repeated for credit as the topic changes. Prerequisite: LING 5310.

LING 5313. TOPICS IN SOCIOLINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Selected topics relating the scientific methodologies of linguistics to larger concerns of society and culture including cognition, motivation, description and analysis. May be repeated for credit when topic changes. Prerequisite: LING 5310.

LING 5314. HISTORICAL AND COMPARATIVE LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
The study of language development and change; comparative method and its use in linguistic reconstruction; laws of language change. May be repeated for credit as the topic changes. Prerequisite: LING 3330 or permission of instructor.

LING 5315. READINGS AND RESEARCH IN PEDAGOGY AND PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on selected readings for classroom practitioners, with a focus on work that connects current theory with classroom practice. Prerequisite: LING 5301 or LING 5302.

LING 5316. TEACHING WITH TECHNOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on the integration of effective technology tools in linguistics and TESOL-focused courses and topics. Course topics will cover effectively and meaningfully incorporating a wide variety of digital platforms, communication channels, and tools to curate and create quality digital content and develop technology-focused lesson plans. Students will learn to use robust theoretical frameworks such as Open Educational Resources, open pedagogy, Community of Inquiry, networked and connected learning, and constructivist pedagogies to foster authentic student engagement and active learning with technology and course content. After the course, students will have created several concrete artifacts to add to their teaching dossier for future teaching, potentially adding to being more marketable in a dynamically changing world. Emerging tools such as virtual reality, augmented reality, automation, data analytics, and mobile learning will be also be explored.

LING 5318. APPLIED PSYCHOLINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
This course examines the psychological processes involved in language development and language use in native and non-native speakers, as well as in those who have language disorders. It also covers how psycholinguistic tasks can be used for language teaching and assessment. Students will learn current theories and research methods related to this area through in-depth discussion of primary literature and by developing research projects based on this literature. Prerequisite: LING 5300 or LING 5309, or equivalent, or approval from the instructor.

LING 5319. PHONETICS AND PHONOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Human speech sounds from both physiological and cognitive perspectives; the range of speech sounds in language and the patterning of such sounds within particular language systems. This course does not fulfill core PHD requirements for phonology.

LING 5320. PHONOLOGICAL THEORY. 3 Hours.
Ling 5320 is a foundations course for the study of the principles that govern sound systems in human languages. Students will work with sound patterns from a variety of languages in order to understand the fundamental aspects of phonological phenomena, and course assignments will require application of the descriptive and theoretical tools in working with sound pattern data. Lectures will further develop this description, analysis, and argumentation for phonological data. May be repeated for credit as the topic changes. Prerequisite: Permission of Advisor.

LING 5321. ADVANCED PHONOLOGICAL THEORY. 3 Hours.
A continuation of LING 5320. Topics include autosegmental analysis, lexical phonology, metrical phonology and phonological feature geometry. May be repeated for credit when topic changes. Prerequisite: LING 5320.

LING 5322. LABORATORY PHONOLOGY. 3 Hours.
An investigation into the physical properties of human speech. Students will gain hands-on experience with computer-assisted speech analysis. No prior computer experience is assumed. Prerequisite: LING 5320.

LING 5325. SLA AND CLASSROOM PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
An examination of a variety of theories in Second Language Acquisition, with a focus on how this knowledge informs classroom practice for teachers of ESL and other languages.

LING 5326. BILINGUALISM. 3 Hours.
This course introduces students to issues related to bilinguals and bilingualism. The areas that will be covered include different types of bilinguals/ bilingualism, bilingual education, the cognitive benefits (or disadvantages) of being a bilingual, and language processing in bilinguals. May be repeated for credit as the topic changes. Prerequisite: LING 5300.

LING 5328. PSYCHOLINGUISTICS: SENTENCE PROCESSING. 3 Hours.
This course examines the cognitive processes involved in sentence comprehension. Students will learn current theories and research methods related to this area of psycholinguistics through in-depth discussion of the primary literature and by developing research projects based on this literature. May be repeated for credit as the specific topics dealt with in the course change. Prerequisite: LING 5300.

LING 5329. SYNTAX. 3 Hours.
An examination of syntactic investigation, developed primarily through the study of central aspects of English syntax. A major purpose is to introduce students to the study of language as an empirical science. This course does not fulfill core PHD requirements for syntax.

LING 5330. FORMAL SYNTAX. 3 Hours.
Introduction to syntactic theory. Major topics include phrase structure, subcategorization, lexical entries, and passive and infinitival constructions. May be repeated for credit as the topic changes. Prerequisite: Permission of advisor.

LING 5331. ADVANCED FORMAL SYNTAX. 3 Hours.
Continuation of Ling 5330. Topics may include the syntax of unbounded dependencies, constraints on extraction, unbounded versus successive cyclic movement, and the licensing of gaps. May be repeated for credit as the topics change. Prerequisite: LING 5330.

LING 5334. MORPHOLOGY. 3 Hours.
A theoretical and typological investigation into the nature of word-structure and word-formation processes in human languages. May be repeated for credit as the topics of focus change. Prerequisite: LING 5320 or LING 5330.

LING 5335. LANGUAGE UNIVERSALS AND LINGUISTIC TYPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Consideration of universals in human language, their explanation and description, and language types. May be repeated for credit as the topics of focus change. Prerequisite: LING 5330.

LING 5338. PSYCHOLINGUISTICS: VISUAL WORD RECOGNITION. 3 Hours.
This course examines the cognitive processes involved in visual word recognition. Students will learn current theories and research methods related to this area of psycholinguistics through in-depth discussion of the primary literature and by developing research projects based on this literature. May be repeated for credit as the specific topics dealt with in the course change. Prerequisite: LING 5300.

LING 5345. SEMANTICS. 3 Hours.
Graduate-level introduction to formal semantics, designed to prepare students for research with basic tools in Model-theoretic semantics and compositionality, including core topics such as negation, quantification, mood and modality, noun phrases, indefinites, definiteness, tense, aspect, and events, from a semantic and cross-linguistic perspective. May be repeated for credit as the topics of focus change. Prerequisite: LING 3340 or permission of instructor.

LING 5346. TOPICS IN APPLIED LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
This is a special topics course in Applied Linguistics. Topics may change semester-by-semester, based on instructor and other factors; may be repeated for credit as the topics of focus change.

LING 5347. PRAGMATICS. 3 Hours.
Analysis of how context and form interact with meaning. Topics may include deixis, reference, speech acts, presupposition, implicature, information structure and intonation. May be repeated for credit as the topics of focus change.

LING 5350. TEXT ANALYSIS. 3 Hours.
Methods of charting and analyzing texts to reveal the systematic contributions of pragmatic choices to their organization and meaning. May be repeated for credit as the topics of focus change. Prerequisite: LING 3340.

LING 5353. TEACHING ENGLISH AS A SECOND OR FOREIGN LANGUAGE. 3 Hours.
Presentation and critique of methodologies of teaching English to speakers of other languages, with emphasis on techniques related to Communicative Language Teaching.

LING 5354. METHODS AND MATERIALS TO TEACH ENGLISH AS A SECOND OR FOREIGN LANGUAGE. 3 Hours.
Systematic study of how to teach English to second/foreign language learners. Topics covered include the teaching of grammar, vocabulary, reading, writing, pronunciation, speaking, and listening.

LING 5360. NON-WESTERN LINGUISTIC STRUCTURES. 3 Hours.
Study of a selected non-Western language, language family or language area based on descriptive linguistic analysis. May be repeated for credit as the topic varies. Prerequisite: LING 3330 and LING 3340.

LING 5361. READINGS IN NON-WESTERN LINGUISTIC STRUCTURES. 3 Hours.
Readings in the linguistic structures of non-Western languages. Enrollment in the course is not sufficient to fulfill the non-Western language requirement. May be repeated for credit as the readings and topics of focus change.

LING 5362. LANGUAGE DOCUMENTATION. 3 Hours.
The course discusses fundamental issues that are part of language documenting and description. These include project design, research ethics and intellectual property, researcher and community rights and responsibilities, world language ecology, technology and software, archiving issues, grant-writing fundamentals, and related issues that form best practices for language documentation projects. May be repeated for credit as the topics of focus change. Prerequisite: LING 5300.

LING 5363. LANGUAGE ENDANGERMENT AND REVITALIZATION. 3 Hours.
This course examines language endangerment and what it means for a language to become endangered, and studies language revitalization. Case studies are presented where communities seek to maintain the number of speakers or revive the language. May be repeated for credit as the topics of focus change. Prerequisite: LING 5300.

LING 5370. HISTORY OF LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Surveys the recent history of the field of linguistics and familiarizes students with the key figures and theories in recent linguistic history, with special attention to the development and emergence of key generative theories such as those of syntax, semantics, and phonology. May be repeated for credit as the topics of focus change. Prerequisite: LING 5320 or LING 5330.

LING 5371. SURVEY OF THEORIES IN APPLIED LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
A comparison and contrast of various linguistic theories, with consideration of their implications for application to real-world problems involving language. May be repeated for credit as the topics of focus change. Prerequisite: LING 5305.

LING 5372. READINGS IN LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Readings in linguistics, tailored to student's areas of interest and instructor's expertise. May be repeated for credit when topic changes. Prerequisite: LING 5330.

LING 5380. FIELD METHODS. 3 Hours.
The principles, techniques and practical aspects of linguistic field research. The course includes extensive practice in eliciting data (phonological, morpho-syntactic, textual and lexical) directly from a native speaker, as well as in managing, analyzing and describing the data obtained. Course may be repeated for credit when topic changes. Prerequisite: LING 5300. Permission of the Graduate Advisor.

LING 5381. CORPUS LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Applications of ways in which computer science and linguistics inform each other. Corpus linguistics focuses on how computers can be used to both obtain the data that we examine and to provide the tools we use for analysis. Includes readings, practical experience with several different software programs, and using sources of online corpora. May be repeated for credit as the topics of focus change.

LING 5391. CONFERENCE COURSE IN LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.

LING 5392. THESIS SUBSTITUTE. 3 Hours.

LING 5393. TESOL TEACHING AND OBSERVATION. 3 Hours.
In this course, students will work regularly and consistently with an organization where English is taught. Students will observe, teach, guide, and participate in activities in order to demonstrate ability to apply the principles of Communicative Language Teaching in an English Language Learning environment. Prerequisite: Permission of the graduate advisor.

LING 5395. GRADUATE INTERNSHIP. 3 Hours.
Employment (paid or unpaid) supervised by a faculty internship coordinator, with the student performing duties related to the academic curriculum of linguistics and/or TESOL. Students are required to submit an approved academic project related to the work performed. May be repeated with approval of Graduate Advisor.

LING 5398. THESIS. 3 Hours.

LING 5691. CONFERENCE COURSE IN LINGUISTICS. 6 Hours.
Independent study in the preparation of a paper on a research topic; consultation with instructor on a regular basis. May be repeated for credit.

LING 5698. THESIS. 6 Hours.

LING 5998. THESIS. 9 Hours.

LING 6100. LINGUISTICS GRADUATE PROGRAM SUCCESS. 1 Hour.
This course introduces PhD students in Linguistics to the expectations of graduate school, including being a good TA, recognizing the importance of research and revision, and general academic success skills to aid the transition into a graduate program.

LING 6191. RESEARCH IN LINGUISTICS. 1 Hour.
Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

LING 6199. DISSERTATION. 1 Hour.

LING 6291. RESEARCH IN LINGUISTICS. 2 Hours.
Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

LING 6300. PROFESSIONAL WRITING SEMINAR. 3 Hours.
Workshop in producing the writing genres expected of professional academic linguists. May be repeated for credit as the topics of focus change. Prerequisite: Completion of at least 9 hours of graduate LING courses.

LING 6360. DISCOURSE THEORY SEMINAR. 3 Hours.
Seminar on the theory of discourse in linguistics. May be repeated for credit as the instructor and topics of focus change. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

LING 6380. FIELD METHODS SEMINAR. 3 Hours.
Second part of field methods sequence. May be repeated for credit as the student's topic of focus changes. Prerequisite: LING 5380.

LING 6381. STATISTICS FOR LINGUISTS. 3 Hours.
In this course, students learn the fundamentals of quantitative research in linguistics and language-related fields. Students learn how to develop viable research hypotheses, how to collect and manage the data necessary to evaluate these hypotheses, and how to analyze data using standard statistical tests. May be repeated for credit as the topics of focus change.

LING 6390. LINGUISTICS SEMINAR. 3 Hours.
Seminar in linguistics. Course may be repeated for credit when topic or instructor changes. Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

LING 6391. RESEARCH IN LINGUISTICS. 3 Hours.
Designed for doctoral students pursuing dissertation proposal research under the direction of a faculty supervisor. Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.

LING 6392. SEMINAR IN PHONETICS AND PHONOLOGY. 3 Hours.
In-depth investigation of research into a specialized area of phonetics and/or phonology. Course registrants will develop original research focusing on topic at-hand, with results exchanged through discussion, presentations/reports, and/or papers. Prerequisites: LING 5321 or permission of the instructor.

LING 6393. SEMINAR IN SYNTAX. 3 Hours.
In-depth investigation of research into a specialized area of syntax. Course registrants will develop original research focusing on topic at-hand, with results exchanged through discussion, presentations/reports, and/or papers. Prerequisites: LING 5331 or permission of instructor.

LING 6394. SEMINAR IN SEMANTICS AND PRAGMATICS. 3 Hours.
In-depth investigation of research into a specialized area of meaning: semantics and/or pragmatics. Course registrants will develop original research focusing on topic at-hand, with results exchanged through discussion, presentations/reports, and/or papers. Prerequisites: LING 5345 or LING 5347 or permission of instructor.

LING 6395. SEMINAR IN SECOND LANGUAGE ACQUISITION. 3 Hours.
In-depth investigation of research into a specialized area of second language acquisition. Course registrants will develop original research focusing on topic at-hand, with results exchanged through discussion, presentations/reports, and/or papers. Prerequisites: LING 5305 or permission of the instructor.

LING 6399. DISSERTATION. 3 Hours.

LING 6491. RESEARCH IN LINGUISTICS. 4 Hours.
Prerequisite: permission of instructor.

LING 6591. RESEARCH IN LINGUISTICS. 5 Hours.

LING 6691. RESEARCH IN LINGUISTICS. 6 Hours.
Designed for doctoral students pursuing dissertation proposal research under the direction of a faculty supervisor. Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.

LING 6699. DISSERTATION. 6 Hours.

LING 6991. RESEARCH IN LINGUISTICS. 9 Hours.
Designed for doctoral students pursuing dissertation proposal research under the direction of a faculty supervisor. Prerequisite: Permission of instructor.

LING 6999. DISSERTATION. 9 Hours.

LING 7399. DOCTORAL DEGREE COMPLETION. 3 Hours.
This course may be taken during the semester in which a student expects to complete all requirements for the doctoral degree and graduate. Enrolling in this course meets minimum enrollment requirements for graduation, for holding fellowships awarded by The Office of Graduate Studies and for full-time GTA or GRA positions. Students should verify that enrollment in this course meets other applicable enrollment requirements. To remain eligible in their final semester of study for grants, loans or other forms of financial aid administered by the Financial Aid Office must enroll in a minimum of 5 hours as required by the Office of Financial Aid. Other funding sources may also require more than 3-hours of enrollment. Additional hours may also be required to meet to requirements set by immigration law or by the policies of the student's degree program. Students should contact the Financial Aid Office, other sources of funding, Office of International Education and/or their graduate advisor to verify enrollment requirements before registering for this course. This course may only be taken twice. Students who do not complete all graduation requirements while enrolled in this course must enroll in a minimum of 6 dissertation hours (6699 or 6999) in their graduation term. Graded P/F/R.

Doctor of Philosophy in Linguistics

About the Program

The Doctor of Philosophy in Linguistics focuses on the primary areas of the field in sound, syntax, meaning; advanced training in field linguistics and documentary linguistics, experimental linguistics, corpus linguistics, and in second language acquisition. The program provides development of in-depth expertise in at least one area of specialization.

Competencies

1. Linguistics PhD graduates will be be able to clearly and coherently discuss fundamental concepts related to languagestructure at the sound, sentence, and meaning levels.
2. Linguistics PhD graduates will be able to demonstrate mastery of how to set up a research project in linguistics.
3. Linguistics PhD graduates will be able to successfully describe a research project that meets basic methodological standards in the discipline.
4. Linguistics PhD graduates will be able to develop a curriculum vitae (CV) that provides key information regarding their academic preparation, employment experience, and research achievements.
5. Linguistics PhD graduates will complete a dissertation that details substantive research in their area of specialization.

Admissions Requirements

In evaluating candidates for admissions to its graduate degree programs, the Linguistics & TESOL faculty have adopted a comprehensive approach that is sensitive to the diversity of backgrounds of its applicants. To this end, the following constellation of quantitative and qualitative factors has been established to make explicit the range of criteria upon which admissions decisions will be based.

QUANTITATIVE FACTORS

- Grade Point Average (GPA): the undergraduate GPA as determined by the UT Arlington graduate admissions.
- Graduate Record Examination (GRE) Scores. All applicants are required to submit GRE scores. The Department of Linguistics & TESOL evaluates each applicant's sub-scores separately: verbal, quantitative, and analytical.
- TOEFL Scores (international applications only). Applicants for whom English is not their native language must also present a Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or IELTS equivalent score.

QUALITATIVE FACTORS

- Letters of Recommendation. Each applicant must present three (3) letters of recommendation that unequivocally indicate that the applicant is prepared for and capable of successful graduate study in linguistics or TESOL at UT Arlington. The letters should further indicate that the applicant is capable of completing the appropriate degree program.
- Statement of intent. Each applicant must write a statement that explains their plan of study and specialization in our department. The statement will be evaluated on the degree to which it is clear, reasonable, and consistent with the research and teaching agenda of the current faculty in Linguistics & TESOL at UT Arlington. Prospective applicants should consider the departmental website and faculty research and teaching areas as they evaluate whether they would be able to accomplish their plan of study in our department, especially if they are applying to the doctoral program. Possible areas of specialization are those outlined on the department website (https://www.uta.edu/academics/schools-colleges/liberal-arts/departments/linguistics/academics/linguistics/phd-linguistics/). The statement should also convey a level of commitment and maturity commensurate with the applicant's desired degree goals.
- Mandatory Course Work. Applicants to PhD in Linguistics should present all of the following:
  - English composition (ENGL 1302)
  - College-level mathematics (MATH 1302)
  - A laboratory science (any 1000-level course in BIOL, CHEM, GEOL or PHYS; LING 5322 may also be used to fulfill this requirement)
  - Evidence of research activity during undergraduate studies;
  - An undergraduate transcript showing coursework which demonstrates that the applicant has passed with a B or higher the following three courses, or reasonable equivalents as determined by the graduate advisor (UT Arlington equivalents are noted as in parentheses):
    - Morphology and syntax (LING 3340)
    - Phonetics and phonology (LING 3330)
    - Introduction to linguistics (LING 3311/LING 5300)
- Writing Sample. PhD applicants must submit an academic writing sample (research paper) of 20 pages or less. The paper must be in an area of language or linguistic study, and demonstrate a strong prose style, a solid handle on argumentation, and the ability to do academic research in linguistics or a closely related field.

In formulating a recommendation for admission, the graduate advisors will apply the following admission criteria to each applicant's admission dossier.

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

Typically, applicants for the Linguistics PhD must be admitted unconditionally. Unconditional admission requirements are as follows.

- Applicants with a BA in Linguistics or closely allied field: The applicant presents an undergraduate GPA of at least 3.6 (on a 4.0 scale) based on upper division course work (junior and senior level or equivalent).
- Applicants without a BA in Linguistics or closely allied field: The applicant presents an undergraduate/graduate GPA of at least 3.3 (on a 4.0 scale) and has completed at least 30 hours of graduate-level coursework in any discipline.
- The applicant presents a GRE Verbal score of at least 150, a GRE Quantitative score of at least 146, a GRE Analytical score of at least 4.0, and a full set of excellent Qualitative Factors.
- In addition, applicants for whom English is not their native language and who have not been granted an undergraduate degree by an English-medium institution must also submit a Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) score of at least 100 iBt or its IELTS equivalent and also submit a score from the Speaking Section of the TOEFL iBT, or the Speaking Section of the IELTS that documents the applicant's proficiency in spoken English. The speaking score is used for making determination for assistantships; applicants who wish to be considered for an assistantship must receive a score a score of 23 on the Speaking Section of the TOEFL iBT, or a score of 7 on the Speaking Section of the IELTS. This and other requirements for holding an assistantship are described in the Graduate Assistantship/Associateship Policy.

DEFERRED ADMISSION

Applicants for whom the admission file is incomplete will have a final decision admission deferred. In such cases, a final decision will be made only when the applicant presents a complete admission file.

DENIAL OF ADMISSION

Applicants who do not meet a majority of the admission standards (both quantitative and qualitative) set forth above will be denied admission. For doctoral admission in particular, qualitative factors such as writing sample, statement of intent, or area of intended work may result in a student being denied admission even when quantitative factors are met.

In the first two semesters of the program, students are expected to enroll in the core classes.

All PhD students must demonstrate knowledge of core areas in linguistics by passing the diagnostic examination requirement outlined on the departmental website.

Doctoral students must satisfy all the coursework requirements of the doctoral program prior to taking courses that do not fulfill the requirements. Any exception to this policy must be approved by a majority vote of the Graduate Studies Committee.

In addition, there are foreign language and professional activities requirements that must be met. Visit the Linguistics & TESOL department website for details.

Advising Resources

Students are highly encouraged to meet regularly with their assigned advisor—at least once per semester and before enrolling in classes—to ensure steady academic progress, identify new opportunities, and align their coursework with their long-term career goals.

Master of Arts in Linguistics

About the Program

The Master of Linguistics seeks to deepen understanding of language by examining how it is represented, used, and processed. We work toward this goal through courses in theoretical linguistics, focusing on phonology, syntax, semantics, pragmatics, and psycholinguistics as well as the interfaces among these domains of inquiry. In order to explore questions in these areas, we provide training in multiple methods, including field methods, corpus-based methods, and experimental research methods, to collect and analyze data from a wide range of the world's languages, and from both native and non-native speakers of these languages.

Graduate programs in linguistics are primarily designed for those with a background in one or more foreign languages and/or a background in the linguistic aspects of the English language. A graduate career in linguistics may also be appropriate to those with undergraduate study in anthropology, psychology, computer science, philosophy, or religion. Applicants without formal training in linguistics are invited to apply, provided that they are prepared to meet the department’s requirements for leveling courses.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, MA linguistics graduates will be able to discuss fundamental concepts in their areas of specialization clearly and coherently.
2. Upon completion, MA linguistics graduates will be able to demonstrate mastery of how to set up a research project in linguistics.
3. Upon completion, MA linguistics graduates will be able to successfully describe a research project that meets basic methodological standards in the discipline.
4. Upon completion, MA linguistics graduates will be able to demonstrate knowledge of the structural properties of language at the sound, word, sentence, and meaning levels.
5. Upon completion, MA linguistics graduates will be able to collect language data for a project, drawing from common sources in the discipline (e.g., via interactions with relevant speakers or the use of online tools to query language corpora).

Admissions Requirements

In evaluating candidates for admissions to its graduate degree programs, the Linguistics & TESOL faculty have adopted a comprehensive approach that is sensitive to the diversity of backgrounds of its applicants. To this end, the following constellation of quantitative and qualitative factors has been established to make explicit the range of criteria upon which admissions decisions will be based. These factors are then applied to the Admission Metrics established for each degree program.

ADMISSION FACTORS

Admission into a degree program in the Department of Linguistics & TESOL is decided based on both quantitative and qualitative factors.

Quantitative Factors

Grade Point Average (GPA)

For MA program applicants, undergraduate GPA is determined by the U.T. Arlington Graduate School.

TOEFL Scores (international applications only)

Applicants for whom English is not their native language and who have not been granted either an undergraduate or graduate degree by an English-medium institution must also present a Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or IELTS equivalent score. There are no exceptions.

Qualitative Factors

Letters of Recommendation

Each applicant must present three (3) letters of recommendation that unequivocally indicate that the applicant is prepared for and capable of successful graduate study in linguistics or TESOL at UT Arlington. The letters should further indicate that the applicant is capable of completing the appropriate degree program.

Statement of intent

Each applicant must write a statement that explains their plan of study and specialization in our department. The statement will be evaluated on the degree to which it is clear, reasonable, and consistent with the research and teaching agenda of the current faculty in Linguistics & TESOL at UT Arlington. The statement should also convey a level of commitment and maturity commensurate with the applicant's desired degree goals.

Undergraduate Preparation

Applicants to the MA in TESOL program should have passed the following three courses or reasonable equivalents as determined by the TESOL graduate advisor (UT Arlington equivalents are noted in parentheses):

- English composition (ENGL 1302)
- A course on English-language literature (ENGL 2319, ENGL 2329)
- The equivalent of a fourth-semester course in a foreign language (SPAN 2314, FREN 2314, etc.). Students whose undergraduate education was delivered in a language other than English are exempt from this requirement.

Writing Sample (optional)

Applicants must submit an academic writing sample (research paper) of 20 pages or less. The paper must be in an area of language, teaching, or linguistic study, and demonstrate a strong prose style, a solid handle on argumentation, and the ability to do academic research in linguistics or a closely related field.

ADMISSION METRICS

In formulating a recommendation for admission, the graduate advisors will apply the following admission metrics to each applicant's admission dossier.

Unconditional Admission

Typically, applicants for the MA in Linguistics will be offered unconditional admission if they meet the following criteria:

1. The applicant presents an undergraduate GPA of at least 3.0.
2. Applicants for whom English in not their native language and who have not been granted an undergraduate degree by an English-medium institution must also present a Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) score of at least 100 iBt or IELTS equivalent score.

Probationary Admission

Applicants will be considered for probationary admission if presenting a complete application that includes the following:

- lacks the undergraduate preparation specified above, but who otherwise meet the remaining admission criteria (including an undergraduate GPA of at least 3.0), will be eligible for probationary admission.

Students on probation must:

- complete any undergraduate courses necessary for unconditional admission during their first two semesters of study; and
- achieve a GPA of at least 3.3 in the first 9 graduate-level credit hours (in LING courses) as an MA Linguistics student.

Curriculum

The Linguistics MA (Non-thesis) requires 36 hours of graduate-level coursework plus comprehensive examination on the coursework.

Master of Arts in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages

About the Program

The Master of Arts in TESOL is primarily designed for those intending to teach English to adult learners, either in U.S. colleges, in conjunction with community groups, or by working abroad.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, MA linguistics graduates will be able to discuss fundamental concepts in their areas of specialization clearly and coherently.
2. Upon completion, MA linguistics graduates will be able to demonstrate mastery of how to set up a research project in linguistics.
3. Upon completion, MA linguistics graduates will be able to successfully describe a research project that meets basic methodological standards in the discipline.
4. Upon completion, MA linguistics graduates will be able to demonstrate knowledge of the structural properties of language at the sound, word, sentence, and meaning levels.
5. Upon completion, MA linguistics graduates will be able to collect language data for a project, drawing from common sources in the discipline (e.g., via interactions with relevant speakers or the use of online tools to query language corpora).

Admissions Requirements

In evaluating candidates for admissions to its graduate degree programs, the Linguistics & TESOL faculty have adopted a comprehensive approach that is sensitive to the diversity of backgrounds of its applicants. To this end, the following constellation of quantitative and qualitative factors has been established to make explicit the range of criteria upon which admissions decisions will be based. These factors are then applied to the Admission Metrics established for each degree program.

ADMISSION FACTORS

All TESOL MA students must demonstrate knowledge of a foreign language prior to unconditional admission to the degree program. Those without such background may pursue study of a foreign language at UT Arlington concurrent with probationary enrollment in the TESOL MA program.

Admission decisions into a degree program in the Department of Linguistics & TESOL are made on the basis of two types of factors, quantitative and qualitative.

1. Quantitative Factors
   a. Grade Point Average (GPA). For MA program applicants, undergraduate GPA is determined by the U.T. Arlington Graduate School.
   b. TOEFL Scores (international applications only). Applicants for whom English is not their native language and who have not been granted either an undergraduate or graduate degree by an English-medium institution must also present a Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or IELTS equivalent score. There are no exceptions.

c. Graduate Record Exam (GRE). The GRE is no longer a requirement for applicants to the MA TESOL graduate program. Effective for applicants seeking admission in Fall 2025 or in subsequent terms, the MA TESOL graduate program will not consider GRE scores when making admissions decisions. It is therefore unnecessary to take the GRE or report scores to apply for admission.

2. Qualitative Factors
   a. Letters of Recommendation. Each applicant must present three (3) letters of recommendation that unequivocally indicate that the applicant is prepared for and capable of successful graduate study in linguistics or TESOL at UT Arlington. The letters should further indicate that the applicant is capable of completing the appropriate degree program.
   b. Statement of intent for academic study in our department. Each applicant must write a statement that explains their plan of study and specialization in our department. The statement will be evaluated on the degree to which it is clear, reasonable, and consistent with the research and teaching agenda of the current faculty in Linguistics & TESOL at UT Arlington. The statement should also convey a level of commitment and maturity commensurate with the applicant's desired degree goals.
   c. Undergraduate Preparation. Applicants to the MA in TESOL program should have passed the following three courses or reasonable equivalents as determined by the TESOL graduate advisor (UT Arlington equivalents are noted in parentheses):
      i. English composition (ENGL 1302)
      ii. A course on English-language literature (ENGL 2319, ENGL 2329)
      iii. The equivalent of a fourth-semester course in a foreign language (SPAN 2314, FREN 2314, etc.). Students whose undergraduate education was delivered in a language other than English are exempt from this requirement.
   d. Writing Sample (required for PhD applicants, optional for MA programs): Applicants must submit an academic writing sample (research paper) of 20 pages or less. The paper must be in an area of language, teaching, or linguistic study, and demonstrate a strong prose style, a solid handle on argumentation, and the ability to do academic research in linguistics or a closely related field.

ADMISSION METRICS

In formulating a recommendation for admission, the graduate advisors will apply the following admission metrics to each applicant's admission dossier.

Unconditional Admission

Typically, applicants for the TESOL MA will be offered unconditional admission if they meet the following criteria:

1. The applicant presents an undergraduate GPA of at least 3.0.
2. In addition, applicants for whom English is not their native language and who have not been granted an undergraduate degree by an English-medium institution must also present a Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) score of at least 100 iBt or IELTS equivalent score.

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

Applicants for the MA in TESOL typically present a complete application that has the following:

1. lacks the undergraduate preparation specified above but who otherwise meet the remaining admission criteria (including an undergraduate GPA of at least 3.0), will be eligible for probationary admission. Students on probation must:
   - complete any undergraduate courses necessary for unconditional admission during their first two semesters of study; and
   - achieve a GPA of at least 3.3 in the first 9 graduate-level courses taken as TESOL MA student.

Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages

About the Program

The Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages provides preparation through study and practice for the individual who wishes to teach English to speakers of other languages. It is available to any student who has been admitted for graduate study at UT Arlington.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, graduate TESOL certificate students will be able to demonstrate knowledge of the structural properties of language at the sound, word, sentence, and meaning levels.
2. Upon completion, graduate TESOL certificate students will be able to produce constructive critiques of lesson plans specifically regarding how well these plans reflect principles of communicative language teaching.
3. Upon completion, graduate TESOL certificate students will be able to successfully articulate how they have applied principles of language teaching and/or learning to meet the needs of specific English language learners.
4. The graduates from the graduate certificate in TESOL program will be prepared to secure employment in a field related to their studies or continue their studies in a related graduate program.

Admissions Requirements

Students wishing to apply to the UT Arlington solely for the purpose of earning the Graduate Certificate in TESOL must have earned an undergraduate degree at an accredited institution and present an undergraduate GPA of at least 3.0. Applicants for whom English is not their native language and who have not been granted an undergraduate degree by an English-medium institution must also present an official Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) score of at least 100 iBt, or IELTS equivalent score.

Students seeking to transfer from Special Student or Certificate status into a graduate degree program at UT Arlington must re-apply to the UT Arlington as degree-seeking students and meet all published admissions requirements, including those pertaining to standardized tests. No student will be "automatically" or "exceptionally" moved from Special Student or Certificate status into any graduate degree program.

The Web site for the UT Arlington Office of Graduate Studies provides additional information about graduate study at UT Arlington and about the admission process, including general testing requirements and other paperwork. Students may apply for admission online or request application materials be sent via post.

Bachelor of Art in Linguistics

About the Program

The Bachelor of Arts in Linguistics degree is for those seeking to deepen their understanding of language by examining how it is represented, used, and processed. Our faculty work toward this goal through research and teaching in theoretical linguistics, focusing on phonology, syntax, semantics, pragmatics, and psycholinguistics as well as the interfaces among these domains of inquiry. In order to explore questions in these areas, we use multiple methods, including field methods, corpus-based methods, and experimental research methods.

We collect and analyze data from a wide range of the world's languages from both native and non-native speakers of these languages. This approach to the scientific study of language is the primary focus of our BA degree in Linguistics.

Competencies

1. Linguistics majors will be able to demonstrate knowledge of the structural properties of language at the sound, word, sentence, and meaning levels.
2. Linguistics majors will be able to describe relevant characteristics of language data sets in terms of the phonological, syntactic, semantic, and pragmatic phenomena that they reveal.
3. Linguistics majors will be able to apply critical reasoning skills to the analysis of language data and to the examination of language-related research questions.
4. Linguistics majors will be able to collect language data for a project, drawing from common sources in the discipline (e.g., via interactions with relevant speakers or the use of online tools to query language corpora).
5. Linguistics majors will be able to apply the knowledge they have gained through their studies to language-related research and professional development activities outside of classroom.

Certificate in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages

About the Program

The Undergraduate Certificate in TESOL trains professionals who will teach English to second- and foreign-language learners. Our TESOL students build a strong foundation in teaching methodologies, language testing, second language acquisition, and other related areas of linguistics. TESOL stands for Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages.

Competencies

1. Undergraduate TESOL certificate students will be able to demonstrate knowledge of the structural properties of language at the sound, word, sentence, and meaning levels.
2. Undergraduate TESOL certificate students will be able to produce constructive critiques of lesson plans specifically regarding how well these plans reflect principles of communicative language teaching.
3. Undergraduate TESOL certificate students will be able to successfully articulate how they have applied principles of language teaching and/or learning to meet the needs of specific English language learners.

Curriculum

Students interested in receiving theoretical and practical training in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) are encouraged to consider this five-course certificate program. The Undergraduate Certificate in TESOL offers a sequence of courses which introduces linguistics, second language acquisition, and methods and materials in TESOL instruction, paired with the an internship required to consist of 60 hours of volunteer ESL/literacy teaching in a local community service organization. Students take:

LING 2371	LANGUAGE IN A MULTICULTURAL USA	3
or LING 3309	LINGUISTICS FOR LANGUAGE TEACHERS
LING 4327	SECOND LANGUAGE ACQUISITION	3
LING 4353	TEACHING ENGLISH AS A SECOND OR FOREIGN LANGUAGE	3
LING 4354	METHODS AND MATERIALS TO TEACH ENGLISH AS A SECOND OR FOREIGN LANGUAGE	3
LING 4395	INTERNSHIP IN TESOL	3
Total Hours		15

Ideally, students should start the sequence with LING 2371 or LING 3311 and use LING 4395 as the final course in this sequence. This certificate is ideal for students interested in earning a credential to increase employment opportunities, such as teaching English abroad. This certificate can be paired with a bachelor's degree in another discipline. Students who are interested in earning the BA in Linguistics with the Undergraduate Certificate in TESOL may apply the 4000 level courses required by the certificate to the degree requirement of 12 hours at the 3000/4000 level. This optimal sequencing will allow students to graduate with a BA in Linguistics and an Undergraduate Certificate in TESOL without adding additional hours to their degree requirements. Contact the Undergraduate Advisor for more information on this program.

Minor in Linguistics

About the Program

The Minor in Linguistics is for those seeking to deepen their understanding of language by examining how it is represented, used, and processed. Our faculty work toward this goal through research and teaching in theoretical linguistics, focusing on phonology, syntax, semantics, pragmatics, and psycholinguistics as well as the interfaces among these domains of inquiry. In order to explore questions in these areas, we use multiple methods, including field methods, corpus-based methods, and experimental research methods.

We collect and analyze data from a wide range of the world's languages from both native and non-native speakers of these languages. This approach to the scientific study of language is the primary focus of our Minor in Linguistics.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, linguistics minors will be able to demonstrate knowledge of the structural properties of language at the sound, word, sentence, and meaning levels.
2. Upon completion, linguistics minors will be able to describe relevant characteristics of language data sets in terms of the phonological, syntactic, semantic, and pragmatic phenomena that they reveal.
3. Upon completion, linguistics minors will be able to apply critical reasoning skills to the analysis of language data and to the examination of language-related research questions.
4. Upon completion, linguistics minors will be able to collect language data for a project, drawing from common sources in the discipline (e.g., via interactions with relevant speakers or the use of online tools to query language corpora).
5. Upon completion, linguistics minors will be able to apply the knowledge they have gained through their studies to language-related research and professional development activities outside of classroom.

Curriculum

LING 2301	INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF HUMAN LANGUAGE	3
LING 3311	PRINCIPLES OF LINGUISTIC ANALYSIS	3
LING 3330	PHONETICS AND PHONOLOGY	3
or LING 3340	SYNTAX I
Select any 4000 level LING course.		3
Select any two undergraduate LING courses (<5000). [1]		6
Total Hours		18

[1] Students intending to pursue graduate study in linguistics should, however, follow a course program that includes these courses as part of their minor: LING 2301, LING 3311, LING 3330, and LING 3340.

Military Science - Undergraduate Program

Department Overview

The ROTC program at The University of Texas at Arlington offers a unique opportunity for quality students to assess and develop their leadership skills. A wide variety of settings are provided to expose students to the styles, techniques, and tools of leadership. It also develops college-educated officers for the active Army and the reserve components (U.S. Army Reserve and Army National Guard). This affords the student the opportunity to pursue either a civilian or a military career after completing college.

COURSES

MILS 0180. LEADERSHIP LAB. 1 Hour.
A practical laboratory of applied leadership and skills. Student-planned, -organized and -conducted training, oriented toward leadership development. Laboratory topics include marksmanship, small unit tactics, multi-tiered programs focused on individual skill levels. Uniform and equipment provided. Concurrent enrollment in appropriate Military Science course (MILS 1141, MILS 1142, MILS 2251, MILS 2252, MILS 3341, MILS 3342, MILS 4341, MILS 4342, MILS 2291 and/or MILS 4391) required. Prerequisite: permission from the Professor of Military Science (PMS). May be repeated for credit.

MILS 1111. MILITARY PHYSICAL CONDITIONING I-A. 1 Hour.
This course is designed for beginners, emphasizing the Army components of physical fitness; cardiorespiratory endurance, muscular strength, muscular endurance, flexibility and body composition. Students are oriented to Army programs, planning, and training methodologies focused around functional fitness. An essential objective for each student is to achieve a minimum score in the Army Fitness test for record.

MILS 1112. MILITARY PHYSICAL CONDITIONING I-B. 1 Hour.
This course serves as a continuation of MILS 1111, emphasizing the Army components of physical fitness: cardiorespiratory endurance, muscular strength, muscular endurance, flexibility and body composition. Students continue to develop their understanding of Army programs, planning, and training methodologies focused around functional fitness to include leading small group practical exercises and developing small group fitness plans. An essential objective for each student is to achieve a minimum score in the Army Fitness test for record. Prerequisite: MILS 1111.

MILS 1141. FOUNDATIONS OF LEADERSHIP. 1 Hour.
Fundamental concepts of leadership in a profession in both classroom and outdoor laboratory environments. The study of time management skills, basic drill and ceremony, physical fitness, repelling, leadership reaction course, first aid, making presentations and marksmanship. Concurrent enrollment in MILS 0180 leadership lab and mandatory participation in independent physical fitness training, plus optional participation in a weekend field training exercise.

MILS 1142. INTRODUCTION TO LEADERSHIP. 1 Hour.
Application of principles of leadership through participation in physically and mentally challenging exercises with upper division ROTC students. Course focuses on communication skills, organizational ethics, and study and time management techniques. Concurrent enrollment in MILS 0180 leadership lab and mandatory participation in individual physical fitness training, plus optional participation in a weekend field training exercise. Prerequisite: MILS 1141.

MILS 2121. MILITARY PHYSICAL CONDITIONING II-A. 1 Hour.
This course implements the Army's holistic and fitness models by improving student's physical and mental well-being by utilizing Army Physical Readiness Training (PRT). Building on concepts of the 100 level class, emphasizing on the Army components of physical fitness; cardiorespiratory endurance, muscular strength, muscular endurance, flexibility and body composition. An essential objective for each student is to achieve a minimum score in the Army fitness test for record. Prerequisite: MILS 1111, MILS 1112.

MILS 2122. MILITARY PHYSICAL CONDITIONING II-B. 1 Hour.
This course implements the Army's holistic and fitness models by improving student's physical and mental well-being by utilizing Army Physical Readiness Training (PRT). Continuation of MILS 2121 with emphasis on leadership of a small group or squad during physical training, supervising each individual's correct performance of stretching and calisthenics, as well as following assigned student's progression and taking responsibility for mentoring subordinates. An essential objective for each student is to achieve a minimum score in the Army fitness test for record. Prerequisite: MILS 1111, MILS 1112, MILS 2121.

MILS 2251. INDIVIDUAL/TEAM DEVELOPMENT. 2 Hours.
Application of ethics-based leadership skills and fundamentals of ROTC's Leadership Development Program. Develop skills in oral presentations, concise writing, event planning, coordination of group efforts, advanced first aid, land navigation, and military tactics. Concurrent enrollment in MILS 0180 leadership lab and mandatory participation in individual physical fitness training, plus optional participation in a weekend field training exercise.

MILS 2252. INDIVIDUAL/TEAM MILITARY TACTICS. 2 Hours.
Introduction to individual and team aspects of military tactics in small unit operations. Includes use of radio communications, making safety assessments, movement techniques, planning for team safety/security, and pre-execution checks. Concurrent enrollment in MILS 0180 leadership lab and mandatory participation in individual physical fitness training, plus optional participation in a weekend field training exercise.

MILS 2343. LEADERSHIP TRAINING CAMP (LTC). 3 Hours.
A rigorous five-week summer camp conducted at an Army post, stresses leadership, initiative and self-discipline. No military obligation incurred. Completion of MILS 2343 qualifies a student for entry into the Advanced Course. Three different cycles offered during the summer, but spaces are limited by the Army. Candidates can apply for a space any time during the school year prior to the summer. Open only to students who have not taken all four of MILS 1141, MILS 1142, MILS 2251, and MILS 2252, and who pass an ROTC physical examination. P/F grade only.

MILS 3131. MILITARY PHYSICAL CONDITIONING III-A. 1 Hour.
This course is designed to improve on existing previous levels of physical fitness and to develop the ability to design/implement physical fitness regiments structured for large groups or company sized elements. Focus is on achieving Army combat fitness standard and maintaining tactical readiness in dynamic environments in preparation for Army field training exercises. An essential objective for each student is to achieve a minimum score in the Army Fitness test for record and meet contracting standards. Prerequisite: MILS 1111, MILS 1112, MILS 2121, MILS 2122.

MILS 3132. MILITARY PHYSICAL CONDITIONING III-B. 1 Hour.
This course is a continuation of MILS 3131 to improve on existing previous levels of physical fitness and to develop the ability to design/implement physical fitness regiments structured for large groups or company sized elements. Focus is on achieving Army combat fitness standard and maintaining tactical readiness in dynamic environments in preparation for Army field training exercises. An essential objective for each student is to achieve a minimum score in the Army Fitness test for record and meet contracting standards. Prerequisite: MILS 1111, MILS 1112, MILS 2121, MILS 2122, MILS 3131.

MILS 3333. SMALL UNIT TACTICS AND LEADERSHIP. 3 Hours.
A study of military tactics and leadership at squad, platoon, and company level in both classroom and outdoor laboratory environments. Includes mission planning; movement and maneuver formations and techniques; offensive operations, defensive operations, patrolling, and convoy movement; indirect fires planning; terrain analysis, route selection, danger areas, and security measures; risk management; and motivating subordinates.

MILS 3341. LEADERSHIP I. 3 Hours.
Development of ability to evaluate situations, plan and organize training, learn military tactics, review case studies in leadership management and develop teaching and briefing skills. Concurrent enrollment in MILS 0180 mandatory. Prerequisite: permission of the Professor of Military Science (PMS).

MILS 3342. LEADERSHIP II. 3 Hours.
Practical application of squad and platoon leadership in tactical situations; operation of small unit communications systems. Development of the leaders' ability to express themselves, analyze military problems, and prepare and deliver logical solutions. Demanding physical fitness training and performance-oriented instruction, in preparation for Summer Field Training. Concurrent enrollment in MILS 0180 mandatory. Prerequisite: permission of the Professor of Military Science (PMS).

MILS 3370. MILITARY HISTORY. 3 Hours.
Surveys and analyzes the American military experience from its colonial origins through the present and from a comparative and multinational perspective. Involves reading and writing about American military history, as well as staging simulations and visiting museums and/or battlefields. Prerequisite: Permission of the Professor of Military Science (PMS).

MILS 3443. LEADER DEVELOPMENT AND ASSESSMENT COURSE. 4 Hours.
A five-week off-campus field training course stressing the practical application of leadership management, with emphasis on tactical and technical military field skills. Open only to students who have successfully completed MILS 3341 and MILS 3342, P/F grade only.

MILS 3495. NURSING ADVANCED SUMMER TRAINING. 4 Hours.
Seven-week off-campus internship at a major U.S. Army hospital for ROTC nursing students. A nursing practicum with the focus on providing the student with hands-on experience which integrates clinical, interpersonal, and leadership knowledge and skills. Practical experience and familiarization with Army nursing in a variety of clinical tasks in the areas of medical-surgical nursing, pediatrics, obstetrics, and, in some cases, intensive care in ICUs. May be used for partial credit for NURS 3647 or NURS 3347 with prior arrangement and approval of the Dean of Nursing.

MILS 4141. MILITARY PHYSICAL CONDITIONING IV-A. 1 Hour.
Putting together all of the personal fitness concepts learned in the previous classes with emphasis on leadership of large groups or a battalion sized organization, including planning and coordination of all physical fitness for the ROTC Battalion and evaluation of the personal fitness training and trainers. Coordination of individual training specific to fitness ends. An essential objective for each student is to achieve a minimum score in the Army Fitness test for record. Prerequisite: MILS 1111, MILS 1112, MILS 2121, MILS 2122, MILS 3131, MILS 3132.

MILS 4142. MILITARY PHYSICAL CONDITIONING IV-B. 1 Hour.
Continuation of 4141 with emphasis on grasping the Army's policy on physical fitness, fitness maintenance, and safety. Students hone their mastery with Army regulations and forms pertaining to physical fitness. Responsible for planning, documentation, testing and briefing of the ROTC Battalion's Physical Fitness Program. An essential objective for each student is to achieve a minimum score in the Army. Prerequisite: MILS 1111, MILS 1112, MILS 2121, MILS 2122, MILS 3131, MILS 3132, MILS 4141 and permission from the Professor of Military Science (PMS).

MILS 4341. ADVANCED LEADERSHIP I. 3 Hours.
Stresses leadership qualities necessary for Command and Staff functions and operations. Plan and conduct meetings, briefings and conferences. Introduction to the Army Logistical System and the Personnel Management System. Preparation of after-action reports. Plan and conduct physical training programs. Concurrent enrollment in MILS 0180 mandatory. Prerequisite: permission of the Professor of Military Science (PMS).

MILS 4342. ADVANCED LEADERSHIP II. 3 Hours.
Provides students with a basic working knowledge of the Military Justice System with emphasis on company-level actions and requirements, including Law of Land Warfare. Examines the ethical standards, professional roles, responsibilities, and uniqueness of the profession of officership. Concurrent enrollment in MILS 0180 mandatory. Prerequisite: permission of the Professor of Military Science (PMS).

MILS 4391. CONFERENCE COURSE. 3 Hours.
Independent study on an individual basis on current topics in military science. Performance will be assessed by oral examination, written test, or research paper as arranged. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: permission of the Professor of Military Science (PMS).

Minor in Military Science

About This Program

The Military Science program at UTA offers a unique opportunity for quality students to assess and develop their leadership skills. A wide variety of settings are provided to expose students to the styles, techniques, and tools of leadership. It also develops college-educated officers for the active Army and the reserve components (U.S. Army Reserve and Army National Guard). This affords the student the opportunity to pursue either a civilian or a military career after completing college.

Competencies

1. Upon completion of the Military Science minor, student cadets will be prepared to become officers and lead soldiers in any of the three components of the United States Army-Reserves, Active Duty, or National Guard.
2. Upon completion of the Military Science minor, student cadets will be proficient in subjects such as self-development, dismounted infantry tactics, leadership techniques, planning concepts, interpersonal skills, and critical thinking.
3. Upon completion of the Military Science minor, student cadets will have learned and developed leadership qualities necessary for Command and Staff functions and operations.
4. Upon completion of the Military Science minor, student cadets will have gained a basic working knowledge of the Military Justice System with emphasis on company-level actions and requirements, including Law of Land Warfare.

Admissions Criteria

To be eligible for the Military Science minor, a student must:

1. Be enrolled in the ROTC program.
2. Receive acceptance of military science as a minor from their major degree department.

Curriculum

MILS 3341	LEADERSHIP I	3
MILS 3342	LEADERSHIP II	3
MILS 4341	ADVANCED LEADERSHIP I Students may substitute MILS 4391 Conference Course for MILS 4341	3
MILS 4342	ADVANCED LEADERSHIP II Students may substitute MILS 4391 Conference Course for MILS 4342	3
MILS 0180	LEADERSHIP LAB (Must be repeated 6 times)	6
Total Hours		18

Students must receive a B or better in all Military Science courses for the courses to count towards their minor.

Program Completion

In addition to the required coursework for the Military Science minor, students must:

1. Successfully complete the Army's Leader Development and Assessment Course offered annually in the Summer.
2. Meet all Army prerequisites to earn a commission as an Army officer upon graduation.

Modern Languages

Department Overview

The Department of Modern Languages (MODL) offers courses in American Sign Language, Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Korean, Russian, and Spanish. Our mission is to transform lives through language and culture by providing high-impact experiences to our students, our community, and our partners.

Learning other languages has always formed a critical part of a well-rounded education. In today's global economy, the ability to communicate in languages other than one's own has become an increasingly valuable asset sought after by employers across the public and private sectors. Our substantive programs prepare students for success in an increasingly interconnected world, in fields such as the language services industry —interpreting, localization, and translation; education; research; writing, publishing, and the media; health, legal, and social services; business; government; international relations; the cultural heritage sector—museums, libraries, and archives.

In addition to the development of proficiency in the four language skills: speaking, listening, reading, and writing, the goal of language study is to develop linguistic and intercultural competence. Another major aim is to gain understanding of the diversity of human culture as represented in several of the world's languages, literatures, and other cultural media.

Ultimately, these aims contribute to the development of well-rounded and well-informed 21st-century global citizens who are not only able to communicate and interact with others locally, nationally, and internationally, but who are also able to reflect on the world and themselves through the lens of other languages and cultures.

An overview of the cultures of the Arabic-speaking world in a global context, examining cultural products such as food, art, music, popular culture, literature, and/or film. Taught in English.

ARAB 2313. INTERMEDIATE ARABIC I. 3 Hours. (TCCN = ARAB 2311)
Continued immersion in the culture and language of Arabic-speaking countries. Application of strategies and technology in mastering listening, speaking, reading, and writing at the intermediate level. Prerequisite: ARAB 1442 with a grade of C or better.

ARAB 2314. INTERMEDIATE ARABIC II. 3 Hours. (TCCN = ARAB 2312)
Continuation of intermediate Arabic. Prerequisite: ARAB 2313 with a grade of C or better.

ARAB 2391. CONFERENCE COURSE. 3 Hours.
Independent study; consultation with instructor on a regular basis. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.

ARAB 3303. ARABIC CONVERSATION & CULTURE. 3 Hours.
Practice in oral expression with an emphasis on developing conversational skills and improving language proficiency in reading and writing. This course looks at the differences between classical and regional colloquialisms as well as elements of Middle Eastern culture. Prerequisite: ARAB 1442 with a grade of C or better.

ARAB 3304. ARABIC CONVERSATION & CULTURE II. 3 Hours.
Students continue to develop conversational skills and cultural knowledge through the use of readings, film, and other media. Extensive conversation practice allows students to develop intermediate high level oral skills in a broad range of communicative and cultural contexts. Students learn to express more abstract ideas through description, comparison, and narration. Prerequisite: ARAB 2314 with a grade of C or better.

ARAB 3305. ARABIC READING AND COMPOSITION. 3 Hours.
The analysis of Arabic texts and composition with emphasis on reading comprehension, grammar, writing skills, and compositional techniques. Readings may include newspaper articles, short stories, and essays on various topics of Arabic culture. Prerequisite: ARAB 2314 with a grade of C or better.

ARAB 3306. ARABIC FOR BUSINESS AND THE PROFESSIONS. 3 Hours.
This course develops language skills relevant to high-demand sectors in business, healthcare, Arabic translation, and media communication. Emphasis is placed on bridging linguistic and cultural gaps to prepare students for effective communication and engagement in various professional contexts requiring Arabic proficiency. Prerequisite: ARAB 2314 with a grade of C or better.

ARAB 3310. ARABIC LOCALIZATION AND TRANSLATION. 3 Hours.
Introduction to cultural and linguistic issues in the translation of Arabic language texts. Students will explore current technologies used in various real-world translation contexts and how to adapt texts, products, and services to the locale for which they are intended. Prerequisite: ARAB 2314 or the equivalent with a grade of B or better. May not be repeated for credit.

ARAB 3311. ARABIC LOCALIZATION AND TRANSLATION II. 3 Hours.
Continued study of cultural and linguistic issues in the translation of Arabic and English language texts. Systematic development of advanced skills in localization and computer-aided translation and in using TMX/TBX (international standards for translation memory and terminology exchange) tools. Translation practice, individually and in translation teams, with increasingly longer and more specialized texts. Prepares localization and translation specialists for real-world careers in the language-services industry. May not be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: ARAB 3310 with a grade of B or better.

ARAB 3312. TOPICS IN ARABIC LITERATURE AND CULTURE. 3 Hours.
Multimedia immersion in the language and culture of Arabic speaking countries through the study of selected literary texts in various genres and literary structures, with an emphasis on developing language skills of reading, writing, and oral communication. May be repeated for credit as topic changes. Prerequisite: ARAB 1442 with a grade of C or better.

ARAB 3345. INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER-ASSISTED TRANSLATION. 3 Hours.
Introduction to computer-assisted translation (CAT), machine translation (MT), translation memory (TM) and terminology management tools in modern translation and localization workflows. Prepares students for real-world careers in the language services industry. Exclusively for students pursuing a minor in Localization and Translation-Arabic. ARAB 3310 is strongly recommended before ARAB 3345.

ARAB 3391. CONFERENCE COURSE. 3 Hours.
Independent study; consultation with instructor on a regular basis. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: Permission of Instructor.

ARAB 3393. ARABIC INTERNSHIP. 3 Hours.
A combination of field-related experience in the business or service sector with an academic component. Coursework may include journal writing, outside readings, reflection papers, and formal presentations. Prerequisite: Permission of Instructor.

ARAB 4393. ARABIC INTERNSHIP. 3 Hours.
This course is a combination of field-related experience in the business or service sector with an academic component. Coursework may include journal writing in Arabic, outside readings, and formal presentations. Prerequisite: Two ARAB 3000 level courses and permission of the instructor.

COURSES

- Candidates must be new students entering in the fall semester, with a minimum of 6 hours of enrollment in both long semesters to retain their fellowships.
- The minimum undergraduate GPA requirement is 3.0, as calculated by the Graduate School, plus as GPA of 3.0 for any graduate credit hours.
- Transcript of a completed bachelor's degree in French or Spanish (or appropriate related field) from an accredited institution.
- Three letters of recommendation.
- A written statement explaining the applicant's reasons for graduate study in French or Spanish.

TEACHING ASSISTANTSHIPS

Teaching assistantships are available for graduate students in the Department of Modern Languages. Graduate students who obtain teaching assistantships are urged to take MODL 5305.

Master of Arts in Modern Languages (French)

About This Program

The Master of Arts in Modern Languages (French) is designed to enhance students' competence in the French language and the literature of the French-speaking world. Specific objectives are to prepare students for a career in teaching or in any area in private or public life in which knowledge of a modern language is essential and to help them develop the techniques of independent research necessary for work beyond the master's level.

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate intercultural knowledge and competence (social responsibility, global competence, critical thinking skills).
2. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate an understanding of course content knowledge (e.g., linguistics, cultures, literatures, and area/international studies) (disciplinary knowledge, global competence, critical thinking skills).
3. Upon graduation, students will be able to design and conduct research projects (research skills, communication skills, critical thinking skills).
4. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate an understanding of second language acquisition and effectively apply current language teaching principles (disciplinary knowledge, career preparedness, communication skills, social responsibility).

Admissions Criteria

Those wishing to major in a modern language or literature must upon admission have a baccalaureate degree with a major in that modern language or have a minimum of 18 advanced hours, or the equivalent in language proficiency and course content.

In compliance with HB 1641, the UT Arlington Department of Modern Languages does not use unwritten criteria, it does not assign a specific weight to any one factor being considered in the admissions or competitive fellowship or scholarship process as the sole criterion for consideration or as the primary criterion to end consideration of an applicant to the MA program. The Department's evaluation of candidates for admission to programs is assessed at three levels: Unconditional, Provisional, and Probationary Admission.

The Department wishes to be as thorough and fair as possible in evaluating applicants for admission. It recognizes that some applicants may appear to be stronger according to some criteria than according to other criteria. When an applicant does not completely meet the minimum expectations for Unconditional Admission, the Department considers the applicant for possible Provisional or Probationary Admission. When the applicant is not granted any of the three levels of admission, the decision may be deferred or the application is denied. We do not wish to exclude a qualified and potentially successful candidate who perhaps has approached but not met all the criteria completely. However, we do not wish to admit candidates who, based on the criteria, are deemed to have a poor chance of successfully completing the graduate program.

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

The criteria for admission below are used, without specific weights, as positive indicators of potential success in the program. All five criteria for unconditional admission must be met in order to receive unconditional admission.

1. A degree in the language to be studied of 18 upper-level hours in the language or equivalent.[1]
2. 3.0 undergraduate GPA (last 60 hours).
3. 3 letters of recommendation (from faculty if possible) sent to the Department of Modern Languages Graduate Advisor.
4. International Students: Submission of English Language Proficiency.[2]
5. A statement of purpose (1-2 pages) in which the applicant effectively explains why they are interested in getting an MA in Modern Languages (French or Spanish and identifies career goals and/or research interests that can be supported by the Department of Modern Languages. The statement must be written in the target language of study.

A student with a bachelor's degree in a field other than French or Spanish may become an unconditionally admitted graduate student after fulfilling the upper-level requirements in the language:

- 18 hours of upper-level Spanish or French, or
- A combination of coursework and testing.

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

An applicant unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline but who otherwise appears to meet admission requirements may be granted provisional admission.

DEFERRED ADMISSION

A deferred decision may be granted when a file is incomplete or when a denied decision is not appropriate.

FELLOWSHIPS

Fellowships, when available, will be awarded on a competitive basis. Nominees for the Graduate School Master's Fellowship in Modern Languages will be selected based on the following criteria:

- Candidates must be new students entering in the fall semester, with a minimum of 6 hours of enrollment in both long semesters to retain their fellowships.
- The minimum undergraduate GPA requirement is 3.0, as calculated by the Graduate School, plus as GPA of 3.0 for any graduate credit hours.
- Transcript of a completed bachelor's degree in French or Spanish (or appropriate related field) from an accredited institution.
- Three letters of recommendation.
- A written statement explaining the applicant's reasons for graduate study in Spanish.

TEACHING ASSISTANTSHIPS

Teaching assistantships are available for graduate students in the Department of Modern Languages. Graduate students who obtain teaching assistantships are urged to take MODL 5305.

[1] A person with a bachelor's degree in a major other than French or Spanish must have the equivalent of 18 hours of upper-level French or Spanish to become a master's student. The equivalency may take one of the following forms: A student may obtain 18 hours at the 3000 and 4000 level, or they may attempt to test out of nine hours of grammar, composition, and conversation. If a student tests out of grammar, composition, and conversation, they must take nine hours of literature and linguistics, to demonstrate ability to do literary and linguistic studies.

[2] International students must pass English Language proficiency levels. UTA accepts TOEFL, IELTS, or Duolingo. If your native language is not English, you must demonstrate a sufficient level of skill with the English language to assure success in graduate studies. You are required to submit official test score reports directly from the testing agency unless you hold a bachelor's or master's degree from an accredited U.S institution. You are required to submit an official test score report sent directly from the testing agency. UTA's ETS institutional code is 6013. Minimum scores: TOEFL paper-based: 550; TOEFL internet-based: 79 (with sectional scores of 22 writing, 21 speaking, 20 reading, and 16 listening); IELTS: 6.5; Duolingo: 100.

Program Completion

In addition to the Graduate School requirements for Master's degree programs, the following exit requirements apply in the Department of Modern Languages:

COMPREHENSIVE EXAMINATION

Students specializing in French are examined on their coursework and the MA reading list. An additional oral defense may be required at the discretion of the student's supervising committee.

PORTFOLIO

Students specializing in Spanish develop a portfolio of original research and other special projects under the supervision of a committee of graduate faculty. At least 30 hours must be in coursework.

Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in French

About This Program

The Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in French is designed to deepen students' knowledge of the French language and the cultures of the French-speaking world, enhancing their careers in teaching or in any area in private or public life in which intercultural competence is essential. For students who have earned an MA degree in a related field from an accredited institution, the certificate allows them to meet minimum SACS accreditation requirements for teaching French at institutions of higher education in the State of Texas.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will demonstrate intercultural knowledge and competence in French and Francophone cultures (social responsibility, global competence, critical thinking skills).
2. Upon completion, students will demonstrate an understanding of course content knowledge as it pertains to French (e.g., linguistics, culture, literature, and area/international studies) (disciplinary knowledge, global competence, critical thinking skills).
3. Upon completion, students will be able to design and conduct research projects and/or effectively apply current French language teaching principles (research skills, communication skills, critical thinking skills).

Admissions Criteria

Students will be accepted into the certificate program only after showing proof of proficiency in French through an already acquired degree in that language or by passing a proficiency exam. Generally, a student with a bachelor's degree in a field other than French may become an unconditionally admitted graduate student after fulfilling the upper-level requirements in the language:

- 18 hours of upper-level French or
- A combination of coursework and testing

Undergraduate Policies

ADMISSION TO A MAJOR IN THE DEPARTMENT OF MODERN LANGUAGES

In addition to satisfying the entrance requirements for the College of Liberal Arts, prospective majors in the Department of Modern Languages must meet the following criteria:

- A 3.0 GPA is required in the 1441-2314 Modern Language sequence, or an equivalent score on the Modern Language testing instrument, or approval of the departmental advisor.
- After admission to the Modern Language major, students must maintain a 2.00 GPA in major classes.

ACCELERATED LANGUAGE PROGRAM

Students with no previous experience or courses in a modern language may choose to begin by enrolling in one of our Accelerated Programs, i.e. completing Levels I and II (8 credit hours) of a language in one semester, or Levels III and IV (6 credit hours) in one semester. These classes may not be offered every semester. Check with the Department of Modern Languages for available courses. Students are cautioned to take these courses prior to their senior year because of the possibility of enrollment limitations.

LANGUAGE ACQUISITION CENTER

The Department of Modern Languages maintains a fully equipped computer lab on the third floor of Trimble Hall, the Language Acquisition Center (LAC). The LAC has an extensive collection of analog and digital media for student use, as well as course-related software and self-study software.

LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY TESTING: PLACEMENT AND CREDIT BY EXAMINATION

PROFICIENCY TESTING OVERVIEW

The Department of Modern Language recommends that students with previous experience in American Sign Language, Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Korean, Russian, or Spanish take a proficiency test prior to enrolling in lower-division language courses. Avant tests are used to test proficiency for placement and credit by examination. There are two test types: Avant PLACE and Avant STAMP. Testing fees apply.

POLICIES AND DEADLINES

The Avant test is used to grant credit by examination up to the Intermediate II level (2314/2315) based on the student's test score. The Avant test is used for second-language learners, as well as native/heritage learners.

Native or heritage speakers of Spanish may not enroll in classes for second-language learners (SPAN 1441, 1442, 2313, 2314). Instead, they take SPAN 2312 Spanish for Native/Heritage Speakers I and SPAN 2315 Spanish for Native/Heritage Speakers II. They can place directly into SPAN 2312 by completing the free#Spanish Heritage Language Program Placement Survey. Credits for SPAN 1441 and SPAN 1442 are granted by enrolling in SPAN 2312 and remaining enrolled past Census Date. Alternatively, native or heritage speakers of Spanish may opt to take a proficiency test to potentially earn credit for SPAN 1441, 1442, 2313, 2314. Testing fees apply.

All students taking the Avant test to fulfill a language requirement must take it before the end of their junior year to allow enough time to take any future courses that may be needed to satisfy a language requirement and/or to have their credits posted in time for graduation application reviews. There are no retakes for the Avant test.

If grades or credits have already been posted to a UTA transcript via transfer, exam credit, or having completed a language course at UTA, taking the Avant test cannot override the existing grades or credits. If a student is enrolled in a language course past the Census Date, they cannot test out of this course via Avant test and must finish the course to receive credit.

For more information, contact the Department of Modern Languages (https://www.uta.edu/academics/schools-colleges/liberal-arts/departments/modern-languages/testing-and-student-resources/testing/).

avant PLACE TEST

Students planning to enroll in the next-level language course in the upcoming semester take the Avant PLACE. The credits received through the Avant PLACE test will only be applied to UTA transcripts if the following conditions are met: 1) the examinee enrolls in the next appropriate language course in the sequence at UTA and remains enrolled in the course past Census Date, and 2) the administration fee is paid before the last semester prior to graduation.

Students admitted to UTA before the upcoming fall/spring semester begins who are planning to take the next-level language course should take the Avant PLACE test at least one week before the first day of classes. Students wishing to enroll in the next-level language course who must take the test past this deadline may still choose to take the Avant PLACE test. However, class placement in this case is not guaranteed.

avant stamp test

Students wishing to test out of language courses and not continue their language studies at UTA must take the Avant STAMP test. In this case, they receive credits only (no letter grades) for the courses they test out of depending on their test score. Students wishing to enroll in the next-level language course in the upcoming semester may also take the Avant STAMP test, but the Avant PLACE test is recommended for this purpose (see above). The credits received through the Avant STAMP test will only be applied to UTA transcripts if the administration fee is paid before the last semester prior to graduation.

Students admitted to UTA before the upcoming fall/spring semester begins, who are planning to take the next-level language course and who choose to take the Avant STAMP test, must take the test at least four weeks before the first day of classes. The American Sign Language STAMP test must be completed at least six weeks before the first day of classes, as it takes longer to process. It is preferred that students wishing to enroll in the next-level language course take the Avant PLACE test instead, as it typically requires less time to be scored. For late registration, students cannot take the Avant STAMP test, but must take the Avant PLACE test.

Other Exams and credentials

The following exams are also accepted by UTA for credit by examination, if they were taken prior to enrolling at UTA: the Advanced Placement Examination (AP) of the College Board, the College-Level Examination Program (CLEP) of the College Board, and the International Baccalaureate (IB) Examination. For more information, contact Testing Services.

A Global Seal of Biliteracy (https://theglobalseal.com/) or Avant STAMP certificate received outside of UTA may be also accepted for credit by examination. For more information, contact the Department of Modern Languages (https://www.uta.edu/academics/schools-colleges/liberal-arts/departments/modern-languages/testing-and-student-resources/testing/). Processing fee applies.

STUDY ABROAD

Students should give serious consideration to the unique learning experience of studying abroad. Students wishing to study for a summer, a semester, or a year may obtain UT Arlington credit, continue with their financial aid, and receive scholarship aid to attend any UT Arlington-approved program for Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Korean, Russian, or Spanish.

Summer Study: The department offers several opportunities for gaining credit while studying abroad. Regular programs are offered which provide opportunities for summer study in various countries, including China, France, Germany, Mexico, Russia, Spain, and Taiwan. All arrangements must be made through the department.

COMPETENCE IN COMPUTER USE

Students majoring in French, Spanish for Global Competence, Spanish Translation and Interpreting, or Critical Languages and International Studies may demonstrate competency in computer use by:

- passing CSE 1301 (or equivalent); or
- passing any 1441, 1442, 2313 or 2314 CHIN, FREN, GERM, KORE, RUSS or SPAN course(s) in residence at UT Arlington; or
- passing the University computer competency examination; or
- passing any other course approved by the Undergraduate Assembly for this purpose.

COMPETENCE IN ORAL PRESENTATIONS

Students majoring in French, Spanish for Global Competence, Spanish Translation and Interpreting, or Critical Languages and International Studies may demonstrate competence in oral presentations by passing one of the following (or any other course approved by the Undergraduate Assembly for this purpose):

ARAB 3303	ARABIC CONVERSATION & CULTURE
CHIN 3303	CHINESE CONVERSATION
FREN 3300	FRENCH PRONUNCIATION
FREN 3303	FRENCH CONVERSATION
GERM 3313	TOPICS IN GERMAN CULTURE & CONVERSATION
KORE 3303	KOREAN CONVERSATION AND CULTURE I
RUSS 3333	CONVERSATION AND TOPICS IN RUSSIAN CULTURE
SPAN 3303	ADVANCED SPANISH CONVERSATION
SPAN 3312	LATIN AMERICAN CULTURE AND CIVILIZATION
COMS 1301	FUNDAMENTALS OF PUBLIC SPEAKING
COMS 1302	VOICE AND DICTION
COMS 2305	BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION

CRITICAL CULTURES SUMMER INSTITUTE

The Critical Cultures Summer Institute (CCSI) highlights a different, less commonly taught cultural area of the globe each summer, providing up to 9 credits of upper-division coursework, along with GLOBAL 2301, the anchor course of UTA's Critical Languages and International Studies (CLIS) major.

GLOBAL 2301 will provide an introduction to global studies and couple with GLOBAL 3301 and GLOBAL 3302 in such areas as language and civilization, film, media, or other subjects of global study. An introductory class in Localization and Translation will also be offered under the aegis of the Summer Institute as GLOBAL 3310. GLOBAL 3301, 3302, and 3310 will fulfill three of the four international studies courses required for the BA in Critical Languages and International Studies. GLOBAL 2301 is also a requirement for the degree. GLOBAL 2301 and GLOBAL 3301 will be offered during Summer Session I, and GLOBAL 3302 and 3310 will be offered during Summer Session II. Students at any level of language study may take these courses.

Bachelor of Arts in Critical Languages & International Studies

About This Program

The Bachelor of Arts in Critical Languages and International Studies provides foundational academic and professional preparation for students to develop linguistic and intercultural competence through the study of critical languages and their respective cultures. The curriculum is designed to maximize the success of both language learners and native/heritage speakers. Through experiential learning in language classes, as well as in more advanced courses in literature, culture, linguistics, business, and localization and translation, students are trained to be multilingual and intercultural. In addition to linguistic and cultural competence, students gain valuable skills in critical thinking, communication, and problem-solving. Our substantive program prepares students for success in an increasingly interconnected world, in fields such as the language services industry —interpreting, localization, and translation; education; research; writing, publishing, and the media; health, legal, and social services; business; government; international relations; the cultural heritage sector—museums, libraries, and archives.

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate proficiency in listening, reading, speaking, and writing the language studied (communication skills, critical thinking skills).
2. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate intercultural knowledge and competence (social responsibility, global competence, critical thinking skills).
3. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate an understanding of course content knowledge (e.g., language, cultures, literatures, linguistics, and area/international studies) (disciplinary knowledge, critical thinking skills).
4. Upon graduation, students will be able to apply academic content and learned skills to real-world experiences by having participated in experiential learning opportunities (social responsibility, career preparedness, critical thinking skills).

Admissions Criteria

In addition to satisfying the entrance requirements for the College of Liberal Arts, prospective majors in the Department of Modern Languages must meet the following criteria:

- A 3.0 GPA is required in the 1441-2314 Modern Language sequence, or an equivalent score on the Modern Language testing instrument, or approval of the departmental advisor.
- After admission to the Modern Language major, students must maintain a 2.00 GPA in major classes.

Bachelor of Arts in Modern Languages (Arabic)

About This Program

The Bachelor of Arts degree in Modern Languages (Arabic) with a concentration in Localization and Translation combines language, culture, and technology to prepare students for work in the language services industry. Localization translates and adapts language, texts, products, software, and websites to a target culture. Students work with an international software partner to build machine translation (MT) engines and test their engines against international translation products. Students learn in a collaborative work environment with hands-on training in computer-assisted translation, focusing on concepts of "big language data" collection and processing, as well as MT engine tuning across multiple languages and domains. Students also build AI models using these same language data for natural language understanding. The substantive program provides training in key skills for future employment tasks, for ultimate career preparedness.

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate integrative thinking about translation theory and practice as applied to the localization field.
2. Upon graduation, students will successfully conduct cultural analyses of localized products and services.
3. Upon graduation, students will gain skills with tools commonly used in the language services industry, with a focus on emerging AI/ML approaches and large language models.
4. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate preparation for careers in the localization industry.

Admissions Criteria

In addition to satisfying the entrance requirements for the College of Liberal Arts, prospective majors in the Department of Modern Languages must meet the following criteria:

Bachelor of Arts in Modern Languages (Korean)

About This Program

The Bachelor of Arts degree in Modern Languages (Korean) with a concentration in Localization and Translation combines language, culture, and technology to prepare students for work in the language services industry. Localization translates and adapts language, texts, products, software, and websites to a target culture. Students work with an international software partner to build machine translation (MT) engines and test their engines against international translation products. Students learn in a collaborative work environment with hands-on training in computer-assisted translation, focusing on concepts of "big language data" collection and processing, as well as MT engine tuning across multiple languages and domains. Students also build AI models using these same language data for natural language understanding. The substantive program provides training in key skills for future employment tasks, for ultimate career preparedness.

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate integrative thinking about translation theory and practice as applied to the localization field.
2. Upon graduation, students will successfully conduct cultural analyses of localized products and services.
3. Upon graduation, students will gain skills with tools commonly used in the language services industry, with a focus on emerging AI/ML approaches and large language models.
4. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate preparation for careers in the localization industry.

Admissions Criteria

In addition to satisfying the entrance requirements for the College of Liberal Arts, prospective majors in the Department of Modern Languages must meet the following criteria:

- A 3.0 GPA is required in the 1441-2314 Modern Language sequence, or an equivalent score on the Modern Language testing instrument, or approval of the departmental advisor.
- After admission to the Modern Language major, students must maintain a 2.00 GPA in major classes.

Bachelor of Arts in Spanish for Global Competence

About This Program

The Bachelor of Arts in Spanish for Global Competence provides foundational academic and professional preparation for students to develop linguistic and intercultural competence through the study of the Spanish language and the cultures of the Spanish-speaking world. The curriculum is designed to maximize the success of both language learners and native/heritage speakers of Spanish. Through experiential learning in language classes, as well as in more advanced courses in literature, culture, linguistics, and Spanish for the professions, students are trained to be multilingual and intercultural. In addition to linguistic and cultural competence, students gain valuable skills in critical thinking, communication, and problem-solving. Our substantive program prepares students for success in an increasingly interconnected world, in fields such as the language services industry —interpreting, localization, and translation; education; research; writing, publishing, and the media; health, legal, and social services; business; government; international relations; the cultural heritage sector—museums, libraries, and archives.

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate proficiency in listening, reading, speaking, and writing Spanish (communication skills, critical thinking skills).
2. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate intercultural knowledge and competence in Hispanic cultures (social responsibility, global competence, critical thinking skills).
3. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate an understanding of course content knowledge as it pertains to Spanish (e.g., language, culture, literature, linguistics, and area/international studies) (disciplinary knowledge, critical thinking skills).
4. Upon graduation, students will be able to apply academic content and learned skills to real-world experiences by having participated in experiential learning opportunities (social responsibility, career preparedness, critical thinking skills).

Admissions Criteria

In addition to satisfying the entrance requirements for the College of Liberal Arts, prospective majors in the Department of Modern Languages must meet the following criteria:

- A 3.0 GPA is required in the 1441-2314 Modern Language sequence, or an equivalent score on the Modern Language testing instrument, or approval of the departmental advisor.

Bachelor of Arts in Spanish Translation and Interpreting

About This Program

The Bachelor of Arts in Spanish Translation and Interpreting provides foundational academic and professional preparation in Spanish-English and English-Spanish translation and interpreting. Through experiential learning in language classes, as well as in more advanced courses in medical, business, technical, scientific, legal, and community translation and interpreting, students are trained to be multilingual and intercultural. In addition to linguistic and cultural competence, students gain valuable skills in critical thinking, communication, and problem-solving. During enrollment in the program, students have the opportunity to gain professional experience at non-profit organizations through service learning. The substantive program provides students multiple career prospects in the language-services industry or in other professional areas requiring advanced use and translation and interpreting of Spanish such as health, business, education, advertising, criminal justice, media communication, and social services.

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate proficiency in listening, reading, speaking, and writing Spanish and English (communication skills, critical thinking skills).
2. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate intercultural knowledge and competence in cultural, social, and ethical issues related to translation and interpreting (social responsibility, global competence, critical thinking skills).
3. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate an understanding of course content knowledge as it pertains to Spanish translation and interpreting (e.g., textual analysis, communicative genres and conventions, translation theory, translation/interpreting history) (disciplinary knowledge, critical thinking skills).
4. Upon graduation, students will demonstrate knowledge of and competence in specialized translation and interpreting skills (e.g., texts, tools, language strategies; specialized terminology; parallel texts, documentation resources, reference works; consecutive, bilateral, simultaneous, and sight translation modes) (communication skills, disciplinary knowledge, critical thinking skills).
5. Upon graduation, students will be able to apply academic content and learned skills to real-world experiences by having participated in experiential learning opportunities (social responsibility, career preparedness, critical thinking skills).

About This Program

The Bachelor of Arts in Spanish for Global Competence to Master of Arts in Modern Languages Fast Track allows outstanding undergraduate students in French at UT Arlington to take up to three graduate seminars in Spanish that will earn credit toward both the bachelor's degree and the master's degree. It is designed to encourage high standards of performance, to facilitate the transition from undergraduate to graduate study, and to reduce time needed to complete the MA.

ASSOCIATED PROGRAMS

For detailed information about the programs associated with this Fast Track, refer to their individual degree pages.

Spanish for Global Competence BA

Modern Languages (Spanish) MA

Admissions Criteria

Interested undergraduate students should apply for the fast track program when they are within 30 hours of completing the bachelor's degree. To qualify, students must have completed at least 30 hours at UTA with a GPA of 3.0 in all courses and 3.25 in the last 30 hours. Before entering the Fast Track, students must also have completed the four required core courses in the major with a GPA of at least 3.50. Additionally, they must have already completed at least two additional 3000-4000 level courses in Spanish, excluding International Business and/or translation courses, with a GPA of 3.5 or higher.

Students who successfully complete the fast track program will be admitted automatically to the Graduate School to continue their graduate work in the Modern Languages MA once the bachelor's degree is awarded. They will not be required to complete an additional application for admission to the Graduate School, supply letters of recommendation, or pay an application fee. An undergraduate student completing the maximum of nine graduate hours would be admitted to the Modern Languages MA with only five additional courses and a thesis remaining to complete the requirements for the thesis option.

For an application form or to obtain more details about this program, contact the Modern Languages Graduate Advisor.

FELLOWSHIPS

Fellowships, when available, will be awarded on a competitive basis. The Graduate Advisor should be notified of your interest in these fellowships at the time of your application. Nominees for the Graduate School Master's Fellowship in Music will be selected based on the following criteria:

- Candidates must be new students entering in the fall semester, with a minimum of 9 hours of enrollment in both long semesters to retain their fellowships.
- The minimum undergraduate GPA requirement is 3.00, as calculated by the Graduate School, plus a GPA of 3.0 for any graduate credit hours.
- Transcript of a completed bachelor's degree in music from an accredited institution (or its demonstrated equivalent).
- Three letters of recommendation

FINAL MASTER'S EXAMINATION

A final program examination is required of all Master of Music degree candidates. A final Master's examination may result in:

1. An unconditional pass with a recommendation to the Graduate Dean that the candidate be certified to receive the degree.
2. A conditional pass with the requirement that additional conditions be met, which may include further work on the thesis or thesis substitute, additional coursework with a minimum specified grade point average or both (in all cases the final master's examination must be repeated within a specified period).
3. Failure, with permission to be re-examined within a specified period; or
4. Failure, with recommendation to the Dean of Graduate Studies that the candidate be dismissed from the program. The Music Department limits to 2 the number of times the examination can be taken.

Master of Music (Conducting)

About This Program

The objective of the Master of Music (Music Performance Track – [Conducting]) is to impart the knowledge needed to facilitate successful performing careers and encourage personal development. Through further education, degree students will become more capable and confident musicians, able to pursue further graduate work or enter the field as conductors. Specifically, the aims of the degree are to: (a) improve performance skills through applied study and ensemble participation; (b) offer graduate courses to improve general musicianship, including studies in music literature, music theory, and music history; (c) prepare students to enter graduate programs leading to the doctoral degree; and (d) offer highly specialized courses for students interested in researching historical or artistic areas.

This program is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM).

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, students will be able to perform and/or teach at the community college level or above in their primary field of specialty.
2. Upon completion, students will be prepared for further academic study in their primary field at the doctoral level
3. Students will be prepared to conduct ensembles and/or choral groups at the community college level or above.

Admissions Criteria

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

1. Bachelor's degree in music or its demonstrated equivalent (such as a music conservatory degree).
2. Three letters of recommendation are required, speaking to the student's potential for success from references familiar with the student's academic background.
3. A minimum 3.0 GPA in the last 60 hours of undergraduate work as calculated by the Graduate Admissions.
4. Submitted application to the Department of Music (see the departmental website for more information).
5. A portfolio of works, to include at least two (2) but not more than four (4) scores and recordings representing the applicant's best work. At least two of these should be in the jazz genre. Live recordings are preferred; MIDI recordings are discouraged but will be accepted as a last resort. At least one of the works should be scored for a large jazz ensemble (ten or more performers). Links to both scores and audio files housed online for the included pieces (via SoundCloud, DropBox, etc.) should be sent in an email to the graduate advisor. Please do not attach the files in the email.
6. Applicants must audition (in person or by submitting a tape or video link). For further information, contact the Graduate Advisor.

All admission criteria will be considered equally. Students meeting all the criteria, plus any track-specific requirements, will be granted unconditional admission.

PROBATIONARY STATUS

A student showing a deficiency in any of the above criteria and showing promise for successful graduate study may still be admitted on a probationary basis upon the recommendation of the Graduate Studies Committee. The conditions of the probation will be outlined in the letter of admission. (The Music Department does not have the authority to lower University TOEFL score requirements for any student.)

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

An applicant unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline but who otherwise appears to meet admission requirements may be granted provisional admission.

DENIED ADMISSION

An applicant can be denied admission based on the recommendation of the Graduate Studies Committee. Applicants may reapply for admission if the deficiencies in credentials that led to denial are remedied.

DEFERRED ADMISSION

A deferred decision may be granted when a file is incomplete or when a denied decision is not appropriate.

Tracks are offered in Music Performance, Jazz Studies, Jazz Composition, Music Theory, and Conducting. The program is designed for the student who has a Bachelor's degree in music.

TOEFL REQUIREMENT

Applicants whose native language is not English must demonstrate proficiency in English by earning a total score of at least 79 on the Test of English as a Foreign Language internet-based examination (TOEFL iBT).

Those who do not meet the English proficiency requirement must satisfactorily complete courses in the ESOL area, as approved by the program and Graduate Admissions.

Advisory examinations in music history and written theory may be administered to all students prior to enrollment or during their first semester as a degree-seeking student.

Program Completion

FINAL MASTER'S EXAMINATION

All students completing the Master of Music (Music Performance Track – [Instrumental, Vocal and Conducting]) take a written examination measuring selected content from the following three courses:

- MUSI 5301 Form and Style Analysis
- MUSI 5308 Selected Topics in Music History
- MUSI 53XX Applied Lessons

After successfully completing the written exam, students proceed to an oral examination, providing them with an opportunity to expand upon or rectify their responses from the written assessment.

A final program examination is required of all Master of Music degree candidates. A final Master's examination may result in:

1. An unconditional pass with a recommendation to the Graduate Dean that the candidate be certified to receive the degree.
2. A conditional pass with the requirement that additional conditions be met, which may include further work on the thesis or thesis substitute, additional coursework with a minimum specified grade point average or both (in all cases the final master's examination must be repeated within a specified period).
3. Failure, with permission to be re-examined within a specified period; or
4. Failure, with recommendation to the Dean of Graduate Studies that the candidate be dismissed from the program. The Music Department limits to 2 the number of times the examination can be taken.

RECITAL

Instrumental, vocal and jazz students present a full-length a recital of 50-60 minutes as part of their fourth semester of study. Conductors may fulfill this requirement as an accumulation of multiple concert conducting opportunities. Evaluation of this recital will be conducted by a recital hearing committee which consists of the primary applied professor and at least one additional faculty member.

Advising Resources

All UTA Music Degrees require an audition for Music Department acceptance. First time in college students may contact the Music Department advisor for general degree information and will be advised in the department starting their second semester. Transfer students should contact the Music Department Advisor prior to acceptance for general degree information and again following a successful audition for acceptance into the UTA Music Department for academic advising and clearance to enroll. Students interested in the Music Minor should contact the Music Department advisor for the Minor course sheet, and Minor approval form, and may do so at any time in the semester.

Master of Music (Jazz Composition)

About This Program

In the Masters in Music Jazz Composition program, students develop mastery in writing for various ensembles, both large and small. Flexibility within the degree allows students to focus on traditional big band, small group writing, studio orchestra, or more modern genre-blending compositional techniques.

UTA's jazz and classical ensembles provide opportunities for students to hear their work. As with the MM in Jazz Performance, students earning the MM in Jazz Composition are credentialed to teach at community colleges and some universities.

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, students will be able to perform and/or teach at the community college level or above in their primary field of specialty.
2. Upon completion, students will be prepared for further academic study in their primary field at the doctoral level
3. Upon graduation, students will have advanced skills in jazz composition and comprehensive knowledge of various styles and improvisation

Admissions Criteria

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

1. Bachelor's degree in music or its demonstrated equivalent (such as a music conservatory degree).
2. Three letters of recommendation are required, speaking to the student's potential for success from references familiar with the student's academic background.
3. A minimum 3.0 GPA in the last 60 hours of undergraduate work as calculated by the Graduate Admissions.

Links to both scores and audio files housed online for the included pieces (via SoundCloud, DropBox, etc.) should be sent in an email to the graduate advisor. Please do not attach the files in the email.
6. A performance audition is also required on your primary jazz instrument. Applicants should prepare two jazz pieces in contrasting styles and tempos, with at least one jazz standard included. A pianist will be available to accompany you, or you may arrange for your own accompaniment (such as a play-along recording). Stereo equipment may be provided but only upon advance notice by the applicant.

All admission criteria will be considered equally. Students meeting all the criteria, plus any track-specific requirements, will be granted unconditional admission.

PROBATIONARY STATUS

A student showing a deficiency in any of the above criteria and showing promise for successful graduate study may still be admitted on a probationary basis upon the recommendation of the Graduate Studies Committee. Conductors may fulfill this requirement as an accumulation of multiple concert conducting opportunities. Evaluation of this recital will be conducted by a recital hearing committee which consists of the primary applied professor and at least one additional faculty member.

Advising Resources

All UTA Music Degrees require an audition for Music Department acceptance. First time in college students may contact the Music Department advisor for general degree information and will be advised in the department starting their second semester. Transfer students should contact the Music Department Advisor prior to acceptance for general degree information and again following a successful audition for acceptance into the UTA Music Department for academic advising and clearance to enroll. Students interested in the Music Minor should contact the Music Department advisor for the Minor course sheet, and Minor approval form, and may do so at any time in the semester.

Master of Music in Music Education (Non-thesis)

About This Program

The objective of the Master of Music in Music Education is to impart the knowledge needed to facilitate successful teaching careers and encourage personal development. Through further education, current music teachers will become more articulate, reflective practitioners so they can select, adapt, adjust, and assess teaching and learning expectations.

The Master of Music in Music Education is a fully online degree. Courses are delivered through the learning management system, Canvas, and are both synchronous and asynchronous.

This program is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM).

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will have improved their music teaching skills through advanced coursework and research.
2. Upon completion, students will be prepared for further academic study in their primary field at the doctoral level.
3. Upon graduation, students will be more articulate, reflective practitioners so they can select, adapt, adjust, and assess teaching and learning expectations.

Admissions Criteria

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

Requirements for unconditional admission into the program are:

1. Three letters of recommendation speaking to the student's potential for success from references familiar with the student's academic background.
2. Philosophy of Music Education (no more than 2 pages-typed).
3. A minimum 3.0 GPA in the last 60 hours of undergraduate work as calculated by Graduate Admissions.
4. Bachelor's degree in music or its demonstrated equivalent.
5. Submitted application to the Department of Music (see the departmental website (https://www.uta.edu/music/) for more information).

PROBATIONARY STATUS

A student showing a deficiency in any of the above criteria and showing promise for successful graduate study may still be admitted on a probationary basis upon the recommendation of the Graduate Studies Committee. The conditions of the probation will be outlined in the letter of admission. (The Music Department does not have the authority to lower University TOEFL score requirements for any student.)

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

An applicant unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline but who other wise appears to meet admission requirements may be granted provisional admission.

DENIED ADMISSION

An applicant can be denied admission based on the recommendation of the Graduate Studies Committee. Applicants may reapply for admission if the deficiencies in credentials that led to denial are remedied.

DEFERRED ADMISSION

A deferred decision may be granted when a file is incomplete or when a denied decision is not appropriate.

TOEFL REQUIREMENT

Applicants whose native language is not English must demonstrate proficiency in English by earning a total score of at least 79 on the internet-based Test of English as a Foreign Language examination (TOEFL iBT).

Those who do not meet the English proficiency requirement must satisfactorily complete courses in the ESOL area, as approved by the program and the Graduate Admissions.

[1] Students who write a thesis will work closely with one or more members of the graduate faculty from the Department of Music on a research project in a specialized area of interest within the music education field. The student must register for MUSI 5398 when in consultation over the thesis with the advisor or supervisory committee. Students will receive a grade of R (Research in Progress), F (Fail), or W (Withdrawn). These hours do not count towards the degree hours.

Program Completion

The final project requirements for the thesis option include the successful completion and defense of the thesis. The thesis serves as a means of evaluating the ability of the student to undertake and report scholarly research. For those students anticipating doctoral studies, it prepares them for future research activities.

All students completing the MM in Music Education degree take an online written examination measuring selected content from the following four courses:

- MUSI 5301 Form and Style Analysis
- MUSI 5308 Selected Topics in Music History
- MUSI 5351 Philosophical Foundations of Music Education
- MUSI 5352 Psychological Foundations of Music Education

After successful completion of the written examination, all students participate in an online oral examination. During this event, the students are asked questions regarding their written exam responses. They may be asked to elaborate on a written answer or correct an error on the written exam.

A final master's examination may result in:

1. An unconditional pass with a recommendation to the Graduate Dean that the candidate be certified to receive the degree.
2. A conditional pass with the requirement that additional conditions be met, which may include further work on the thesis or thesis substitute, additional coursework with a minimum specified grade point average or both (in all cases the final master's examination must be repeated within a specified period).
3. Failure, with permission to be re-examined within a specified period.
4. Failure, with recommendation to the Dean of Graduate Studies that the candidate be dismissed from the program. The Music Department limits to 2 the number of times the examination can be taken.

Master of Music (Music Theory)

About This Program

The objective of the Master of Music in Music Theory is to foster the analytical and research skills necessary for students to move on to further studies in Music Theory and/or careers as teachers of Music Theory at the collegiate level. Through further education, degree students will become more capable and confident music theorists, able to pursue further graduate work or enter the field as pedagogues.

This program is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM).

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to perform and/or teach at the community college level or above in their primary field of specialty.
2. Upon completion, students will be prepared for further academic study in their primary field at the doctoral level.
3. Upon completion, students will be prepared for advanced research and academic writing in the field of music theory.

Admissions Criteria

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

1. Bachelor's degree in music or its demonstrated equivalent (such as a music conservatory degree).
2. Three letters of recommendation are required, speaking to the student's potential for success from references familiar with the student's academic background.
3. A minimum 3.0 GPA in the last 60 hours of undergraduate work as calculated by the Graduate Admissions.
4. Submitted application to the Department of Music (see the departmental website for more information).
5. A portfolio of works, to include at least two (2) but not more than four (4) scores and recordings representing the applicant's best work. At least two of these should be in the jazz genre. Live recordings are preferred; MIDI recordings are discouraged but will be accepted as a last resort. At least one of the works should be scored for a large jazz ensemble (ten or more performers). Links to both scores and audio files housed online for the included pieces (via SoundCloud, DropBox, etc.) should be sent in an email to the graduate advisor. Please do not attach the files in the email.
6. Samples of writing (minimum 2; at least 1 should have substantial analytical content).
7. Statement of purpose (max. 250 words).
8. Applicants will undergo a transcript review upon admission. Students needing remedial work will be required to enroll in MUSI 5301 FORM AND STYLE ANALYSIS and/or MUSI 5354 SELECTED TOPICS IN MUSIC LITERATURE, as appropriate.*

* Piano Proficiency exam will be administered before, and as a condition of, graduation from the Masters program. Students are encouraged to enroll in Keyboard lessons as appropriate to prepare for these.

All admission criteria will be considered equally. Students meeting all the criteria, plus any track-specific requirements, will be granted unconditional admission.

PROBATIONARY STATUS

A student showing a deficiency in any of the above criteria and showing promise for successful graduate study may still be admitted on a probationary basis upon the recommendation of the Graduate Studies Committee. The conditions of the probation will be outlined in the letter of admission. (The Music Department does not have the authority to lower University TOEFL score requirements for any student.)

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

An applicant unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline but who otherwise appears to meet admission requirements may be granted provisional admission.

DENIED ADMISSION

An applicant can be denied admission based on the recommendation of the Graduate Studies Committee. Applicants may reapply for admission if the deficiencies in credentials that led to denial are remedied.

DEFERRED ADMISSION

A deferred decision may be granted when a file is incomplete or when a denied decision is not appropriate.

Tracks are offered in Music Performance, Jazz Studies, Jazz Composition, Music Theory, and Conducting. The program is designed for the student who has a Bachelor's degree in music.

TOEFL REQUIREMENT

Applicants whose native language is not English must demonstrate proficiency in English by earning a total score of at least 79 on the Test of English as a Foreign Language internet-based examination (TOEFL iBT).

Those who do not meet the English proficiency requirement must satisfactorily complete courses in the ESOL area, as approved by the program and Graduate Admissions.

Advisory examinations in music history and written theory may be administered to all students prior to enrollment or during their first semester as a degree-seeking student.

Program Completion

Final Master's Examination

All students completing the Master of Music (Music Performance Track – [Instrumental, Vocal and Conducting]) take a written examination measuring selected content from the following three courses:

- MUSI 5301 Form and Style Analysis
- MUSI 5308 Selected Topics in Music History
- MUSI 53XX Applied Lessons

After successfully completing the written exam, students proceed to an oral examination, providing them with an opportunity to expand upon or rectify their responses from the written assessment.

The final Master's examination may result in:

1. An unconditional pass with a recommendation to the Graduate Dean that the candidate be certified to receive the degree.
2. A conditional pass with the requirement that additional conditions be met, which may include further work on the thesis or thesis substitute, additional coursework with a minimum specified grade point average or both (in all cases the final master's examination must be repeated within a specified period).
3. Failure, with permission to be re-examined within a specified period; or
4. Failure, with recommendation to the Dean of Graduate Studies that the candidate be dismissed from the program. The Music Department limits to 2 the number of times the examination can be taken.

Recital

Instrumental, vocal and jazz students present a full-length a recital of 50-60 minutes as part of their fourth semester of study. Conductors may fulfill this requirement as an accumulation of multiple concert conducting opportunities. Evaluation of this recital will be conducted by a recital hearing committee which consists of the primary applied professor and at least one additional faculty member.

Advising Resources

All UTA Music Degrees require an audition for Music Department acceptance. First time in college students may contact the Music Department advisor for general degree information and will be advised in the department starting their second semester. Transfer students should contact the Music Department Advisor prior to acceptance for general degree information and again following a successful audition for acceptance into the UTA Music Department for academic advising and clearance to enroll. Students interested in the Music Minor should contact the Music Department advisor for the Minor course sheet, and Minor approval form, and may do so at any time in the semester.

Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Music Performance

About This Program

The Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Music Performance provides graduate-level instruction to performers pursuing professional development in all instrumental and vocal disciplines.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, the student's technical abilities will have improved.
2. Upon completion, the student's artistic performance level will have improved.
3. Upon completion, the student will experience an enhanced level of comfort in solo and collaborative performance and have expanded their repertoire.

Admissions Criteria

Students wishing to enroll only in the certificate program but not a graduate degree program may apply for admission to UT Arlington as a special student (non-degree seeking). Admission requires an undergraduate degree in music or its demonstrated equivalent and would be contingent upon an audition for a minimum of two faculty members. Students in this certificate program who later seek graduate degrees at UT Arlington may apply 12 hours of certificate coursework within six years of completion and award of the certificate, if they meet the admission requirements for the graduate degree and receive approval from the appropriate Graduate Studies Committee and the Dean of Graduate Studies. Admission as a special student in no way guarantees subsequent unconditional admission into a graduate program or into the Graduate School.

TOEFL REQUIREMENT

Applicants whose native language is not English must demonstrate proficiency in English by earning a total score of at least 79 on the Test of English as a Foreign Language internet-based test (TOEFL iBT).

Curriculum

4 semesters of Applied Study (MUSI 53XX) with the last semester including a full length recital	12
3 semesters of a Major Ensemble (MUSI 51XX) (For Keyboard Players only-3 semesters of either a Major Ensemble 51XX OR Keyboard Accompaniment MUSI 5190)	3
Total Hours	15

Program Completion

To fulfill the requirements of the Certificate in Performance, students are expected to deliver a one-hour public recital as their final project. They must demonstrate proficiency in the chosen repertoire and present them in a polished and professional manner. The repertoire selection should encompass contrasting periods and styles of music, meeting advanced-level criteria as assessed by individual studio teachers.

Advising Resources

All UTA Music Degrees require an audition for Music Department acceptance. First time in college students may contact the Music Department advisor for general degree information and will be advised in the department starting their second semester. All prospective music majors must audition for proper placement in their respective performance areas and take a music theory placement test. Information concerning auditions and placement tests is available in the Music Office. Students returning after two long semesters away from University must re-audition and be re-admitted to the department. Exceptions are if student has previously completed all required private lessons and recitals.

All Bachelor of Music majors are required to pass the sophomore proficiency exam on their major instrument. For transfer students who transfer in at least four semesters of lessons and meet the proficiency requirements, the audition may serve as the proficiency exam. For transfer students who do not meet the necessary proficiency requirements, they will be enrolled in MUSI 2223 for applied lessons. Transfer students may take MUSI 2223 for as many semesters as they have transfer credits from another institution.

For example, if a student transfers in four semesters of lessons, they may take MUSI 2223 up to four times, but they may attempt the proficiency exam at the end of any semester if they are ready. If a transfer student transfers in three semesters of lessons, they may be placed in the fourth semester of the lesson sequence or in MUSI 2223. The lesson sequence is defined as the required list of applied lessons required under an individual student's degree plan. That student could take MUSI 2223 a total of three times or, with instructor approval, could move to the fourth semester of lessons after one or two semester(s) of MUSI 2223. Once a transfer student enters the lesson sequence, they are no longer eligible for placement in MUSI 2223.

Students can only attempt the proficiency exam two times. If they fail the sophomore proficiency exam the first time (either in MUSI 2223 or MUSI 22XX), they will receive a grade of Incomplete (I) for the semester, and they will be required to enroll in MUSI 2222 the following semester. At the end of MUSI 2222, students will be required to attempt the proficiency exam for a last time. If students do not successfully pass the proficiency exam, they will not be allowed to remain a Bachelor of Music major. If they pass the second attempt at the sophomore proficiency, their grade for fourth-semester lessons (MUSI 22XX) or preparatory lessons (MUSI 2223) will be changed to the grade earned in their first attempt at 22XX/2223. If the student fails their second attempt at the sophomore proficiency, their grade for fourth-semester lessons (MUSI 22XX) or preparatory lessons (MUSI 2223) will automatically be changed to "F."

All students wishing to pursue the Bachelor of Music Degree with the Jazz Studies Option must pass the jazz performance proficiency exam upon completion of MUSI 3226. Students can attempt the proficiency exam two times. Students failing to pass the jazz proficiency exam on the second attempt will not be permitted to continue in the Jazz Studies Option. Successful completion of the jazz proficiency exam is a prerequisite for enrollment in:

MUSI 3395	JAZZ COMPOSITION	3
MUSI 4300	JAZZ PERSPECTIVES	3
MUSI 4302	JAZZ ARRANGING	3
MUSI 4225	JAZZ IMPROVISATION III - ADVANCED	2

All students wishing to pursue the Bachelor of Music Degree in Preparation for Teacher Certification must pass the music education proficiency exam before enrolling in:

MUSI 3211	EARLY CHILDHOOD MUSIC	2
MUSI 3213	INSTRUMENTAL MATERIALS AND TECHNIQUES I	2
MUSI 3214	CHORAL MATERIALS AND TECHNIQUES I	2

LARGE ENSEMBLES

An audition or permission of the instructor is required for all large ensembles. All University students, regardless of major, are permitted to audition for and participate in all music department ensembles: concert bands, marching band, jazz ensembles, choirs, and orchestra.

All Bachelor of Music students are required to enroll in a large ensemble each semester in residence. Any student not enrolled in a large ensemble by the end of Late Registration will be given a warning and advised to do so, and students that are still not registered in a large ensemble after Census date may be removed from the music program and required to re-audition in a subsequent semester in order to be re-admitted. Ensembles that meet this requirement, as well as any minimum requirements for number(s) of semester in specific ensembles, are determined by each degree plan. Residence is defined as any semester that a student is enrolled in any private lesson section or enrolled in 6 or more semester hours at the university, except during student teaching or music industry studies internship.

MAJOR REQUIREMENTS

All students are strongly urged to refer to the sections on Academic Regulations and Degree Programs in the current UT Arlington Undergraduate Catalog. Students seeking teacher certification should read the College of Education section of this catalog concerning admission to teacher education programs and state requirements for certification. In addition to fulfilling University and the College of Liberal Arts requirements for admission to a degree program, students planning to be music majors must also fulfill the listed Music Department requirements:

- All Bachelor of Music students are required to pass the Theory Proficiency exam.
- Students must receive a C or better in all music courses in order to graduate. If a student does not earn a C or better, it may not count as a prerequisite for any other course.
- If a student fails the same music degree-required course three times (making a D or F), the student must receive a C or better in their fourth attempt of the class or be dismissed from the Music program. They will not be permitted to take the course for credit at UT Arlington in subsequent semesters.
- Students should expect, in addition to attending weekly private lessons, a minimum preparation (individual practice) of five hours per week in courses granting two hours credit, 10 hours per week in courses granting three hours credit, and 12 hours per week in courses granting four hours creditt.
- Bachelor of Music Students must complete their lesson sequence before they can take elective lessons (MUSI 0171 or MUSI 0271) on their primary instrument.
- All private instruction, except MUSI 0171 or MUSI 0271, requires a jury.
- Music majors must complete a minimum of 36 hours at the 3000/4000 level, at least 24 of which must be in music.

COURSES FOR NON-MAJORS

Those music courses available to non-music majors are indicated in the course description. Individual instruction courses are open in limited numbers to all University students.

Bachelor of Art in Music Industry Studies

About This Program

The Bachelor of Arts in Music (Music Industry Studies) degree is a liberal arts degree for musicians seeking a broad education in music, music production, and the music business. Bachelor of Music (Audio Production)

About This Program

The Bachelor of Music in Audio Production is designed for musicians wanting to pursue a career in audio production. Students take classes in Digital Music Technology, three semesters of Recording Techniques, Business of Music, and Introduction to Musical Acoustics. Students can also take Sound and Post-Production, Theater Sound Design, and Music in Film, among others. Critical listening, audio recording techniques, combining MIDI and audio, editing, and multitracking are just a few of the skills students learn at UTA. In our recording studio, Studio 301, and Irons Recital Hall, students learn how to record diverse genres of music, including classical music, jazz, and pop/rock. This degree's curriculum design supports our philosophy that the best audio engineers combine the ears of a musician with the technical capabilities of an engineer.

This program is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM).

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will achieve comprehensive capabilities in the audio medium (recorded and live) including knowledge of digital audio workstations (DAWs), audio consoles, outboard processing units, microphone characteristics, acoustics, and signal processing.
2. Upon completion, students will achieve competency in recording techniques, musical acoustics, post-production, sound design, film music, critical listening, audio recording techniques, combining MIDI and audio, editing, and multitracking.
3. Upon completion, students will achieve competencies in music business, record label management, and internship.

Admissions Criteria

All prospective music majors must audition for proper placement in their respective performance areas and take a music theory placement test. Bachelor of Music (Composition)

About This Program

The objective of Bachelor of Music in Composition is to prepare the Composition major for graduate school or freelance composing.

An audition or permission of the instructor is required for all large ensembles. All University students, regardless of major, are permitted to audition for and participate in all music department ensembles: concert bands, marching band, jazz ensembles, choirs, and orchestra.

This program is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM).

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will develop competency in the use of basic concepts, tools, techniques, and procedures to develop a composition from concept to finished product. including the ability to work with a variety of media, styles, and forms; to use and develop notations; and to apply principles of scoring appropriate to specific compositions.
2. Upon completion, students will achieve mastery in the ability to compose in different styles and forms, as well as scoring for voices and instruments.
3. Upon completion, students will develop competency in keyboard skills, spoken and written language, conducting and rehearsal skills, analytical techniques, and applicable technologies.

Admissions Criteria

All prospective music majors must audition for proper placement in their respective performance areas and take a music theory placement test. Information concerning auditions and placement tests is available in the Music Office. Students returning after two long semesters away from University must re-audition and be re-admitted to the department. Exceptions are if student has previously completed all required private lessons and recitals.

All Bachelor of Music majors are required to pass the sophomore proficiency exam on their major instrument. For transfer students who transfer in at least four semesters of lessons and meet the proficiency requirements, the audition may serve as the proficiency exam. For transfer students who do not meet the necessary proficiency requirements, they will be enrolled in MUSI 2223 for applied lessons. Transfer students may take MUSI 2223 for as many semesters as they have transfer credits from another institution.

For example, if a student transfers in four semesters of lessons, they may take MUSI 2223 up to four times, but they may attempt the proficiency exam at the end of any semester if they are ready. If a transfer student transfers in three semesters of lessons, they may be placed in the fourth semester of the lesson sequence or in MUSI 2223. The lesson sequence is defined as the required list of applied lessons required under an individual student's degree plan. That student could take MUSI 2223 a total of three times or, with instructor approval, could move to the fourth semester of lessons after one or two semester(s) of MUSI 2223. Once a transfer student enters the lesson sequence, they are no longer eligible for placement in MUSI 2223.

Students can only attempt the proficiency exam two times. If they fail the sophomore proficiency exam the first time (either in MUSI 2223 or MUSI 22XX), they will receive a grade of Incomplete (I) for the semester, and they will be required to enroll in MUSI 2222 the following semester. At the end of MUSI 2222, students will be required to attempt the proficiency exam for a last time. If students do not successfully pass the proficiency exam, they will not be allowed to remain a Bachelor of Music major. If they pass the second attempt at the sophomore proficiency, their grade for fourth-semester lessons (MUSI 22XX) or preparatory lessons (MUSI 2223) will be changed to the grade earned in their first attempt at 22XX/2223. If the student fails their second attempt at the sophomore proficiency, their grade for fourth-semester lessons (MUSI 22XX) or preparatory lessons (MUSI 2223) will automatically be changed to "F."

All Bachelor of Music students are required to enroll in a large ensemble each semester in residence. Any student not enrolled in a large ensemble by the end of Late Registration will be given a warning and advised to do so, and students that are still not registered in a large ensemble after Census date may be removed from the music program and required to re-audition in a subsequent semester in order to be re-admitted. Ensembles that meet this requirement, as well as any minimum requirements for number(s) of semester in specific ensembles, are determined by each degree plan. Residence is defined as any semester that a student is enrolled in any private lesson section or enrolled in 6 or more semester hours at the university, except during student teaching or music industry studies internship.

All students are strongly urged to refer to the sections on Academic Regulations and Degree Programs in the current UT Arlington Undergraduate Catalog. Students seeking teacher certification should read the College of Education section of this catalog concerning admission to teacher education programs and state requirements for certification.

In addition to fulfilling University and the College of Liberal Arts requirements for admission to a degree program, students planning to be music majors must also fulfill the listed Music Department requirements.

Students should expect, in addition to attending weekly private lessons, a minimum preparation (individual practice) of five hours per week in courses granting two hours credit, 10 hours per week in courses granting three hours credit, and 12 hours per week in courses granting four hours credit.

Bachelor of Music Students must complete their lesson sequence before they can take elective lessons (MUSI 0171 or MUSI 0271) on their primary instrument.

All private instruction, except MUSI 0171 or MUSI 0271, requires a jury.

ORAL COMMUNICATION AND COMPUTER USE COMPETENCE REQUIREMENTS

Students majoring in music are required to demonstrate computer use and oral communication competencies.

Computer use proficiency can be demonstrated by:

- successful completion of MUSI 3394; or
- successful completion of CSE 1301 or INSY 2303 INTRODUCTION TO M.I.S. AND DATA PROCESSING; or
- passing the University computer use competency exam.

Oral communication proficiency can be demonstrated by:

- successful completion of MUSI 3308 or MUSI 3309; or
- successful completion of one of the following:
- COMS 1301 FUNDAMENTALS OF PUBLIC SPEAKING
- COMS 2305 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION
- COMS 3315 COMMUNICATION FOR EDUCATORS

Students should discuss these options with their undergraduate advisor who may also provide a list of other courses approved by the University of meet these requirements.

Program Completion

Composition majors are required to prepare and present a public recital of original compositions. Students are responsible for recruiting performers to play their works, planning and organizing rehearsals, and ensuring all performers have clean printed copies of their music. Each piece is auditioned and critiqued by the instructor prior to the recital. Approval to present the recital is granted only after this process. Further assessment is given by the instructor after the recital has been presented. A good-quality recording is furnished to the student, and students are encouraged to engage in critical self-assessment.

All Bachelor of Music students are required to pass the Theory Proficiency exam.

Students must receive a C or better in all music courses in order to graduate. If a student does not earn a C or better, it may not count as a prerequisite for any other course.

If a student fails the same music degree-required course three times (making a D or F), the student must receive a C or better in their fourth attempt of the class or be dismissed from the Music program. They will not be permitted to take the course for credit at UT Arlington in subsequent semesters.

Advising Resources

All UTA Music Degrees require an audition for Music Department acceptance. First time in college students may contact the Music Department advisor for general degree information and will be advised in the department starting their second semester. Transfer students should contact the Music Department Advisor prior to acceptance for general degree information and again following a successful audition for acceptance into the UTA Music Department for academic advising and clearance to enroll. Students interested in the Music Minor should contact the Music Department advisor for the Minor course sheet, and Minor approval form, and may do so at any time in the semester.

Bachelor of Music Performance (Jazz Studies)

About This Program

The Bachelor of Music Performance Jazz Studies option is offered to students interested in pursuing careers involving contemporary music. Students pursuing this degree may desire to teach, perform, or compose either independently or at the collegiate level; others may enter the music industry in areas that rely more directly on the creative or performance aspects of this idiom.

The curriculum was designed to prepare the student with a variety of performance, instructional and creative music courses in jazz, as well as a core of traditional music courses. Jazz related courses prepare the student for careers in such areas as composition/arranging, music preparation, concert promotion, record production, as a concert or recording performer, and publishing.

An audition or permission of the instructor is required for all large ensembles. All University students, regardless of major, are permitted to audition for and participate in all music department ensembles: concert bands, marching band, jazz ensembles, choirs, and orchestra.

This program is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM).

Competencies

1. Graduates will achieve competency in various jazz idioms, including the ability to perform, improvise, compose, arrange, and score; and knowledge of jazz history and literature, including the cultural sources and influences of jazz.
2. Graduates will have the ability to work as a performer and composer/arranger with a variety of jazz and studio music idioms in various settings and with various sizes and types of ensembles, including the ability to produce the appropriate expressive style of the music being created or presented.
3. Graduates will be prepared to perform/compose and produce the appropriate expressive styles of music through exposure to a wide range of experiences.

Admissions Criteria

All prospective music majors must audition for proper placement in their respective performance areas and take a music theory placement test. Bachelor of Music (Keyboard Pedagogy)

About This Program

The objective of the Bachelor of Music Performance in Keyboard Pedagogy is to prepare the piano performance student for a career with an emphasis on teaching and/or a graduate degree in piano pedagogy. This degree option is designed to prepare the student for a teaching career with some performance aspects including solo performance, chamber musician, accompanist, among others.

An audition or permission of the instructor is required for all large ensembles. All University students, regardless of major, are permitted to audition for and participate in all music department ensembles: concert bands, marching band, jazz ensembles, choirs, and orchestra.

This program is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM).

Competencies

1. Graduates will achieve competency in organizing and conducting instruction in the major performing medium, including performance at the highest possible level and understanding of the interrelationships between performance and teaching; knowledge of applicable solo, ensemble, and pedagogical literature; the ability to apply the complete set of musicianship skills to the teaching process; and knowledge of applicable technologies, particularly with respect to group keyboard instruction.
2. Graduates will have competency in knowledge of pedagogical methods and materials related to individual and group keyboard instruction in a variety of teaching situations, including an understanding of human growth and development of understanding of the principles of learning as they relate to music teaching and performance.
3. Graduates will achieve competency in assessing aptitudes, backgrounds, interests, and achievements of individuals and groups of students, and creating and evaluating specific programs of study based on these assessments.

Admissions Criteria

Bachelor of Music Performance (Keyboard Performance)

About This Program

The Bachelor of Music Performance in Keyboard Performance is designed to prepare the piano student for a performing career and/or a graduate degree in performance. The degree program is designed to prepare the student for a professional career as a soloist, competitor, chamber musician, symphony musician, accompanist, collaborator, studio/commercial musician, coach, or teacher.

An audition or permission of the instructor is required for all large ensembles. All University students, regardless of major, are permitted to audition for and participate in all music department ensembles: concert bands, marching band, jazz ensembles, choirs, and orchestra.

This program is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM).

Competencies

1. Graduates achieve competency in the keyboard performing medium including the ability to work independently to learn, memorize, and prepare performances at the highest possible level; knowledge of applicable solo and ensemble literature; and orientation to and experience with the fundamentals of pedagogy.
2. Upon graduation, students achieve a high level of musical and technical proficiency in keyboard performance.
3. Graduates achieve competency in performance and pedagogical development in keyboard music.

Admissions Criteria

All prospective music majors must audition for proper placement in their respective performance areas and take a music theory placement test. Information concerning auditions and placement tests is available in the Music Office. Students returning after two long semesters away from University must re-audition and be re-admitted to the department. Exceptions are if student has previously completed all required private lessons and recitals.

All Bachelor of Music majors are required to pass the sophomore proficiency exam on their major instrument. For transfer students who transfer in at least four semesters of lessons and meet the proficiency requirements, the audition may serve as the proficiency exam. For transfer students who do not meet the necessary proficiency requirements, they will be enrolled in MUSI 2223 for applied lessons. Transfer students may take MUSI 2223 for as many semesters as they have transfer credits from another institution.

For example, if a student transfers in four semesters of lessons, they may take MUSI 2223 up to four times, but they may attempt the proficiency exam at the end of any semester if they are ready. If a transfer student transfers in three semesters of lessons, they may be placed in the fourth semester of the lesson sequence or in MUSI 2223. The lesson sequence is defined as the required list of applied lessons required under an individual student's degree plan. That student could take MUSI 2223 a total of three times or, with instructor approval, could move to the fourth semester of lessons after one or two semester(s) of MUSI 2223. Once a transfer student enters the lesson sequence, they are no longer eligible for placement in MUSI 2223.

Students can only attempt the proficiency exam two times. If they fail the sophomore proficiency exam the first time (either in MUSI 2223 or MUSI 22XX), they will receive a grade of Incomplete (I) for the semester, and they will be required to enroll in MUSI 2222 the following semester. At the end of MUSI 2222, students will be required to attempt the proficiency exam for a last time. If students do not successfully pass the proficiency exam, they will not be allowed to remain a Bachelor of Music major. If they pass the second attempt at the sophomore proficiency, their grade for fourth-semester lessons (MUSI 22XX) or preparatory lessons (MUSI 2223) will be changed to the grade earned in their first attempt at 22XX/2223. If the student fails their second attempt at the sophomore proficiency, their grade for fourth-semester lessons (MUSI 22XX) or preparatory lessons (MUSI 2223) will automatically be changed to "F."

All Bachelor of Music students are required to enroll in a large ensemble each semester in residence. Any student not enrolled in a large ensemble by the end of Late Registration will be given a warning and advised to do so, and students that are still not registered in a large ensemble after Census date may be removed from the music program and required to re-audition in a subsequent semester in order to be re-admitted. Ensembles that meet this requirement, as well as any minimum requirements for number(s) of semester in specific ensembles, are determined by each degree plan. Residence is defined as any semester that a student is enrolled in any private lesson section or enrolled in 6 or more semester hours at the university, except during student teaching or music industry studies internship.

All students are strongly urged to refer to the sections on Academic Regulations and Degree Programs in the current UT Arlington Undergraduate Catalog. Students seeking teacher certification should read the College of Education section of this catalog concerning admission to teacher education programs and state requirements for certification.

In addition to fulfilling University and the College of Liberal Arts requirements for admission to a degree program, students planning to be music majors must also fulfill the listed Music Department requirements.

Students should expect, in addition to attending weekly private lessons, a minimum preparation (individual practice) of five hours per week in courses granting two hours credit, 10 hours per week in courses granting three hours credit, and 12 hours per week in courses granting four hours credit.

Bachelor of Music Students must complete their lesson sequence before they can take elective lessons (MUSI 0171 or MUSI 0271) on their primary instrument.

All private instruction, except MUSI 0171 or MUSI 0271, requires a jury.

Program Completion

All Bachelor of Music majors are required to pass the sophomore proficiency exam on their major instrument. For transfer students who transfer in at least four semesters of lessons and meet the proficiency requirements, the audition may serve as the proficiency exam. For transfer students who do not meet the necessary proficiency requirements, they will be enrolled in MUSI 2223 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%202223) for applied lessons. Transfer students may take MUSI 2223 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%202223) for as many semesters as they have transfer credits from another institution.

For example, if a student transfers in four semesters of lessons, they may take MUSI 2223 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%202223) up to four times, but they may attempt the proficiency exam at the end of any semester if they are ready. If a transfer student transfers in three semesters of lessons, they may be placed in the fourth semester of the lesson sequence or in MUSI 2223 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%202223). The lesson sequence is defined as the required list of applied lessons required under an individual student's degree plan. That student could take MUSI 2223 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%202223) a total of three times or, with instructor approval, could move to the fourth semester of lessons after one or two semester(s) of MUSI 2223 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%202223). Once a transfer student enters the lesson sequence, they are no longer eligible for placement in MUSI 2223 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%202223).

Students can only attempt the proficiency exam two times. If they fail the sophomore proficiency exam the first time (either in MUSI 2223 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%202223) or MUSI 22XX), they will receive a grade of Incomplete (I) for the semester, and they will be required to enroll in MUSI 2222 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%202222) the following semester. At the end of MUSI 2222 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%202222), students will be required to attempt the proficiency exam for a last time. If students do not successfully pass the proficiency exam, they will not be allowed to remain a Bachelor of Music major. If they pass the second attempt at the sophomore proficiency, their grade for fourth-semester lessons (MUSI 22XX) or preparatory lessons (MUSI 2223 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%202223)) will be changed to the grade earned in their first attempt at 22XX/2223. If the student fails their second attempt at the sophomore proficiency, their grade for fourth-semester lessons (MUSI 22XX) or preparatory lessons (MUSI 2223 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%202223)) will automatically be changed to "F."

An audition or permission of the instructor is required for all large ensembles. All University students, regardless of major, are permitted to audition for and participate in all music department ensembles: concert bands, marching band, jazz ensembles, choirs, and orchestra.

All Bachelor of Music students are required to pass the Theory Proficiency exam.

All Bachelor of Music students are required to enroll in a large ensemble each semester in residence. Any student not enrolled in a large ensemble by the end of Late Registration will be given a warning and advised to do so, and students that are still not registered in a large ensemble after Census date may be removed from the music program and required to re-audition in a subsequent semester in order to be re-admitted. Ensembles that meet this requirement, as well as any minimum requirements for number(s) of semester in specific ensembles, are determined by each degree plan. Residence is defined as any semester that a student is enrolled in any private lesson section or enrolled in 6 or more semester hours at the university, except during student teaching or music industry studies internship.

All students are strongly urged to refer to the sections on Academic Regulations and Degree Programs in the current UT Arlington Catalog. Students seeking teacher certification should read the College of Education section of this catalog concerning admission to teacher education programs and state requirements for certification.

In addition to fulfilling University and the College of Liberal Arts requirements for admission to a degree program, students planning to be music majors must also fulfill the listed Music Department requirements.

Students must receive a C or better in all music courses in order to graduate. If a student does not earn a C or better, it may not count as a prerequisite for any other course.

If a student fails the same music degree-required course three times (making a D or F), the student must receive a C or better in their fourth attempt of the class or be dismissed from the Music program. They will not be permitted to take the course for credit at UT Arlington in subsequent semesters.

Students should expect, in addition to attending weekly private lessons, a minimum preparation (individual practice) of five hours per week in courses granting two hours credit, 10 hours per week in courses granting three hours credit, and 12 hours per week in courses granting four hours credit.

Bachelor of Music Students must complete their lesson sequence before they can take elective lessons (MUSI 0171 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%200171) or MUSI 0271 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%200271)) on their primary instrument.

All private instruction, except MUSI 0171 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%200171) or MUSI 0271 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=MUSI%200271), requires a jury.

Music majors must complete a minimum of 36 hours at the 3000/4000 level, at least 24 of which must be in music.

Advising Resources

All UTA Music Degrees require an audition for Music Department acceptance. First time in college students may contact the Music Department advisor for general degree information and will be advised in the department starting their second semester. Transfer students should contact the Music Department Advisor prior to acceptance for general degree information and again following a successful audition for acceptance into the UTA Music Department for academic advising and clearance to enroll. Students interested in the Music Minor should contact the Music Department advisor for the Minor course sheet, and Minor approval form, and may do so at any time in the semester.

Bachelor of Music (EC-12 Teaching Certification Orchestra Emphasis)

About This Program

The Bachelor of Music with EC-12 Teaching Certification Orchestra Emphasis is intended for students planning to teach music in school-based settings. Students at the University of Texas at Arlington who seek teacher certification can pursue one of three tracks: All-Level Choral, All-Level Instrumental (Orchestra), or All-Level Instrumental (Band). Students who opt for certification take courses that prepare them to teach early childhood, elementary, junior high, and high school levels.

Students interested in Texas Teacher Certification should consult the College of Education section of this catalog for the most recent changes in requirements regarding admission to Teacher Education, completion of University programs in preparation for certificate, and eligibility for certification after graduation.

This program is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM).

Competencies

1. Students will achieve competency in rehearsal techniques, arranging and adapting music from a variety of sources to meet the needs and ability levels of individuals, school performing groups, and in classroom situations.
2. Students will achieve competency in applying analytical and historical knowledge to curriculum development, lesson planning, and daily classroom and performance activities, and relating their understanding of music with respect to styles, literature, multiple cultural sources, and historical development, both in general and as related to their area(s) of specialization.
3. Students will be prepared to teach early childhood, elementary, junior high, and high school levels.
4. Students will achieve competency in teaching beginning students on a variety of instruments within the techniques or survey classes (Woodwind I, Woodwind II, Low Brass, High Brass, Percussion and Strings).

Admissions Criteria

All prospective music majors must audition for proper placement in their respective performance areas and take a music theory placement test. Information concerning auditions and placement tests is available in the Music Office. Students returning after two long semesters away from University must re-audition and be re-admitted to the department. Exceptions are if student has previously completed all required private lessons and recitals.

Bachelor of Music Performance (Voice Performance)

About This Program

The objective of the Bachelor of Music Performance in Voice Performance is to give the student the basic knowledge and skills needed to pursue a career as a professional singer in opera, oratorio and on the concert stage. Since the career path for most classical vocalists includes multiple music degrees, the objective also includes preparing the student for admission into graduate study.

An audition or permission of the instructor is required for all large ensembles. All University students, regardless of major, are permitted to audition for and participate in all music department ensembles: concert bands, marching band, jazz ensembles, choirs, and orchestra.

This program is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM).

Competencies

1. Graduates will achieve competency in the ability to work independently to prepare performances at the highest possible level, knowledge of applicable solo and ensemble literature, and experience with the fundamentals of pedagogy.
2. Graduates will achieve the skills and knowledge to teach voice effectively, covering topics such as vocal anatomy, teaching methods, and repertoire selection.
3. Graduates will achieve mastery in the study and use of foreign languages and diction, musical expression reflecting depth of understanding of text and translation, stage deportment including facial expression and characterization appropriate to the text/role, and trajectory of vocal improvement that could lead to employment as a classical soloist or acceptance into a graduate program

Admissions Criteria

All prospective music majors must audition for proper placement in their respective performance areas and take a music theory placement test. Information concerning auditions and placement tests is available in the Music Office. Students returning after two long semesters away from University must re-audition and be re-admitted to the department. Exceptions are if student has previously completed all required private lessons and recitals.

All Bachelor of Music majors are required to pass the sophomore proficiency exam on their major instrument. For transfer students who transfer in at least four semesters of lessons and meet the proficiency requirements, the audition may serve as the proficiency exam. For transfer students who do not meet the necessary proficiency requirements, they will be enrolled in MUSI 2223 for applied lessons. Transfer students may take MUSI 2223 for as many semesters as they have transfer credits from another institution.

For example, if a student transfers in four semesters of lessons, they may take MUSI 2223 up to four times, but they may attempt the proficiency exam at the end of any semester if they are ready. If a transfer student transfers in three semesters of lessons, they may be placed in the fourth semester of the lesson sequence or in MUSI 2223. The lesson sequence is defined as the required list of applied lessons required under an individual student's degree plan. That student could take MUSI 2223 a total of three times or, with instructor approval, could move to the fourth semester of lessons after one or two semester(s) of MUSI 2223. Once a transfer student enters the lesson sequence, they are no longer eligible for placement in MUSI 2223.

Students can only attempt the proficiency exam two times. If they fail the sophomore proficiency exam the first time (either in MUSI 2223 or MUSI 22XX), they will receive a grade of Incomplete (I) for the semester, and they will be required to enroll in MUSI 2222 the following semester. At the end of MUSI 2222, students will be required to attempt the proficiency exam for a last time. If students do not successfully pass the proficiency exam, they will not be allowed to remain a Bachelor of Music major. If they pass the second attempt at the sophomore proficiency, their grade for fourth-semester lessons (MUSI 22XX) or preparatory lessons (MUSI 2223) will be changed to the grade earned in their first attempt at 22XX/2223. If the student fails their second attempt at the sophomore proficiency, their grade for fourth-semester lessons (MUSI 22XX) or preparatory lessons (MUSI 2223) will automatically be changed to "F."

All Bachelor of Music students are required to enroll in a large ensemble each semester in residence. Any student not enrolled in a large ensemble by the end of Late Registration will be given a warning and advised to do so, and students that are still not registered in a large ensemble after Census date may be removed from the music program and required to re-audition in a subsequent semester in order to be re-admitted. Ensembles that meet this requirement, as well as any minimum requirements for number(s) of semester in specific ensembles, are determined by each degree plan. Residence is defined as any semester that a student is enrolled in any private lesson section or enrolled in 6 or more semester hours at the university, except during student teaching or music industry studies internship.

All students are strongly urged to refer to the sections on Academic Regulations and Degree Programs in the current UT Arlington Undergraduate Catalog. Students seeking teacher certification should read the College of Education section of this catalog concerning admission to teacher education programs and state requirements for certification.

In addition to fulfilling University and the College of Liberal Arts requirements for admission to a degree program, students planning to be music majors must also fulfill the listed Music Department requirements.

Students should expect, in addition to attending weekly private lessons, a minimum preparation (individual practice) of five hours per week in courses granting two hours credit, 10 hours per week in courses granting three hours credit, and 12 hours per week in courses granting four hours credit.

Bachelor of Music Students must complete their lesson sequence before they can take elective lessons (MUSI 0171 or MUSI 0271) on their primary instrument.

All private instruction, except MUSI 0171 or MUSI 0271, requires a jury.

ORAL COMMUNICATION AND COMPUTER USE COMPETENCE REQUIREMENTS

Students majoring in music are required to demonstrate computer use and oral communication competencies.

Computer use proficiency can be demonstrated by:

- successful completion of MUSI 3394; or
- successful completion of CSE 1301 or INSY 2303 INTRODUCTION TO M.I.S. AND DATA PROCESSING; or
- passing the University computer use competency exam.

Oral communication proficiency can be demonstrated by:

- successful completion of MUSI 3308 or MUSI 3309; or
- successful completion of one of the following:
  - COMS 1301 FUNDAMENTALS OF PUBLIC SPEAKING
  - COMS 2305 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION
  - COMS 3315 COMMUNICATION FOR EDUCATORS

Students should discuss these options with their undergraduate advisor who may also provide a list of other courses approved by the University of meet these requirements.

Program Completion

All Bachelor of Music students are required to pass the Theory Proficiency exam.

Students must receive a C or better in all music courses in order to graduate. If a student does not earn a C or better, it may not count as a prerequisite for any other course.

If a student fails the same music degree-required course three times (making a D or F), the student must receive a C or better in their fourth attempt of the class or be dismissed from the Music program. They will not be permitted to take the course for credit at UT Arlington in subsequent semesters.

Junior and Senior recitals are required of all performance majors. In addition, students perform solos in weekly studio classes, on monthly voice division recitals, midterm and final juries, and optionally on departmental or community concerts and at National Association of Teachers of Singing (NATS) competitions. Performance majors also acquire valuable skills in choral ensemble each semester, including improved intonation, critical listening, and expressivity in a collaborative setting.

Advising Resources

All UTA Music Degrees require an audition for Music Department acceptance. First time in college students may contact the Music Department advisor for general degree information and will be advised in the department starting their second semester. Transfer students should contact the Music Department Advisor prior to acceptance for general degree information and again following a successful audition for acceptance into the UTA Music Department for academic advising and clearance to enroll. Students interested in the Music Minor should contact the Music Department advisor for the Minor course sheet, and Minor approval form, and may do so at any time in the semester.

Philosophy and Humanities

Department Overview

Philosophy focuses on the perennial problems raised by the encounter of human beings with the world and with their history and culture, especially problems concerning the nature of reality, the nature of knowledge, and the nature of value. The practice of philosophy requires the cultivation of analytical reasoning abilities, clarity of written and spoken argumentation, as well as the development of synthetic and higher-order critical thinking capacities. While concentrating on some of the most profound and fundamental problems of thought, philosophy students learn the history of the discipline and hone these broadly transferable and practically applicable skills.

Students who complete a major in philosophy are prepared to enter either graduate programs or the professional world. In addition to providing vocational skills and a solid foundation for graduate work in the discipline, a major in philosophy constitutes a strong preparation for graduate work in other academic disciplines and a variety of professional programs. The Department of Philosophy and Humanities is prepared to work with students who are interested in postgraduate professional education to assure that their preparation meets disciplinary or professional expectations in areas including law, business administration, medicine, and theology.

It is the mission of the Department of Philosophy and Humanities to provide our students with an excellent disciplinary training, to further research in philosophy and adjacent disciplines, and to render appropriate service to the university, the community, and the profession.

COURSES

PHIL 1301. FUNDAMENTALS OF REASONING. 3 Hours.
This course is an introduction to critical thinking, which is a process of identifying, analyzing, evaluating, and constructing reasoning as found in texts, media, politics, and everyday personal interactions. Students will be introduced to what constitutes good reasoning through a range of topics including: formal logic; fallacious reasoning; cognitive biases; reasoning with probability, statistics, and numbers; and guarding against disinformation.

PHIL 1304. CONTEMPORARY MORAL PROBLEMS. 3 Hours. (TCCN = PHIL 2306)
Examination of ethical problems and theories which have a bearing on contemporary life. Texts may include both classical and contemporary ethical writings and deal with problems such as the conditions under which life may be taken (abortion, capital punishment, medical ethics), business ethics, social justice, and individual rights.

PHIL 2300. INTRODUCTION TO PHILOSOPHY. 3 Hours. (TCCN = PHIL 1301)
An examination of one or more basic problems of lasting interest to philosophers. Typical problems may include human nature and limits of knowledge. Formerly listed as PHIL 1300. Credit cannot be received for both PHIL 1300 and PHIL 2300.

PHIL 2311. LOGIC. 3 Hours. (TCCN = PHIL 2303)
The development of formal and symbolic systems (categorical, propositional, and predicate) for the analysis of arguments.

PHIL 2313. PHILOSOPHY OF THE ARTS. 3 Hours.
Problems in the philosophy of art and art criticism; the history of aesthetic theory.

PHIL 2314. PERSPECTIVES ON SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS. 3 Hours.
Topics and episodes in the history of science and mathematics from a philosophical point of view. Students are brought to understand that science has a fascinating history, is underpinned by deep philosophical presuppositions, and depends upon special social and cultural factors for its continued growth and revision.

PHIL 2315. TOPICS IN PHILOSOPHY. 3 Hours.
In-depth treatment of philosophical topics or movements, such as Existentialism, Philosophy of Science Fiction, Brain and Mind, Asian Philosophy. May be repeated for credit as content changes.

PHIL 2316. COMPUTATION, MIND, AND PARADOX. 3 Hours.
A philosophical and historical introduction to the foundations of logic and mathematics, the psychology of reasoning, and the computational theory of mind. Topics may include: logic, set theory, axiom systems; number and infinity; fallacies of deductive and probabilistic reasoning; Bayesian epistemology; algorithms; artificial intelligence, computational theories of mind and brain.

PHIL 3301. HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY: ANCIENT PHILOSOPHY. 3 Hours.
The beginning and the early developments of the western philosophic tradition. Ancient Greek philosophy, basically the Pre-Socratics, Socrates, Plato and Aristotle.

PHIL 3302. HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY: ROMAN AND MEDIEVAL PHILOSOPHY. 3 Hours.
Post-Aristotelians (e.g., the later Stoics, the Epicureans, Neo-Platonists); philosophy of the early Church Fathers through Aquinas and later Scholastics.

PHIL 3303. HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY: RENAISSANCE AND EARLY MODERN EUROPEAN PHILOSOPHY. 3 Hours.
The philosophical views of Galileo, Newton, Bacon, and Hobbes, the Continental Rationalists and British Empiricists, and a brief introduction to the philosophy of Immanuel Kant.

PHIL 3304. HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY: NINETEENTH AND EARLY TWENTIETH CENTURY PHILOSOPHY. 3 Hours.
Major philosophers from Kant to the early 20th century.

PHIL 3305. HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY: CLASSICAL INDIAN & BUDDHIST PHILOSOPHY. 3 Hours.
Introduces the Classical Indian philosophical tradition and the Buddhist philosophical tradition as they developed inside and outside of India. Covers the origins and history of the six "orthodox" schools of Classical Indian philosophy and the three "heterodox" schools-Buddhism, Jainism, and Carvaka materialism-and their contributions to epistemology, metaphysics, ethics, philosophy of mind, philosophy of language, and philosophy of religion. There are no prerequisites but at least one prior course in Philosophy or Religious Studies is recommended.

PHIL 3307. SEMINAR IN RESEARCH METHODS AND PHILOSOPHICAL WRITING. 3 Hours.
Examination of philosophical methodology; philosophical analysis, philosophical writing, discipline-specific bibliographic tools, etc. Students write a series of short papers on topics of interest. Prerequisite: PHIL 2311 and one other PHIL course.

PHIL 3312. ETHICS. 3 Hours.
Studies the fundamental concepts and problems of moral life through an in-depth examination of classical and contemporary philosophical accounts, such as utilitarianism, contractarianism, theories of natural rights, Kantian ethics, and virtue ethics. Previously offered as PHIL 2312; cannot be repeated for credit.

PHIL 3315. EXISTENTIALISM. 3 Hours.
Readings in existentialist philosophy and literature with a special emphasis on such themes as alienation, anxiety, the self, absurdity, value, freedom, and responsibility. Texts may include writings from Kierkegaard, Nietzsche, Heidegger, Sartre, Camus, de Beauvoir, Jaspers, and others.

PHIL 3316. PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION. 3 Hours.
Problems that engage philosophy of religion (e.g., the existence of God, theodicy, religious language) and the way these problems have been treated by some outstanding Western thinkers.

PHIL 3317. PHILOSOPHICAL LOGIC. 3 Hours.
Begins with predicate calculus and includes such topics as definite descriptions, identity, modal logic, second-order logic, set theory, philosophy of logic and mathematics, and philosophical applications of logic. Prerequisite: PHIL 2311 or consent of the instructor.

PHIL 3318. THE PHILOSOPHY OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY. 3 Hours.
The method and goals of scientific scholars and inquiry. The distinction between formal and empirical sciences, laws and theories, measurement, the role of observation and experiment, and probability. Formerly listed as PHIL 4315. Credit cannot be received for both PHIL 4315 and PHIL 3318.

PHIL 3319. BIOMEDICAL ETHICS. 3 Hours.
Major ethical problems which arise in modern medicine and in medical/biological research (euthanasia, abortion, patient-physician relations, allocations of medical resources, genetic research, etc.).

PHIL 3320. PHILOSOPHY OF LAW. 3 Hours.
Examination of the institution of law, legal concepts, legal reasoning, and the legal process. Topics may include the nature of law; the moral limits of the criminal law; legal rights; liberty, justice, and equality; punishment; responsibility; the private law (property, contract, and tort); constitutional law; and feminist jurisprudence.

PHIL 3321. PHILOSOPHY OF LANGUAGE. 3 Hours.
Topics to be investigated include the nature of language and communication; the distinction between natural and artificial language; the traditional division of the field into syntax, semantics, and pragmatics; and such specialized subtopics as meaning, reference, truth, and speech acts. Completion of PHIL 2311 is recommended, but not required.

PHIL 3322. DISABILITY ETHICS. 3 Hours.
Explores the philosophical literature pertaining to disability and disabled experiences. Topics include defining disability, healthcare allocation, de-institutionalization, assisted dying and euthanasia, and the ethics of genetic and reproductive technologies. Offered as PHIL 3322 and DS 3322; credit will only be granted once.

PHIL 3324. BUSINESS ETHICS. 3 Hours.
Selected ethical issues in business, such as the nature and moral status of capitalism; corporate moral agency and responsibility; issues and challenges in the workplace (e.g., civil liberties, personnel policies, unionization, privacy, and safety); moral choices facing employees (e.g., loyalty, insider trading, and whistleblowing); job discrimination (e.g., affirmative action, comparable worth, and sexual harassment); consumer protection; environmental protection; and globalization.

PHIL 3330. SOCIAL AND POLITICAL PHILOSOPHY. 3 Hours.
Investigation of the basis (if any) of political obligation. Analysis of social and political concepts, such as equality, liberty, rights, and justice. Discussion of social and political theories, such as anarchism, contractarianism, Marxism, and conservatism.

PHIL 3340. TOPICS IN APPLIED ETHICS. 3 Hours.
Investigation of a single moral issue or a cluster of issues that arise in the context of a particular profession. Examples of the former are abortion, punishment, freedom of speech, the environment, and the moral status of animals. Examples of the latter are business ethics, legal ethics, engineering ethics, nursing ethics, and computer ethics. May be repeated for credit as content changes.

PHIL 3341. TOPICS IN BIOETHICS. 3 Hours.
Investigation of a single moral issue or a cluster of issues that arise in the context of the medical profession. Examples of possible topics are resource allocation, surrogate decision-making, the philosophy of mental illness, research ethics, reproductive ethics, and end of life care. May be repeated for credit as content changes. Prior completion of PHIL 3319 (Biomedical Ethics) is strongly recommended, but not required.

PHIL 3350. TOPICS IN ANCIENT GREEK PHILOSOPHY. 3 Hours.
An in-depth examination of a particular figure or topic in the field of ancient Greek philosophy. Works studied may include those of the Pre-Socratics, Plato, Aristotle, Hellenistic, and Neoplatonic philosophers.

PHIL 3390. HONORS COLLOQUIUM. 3 Hours.
An interdisciplinary course designed to meet the needs of advanced undergraduates in the Honors College.

PHIL 4191. UNDERGRADUATE CONFERENCE COURSE. 1 Hour.
Topics assigned on an individual basis covering research of individual students or study in designated areas. May be repeated for credit.

PHIL 4192. CONFERENCE COURSE IN BIOETHICS. 1 Hour.
This course is an independent study offering students an opportunity for in-depth study of a specific topic in bioethics. Requires permission of the department chair and the instructor.

PHIL 4291. UNDERGRADUATE CONFERENCE COURSE. 2 Hours.
Topics assigned on an individual basis covering research of individual students or study in designated areas. May be repeated for credit.

PHIL 4292. CONFERENCE COURSE IN BIOETHICS. 2 Hours.
This course is an independent study offering students an opportunity for in-depth study of a specific topic in bioethics. Requires permission of the department chair and the instructor.

PHIL 4318. PHILOSOPHY AND LITERATURE. 3 Hours.
The role of ideas in literature and an analysis of the actual contacts between philosophy and the dominant world views of the great writers of literature.

PHIL 4380. PHENOMENOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Phenomenology is a major philosophical movement based on the methodically controlled description of conscious experience, as uncovered at first introspectively. This course focuses on (1) the origin of the movement in common epistemological problems arising in philosophy, psychology, mathematics, and the natural sciences, (2) the development of the movement's method, and (3) a close study of some influential phenomenologists, including Husserl, Sartre, and Merleau-Ponty. Contemporary connections to the neuroscientific study of consciousness are also explored.

PHIL 4383. PHILOSOPHY OF MIND. 3 Hours.
Explores philosophical issues raised by the mind and its relation to the body. Topics may include consciousness, perception, artificial intelligence, animal minds, free will, the self, and the relationship between mind and matter.

PHIL 4385. THEORY OF KNOWLEDGE. 3 Hours.
Problems which arise from attempts to give an account of human knowledge. Skepticism, perception, induction, or the nature of truth. Note: Although there are no prerequisites for this course, students who have had no previous philosophy courses may find the material difficult.

PHIL 4386. METAPHYSICS. 3 Hours.
Problems which arise from attempts to give an account of reality and its manifestations. Possibility and necessity, causality, the nature of events, mind-body, and universals. Note: Although there are no prerequisites for this course, students who have had no previous philosophy courses may find the material difficult.

PHIL 4387. TOPICS IN VALUE THEORY. 3 Hours.
In-depth treatment of an issue or topic within value theory, which is broadly construed to include moral philosophy (and its subfields, such as moral epistemology and moral psychology), social philosophy, political philosophy, philosophy of law, aesthetics, philosophy of religion, and feminist philosophy. May be repeated for credit with permission of the department.

PHIL 4388. TOPICS IN THE HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY. 3 Hours.
In-depth treatment of a single important philosophical writer, a related group of writers, or an extended tradition. May be repeated for credit with permission of the department.

PHIL 4389. TOPICS IN PHILOSOPHY AND THE SOCIAL SCIENCES. 3 Hours.
In-depth treatment of one or more of the social sciences from a philosophical perspective: may include the philosophy of history, social philosophy, political philosophy, philosophy of the social sciences, or any specific subject therein. Credit may not be granted for PHIL 4311 or PHIL 4317 (no longer offered) and PHIL 4389. May be repeated for credit with permission of the department.

PHIL 4391. UNDERGRADUATE CONFERENCE COURSE. 3 Hours.
Topics assigned on an individual basis covering research of individual students or study in designated areas. May be repeated for credit.

PHIL 4392. CONFERENCE COURSE IN BIOETHICS. 3 Hours.
This course is an independent study offering students an opportunity for in-depth study of a specific topic in bioethics. Requires permission of the department chair and the instructor.

PHIL 4394. SENIOR THESIS. 3 Hours.
During the senior year, the student completes a thesis under the direction of a faculty member in the major department. Required of all pre-professional track philosophy majors and of all philosophy majors who are members of the University Honors College.

PHIL 5391. CONFERENCE COURSE IN PHILOSOPHY. 3 Hours.
May be taken only with the permission of the instructor and Graduate Advisor.

PHIL 5392. TOPICS IN THE HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY. 3 Hours.
Consideration in depth of the work of a single philosopher or a related philosophical school against the background of the development of philosophy. May be repeated for credit as the topic changes.

PHIL 5393. PHILOSOPHICAL PERSPECTIVES ON THE HUMANITIES. 3 Hours.
A philosophical inquiry into problems and issues of relevance in humanistic disciplines. May be repeated for credit as the topic changes.

PHIL 6389. SEMINAR IN PHILOSOPHICAL ANALYSIS. 3 Hours.
Seminar-style treatment of some major problem in contemporary philosophy. May be repeated for credit as the topic changes.

PHIL 6394. TOPICS IN SYSTEMATIC PHILOSOPHY. 3 Hours.
In-depth treatment of an issue or issues in metaphysics, epistemology, ethics, aesthetics or related subdisciplinary areas. May be repeated for credit as the topic changes.

ADMISSION TO THE MAJOR

Students should have completed 30 hours of core with 30 hours at UT Arlington, or 40 hours of core with 12 hours at UT Arlington with an overall GPA greater than 2.0. Before being accepted into the major in philosophy, students must also have passed a course in symbolic logic or critical thinking (PHIL 2311 LOGIC, PHIL 1301 FUNDAMENTALS OF REASONING or the equivalent). Students may be accepted as pre-philosophy majors if the above standards are not met.

ORAL COMMUNICATION COMPETENCY

Students majoring in philosophy may demonstrate competency in oral communication by

1. Successful completion of a specific course approved by the Department of Philosophy and Humanities for this purpose, or
2. Successful completion of any course from among those approved by the Undergraduate Assembly.

COMPUTER USE COMPETENCY

Students majoring in philosophy may demonstrate competency in computer use by

1. Successful completion of PHIL 3307 SEMINAR IN RESEARCH METHODS AND PHILOSOPHICAL WRITING, or
2. Successful completion of any course from among those approved by the Undergraduate Assembly for this purpose, or
3. Passing the University proficiency examination in computer use.

Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy

About This Program

Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy majors study many of the most fundamental questions of our existence and how to think more effectively about them. Through exploring the history of ideas and the structures of good argumentation, philosophy majors develop high-level reading, writing, and critical thinking skills.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to construct and critically assess complex philosophical arguments.
2. Upon completion, students will demonstrate an understanding of the central figures and main problems in the history of philosophy.
3. Upon completion, students will demonstrate an understanding of the central figures and main problems in “systematic” areas of philosophy — such as, ethics, metaphysics, epistemology, etc.
4. Upon completion, students will display knowledge of philosophical methods of analysis.
5. Upon completion, students will be able to read philosophical texts with care and comprehension.
6. Upon completion, students will be able to write clear, effective, and thoughtful philosophical prose.
7. Upon completion, students will demonstrate proficiency in the research skills necessary for successfully completing the philosophy degree.

Admissions Criteria

Students should have completed 30 hours of core with 30 hours at UT Arlington, or 40 hours of core with 12 hours at UT Arlington with an overall GPA greater than 2.0. Before being accepted into the major in philosophy, students must also have passed a course in symbolic logic or critical thinking (PHIL 2311 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=PHIL%202311) Logic or PHIL 1301 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=PHIL%201301) Fundamentals of Reasoning or the equivalent). Students may be accepted as pre-philosophy majors if the above standards are not met.

Curriculum

Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy students are required to take Introduction to Philosophy and either Logic or Fundamentals of Reasoning. They must also take at least one course in the area of Metaphysics & Epistemology, one course in the area of Value Theory, and two courses in the History of Philosophy. Students have a wide variety of options so that they can study the areas of philosophy they find most fascinating.

Minor in Philosophy

About This Program

Philosophy focuses on the perennial problems raised by the encounter of human beings with the world and with their history and culture, especially problems concerning the nature of reality, the nature of knowledge, and the nature of value. The practice of philosophy requires the cultivation of analytical reasoning abilities, clarity of written and spoken argumentation, as well as the development of synthetic and higher-order critical thinking capacities. While concentrating on some of the most profound and fundamental problems of thought, philosophy students learn the history of the discipline and hone these broadly transferable and practically applicable skills.

A Minor in Philosophy requires 18 semester hours, at least six of which must be 3000/4000 level.

Competencies

1. Upon completion of the minor, students will be able to construct and critically assess complex philosophical arguments.
2. Upon completion of the minor, students will demonstrate an understanding of central figures and main problems in philosophy.
3. Upon completion of the minor, students will be able to read a philosophical text with care and comprehension.

Political Science - Graduate

Program

- Political Science MA (p. 1299)

Master of Art in Political Science

About This Program

The program leading to a Master of Arts degree in Political Science emphasizes a variety of skills in preparation for many different types of employment. Students develop the ability to conduct research and critically analyze complex information, understand decision-making processes, present their findings and conclusions in a succinct and easily-understood manner, think creatively to resolve problems and concerns, and communicate information clearly. These skills are considered valuable in a wide range of jobs and careers, including in: the private sector, non-profit and non-governmental organizations, education, government, research and policy analysis, media, and international affairs. In addition, the Political Science MA is often used as a stepping stone for enrollment in business and law degrees. Finally, the Department of Political Science also endeavors to equip students with the research techniques and substantive background for coursework undertaken beyond the master’s level.

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, students will be able to identify, formulate, and solve problems relating to political science.
2. Upon completion, students will be able to identify and describe political structures, rules, behaviors and environments which shape political action.
3. Upon completion, students will be able to explain and employ statistical and methodological techniques to analyze information.

4. Upon completion, students will be able to identify, comprehend, and apply comparative, theoretical, or conceptual approaches to actors and their policies.
5. Upon completion, students will be able to develop the ability to analyze, synthesize, and evaluate political phenomena.

Admissions Criteria

The program is committed to a holistic admissions approach. As a result, decisions on whether to admit or deny an application include: grade point averages, letters of recommendation, personal statements, advanced degrees, graduate courses taken as a degreed student or in another program, and professional work experience. The major purpose of the admissions criteria is to promote access to our program, but maintain standards that will enable the department to determine if the applicant demonstrates the requisite skill level to master the requirements of the program.

Admission to the MA program in political science is based upon the completion of the general admission requirements (p. 26) of the Graduate School. Applicants are required to submit all official transcripts, a personal statement, and three (3) letters of recommendation. The department will review the application package in its entirety. The package is evaluated to determine if a student has achieved a 3.00 grade point average (GPA) in the last 60 hours of their undergraduate work as calculated by graduate admissions, and meets other admission requirements. If a student has already earned an advanced degree, the department will evaluate the student's academic performance in obtaining that degree equally with the undergraduate performance. International students must meet or exceed the minimum university standard on the TOEFL (550 for paper examination, 213 for computer examination), TOEFL iBT (total score of 79 with sectional scores that meet or exceed 22 for the writing section, 21 for the speaking section, 20 for the reading section, and 16 for the listening section), TSE (40), or the IELTS (6.5).

Several factors matter for a decision to accept or deny an applicant. To this end the department has three categories of acceptance: unconditional admission, probationary admission, and provisional admission.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

All applications must include the following four components. All four will be considered, without specific weights, in the decision to accept or deny.

1. A bachelor's degree from an accredited general or specific program. A bachelor's degree in political science, however, is not required.
2. A copy of all university and college transcripts.
3. A written personal statement (200 words) explaining the applicant's interest and motivation in studying for a graduate degree in political science.
4. Three letters of recommendation (including at least two from university/college faculty) that favorably assess the applicant's potential success in a graduate program and in the field of political science. Letters must be mailed directly from the recommenders to the Graduate Adviser of political science.

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

An applicant may be accepted for unconditional admission if all of the above components of the application package are properly submitted, and all three of the following criteria are met and all three give strong indication of likely success in the program.

1. An undergraduate GPA of 3.00 or greater (as calculated by the Graduate School) in the last 60 credit hours of completing an undergraduate BA or BS degree from an accredited institution (verified by the Graduate School from official transcripts from each college or university previously attended).
2. Adequate preparation and satisfactory performance in political science courses or courses in related disciplines.
3. Three letters of recommendation (including at least two from university/college faculty) that indicate satisfaction with the applicant's work and demonstrate a strong likelihood for success in the program and in the field of political science.

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

Students who do not qualify for unconditional admission may be considered for probationary admission if they satisfy any two of the three requirements for unconditional admission listed above as well as demonstrate potential for success in line with the necessary application materials. Students with a reported grade point average below 2.70, however, will not be eligible for probationary admission. Being admitted on probationary status means that the student will be able to take graduate level classes, but the student must earn a B or better in the first 12 hours of graduate coursework at UT Arlington. This regulation will be strictly enforced.

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

An applicant unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline, but otherwise appears to meet admission requirements, may be granted provisional admission. Provisionally admitted students must adequately satisfy any incomplete documentation by the end of the semester in which they are admitted. If the applicant fails to do so, the department may then reclassify the applicant's admission status as probationary or ask the student to leave the program.

DEFERRAL

A deferred decision may be granted when a file is incomplete or when a denial decision is not appropriate.

DENIAL

An application will be denied if it does not meet the criteria listed above, does not demonstrate potential for success, or the applicant's grade point average is below 2.70.

Fellowships

Fellowships, when available, will be awarded on a competitive basis. Fellowships are selected on the basis of the following criteria. Please see the Graduate Adviser for more information.

- Candidates must be enrolled full time in the department of political science (at least 9 hours of courses per semester).
- A minimum undergraduate GPA of 3.00 in the last 60 undergraduate hours, as calculated by the Graduate School, and unconditional admission status, or a minimum GPA of 3.25 in political science graduate hours completed.
- Transcript of a completed bachelor's degree in political science (or appropriate related field) from an accredited institution.
- Three letters of recommendation. These letters may be the same submitted for admission.
- A written statement explaining the applicant's reasons for graduate study in political science.

See the Graduate Advisor for more detail.

INTERNATIONAL STUDIES OPTION

The International Studies option of the Master of Arts program in political science emphasizes the study of comparative politics and international relations within the framework of political science. This option requires 12 hours of coursework in International Studies. Upon satisfying the requirements for this option, students will receive a letter of completion. Completion will not be reflected on student transcripts.

U.S. POLITICAL INSTITUTIONS AND PROCESSES OPTION

The U.S. Political Institutions and Processes option of the Master of Arts program in political science emphasizes political behavior and processes and public law and jurisprudence within the framework of political science. This option requires 12 hours of coursework focused on American politics and/or public law and jurisprudence. Upon satisfying the requirements for this option, students will receive a letter of completion. Completion will not be reflected on student transcripts.

Program Completion

All candidates for the degree of Master of Arts with a major in political science must pass a final examination, written, oral, or both written and oral. See the Department of Political Science Graduate Student Handbook or the Graduate Adviser for more details. In the event of failure of the final examination, the student may petition the Committee on Graduate Studies to retake the examination on a date no sooner than 60 days after the first examination. Students will not be permitted more than one reexamination after failure of the initial examination.

ADMISSION TO POLITICAL SCIENCE MAJOR

Students should have completed 30 hours of core with 30 hours at UT Arlington, or 40 hours of core with 12 hours at UT Arlington with an overall GPA greater than 2.0. Students may be accepted as pre-political science majors if the above standards are not met.

TEACHER CERTIFICATION

Students interested in Texas Teacher Certification should consult the College of Education section of this catalog for the most recent changes in requirements regarding admission to Teacher Education, completion of University programs in preparation for certification, and eligibility for certification after graduation.

COMPUTER USE COMPETENCIES

Students majoring in political science are required to demonstrate computer use and oral communication competencies. Computer use proficiency can be demonstrated by one of the following:

1. successful completion of POLS 3310 RESEARCH METHODS AND POLITICAL ANALYSIS; or
2. successful completion of CSE 1301 COMPUTER LITERACY or INSY 2303 INTRODUCTION TO M.I.S. AND DATA PROCESSING; or
3. successful completion of other courses approved by the Undergraduate Assembly; or
4. passing the University computer use competency exam.

ORAL COMMUNICATION COMPETENCIES

Oral communication proficiency can be demonstrated by successful completion of one of the following:

- COMS 1301 FUNDAMENTALS OF PUBLIC SPEAKING
- COMS 2305 BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION
- COMS 3315 COMMUNICATION FOR EDUCATORS
- specific political science courses approved by the department
- other courses approved by the Undergraduate Assembly.

Students should discuss these options with their undergraduate advisor who may also provide a list of other courses approved by the University to meet these requirements.

Bachelor of Arts in Political Science

About This Program

The Bachelor of Arts in Political Science aims to maximize students' capacities to analyze and interpret political events and governmental processes. In addition to acquiring general knowledge about government and political behavior, students also learn the analytical skills relevant to particular political systems (their own and others'), and to problems of most immediate consequence and concern to them.

The major courses are designed to present a coherent portrait of the discipline. Students begin with a general introduction to national, state, and local politics followed by a require course in research methods and political analysis. Finally, students are exposed to four major areas of the discipline. The department also offers options for students who desire a concentration in American Politics, International Studies, Law and Courts, and Public Policy. Students may choose any 18 hours (6 advanced) for a minor. Those who want a specialization may concentrate courses in any of these areas: public law; policy and administration; comparative and international politics; American national government; political parties, group politics, and elections.

The political science student is exposed to a multifaceted and highly regarded faculty, many of whom have received regional and national honors for teaching, service, and research. Upon graduation, UT Arlington political science majors are prepared to compete for a wide variety of jobs in both the private and public sectors.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to identify and describe political structures, rules, behaviors, and environments which shape political action.
2. Upon completion, students will be able to explain and employ statistical and methodological techniques to analyze information.
3. Upon completion, students will be able to identify, comprehend, and apply comparative, theoretical, or conceptual approaches to actors and their policies.
4. Upon completion, students will be able to develop the ability to analyze, synthesize, and evaluate political phenomena.

Admissions Criteria

Students should have completed 30 hours of core with 30 hours at UT Arlington, or 40 hours of core with 12 hours at UT Arlington with an overall GPA greater than 2.0. Students may be accepted as pre-political science majors if the above standards are not met.

OPTIONAL CONCENTRATION

A concentration provides the student with a focused, systematic, and in-depth educational experience in the context of a broad liberal arts education. Students may declare a specific area of concentration by filing a statement of intent with the Political Science Department. The area of concentration will require that the student complete the requirements for the general degree plan while also fulfilling certain requirements for the concentration. All students will receive the BA in Political Science. Those completing the selected specialization will also receive recognition of completion.

ORAL COMMUNICATION AND COMPUTER USE COMPETENCIES

Students majoring in political science are required to demonstrate computer use and oral communication competencies. Computer use proficiency can be demonstrated by one of the following:

1. successful completion of POLS 3310 RESEARCH METHODS AND POLITICAL ANALYSIS; or
2. successful completion of CSE 1301 COMPUTER LITERACY or INSY 2303 INTRODUCTION TO M.I.S. AND DATA PROCESSING; or
3. successful completion of other courses approved by the Undergraduate Assembly; or
4. passing the University computer use competency exam.

Oral communication proficiency can be demonstrated by one of the following:

1. successful completion of specific political science courses approved by the department; or
2. successful completion of one of the following: COMS 1301, COMS 2305, or COMS 3315.
3. successful completion of other courses approved by the Undergraduate Assembly.

Students should discuss these options with their undergraduate advisor who may also provide a list of other courses approved by the University to meet these requirements.

MINOR

Political Science classes may be used toward the major requirements or minor requirements (at the discretion of the department offering the minor) but not both.

Program Completion

To graduate a student must earn a 2.0 GPA.

Bachelor of Art in Political Science to Master of Art in Political Science Fast Track

About This Program

Bachelor of Art in Political Science to Master of Art in Political Science Fast Track allows outstanding senior undergraduate Political Science (POLS) students to take up to three graduate courses (5000-level courses) to replace up to nine credit hours of advanced POLS undergraduate courses (3000- or 4000-level courses); the credit hours earned in these graduate courses can then be applied to both the Bachelor of Arts (BA) and to the Master of Arts (MA) in Political Science. Those who successfully complete the program will be automatically admitted to the Graduate School. They will not be required to take any qualifying test, complete an application for admission to the Graduate School, arrange for letters of reference, or pay an application fee. This enables students to complete their MA degree in a shorter time period

Admissions Criteria

Undergraduate students apply to the Department of Political Science by completing a fast track application form available from the POLS academic advisor. Students will be notified by the Department of their acceptance into the fast track program.

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

1. The student must be within 30 hours of completing a BA in Political Science at UTA.
2. The student must have completed 30 hours of coursework at UTA.
3. The student must have an overall GPA of at least 3.3 in all coursework at all schools and an overall GPA of at least 3.3 in all coursework completed at UTA.
4. The student must have an overall GPA of at least 3.5 in all POLS courses completed at UTA.
5. The student must have completed 12 credit hours of the following specific undergraduate POLS courses, with a GPA of at least 3.5 in these courses. (Courses from other universities or colleges that cover the same or similar material cannot replace any of these specific UTA courses.)
   a. POLS 2312 STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT
   b. POLS 3310 RESEARCH METHODS AND POLITICAL ANALYSIS
   c. POLS 3302, POLS 3303, POLS 3304, POLS 3305, POLS 3307, POLS 3311, POLS 3312, or POLS 3333
   d. A 4000-level POLS course from any area of concentration (excluding internships and conference or directed readings courses).

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

A student may gain provisional admission if, by the semester in which application is made, he or she has already completed 3 out of the 4 required POLS courses (listed above) with a GPA of at least 3.5 in them, with the 4th course to be completed in the semester of application. All other requirements above must be met. Provisional admission will be changed to unconditional admission upon satisfactory completion of remaining requirements. Students failing to meet all requirements at the end of their semester of application will be removed from the fast track program. Any credits earned prior to removal from the program will be applied to the undergraduate degree only. None of the other benefits of the fast track program will apply. Provisionally admitted students who have been removed from the program may subsequently apply to graduate programs via the normal application process, paying all fees and meeting all relevant admission criteria. Admission will not be automatic as it will be subject to the normal admission practices of the Department of Political Science and of the Office of Graduate Studies.

DENIAL

Students who do not meet the requirements set out shall be denied admission to the fast track program. They may still apply to the graduate program through the regular application process. Admission will not be automatic as it will be subject to the normal admission practices of the Department of Political Science and of the Office of Graduate Studies.

ADMISSION TO THE GRADUATE PROGRAM

To progress to the MA students must complete at least two graduate courses prior to receiving their bachelor's degree, and receive at least a B in each course.

GOOD STANDING

In order to remain in the Fast Track program, students must meet the following requirements:

1. Students must maintain an overall GPA of at least 3.0 and must earn grades of B or better in all Fast Track-approved graduate courses that will be used to satisfy undergraduate and graduate degree requirements of the Fast Track program.

2. Students must enroll in at least 2 graduate courses prior to receiving their bachelor's degree, and receive at least a B in each course.

Students who, at any time, do not meet these requirements will be obliged to leave the fast track program. Any graduate credits earned will be applied only to the undergraduate degree, and none of the other benefits of participation in the fast track program will apply. They may apply to the MA program as a regular student after receiving their BA.

For more information about the Political Science BA to MA Fast Track, please contact the undergraduate advisor in the Department of Political Science.

Minor in Political Science

About This Program

The Minor in Political Science complements a variety of majors within and outside the College of Liberal Arts. The political science minor provides students with foundational knowledge of politics, political behavior, and political decision making. It also helps students develop skills in critical thinking, data analysis, and effective communication.

Competencies

1. Upon completion of the minor, students will be able to identify and describe political structures, rules, behaviors, and environments that shape political action.
2. Upon completion of the minor, students will be able to analyze, synthesize, and evaluate political phenomena.

Curriculum

Select 6 hours of POLS classes at any level	6
Select 12 hours of POLS classes at the 3000/4000 level	12

Sociology and Anthropology

Department Overview

The principal common educational objective in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology is to develop a systematic understanding of social behavior, human culture, and social institutions. Knowledge of human social and cultural relationships is vital to a meaningful perspective on and understanding of the society in which we live. Contemporary societies are characterized by diversity, rapid change, complex organization, and extensive specialization. Programs of study in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology pursue the challenge of:

1. creating and disseminating general knowledge that will render this world more understandable and
2. providing an educational base for more effective and humane planning and social intervention in society.

Each of the programs of study relates to this general objective in a somewhat different manner. Students are encouraged to visit with the faculty and learn more about the programs offered in the department.

COURSES

ANTH 1200. PERSONAL AND PROFESSIONAL SUCCESS IN THE SOCIAL SCIENCES. 2 Hours.
A first year experience course for new students and new transfer students interested in a career in the social sciences. Provides the necessary foundation for success in a college environment while balancing personal and/or work obligations. Orients students to life on campus, demonstrates how to leverage campus resources to achieve career and academic goals, and emphasizes engagement outside the classroom through collaborative and co-curricular opportunities. Fulfills the University requirement for either UNIV 1101 or UNIV 1131. Offered as SOCI 1200 and ANTH 1200; credit will be granted only once.

ANTH 1306. INTRODUCTION TO ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours. (TCCN = ANTH 2346)
This course, primarily intended for non-majors and as a first course for students considering majoring in anthropology, provides an overview of the subdisciplines of anthropology: ethnology (cultural anthropology), archaeology, physical (biological) anthropology, and linguistic anthropology.

ANTH 1310. GREAT DISCOVERIES IN ARCHAEOLOGY. 3 Hours.
A survey of some of the most spectacular and otherwise significant archaeological discoveries worldwide over the past three centuries. Consideration of particular archaeological sites as case studies to illustrate cultural development from the Stone Age to Medieval times.

ANTH 2307. BIOLOGICAL ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours. (TCCN = ANTH 2301)
Human variation and human evolution. Genetics, living and fossil nonhuman primates, the human skeleton, the fossil record of human evolution, modern human variation and biological adaptation.

ANTH 2322. GLOBAL CULTURES. 3 Hours. (TCCN = ANTH 2351)
Methods and theories of sociocultural anthropology. Examines systems of social organization and cultural meaning in contemporary human societies. Topics include fieldwork, cross-cultural analysis, applied anthropology, and global perspectives on political, economic, and social institutions.

ANTH 2339. INTRODUCTION TO ARCHAEOLOGY. 3 Hours. (TCCN = ANTH 2302)
Archaeology is the study of the human past through physical evidence and material remains. This evidence ranges from entire landscapes to small objects. Students learn how archaeological sites are discovered, investigated, and interpreted, and how this knowledge contributes to our understanding of human society.

ANTH 2349. HONORS PRINCIPLES OF ARCHAEOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Methods and theories of prehistoric archaeology. Techniques and approaches employed in recovering, dating and interpreting prehistoric cultural materials. Writing-intensive course including group and individual projects and oral presentations. Prerequisite: Membership in the Honors College or permission of instructor.

ANTH 2357. ANTHROPOLOGY IN ACTION. 3 Hours.
Anthropological examination of a particular culture, region or cultural industry. Topics include identity, heritage, commoditization, historical and cultural representation, and authenticity. May be offered on campus or as a field course or study abroad course.

ANTH 2358. ARCHAEOLOGICAL CULTURES. 3 Hours.
Survey of a particular archaeological culture, region, or period. Can be offered on campus or as a field course or study abroad course.

ANTH 2359. MYTHS AND MYSTERIES IN ARCHAEOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This course will critically examine pseudoscience, cult archaeology and creationism from a scientific perspective. Through the close examination of case studies we will dispel archaeological myths and mysteries which are often depicted as fantastic or cult archaeology. This course will demonstrate that a strong adherence to scientific investigation can uncover facts about prehistory that are as interesting as the myths.

ANTH 2370. ASIAN AMERICAN EXPERIENCE. 3 Hours.
Examines the lived experiences and diverse histories of Asian Americans. Various aspects of the Asian American experience are addressed, including, but not limited to, immigration; citizenship; civic engagement, including alliances with Mexican American and African American social movements; health; and creative expressions in art, film, literature, and music. Themes related to the Asian American diaspora such as imagination, authenticity, identity, representation, stereotypes, consumption, ritual, and borders will also be discussed.

ANTH 3300. DEBATES IN CULTURAL ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Explores core concepts, critiques of past applications, and current challenges of theory and practice in cultural anthropology.

ANTH 3301. ARCHAEOLOGICAL METHOD AND THEORY. 3 Hours.
Explores core concepts, critiques of past applications, and current challenges of theory and practice in archaeology. Topics include history of archaeological thought, processual and actualistic approaches, ethnoarchaeology, evolutionary archaeology, stewardship of the archaeological past, and post-processual critiques. Prerequisite: ANTH 2339 or permission of instructor.

ANTH 3307. EVOLUTIONARY MEDICINE. 3 Hours.
The application of evolutionary theory to the practice of medicine from an anthropological perspective. Topics include diet/paleodiets, sleep habits, infectious diseases, the developmental origins of health and disease, mental health, women's health and reproduction, and aging/senescence, among others. Offered as BIOL 3307 and ANTH 3307; credit will only be granted in one department.

ANTH 3308. FORENSIC ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Explores the role of skeletal biology and physical anthropology in criminal investigation. Topics include determination of victim identity and context of death. Case studies will be used to demonstrate application of the methods studied.

ANTH 3310. LATINOS IN THE U.S.. 3 Hours.
Examines the Latino experience in the U.S. from an interdisciplinary perspective. Discusses the commonalities and cultural differences among various Latino groups, and focuses on important contemporary Latino issues such as education, employment, family and gender, identity, immigration, and politics. May receive credit for either MAS 3310 or ANTH 3310.

ANTH 3311. HUMAN ADAPTATION AND THE CONCEPT OF RACE. 3 Hours.
The study of modern human biological variation in the context of the history of the concept of race. Detailed historical review explores changing perspectives on variation within our species. Course examines physiological adaptations to environmental stress among a variety of human populations and implications of recent genetic research. Offered as BIOL 3313 and ANTH 3311; credit will only be granted in one department.

ANTH 3313. PRIMATE EVOLUTION AND BEHAVIOR. 3 Hours.
An overview of the Primate Order covering primate origins, evolution, ecology, adaptation, and behavior. Examination of the environmental context within which primates live, how the form of their bodies reflects their activities, and how they relate behaviorally to their environments and to one another. Offered as BIOL 3314 and ANTH 3313; credit will only be granted in one department.

ANTH 3316. LATINO HEALTH ISSUES. 3 Hours.
A cross-cultural examination of issues in Latino health and relevant health practices in the United States through the lenses of social sciences. Themes include the Latino Threat Narrative, acculturation histories and health care status of major Latino ethnic enclaves in the U.S. Listed as SOCI 3316, MAS 3316 and ANTH 3316; may receive credit for either SOCI 3316, MAS 3316, or ANTH 3316.

ANTH 3318. BORDERS, CULTURES, AND CARTELS. 3 Hours.
Critically examines life on the Mexico-U.S. border through ethnography, taking into account the impact of the U.S. war on drugs and the influence of cartels on the lives of those living in the southern border region. Topics may include impacts and influences of drugs and narco life on religion, crime, music, and daily life at the nexus of US-Mexico relations. Listed as ANTH 3318 and MAS 3318; may receive credit for either ANTH 3318 or MAS 3318.

ANTH 3325. ETHNOGRAPHY OF SOUTH AMERICA. 3 Hours.
The indigenous groups of South America, with emphasis on the Aymara and Quechua of the Andes. Topics include culture change, environmental destruction, and preservation of cultural heritage.

ANTH 3328. CIVILIZATIONS OF SOUTH AMERICA. 3 Hours.
Complex agrarian civilizations in South America, concentrating on political, social, and cultural developments of the Chavin, Nazca, Moche, Tiahuanaco, Wari-Tiahuanaco, Inca, and Conquest periods. Formerly listed as ANTH 4328. Credit cannot be given for both ANTH 3328 and ANTH 4328.

ANTH 3329. CONTEMPORARY AFRICAN CULTURES. 3 Hours.
A comparative study of African communities with an emphasis on sub-Saharan Africa. Covers regional cultural geography and history as well as ethnography of specific communities. Explores both the challenges facing contemporary African nations as well as emerging solutions. Includes exposure to African art, literature, music, cinema, and food. Offered as AAST 3329 and ANTH 3329; credit will be granted in only one department.

ANTH 3330. CULTURAL DIVERSITY AND IDENTITY. 3 Hours.
The ways identity is constructed in contemporary societies in an increasingly complex and multicultural world. Ethnic, racial, gender, and class identities. How and when identity is asserted and assigned, and how it can both draw boundaries and forge ties between peoples. Formerly listed as ANTH 2350. Credit cannot be given for both ANTH 2350 and ANTH 3330. Also listed as MAS 3330; credit cannot be granted for both ANTH 3330 and MAS 3330. Offered as AAST 3330 and ANTH 3330; credit will be granted in only one department.

ANTH 3331. CULTURE AND PERSONALITY. 3 Hours.
The interplay of culture and personality in various Western and non-Western societies. The relationship of specific practices to the development of personality and the psychological effects of colonization, modernization, and economic development of traditional societies.

ANTH 3332. FOOD AND CULTURE. 3 Hours.
Considers food systems from biological, ecological, and political-economic perspectives. May include food history, cuisines, food preferences, and other areas of anthropological scholarship on food and culture. May cover food and economic development, hunger and overnutrition, food and religion, and the globalization of foods and food systems.

ANTH 3333. NORTH AMERICAN INDIANS. 3 Hours.
North American Indian cultures and their development both before and after European contact.

ANTH 3334. ANTHROPOLOGY OF SOUTH ASIA. 3 Hours.
With a focus on the Indian subcontinent, this course introduces students to the culture, history and politics of South Asia. Drawing upon anthropological studies and a range of materials, including Bollywood films, music, tourist brochures, advertisements, Gandhi's writings, and South Asian literature, students will gain an increased understanding of the region's past and present.

ANTH 3335. GLOBAL ICONS: GANDHI, KING, MANDELA & OTHERS IN POPULAR CULTURE. 3 Hours.
Addresses the life and times of Mahatma Gandhi, Martin Luther King, Jr., Nelson Mandela, and other global icons in order to explore cultural politics, social movements, and globalization processes. Students gain an understanding of the enduring significance of these figures in popular culture.

ANTH 3336. ANTHROPOLOGY OF RELIGION. 3 Hours.
A crosscultural study of magic and religion. Theories of the origin and function of magic and religion in pre-industrial societies.

ANTH 3338. COMPARATIVE KINSHIP AND FAMILY SYSTEMS. 3 Hours.
Variation in kinship and family systems from crosscultural and evolutionary perspectives. Structure, function, and dynamics of kinship and family systems as adaptations to diverse ecological, social, and historical circumstances. Implications of this approach for understanding kinship and family in American society also addressed. Formerly listed as ANTH 4338. Credit cannot be given for both ANTH 3338 and ANTH 4338. Also offered as GWSS 3338; credit will be granted only once. Offered as AAST 3332 and ANTH 3338; credit will be granted in only one department.

ANTH 3339. URBAN ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Examines main issues, theoretical approaches and ethnographic methods used by anthropologists working in cities. Also discusses relevant contemporary topics such as growth of global cities, gentrification, poverty and inequality, and the economic, social and cultural integration of international immigrants in U.S. cities.

ANTH 3341. RESEARCH METHODS IN CULTURAL ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Observational techniques, participant-observation, hypothesis testing, research design, use of the computer in research, analysis, and report writing, and oral presentations of research reports. Satisfies oral communication and computer use competence requirements. Prerequisite: ANTH 1306 or ANTH 2322 or permission of instructor.

ANTH 3343. APPLIED ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Explores the use of anthropological knowledge and skills to address practical problems in today's global society, and examines how these are used in government, non-profit, and private sector industries. Addresses issues of health, education, environment, human rights, economic development, and others.

ANTH 3345. VISUALIZING CULTURE: MEDIA, IDENTITY AND POLITICS IN THE GLOBAL WORLD. 3 Hours.
Introduces students to key concepts in Visual Anthropology. This course highlights the contribution of anthropological methods in theorizing the visual in everyday life for the construction of nationalist, gender, ethnic, and class identities. Readings are drawn from diverse geographical regions. Visual material discussed in class may include ethnographic films, art, graphic novels, comics, illustrated magazines, virtual exhibitions and soap operas. Assignments include a writing and research component, and team-based exercises. Offered as ANTH 3345 and COMM 3345; credit will be granted only in one department.

ANTH 3346. GLOBAL IMPACTS OF TOURISM. 3 Hours.
Examines the cultural practices of travel and the impact of tourism on both host and guest communities. Various forms of tourism are addressed including, but not limited to, ethnic, historical, regional, health and medical, and ecotourism. Themes of the "tourist gaze" authenticity, identity, consumption, ritual, borders, and pilgrimage will be explored.

ANTH 3348. CULTURAL ENCOUNTERS: MIGRATION AND IDENTITIES. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on the expanding field of migration studies in social and cultural anthropology. It traces the history of migration studies in anthropology, discusses the major theoretical contributions of anthropologists to the interdisciplinary field of migration, and addresses key contemporary topics in migration studies including globalization, transnational communities, gender, identity, and citizenship. The course heavily relies on ethnographic case studies of different immigrant populations in the U.S. written by anthropologists in the recent past.

ANTH 3349. ANTHROPOLOGY OF GLOBALIZATION. 3 Hours.
The forces of economic globalization now reach every corner of the world to the point that few societies have been untouched by their impact. This course examines the forces that drive globalization and their repercussions upon local communities around the world. It examines how economic globalization affects the lives of real people in developing and industrialized countries as well as in small-scale societies traditionally studied by anthropologists.

ANTH 3350. NORTH AMERICAN ARCHAEOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Prehistoric cultural adaptations in North America from human arrival to European contact. Topics treated include the question of when and where the first Native Americans arrived; the beginnings of village and farming life; and the development of Puebloan and "Mound-building" cultures.

ANTH 3351. ARCHAEOLOGY OF THE AMERICAN SOUTHWEST. 3 Hours.
This course investigates the peoples and places of the prehistoric North American Southwest. The focus is on the period of increasing settlement, diversity, movement, and change from 500 to 1500 C.E. Focuses on the archaeological record, ethnographies and comparative research to understand the past and present peoples of the Southwest.

ANTH 3352. ARCHAEOLOGY OF AFRICA. 3 Hours.
Course follows the African archaeological record from earliest evidence for human behavior through beginnings of state society. Topics may include stone tool technologies, forager strategies, agricultural systems, early iron technology, and trade and social networks. This is a lecture course, with an emphasis on student research. No prerequisites required, but ANTH 2339 is recommended preparation.

ANTH 3353. STONE AGE HUNTERS AND FARMERS. 3 Hours.
Human adaptations and cultural evolution in the Old World from the earliest African sites over two million years ago to the domestication of plants and animals about ten thousand years ago. Formerly ANTH 2353; credit cannot be granted for both ANTH 2353 and ANTH 3353.

ANTH 3354. ANTHROPOLOGY OF HUNTING. 3 Hours.
Covers a broad range of topics exploring hunting through time, from the prehistoric to the present. Topics include cross-cultural issues of meat and diet, hunter-gatherer subsistence behavior, overkill and animal extinction, and sport hunting. Course is relevant to environmental studies and sustainability studies.

ANTH 3355. THE RISE OF CIVILIZATION. 3 Hours.
The development of complex cultures from village farming societies in various regions of the Old and New Worlds. The civilizations of Mesopotamia, Egypt, and Mesoamerica, among others, will be treated, along with general questions concerning the rise, development, and collapse of early civilizations. Formerly ANTH 2355; credit will not be granted for both ANTH 2355 and ANTH 3355.

ANTH 3356. MESOAMERICAN ARCHAEOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Covers cultural developments in Mesoamerica through the rise of complex societies and the Spanish conquest. Topics include the emergence of Olmecs, Zapotecs, Maya, Toltecs, and the Aztecs, and explore the factors that contributed to their appearance and decline. New discoveries within the field of Mesoamerican archaeology will be examined.

ANTH 3357. COLLAPSE AND SUSTAINABILITY OF SOCIETIES. 3 Hours.
This course investigates the collapse of past societies. Understanding why and how archaeologically-known societies collapsed may provide insights to help us understand contemporary social and environmental sustainability problems.

ANTH 3358. UNDERWATER ARCHAEOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Explores the field of underwater archaeology and research methods. Topics include shipwrecks, submerged terrestrial sites, the use of scuba diving, robots, and sonar in excavation and survey, and the history and development of the discipline.

ANTH 3359. STONE TOOLS. 3 Hours.
Covers the evolution of stone tools from the first modified stone objects to the use of stone tools in complex societies such as the ancient Maya and Egyptians. Introduces students to lithic analysis and manufacture, emphasizing hands-on learning.

ANTH 3360. ARCHAEOLOGY IN PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Covers the practical aspects of archaeology with a focus on hands-on activities and experiential learning. Students learn archaeological skills and understand the life and research of archaeologists. Topics may include research design, survey, and the laws protecting archaeological sites.

ANTH 3366. SEX, GENDER, AND CULTURE. 3 Hours.
The ways gender and sexuality are culturally constructed. Readings include ethnographies, life histories, and fiction. Debates within anthropology and within specific cultures over maleness and femaleness. Offered as ANTH 3366 and GWSS 3366; credit will be granted only once.

ANTH 3369. MEDICAL ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Medical systems studied cross-culturally to understand how environmental, biological, social, and cultural factors affect disease and health. The cultural dynamics of traditional practitioners and rituals within the health care system. Methods of articulating modern medicine with traditional medicine are discussed.

ANTH 3370. ARCHAEOLOGY OF THE PREHISTORIC AEGEAN. 3 Hours.
Origin, evolution and decline of the first high civilizations in Europe, namely the Minoans on the island of Crete and the Mycenaeans in Greece. Stone Age background and Early Bronze Age seafaring in the Cycladic Islands; Late Bronze Age society, economy, and religion; art and architecture of the Minoan and Mycenaean palaces; Linear A and B tablets; Mycenaean collapse and the beginning of the Iron Age; Homer's Iliad, archaeology and the Trojan War.

ANTH 3371. ARCHAEOLOGY OF GREECE. 3 Hours.
Material evidence relevant to our understanding of classical Greek culture and society from the collapse of the Mycenaean Empire through the Hellenistic Period (ca. 1200-31 B.C.). Examination of the magnificent (temples, sculpture, athletic monuments, ships) and the mundane (domestic architecture, pottery, crafts, coinage, inscriptions, architecture and artifacts of civic life, burials). Archaeological evidence will be considered in light of contemporary historical sources.

ANTH 3372. ARCHAEOLOGY OF THE ANCIENT NEAR EAST. 3 Hours.
Survey of the cultures of Mesopotamia, Syria, Palestine, and Anatolia from the earliest agricultural settlements to the late first millennium B.C. based on the surviving archaeological remains. Among the topics covered: Nature of early urbanism; development of religious and economic hierarchies; origins and impact of writing; interrelationships among early states.

ANTH 3373. ARCHAEOLOGY OF EGYPT. 3 Hours.
The culture of ancient Egypt from its earliest occupation until the Arab invasion (7th century A.C.), with emphasis on the first 20 pharaonic dynasties (third and second millennia B.C.). Egyptian social, religious, economic and political development traced through the surviving material culture (architecture, art, industries, artifacts of daily life, funerary remains, etc.) supplemented by historical and literary evidence as pertinent. Egypt's relations with neighboring regions (Crete, Anatolia, Palestine, Nubia and Libya) considered. Offered as AAST 3373 and ANTH 3373; credit will be granted in only one department.

ANTH 3374. ARCHEOLOGY OF EUROPE. 3 Hours.
Ancient Europe is a mosaic of archaeological regionalism whose complexity is arguably unparalleled elsewhere in the world. This course surveys the material remains of several prominent ancient cultures from Iberia to the Danube, from Scandinavia to Greece, dating from stone age to medieval times. Emphasis will be on understanding the various regional traditions and their interactions, and on explicating trends in technology, economy and religion in European society during this long period. Among the topics to be examined: Paleolithic hunters and artists; agricultural origins; megalithic monuments; bronze metallurgy and its ramifications; the first high civilizations in the Mediterranean; the rise of the Celts; the coming of iron; impact of Romanization; the nature of Viking exploration and expansion.

ANTH 3375. NEANDERTHALS AND THE ICE AGE WORLD. 3 Hours.
Explores the archaeological record of Neanderthals, early modern humans, and their contemporaries. Topics include new genetic and isotopic analyses, ancient environments, early art and symbolism, and how the Paleolithic is imagined in modern society.

ANTH 3390. SPECIAL TOPICS IN ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Selected, specialized topics in anthropology. These may be cultural, archaeological, or biological in focus, and vary each semester. Contact the department or click on the course link to find current course title and description. May be repeated for credit with departmental permission as topics vary.

ANTH 3409. PALEOANTHROPOLOGY. 4 Hours.
Paleoanthropology: an exploration of fossil evidence for human origins and human evolution. Course focuses on the evolution of humans and our close relatives, from our origins as a distinct lineage to "anatomically modern" Homo sapiens, including the relationship between biological and cultural/behavioral evolution. Offered as BIOL 3409 and ANTH 3409; credit will be granted only once.

ANTH 4191. CONFERENCE COURSE. 1 Hour.
Topics assigned on an individual basis covering personal research or study in the designated area. Topics assigned on an individual basis covering personal research or study in the designated area. Prerequisite: permission of the instructor.

ANTH 4291. CONFERENCE COURSE. 2 Hours.
Topics assigned on an individual basis covering personal research or study in the designated area. Topics assigned on an individual basis covering personal research or study in the designated area. Prerequisite: permission of the instructor.

ANTH 4315. GROWTH, DEVELOPMENT, AND EVOLUTION. 3 Hours.
A survey of topics at the nexus of modern human biological research in growth and development and the evolutionary record of hominid subadults. Offered as BIOL 4316 and ANTH 4315; credit will be granted only in one department. Prerequisite is only required for students registering for ANTH 4315. Prerequisite: ANTH 2307 or permission of the instructor.

ANTH 4322. PROBLEMS IN ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Intensive examination of an important problem in anthropological research selected by the instructor. May be repeated for credit whenever the topic varies.

ANTH 4342. TOPICS IN CULTURAL ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Selected topics, to include anthropological theory, population and cultural ecology, semiotics, and humanistic anthropology. May be repeated for credit with departmental permission. Also offered as ANTH 4342. Credit will be granted in only one department.

ANTH 4348. POLITICAL ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Relationships among power, identity, and culture in cross-cultural perspective. Traditional political systems, political symbols and rituals, gender and power, and the relationship between domination and resistance. How culture influences the ways in which men and women get power, use power, and resist power.

ANTH 4358. TOPICS IN ARCHAEOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Selected topics, to include examination of specific archaeological cultures of the Old World, archaeological theory, and archaeology and pseudoscience. May be taken up to four times for a total of 12 hours credit.

ANTH 4391. CONFERENCE COURSE. 3 Hours.
Topics assigned on an individual basis covering personal research or study in the designated area. Topics assigned on an individual basis covering personal research or study in the designated area. Prerequisite: permission of the instructor.

ANTH 4392. PRACTICUM IN ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Supervised practicum with anthropology faculty in which students apply practical, career-oriented anthropological skills in archaeology, biological anthropology, or cultural anthropology. Prerequisite: ANTH 2307, ANTH 2322, OR ANTH 2339; permission of the instructor; and junior standing.

ANTH 4393. INTERNSHIP IN ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Supervised internship program, in which students intern at various companies, non-profit and governmental agencies, and museums in the Metroplex. Applied use of anthropology in a non-academic setting. Students will learn skills of career development in anthropology. Requirements include several short assignments and a final report to the instructor. Prerequisite: ANTH 2307, ANTH 2322, OR ANTH 2339; permission of the instructor; and junior standing.

ANTH 4394. HONORS THESIS/SENIOR PROJECT. 3 Hours.
Required of all students in the University Honors College. During the senior year, the student must complete a thesis or project of equivalent difficulty under the direction of a faculty member in the major department.

ANTH 4398. SUMMER FIELD SCHOOL IN ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
(3 or 6 hours credit). Offered only during the summer session. Experience in methods of field research in ethnography or archaeology. May be repeated for credit if research topic changes.

ANTH 4406. HUMAN OSTEOLOGY. 4 Hours.
Detailed examination of human skeletal morphology. Topics include form and function of all skeletal elements in the human body, differentiation of each bone, left and right side identification, identification or fragmented remains, and muscle attachments and articulations. Content useful in forensic anthropology, archaeology, and hominid paleontology. Offered as BIOL 4406 and ANTH 4406; credit will be granted only in one department.

ANTH 4459. BIOARCHAEOLOGY. 4 Hours.
The study of human remains in archaeological contexts in order to reconstruct individual identity, life history, and past population characteristics. No formal prerequisites, but familiarity with the human skeleton is helpful. Lab component is required. Offered as BIOL 4459 and ANTH 4459; credit will be granted only in one department.

ANTH 4460. ZOOARCHAEOLOGY. 4 Hours.
The study of faunal remains from archaeological contexts to understand past human economic strategies and ecological circumstances. Topics include skeletal and taxonomic identification, taphonomic processes, mortality profiles, biometric analyses, and human behavioral ecology. Lab component is required. Offered as BIOL 4460 and ANTH 4460; credit will be granted only once.

ANTH 4698. SUMMER FIELD SCHOOL IN ANTHROPOLOGY. 6 Hours.
(3 or 6 hours credit). Offered only during the summer session. Experience in methods of field research in ethnography or archaeology. May be repeated for credit if research topic changes.

ANTH 5191. CONFERENCE COURSE. 1 Hour.

ANTH 5307. FORENSIC ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Estimating age, sex, race, stature, pathology, cause of death, and time since death from human remains. The role of skeletal biology and physical anthropology in criminal investigation. Case studies will be used to demonstrate application of the methods studied. Requires enrollment in the undergraduate lab section.

ANTH 5310. HISTORY OF ANTHROPOLOGICAL THEORY. 3 Hours.
This course is a critical examination of major theoretical trends in ethnological theory, from mid-19th century to the present.

ANTH 5315. ARCHAEOLOGICAL METHODS. 3 Hours.
An examination of research methods and underlying theory in archaeology and their evolution since the era of European antiquarianism. Origins and development of archaeology as a scholarly discipline. Emphasis on the period 1960-present; consideration of recent trends in analysis and reportage.

ANTH 5317. ARCHAEOLOGY OF EXPLORATION. 3 Hours.
Archaeological evidence for travel in antiquity. Technology of travel (horse/camel, wheeled vehicles, boats) and related topics (navigation; development of trade and trade routes; nature of discovery, settlement and colonization in antiquity). Case studies drawn from ancient cultures of the Old World from the Stone Age through Medieval times.

ANTH 5320. METHODS IN BIOLOGICAL ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This course covers several topical areas relevant to biological anthropologists specializing in human biology, including osteology and skeletal biology, skeletal maturation (both postcranial and craniofacial), growth and development from birth to biological maturity, and selected topics in forensics, anthropometry, physiology, nutrition, genetics, epidemiology, and demography.

ANTH 5325. QUALITATIVE METHODS. 3 Hours.
Students do fieldwork in anthropology. Students practice participant observation, conduct an interview, collect a kinship chart, map blocks, collect life histories and participate in rituals. Course emphasizes methods of data collection, analysis/interpretation of data, and critical writing.

ANTH 5341. POSTCOLONIAL SOUTH ASIA. 3 Hours.
It approaches the competing and complementary claims on postcolonial theory by mapping the intersections in historical anthropology, literary theory, and cultural analysis. More broadly it brings to focus the shifts from Marxist to Poststructuralist directions. Though the regional focus is on India, the endeavor is also to assess dialogues among varying strands of cultural perspectives and its impact in other postcolonial contexts, both within and beyond the South Asian subcontinent.

ANTH 5342. ADVANCED ETHNOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Seminar based on student reports and critiques of assigned readings. Major emphasis on the areas of ethnology and social anthropology.

ANTH 5344. CULTURES OF LATIN AMERICA. 3 Hours.
An ethnological comparison of societies and cultures in Central and South America. Emphasis on gender, ethnicity, and political economy.

ANTH 5345. RELIGION AND CULTURE. 3 Hours.
An ethnological comparison of native religions to understand non-western belief systems. Emphasis on rituals, myths, totemic systems, taboos, and cosmology.

ANTH 5346. MESOAMERICAN ARCHAEOLOGY. 3 Hours.
An examination of the diversities of several prehistoric Mesoamerican cultures including the Olmec, Maya, Teotihuacan, Zapotec, and the Aztec. Current issues including the beginnings of agriculture, early village life, the rise of complexity and the institution of kingship, warfare, and Mesoamerican ideology and cosmology will be addressed.

ANTH 5349. TOPICS IN ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
May be repeated for credit as the topic changes.

ANTH 5351. EMERGENCE OF HUMANKIND. 3 Hours.
An intensive review of the evidence for, and main outlines of, human biological and cultural evolution up to agricultural origins.

ANTH 5353. MEDICAL ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
An examination of anthropological concepts for understanding curing practices and attitudes toward health programs in various cultures.

ANTH 5355. HUNTERS AND GATHERERS. 3 Hours.
Cross-cultural approach to the ecological, social, and historical contexts of hunters, gatherers, and foragers.

ANTH 5363. ETHNOGRAPHY AND PERSONAL NARRATIVE. 3 Hours.
Focus is on anthropology and autobiography, autoethnography, life history, and narrative constructions of selfhood in different cultural contexts. Development of the life history approach in ethnographic research. Methods in the collections and analysis of life stories.

ANTH 5365. GLOBALIZATION AND INTERNATIONAL MIGRATION. 3 Hours.
Examines how the expansion of global capitalist economy has contributed to the growth of international migration around the world. Focuses on how transnational migration affects the economic, social, political, and cultural practices of immigrants in both their countries of origin and destination.

ANTH 5369. FOLKLORE AND MYTHOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Function, forms, and interpretation of folklore and myth in traditional societies; examination of oral literature as an expression of continuity and change; emphasis on a structural analysis of myth.

ANTH 5370. APPLIED ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Examines the application of anthropological knowledge to solve practical problems in today's global world. We learn how anthropological concepts, methods, and insights are applied to understand and solve important problems related to economic development, health, environmental issues, immigration, international business, and others.

ANTH 5371. RESEARCH PRACTICUM / INTERNSHIP. 3 Hours.

ANTH 5373. ARCHAEOLOGY FIELD SCHOOL. 3 Hours.
This course, conducted during the summer sessions, consists of on-site and classroom instruction in techniques of archaeological survey, excavation, laboratory, processing, and analysis. Students can receive either three or six hours of credit. Enrollment by permission of instructor only. Prior coursework in anthropology desirable but not necessary.

ANTH 5389. TEACHING ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.
To learn strategies of coping with practical problems of teaching undergraduate anthropology, students confer with one or more professors to discuss preparing syllabi and lectures, constructing and evaluating examinations, etc. Not to be counted toward the degree requirement.

ANTH 5392. CONFERENCE COURSE IN ANTHROPOLOGY. 3 Hours.

ANTH 5398. THESIS. 3 Hours.

ANTH 5406. HUMAN OSTEOLOGY. 4 Hours.
Detailed examination of human skeletal morphology. Topics include form and function of all skeletal elements in the human body, differentiation of each bone, left and right side identification, identification of fragmented remains, and muscle attachments and articulations. Content useful in forensic anthropology, archaeology, and hominid paleontology. If taken for undergraduate credit either as ANTH 4306 or ANTH 4406, cannot be repeated for graduate credit.

ANTH 5673. ARCHAEOLOGY FIELD SCHOOL. 6 Hours.
This course, conducted during the summer sessions, consists of on-site and classroom instruction in techniques of archaeological survey, excavation, laboratory, processing, and analysis. Students can receive either three or six hours of credit. Enrollment by permission of instructor only. Prior coursework in anthropology desirable but not necessary.

ANTH 5698. THESIS. 6 Hours.

COURSES

SOCI 1200. PERSONAL AND PROFESSIONAL SUCCESS IN THE SOCIAL SCIENCES. 2 Hours.
A first year experience course for new students and new transfer students interested in a career in the social sciences. Provides the necessary foundation for success in a college environment while balancing personal and/or work obligations. Orients students to life on campus, demonstrates how to leverage campus resources to achieve career and academic goals, and emphasizes engagement outside the classroom through collaborative and co-curricular opportunities. Fulfills the University requirement for either UNIV 1101 or UNIV 1131. Offered as SOCI 1200 and ANTH 1200; credit will be granted only once.

SOCI 1310. INTRODUCTION TO POPULAR CULTURE. 3 Hours.
This course will introduce students to the role of popular culture in American society. It examines culture as a process through which people make symbolic meaning out of the world. Since everyone has access to popular culture, it constructs the way that people think about the world around them. The course will explore the creation, production, dissemination, reception and consumption of popular culture.

SOCI 1311. INTRODUCTION TO SOCIOLOGY. 3 Hours. (TCCN = SOCI 1301)
(SOCI 1301). A scientific approach to the analysis and explanation of culture, personality, and social organization. The social processes and mechanisms of interaction involved in the natural process of cultural development, dissemination, assimilation, and the institutions of the group. This course satisfies the University of Texas at Arlington core curriculum requirement in Social and Behavioral Sciences.

SOCI 2312. SOCIAL PROBLEMS. 3 Hours. (TCCN = SOCI 1306)
A survey of contemporary social problems in the United States. Emphasis is on applying different theoretical perspectives and systematic procedures to understand social problems as public issues rather than personal problems. This course satisfies the University of Texas at Arlington core curriculum requirement in Social and Behavioral Sciences.

SOCI 3312. JUVENILE DELINQUENCY. 3 Hours.
The delinquent as a person and delinquency as a social problem, theories of delinquency, and methods of correctional treatment and preventive programs.

SOCI 3313. CRIMINOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Crime-related social issues. Defining and measuring crime, surveying major theoretical explanations of criminal behavior, and society's formal responses to crime and criminals.

SOCI 3314. THE LATINA EXPERIENCE. 3 Hours.
Examines the social, cultural and economic experiences of Latin American women in the United States, with particular emphasis on Mexican-origin women. The course surveys the historical and contemporary experiences of Latinas in the United States with respect to family dynamics, religion, education, politics, health and illness, the labor market, mass media, and the arts. Offered as MAS 3314, SOCI 3314, SOCW 3314, GWSS 3314, and AAST 3321. Credit will be granted in only one department.

SOCI 3315. SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY OF CRIME. 3 Hours.
Selected concepts in social psychology applied to issues in crime and justice, such as the actions of victims, criminals, and criminal justice professionals. Topics include aggression, social perception, cognitions, conformity, obedience, and deviance.

SOCI 3316. LATINO HEALTH ISSUES. 3 Hours.
A cross-cultural examination of issues in Latino health and relevant health practices in the United States through the lenses of social sciences. Themes include the Latino Threat Narrative, acculturation histories and health care status of major Latino ethnic enclaves in the U.S. Listed as SOCI 3316, MAS 3316 and ANTH 3316; may receive credit for either SOCI 3316, MAS 3316, or ANTH 3316.

SOCI 3317. INDIVIDUAL AND SOCIETY. 3 Hours.
How society influences individual thought, feeling, and behavior. Includes interpersonal perception, attitudes, norms, roles, conformity, and such social issues as aggression, helping behavior, prejudice, and interpersonal attraction.

SOCI 3318. SELF AND SOCIAL IDENTITY. 3 Hours.
The social self. Topics include factors in the development, organization, evaluation and presentation of self in everyday life and processes by which social categories and roles influence self concept.

SOCI 3319. SMALL GROUPS. 3 Hours.
The process and structures of small-scale interaction systems, including an analysis of the process of leadership, the exercise of influence, the effect of groups on individuals and of individuals on groups, the relation and function of the small group as a part of a larger whole, and the process of group formation, development, and disintegration.

SOCI 3320. DEVIANCE: SOCIAL AND PERSONAL. 3 Hours.
Theoretical perspectives on societal definitions of behavior as deviant or disorganized. Selected studies, representative of current problems, examined critically in terms of the structural-cultural conditions of contemporary society.

SOCI 3321. SOCIALIZATION AND SOCIAL CONTROL. 3 Hours.
The relationship between social structure and the individual. The influence of social factors on cognitive development, personality formation, and the behavior of individuals throughout the lifecycle. The effect of socialization on conformity and deviance. Prerequisite: sophomore standing or permission of the instructor.

SOCI 3322. RACE, LATINOS, AND THE AMERICAN NARRATIVE. 3 Hours.
Adopts race and ethnicity as a central platform to examine how sociocultural and structural processes intersect to shape an American narrative of Latinos in the United States. Assesses topics like ethnic capital, socioeconomic mobility, and the digital age to broaden a sociological understanding of Latino group progress in relation to widening inequality gaps. Offered as SOCI 3322 and MAS 3322; credit will be granted in only one department.

SOCI 3323. COLLECTIVE BEHAVIOR. 3 Hours.
Provides an overview of the elementary forms of collective behavior including riots, panics, fads, fashion, cults and crazes. Explanatory theories and specific instances of the different forms of collective behavior are examined. Prerequisite: SOCI 1311.

SOCI 3324. SOCIAL MOVEMENTS. 3 Hours.
Focuses on twentieth and twenty-first century social movements, including the U.S. civil rights movement, the student and anti-war movements of the 1960s, the women's movement, the environmental movement, and anti-globalization movements. Status politics movements, such as pro-choice/pro-life and gay rights movements, are also explored. Compares these movements with their counterparts in other countries and identifies the reasons for their successes and failures.

SOCI 3327. INTERCULTURAL INTERACTION. 3 Hours.
Patterns and variations in interactions involving people from different cultures and subcultures. Intercultural interaction, both within multicultural societies and between persons from different societies.

SOCI 3328. MARITAL AND SEXUAL LIFESTYLES. 3 Hours.
Contemporary American lifestyles selected from: singles, traditional marriage, homosexuals, single-parent families, open marriage, non-marital sexuality, cohabitation, dual-career marriage, childless couples, egalitarian marriage, families in later life. Offered as DIVR 3328, SOCI 3328 and GWSS 3328; credit will be granted only once.

SOCI 3331. SOCIOLOGY OF THE FAMILY. 3 Hours.
The family's role in American society and in other cultures past, present, and future. Family research methods, comparative family systems, child development/parenting, culture and personality, minority families, social class variation in families, work and family. Offered as SOCI 3331 and GWSS 3331; credit will be granted only once. Prerequisite: sophomore standing or permission of the instructor.

SOCI 3332. SOCIOLOGY OF REPRODUCTION. 3 Hours.
Investigates historical and contemporary cultural customs, social institutions, and personal experiences related to reproduction. Topics may include assisted reproduction, pregnancy loss, living "child-free," sperm/egg donation, and surrogacy. Examines how changing economic conditions, technologies, and social norms shape the meaning of children, childbirth education, infertility, and the experience of birth for both men and women.

SOCI 3334. SOCIOLOGY OF GENDER. 3 Hours.
Examination of theoretical and empirical approaches to understanding the formation of gender. Assesses individual and structural dimensions of gender in various social institutions including work, education, and families. Offered as SOCI 3334 and GWSS 3334; credit will be granted only once.

SOCI 3336. SOCIAL INEQUALITY. 3 Hours.
Examines the processes, characteristics, and consequences of social inequality in society. Topics include the social class structure, status groups, and elite power structure as they influence people's life chances. Offered as AAST 3336 and SOCI 3336; credit will be granted in only one department.

SOCI 3337. RACIAL & ETHNIC GROUPS IN US. 3 Hours.
Compares the immigration, acculturation, and adjustment processes of various racial/ethnic groups in the U.S. Examines historical and contemporary discrimination in relation to the social conditions of racial/ethnic minority groups in the U. S. Topics include classical and contemporary theory; individualistic, cultural, and structural arguments about social arrangements; and conflict among majority and minority groups. Offered as AAST 3337, MAS 3337, and SOCI 3337; credit will be granted in only one department. Credit will not be granted for both SOCI 3337 and SOCI 4310 or for MAS 3337 and MAS 4310.

SOCI 3338. CONTEMPORARY BLACK EXPERIENCE. 3 Hours.
An overview of recent research concerning the African American experience in the post-civil rights era. Topics include explanations for racial differences across spheres of society such as income, education, and occupation; the debate over race versus social class; the persistence of racial discrimination; and emerging disputes within the black community regarding "what it means to be black." Offered as AAST 3338 and SOCI 3338; credit will be granted in only one department.

SOCI 3339. RACE, SPORT AND MEDIA. 3 Hours.
The media, including television, film, print, audio, and online outlets, influence how we view the world. This course analyzes overt, subtle and subliminal messages about culture, race, ethnicity, and sport as presented to us through various forms of the media. Through examinations of media portrayals of race, both past and present, students will analyze media artifacts, identify recurring themes, and examine research focused on the societal effects of stereotypical media portrayals. Offered as AAST 3339 and SOCI 3339; credit will be granted in only one department.

SOCI 3340. SOCIOLOGY OF EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
This course examines the sociocultural processes involved in the production of academic inequalities. It assesses how families shape students' opportunity structures and explores how factors like teacher influences, neighborhood environments, peer groups, and cultural resources shape students' educational trajectories. The course emphasizes college and university settings to further understandings of the disparate academic experiences of marginalized student groups. Prerequisite: sophomore standing or permission of the instructor.

SOCI 3341. SOCIOLOGY OF SPORT. 3 Hours.
Sociological examination of the institution of sport in U.S. society. By examining selected topics such as sport and socialization, sport and politics, sport and education, the Olympics, race and sport, violence in sport, women in sport, and the business of sport, this course will address the social significance of sport and its function as a major social institution.

SOCI 3342. SOCIOLOGY OF THE HUMAN BODY. 3 Hours.
Drawing from the social sciences, cultural and gender studies, and exercise physiology, this course in body sociology addresses several contemporary issues relating to diet, nutrition and exercise. Specific topics include eating disorders, factory farming, and "body industries" involving weight-loss diets, gyms, fashion, and cosmetic and bariatric surgery. The medical model of bodies is also examined. Also listed as KINE 3342; credit will not be granted for both.

SOCI 3343. RELIGION IN MODERN AMERICA. 3 Hours.
This course provides an overview of the scientific study of religion from a sociological perspective. The focus is on theories, research and trends relevant to religion in the contemporary United States. Topics include, but are not limited to, religious traditions, practices, and beliefs; declining religious participation; and religion and social change. The relationship between religion, politics, race relations, sex and gender will also be examined. Offered as SOCI 3343 and AAST 3342; credit will be granted in only one department.

SOCI 3345. SOCIOLOGY OF THE 1960S. 3 Hours.
This course presents a sociological analysis of the sixties, stressing the connection between grassroots mobilization and large structures of power, war, race and gender. The legacy of the sixties is examined through stories told by and about activists of the period. Parallels between the sixties and the present are identified. Movements covered may include civil rights, black power, anti-war and women's rights. Offered as AAST 3344 and SOCI 3345; credit will be granted in only one department.

SOCI 3346. U.S. INTO THE TWENTY-FIRST CENTURY. 3 Hours.
Selected problems, prospects, and dilemmas examined in the context of contemporary perspectives in sociology as the United States enters the new millennium as a global actor.

SOCI 3347. ENVIRONMENT AND SOCIETY. 3 Hours.
Explores the causes, consequences, and potential resolutions of environmental issues as they relate to human society. Topics include the social roots of environmental problems, inequalities in the distribution of environmental risks and harms, and new directions in sustainable development.

SOCI 3348. SOCIAL ASPECTS OF RISK. 3 Hours.
An examination of the social aspects of risk in everyday life. The course covers the relationship between risk and thrill-seeking behavior, risk assessment and the management of risk by technical experts, risk perceptions among the general public, and how technology and culture change the nature and meaning of risk over time.

SOCI 3351. WORK, OCCUPATIONS, AND CAREER DEVELOPMENT. 3 Hours.
Combines applied information on career development with a sociological perspective on work and occupations. Career development topics may include academic majors and career options, networking, career mentorship and sponsorship, job searches, resume writing, and interviewing. Other topics may include the historical development of work, occupational structures (professional, managerial, service, and blue-collar occupations), inequalities, work satisfaction, work-life balance, and the future of work.

SOCI 3352. APPLIED STATISTICS FOR SOCIAL RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
Learn to describe patterns in data, analyze relationships between variables, and make predictions by generating tables, graphs, and statistics. Students will use statistical software to answer research questions in the social sciences. Major sections of the course include descriptive statistics (central tendency and variability), inferential statistics (hypothesis testing and estimation), and multivariate analysis (regression).

SOCI 3353. SOCIAL CLIMATE OF CITIES. 3 Hours.
A comparative study of urban communities and metropolitan areas in terms of their distinctive social life and culture. Topics touching on power and urban politics, race and ethnic relations, poverty, and leisure and lifestyles will be examined in terms of their contribution to the unique social climate of cities. Offered as AAST 3353 and SOCI 3353; credit will be granted in only one department.

SOCI 3355. APPS AND TOOLS FOR SOCIAL RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
A hands-on course in which students learn to use the apps and tools commonly used in qualitative and quantitative social research to collect, manage, analyze, and present different types of information, such as numeric data, pictures, audio, video, and text. Satisfies the university requirements for computer literacy and oral communication.

SOCI 3356. WOMEN, WORK AND SOCIAL CHANGE. 3 Hours.
Women's work experiences, how these experiences are changing, and relationship between paid employment and non-wage household labor. Paid and unpaid work experiences are empirically examined in terms of a variety of theoretical perspectives. Offered as DIVR 3356, SOCI 3356 and GWSS 3356; credit will be granted only once.

SOCI 3357. LAW AND SOCIETY. 3 Hours.
Law as a social institution. The processes of defining criminal conduct and the social functions of law and of legal processes and systems. Prerequisite: sophomore standing or permission of the instructor.

SOCI 3360. TOPICS IN SOCIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Selected topics in social issues, policy, processes and/or structure. May be repeated for credit with departmental permission.

SOCI 3362. SOCIAL RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
Students examine quantitative and qualitative research designs, such as experiments, survey research, and intensive interviewing. Additional topics including research ethics, literature reviews, measurement, sampling, and causation. Required of all sociology majors.

SOCI 3365. PROGRAM EVALUATION & NEEDS ASSESSMENT. 3 Hours.
Introduces basic concepts in evaluation research addressing the need for and implementation, effectiveness, and efficiency of social intervention efforts. Students will advance their skills in quantitative and qualitative research in partnership with community organizations. The course provides an opportunity to learn about and apply techniques for needs assessment, formative and summative program evaluation, developing and testing social impact models, examining costs and benefits, and communicating findings. Prerequisite: SOCI 3462.

SOCI 3366. POPULATION TRENDS AND PROCESSES. 3 Hours.
Examines the fact that all people are born, usually move from one place to another, and inevitably die. Societal patterns in human fertility, migration and mortality contribute to widely varied life-chances for people over time and across the planet. This course explores theories and research on demographic dimensions of human behavior as they affect social and economic issues. The course provides an understanding of how vital population trends and processes are for assessing social problems and offering solutions. Credit will not be granted for both SOCI 4325 and SOCI 3366.

SOCI 3372. SOCIOLOGICAL THEORY. 3 Hours.
This course introduces students to major theories and figures who have provided sociology with interpretations of the social world. Students will consider how sociologists use theoretical concepts to understand social interactions, social problems, and social change. Students will apply sociological theories to social phenomena. Prerequisite: junior standing or permission of the instructor.

SOCI 3373. SOCIAL THEORY THROUGH POPULAR CULTURE. 3 Hours.
This course examines major theories and figures who have provided sociology with interpretations of the social world. Students will read major social, cultural, and political theories through popular culture texts (including movies, television, music, video games, and comic books) in order to interpret sociological theory. The course is designed to demonstrate the relevance of social theory in students' everyday lives.

SOCI 3380. SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY IN SOCIETY. 3 Hours.
Explores the complex relationship between society, science, and technology. Themes include historical perspectives on the production and deployment of scientific knowledge, critical approaches to the social, cultural, and ethical impacts of scientific and technological developments, and the role of democracy in the advancement of science and technology.

SOCI 3381. INFLUENCERS, CREATORS, AND UBER DRIVERS. 3 Hours.
This course examines the way employers increasingly rely on temporary flexible labor, and what it feels like to be employed precariously. Themes may include creative labor, cultural production, automation, algorithmic hiring, labor contracts, and exploitation.

SOCI 3390. HONORS COLLOQUIUM. 3 Hours.
An interdisciplinary course designed to meet the needs of advanced undergraduates in the Honors College. Prerequisite: participation in the Honors College and/or permission of the instructor.

SOCI 4191. CONFERENCE COURSE. 1 Hour.
Topics assigned on an individual basis covering personal research or study in the designated areas. Prerequisite: permission of the instructor.

SOCI 4193. INTERNSHIP IN SOCIOLOGY. 1 Hour.
Supervised internship program in which a student interns at a company, non-profit organization, or governmental agency. Involves the application of sociology in a non-academic setting. Students may complete a maximum of 6 hours in any combination of SOCI 4193, SOCI 4293, and SOCI 4393. Prerequisite: SOCI 1311 or SOCI 2313; permission of the instructor; and junior standing.

SOCI 4195. SERVICE LEARNING INDEPENDENT STUDY. 1 Hour.
This course involves the investigation and application of sociological knowledge through community based service. Involves structured academic analysis of service experiences. The student and supervising faculty will identify the partner agency and social issue to be addressed. Prerequisite: permission of the instructor.

SOCI 4291. CONFERENCE COURSE. 2 Hours.
Topics assigned on an individual basis covering personal research or study in the designated areas. Prerequisite: permission of the instructor.

SOCI 4293. INTERNSHIP IN SOCIOLOGY. 2 Hours.
Supervised internship program in which a student interns at a company, non-profit organization, or governmental agency. Involves the application of sociology in a non-academic setting. Students may complete a maximum of 6 hours in any combination of SOCI 4193, SOCI 4293 and SOCI 4393. Prerequisite: SOCI 1311 or SOCI 2312; permission of the instructor; and junior standing.

SOCI 4295. SERVICE LEARNING INDEPENDENT STUDY. 2 Hours.
This course involves the investigation of sociological knowledge through community based service. Involves structured academic analysis of service experiences. The student and supervising faculty will identify the partner agency and social issue to be addressed. Prerequisite: permission of the instructor.

SOCI 4303. WOMEN IN SOCIETY. 3 Hours.
Women's status in contemporary American society, including the family, workplace, and politics. Women's status will also be examined in historical and crosscultural perspectives. Offered as SOCI 4303 and GWSS 4303; credit will be granted only once.

SOCI 4306. QUALITATIVE RESEARCH METHODS. 3 Hours.
Conceptual frameworks and techniques for planning, conducting, analyzing, reporting and evaluating qualitative research. Topics include interviewing, participant observation, coding, case studies and focus groups. Prerequisite: sophomore standing or permission of the instructor.

SOCI 4309. WRITING FOR THE SOCIAL SCIENCES. 3 Hours.
This course blends the theory and practice of social science writing in order to teach students how to move from the first draft to the final draft of term papers, theses, dissertations, and articles. The primary skill taught is self-editing --appraising one's work from the outside. The goal is to learn how to write for publication, drawing from postmodern perspectives on writing. Prerequisite: SOCI 1311 or permission of instructor.

SOCI 4315. VIOLENCE IN SOCIETY. 3 Hours.
Violence as a group process directed toward social change. Historical perspectives, current events, preventive and control techniques, public reaction, and individual behavior. Prerequisite: sophomore standing or permission of the instructor.

SOCI 4320. MEDICAL SOCIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
The relationships between different societies and social groups and their incidence of disease and mortality. Also examines culture-related causes of disease and treatment approaches, medicine as an occupation, healer-patient relationships, and the modern hospital as a bureaucratic organization.

SOCI 4331. RACE, ETHNICITY & FAMILY FORMATION. 3 Hours.
Investigates the ways in which cultural understandings of race and ethnicity have shaped historical and contemporary variations in family structure, familial experiences, and the legal possibilities for family formation. Junior standing (60 hours) or permission of the instructor required to enroll in this course. Offered as AAST 4331 and SOCI 4331; credit will be granted in only one department.

SOCI 4341. INEQUALITIES IN PUBLIC EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
This course examines the manner in which race, ethnicity, and class affect the quality of education in the public schools. Topics include the resegregation of schools, class and race based achievement and funding gaps, and the role the schools play in reproducing inequality. This course has a service learning component and requires volunteering in programs designed to reduce inequality in the schools. Offered as AAST 4341 and SOCI 4341; credit will be granted in only one department.

SOCI 4365. TOPICS IN SOCIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Selected topics in social issues, policy, processes and/or structure. Prerequisite: junior standing or permission of the instructor. May be repeated for credit with departmental permission.

SOCI 4370. SENIOR RESEARCH SEMINAR. 3 Hours.
Provides sociology majors with an opportunity to gain practical experience in social research through in-depth participation in a cooperative research project. Integrates substantive knowledge with methodological skills. Oral, written, and computer application components are included. Prerequisite: SOCI 3362 or permission of the instructor.

SOCI 4391. CONFERENCE COURSE. 3 Hours.
Topics assigned on an individual basis covering personal research or study in the designated areas. Prerequisite: permission of the instructor.

SOCI 4393. INTERNSHIP IN SOCIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Supervised internship program in which a student interns at a company, non-profit organization, or governmental agency. Involves the application of sociology in a non-academic setting. Students may complete a maximum of 6 hours in any combination of SOCI 4193, SOCI 4293, and SOCI 4393. Prerequisite: SOCI 1311 or SOCI 2312; permission of instructor; and junior standing.

SOCI 4394. HONORS THESIS/SENIOR PROJECT. 3 Hours.
Required of all students in the University Honors College. During the senior year, the student must complete a thesis or project of equivalent difficulty under the direction of a faculty member in the major department.

SOCI 4395. SERVICE LEARNING INDEPENDENT STUDY. 3 Hours.
This course involves the investigation and application of sociological knowledge through community based service. Involves structured academic analysis of service experiences. The student and supervising faculty will identify the partner agency and social issue to be addressed. Prerequisite: Permission of the Instructor.

SOCI 4396. INTERNSHIP IN POPULAR CULTURE. 3 Hours.
Supervised internship program in which a student interns at a company, non-profit organization, or governmental agency. Involves the application of popular culture knowledge in a non-academic setting. Prerequisite: SOCI 1310; permission of instructor; and junior standing.

SOCI 5191. CONFERENCE COURSE. 1 Hour.

SOCI 5301. SOCIOLOGICAL THEORY. 3 Hours.
A comprehensive review, analysis, and evaluation of the dominant conceptual perspectives, and their proponents, in sociological theory.

SOCI 5303. RESEARCH DESIGN. 3 Hours.
This seminar course overviews the process of designing, conducting, and presenting research. Topics include writing literature reviews, formulating research questions and hypotheses, designing measures for concepts, crafting research instruments, collecting data, analyzing data, and reporting the results. The course examines both quantitative methods, such as surveys and experiments, as well as qualitative methods, such as interviews and ethnographic observation.

SOCI 5304. SOCIAL STATISTICS I. 3 Hours.
This course reviews univariate and bivariate descriptive and inferential statistics, focuses on ordinary least squares multivariate regression (including statistical control, path analysis, dummy variables, interaction effects, nonlinear relationships, and regression assumptions), and introduces the generalized linear model (binary logistic regression). Emphasis is on the application of these methods to social science data.

SOCI 5305. RACIAL AND ETHNIC GROUPS IN THE UNITED STATES. 3 Hours.
This seminar course compares and contrasts the immigration, acculturation, and adjustment processes of various racial and ethnic groups in the United States. We will examine conventional and controversial arguments, as well as classical and contemporary theories concerning the dynamics of inter-group relations in America. Some of the more controversial topics in sociology-such as debates over assimilation, Americanization, and enduring conflicts between groups-are the foremost intellectual topics to be addressed. The reading list includes a diverse group of scholars who advance relevant research on race and ethnic relations.

SOCI 5306. SEMINAR IN RACE AND ETHNICITY. 3 Hours.
An advanced seminar on Race and Ethnicity in the United States. Past and present discrimination will be examined in relation to the current social conditions of minority groups living in the United States. A sociological approach to the topic begins with the assumption that race and ethnicity are socially and politically constructed phenomena. Race/ethnic categories within the United States have varied significantly across time and place. Sociology connects the concepts of race and ethnicity to social structures of inequality, power, and stratification. Scholarship on race and ethnicity is central to American sociology. We will empirically and theoretically explore: 1) the social, political and historical conditions under which segregation, racial hierarchies and racial conflict emerge, and 2) the institutions through which racial boundaries and hierarchies are produced and reproduced in the United States.

SOCI 5307. INEQUALITY, POVERTY, AND MOBILITY. 3 Hours.
This seminar course provides a graduate-level introduction to inequality, poverty, and mobility. We will focus on the United States, exploring the contemporary structure as well as long term trends in the distribution of material and nonmaterial resources and the economic, social, and cultural forces that generate and perpetuate the unequal distribution of resources. Our focus will be on inequalities in the areas and intersections of social class, gender, and race.

SOCI 5308. COMPARATIVE ETHNIC AND RACIAL CONFLICT. 3 Hours.
This seminar course provides a graduate-level introduction to ethnic and racial conflict from a comparative perspective. The course will focus on topics, such as the creation and maintenance of ethnic, racial, and national identities; the sources of conflict; the consequences of conflict; conflict prevention and resolution; and attaining justice. We will use a variety of cases to examine conflict, such as former Yugoslavia and Rwanda.

SOCI 5309. CONTEMPORARY BLACK EXPERIENCE. 3 Hours.
This seminar course is an overview of the contemporary sociological literature on the black experience in America. Some of the topics to be addressed include (but are not limited to) the debate over the "significance of race," tensions over the cultural/attitudinal adaptation to inequality, and emerging disputes within the black community regarding what it "means to be black" in the post-Civil Rights Era. By the end of this course, students should be more aware of the important role that class position plays in shaping African-American identities and ideologies.

SOCI 5310. SEMINARS IN SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Introduction and discussion of theoretical and methodological perspectives in social psychology. Focusing on particular domains of social life, these seminars examine fundamental processes of social interaction and the influence of social situations and social experience on the thought, feeling, and behavior of individuals. (May be repeated for credit when topics vary.).

SOCI 5311. SOCIOLOGY OF FAMILIES. 3 Hours.
This seminar course explores major areas of inquiry in the sociological study of families in the contemporary U.S. We will examine the evolution of American families and the historical processes that have shaped them. Throughout the course, the interconnections between families and social structures will be emphasized. Particular attention will be given to the ways in which gender, class, race and ethnicity influence families.

SOCI 5312. SOCIOLOGY OF REPRODUCTION. 3 Hours.
This seminar course investigates the history and sociology of reproduction in the United States. We examine the history of reproductive politics, the changing meaning of children, childbirth education, the experience of birth for both men and women, pre-natal diagnostic testing, pregnancy loss, adoption, infertility, living "child-free," new reproductive technologies, sperm/egg donation, surrogacy, and the burgeoning "baby business." The course explores the cultural norms, social institutions, and experiences of women and men as they navigate contemporary reproduction, mindful of variations by race, class, and gender.

SOCI 5313. RACE AND FAMILY. 3 Hours.
Who can become a family? This seminar course investigates this question from a socio-historical perspective, focusing on the ways in which dominant cultural understandings of race and ethnicity have shaped the legal possibilities for family formation, family structure, and the experiences of families in the U.S. The course inspects historical and contemporary families, looking at the intersection of race and family formation.

SOCI 5314. GENDER AND FAMILY. 3 Hours.
This seminar course focuses on current issues in the sociology of families, focusing on the intersection of gender and family. The course is organized to provide an overview of the issues of particular interest to contemporary scholars, with theoretical, conceptual and empirical research/work included in the readings. We focus particularly on how gender affects how family is experienced.

SOCI 5315. WOMEN AND WORK. 3 Hours.
This seminar course focuses on current issues in the sociology of women and work. We address contemporary and historical patterns of women's paid and unpaid work focusing on theoretical, conceptual and empirical research.

SOCI 5316. THE SOCIAL MIND AND INTERPERSONAL PROCESSES. 3 Hours.
This seminar course is a study of the influence of the social context on human thoughts, feelings and actions, and on the processes that constitute social interaction. Relevant theories in social psychology and microsociology and original-source readings will be covered.

SOCI 5317. CULTURAL SOCIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This seminar course examines the relationship between culture and society. Students will study contemporary debates around culture. Students will pay special attention to the use and experience of popular symbols for the ways that their use involves the creation of meanings.

SOCI 5318. MEDIA, CULTURE, AND SOCIETY. 3 Hours.
Media saturate our everyday lives. As such, they have a tremendous impact on the way we understand and interact with society. This seminar course will take a critical approach to the study of culture in order to examine the fundamental role of media in society. We will pay particular attention to the influence of the Culture Industry.

SOCI 5319. SEMINARS IN SOCIAL INSTITUTIONS AND CHANGE. 3 Hours.
Seminars in this area are concerned with the structure and change of the basic elements of society that represent ordered and regulated aspects of social life. Also examined are collective behavior and social movements which result from instability in institutional arrangements and represent efforts to enact social change. (May be repeated for credit when topics vary.).

SOCI 5320. SOCIOLOGY OF EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
This seminar course will examine the relationships between U.S. education institutions and society by reviewing a variety of sociological theories and empirical studies. A primary area of focus will be on the relationship between formal education and class, race/ethnicity, and gender-based inequality. Topics will include, but are not limited to, the following: the history and development of U.S. educational institutions, social mobility and stratification, social reproduction, the dynamics of race, class and gender in education, student teacher relationships, teaching as a profession, higher education, and an exploration of educational reforms.

SOCI 5321. ENVIRONMENTAL SOCIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This seminar course covers advanced topics in environmental sociology. We will investigate how human social organization affects environmental problems and responses. Specifically, we will explore topics such as environmental inequality, the social construction of nature, risk assessment, consumption and materialism, environmental values and identities, and environmental social movements. We will also look at social problems tied to environmental issues, such as those stemming from disasters, climate change, and food production. We will conclude with new directions in sustainable development.

SOCI 5322. SOCIOLOGY OF SPORT. 3 Hours.
An advanced seminar on the Sociology of Sport. This course is a sociological examination of the institution of sport in American society. By examining selected topics (such as sport and socialization, sport and politics, sport and education, race and sport, violence in sport, women in sport, and the business of sport) this course will address the social significance of sport and its function as a major social institution. We will examine the manner in which society has been shaped by the institution of sport and how sport has been shaped by society.

SOCI 5323. SOCIOLOGY OF RELIGION. 3 Hours.
This seminar course provides an overview of the scientific study of religion from a sociological perspective. The focus in the course will be on theories, research, and trends concerning religion in the contemporary United States. Some of the topics to be addressed include (but are not limited to) understanding the rich variety of religious traditions and affiliations, religious practices and beliefs, as well as the role that religion plays in facilitating and limiting social change as well as conflict in society. We will also examine differences across various religious traditions such as "mainline" and "fundamentalist" believers, secularization, and the often-controversial ways that religion intersects with other spheres of society such as morality, politics, race and ethnic relations, sex and gender.

SOCI 5324. QUALITATIVE RESEARCH METHODS. 3 Hours.
This seminar course introduces students to the qualitative tradition in sociology. We will study the assumptions underlying qualitative methods and important ethical and theoretical issues in field work. Students will become familiar with ethnographic research techniques (participant-observation and in-depth interviewing) and implement those methods in an individual small-scale research project.

SOCI 5325. READING THE QUALITATIVE CLASSICS. 3 Hours.
What makes a classic a classic? In this seminar course we will sample-read, examine, and analyze-the wealth of "classic" ethnographies within the field of Sociology. We will study the classics with an eye to exploring the qualities that make these exemplary texts which often connect people to and excite them about the field of Sociology.

SOCI 5326. SOCIAL MOVEMENTS. 3 Hours.
Examines core concepts and theoretical perspectives in social movements. Topics include recruitment and participation, tactics in activism, countermobilization, repression, and the effectiveness of movements in changing both policy and cultural norms.

SOCI 5330. SEMINARS IN SOCIAL DIFFERENTIATION. 3 Hours.
In all human societies, perceptions of differences in individuals, social positions and groups arise and form a basis for social evaluation. Seminars in this area examine the processes involved in social differentiation, social evaluation, and resulting forms of social inequality. (May be repeated for credit when topics vary).

SOCI 5341. SEMINARS IN THEORY AND RESEARCH METHODS. 3 Hours.
Research methods seminars address a variety of issues related to quantitative and qualitative approaches to data collection and analysis. Theory courses offer extended treatment of topics in theory and theory construction, reflecting systematic efforts to understand the nature and operation of human society and social behavior. (May be repeated for credit when topics vary.).

SOCI 5385. NON-THESIS PROJECT. 3 Hours.
A written essay synthesizing the students' coursework in response to one of two supplied prompts. The topic and scope of the written project must be approved by the non-thesis committee chair. A final presentation of the project to the non-thesis committee, composed of the non-thesis committee chair and two additional members of the graduate faculty, is required.

SOCI 5388. RESEARCH PRACTICUM / INTERNSHIP. 3 Hours.

SOCI 5389. TEACHING SOCIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
To learn strategies of coping with practical problems of teaching undergraduate sociology, students assist one or more professors in lecture preparation, grading, and examination construction. Not to be counted toward the degree requirement.

SOCI 5392. CONFERENCE COURSE IN SOCIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
There is not currently a description listed for this course since the content varies.

SOCI 5393. THESIS SUBSTITUTE. 3 Hours.
An academic literature review, research design, or an internship report on a selected sociological topic of individual interest. The topic and scope of the written project must be approved by the final thesis committee, which is composed of three graduate faculty members. A proposal defense and a final oral defense of the project is required.

SOCI 5398. THESIS. 3 Hours.

SOCI 5698. THESIS. 6 Hours.
Substantial original empirical or theoretical research project on a sociological topic of individual interest. The topic and scope of the written project must be approved by the final thesis committee, which is composed of three graduate faculty members. A proposal defense and a final oral defense of the project is required.

Master of Arts in Sociology

About This Program

The Master of Arts in Sociology provides students with a substantive background in sociological theory and in the techniques of contemporary research methodology and statistical analyses. In addition to these core concerns, the program offers a variety of seminars, as well as practicum opportunities, to help prepare students for a wide range of professional careers in both the private and public sectors or continued graduate education at the PhD level.

The program offers three completion options. Students who wish to complete a written essay synthesizing their coursework in response to one of two supplied prompts should select the non-thesis option. Students who wish to complete an academic literature review, research design, or an internship report on a selected sociological topic of personal interest should select the thesis-substitute option. Students who wish to research and write a substantial, original empirical or theoretical work on a sociological topic of personal interest should select the thesis option.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, graduate students will be able to demonstrate the advanced theoretical and substantive knowledge needed to critically analyze social and cultural structures and processes.
2. Upon completion, graduate students will have the methodological and analytical skills needed to understand social science data.
3. Upon completion, graduate students will have developed the written and oral communication skills needed to successfully share sociological knowledge.

Admissions Criteria

All successful applicants must satisfy the basic graduate admission requirements (p. 26) of UT Arlington as outlined in the University Catalog in the Admissions section. The Sociology graduate program makes admission decisions based on several factors, including grade point averages, preparation in the field of Sociology or related disciplines, letters of recommendation, and statements of interest. There are four categories for acceptance: Facilitated Admission, Unconditional Admission, Probationary Admission, and Provisional Admission.

FACILITATED ADMISSION

Available to UTA graduates who have completed their bachelor's degree from UTA within one year prior to admission. Applicants admitted through Facilitated Admission meet the following three criteria:

1. Overall UTA GPA of 3.5, as calculated by Graduate Studies.
2. Minimum GPA of 3.5 in last 60 hours, as calculated by Graduate Studies.
3. A grade B or better in the following courses:
   a. SOCI 3372 SOCIOLOGICAL THEORY or SOCI 3373 SOCIAL THEORY THROUGH POPULAR CULTUR
   b. SOCI 3352 SOCIAL STATISTICS or SOCI 4306 QUALITATIVE RESEARCH METHODS
   c. SOCI 3362 SOCIAL RESEARCH

To apply for Facilitated Admission, contact the Director of Graduate Studies for Sociology.

APPLICANTS WHO DO NOT QUALIFY FOR FACILITATED ADMISSION

- Must apply through ApplyUTA (https://www.uta.edu/admissions/apply/graduate/)
- Letters of Recommendation must be emailed directly from recommenders to the Director of Graduate Studies for Sociology or uploaded in the ApplyUTA system.
- Statements of Interest must be emailed directly from the applicant to the Director of Graduate Studies for Sociology. Statements of Interest must be written solely by the applicant without the use of generative AI (artificial intelligence).

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

Unconditional Admission is available to applicants who have completed a BA or BS in Sociology or a related discipline from an accredited institution.

Applicants admitted on Unconditional Admission meet the following three criteria:

1. Minimum GPA of 3.0, as calculated by Graduate Studies.
2. Two letters of recommendation that favorably assess the applicant's potential for success in a graduate program in Sociology.
3. A satisfactory 2-3 page statement of interest describing the applicant's academic background, research or study interests, and professional goals as they relate to the field of Sociology.

Probationary Admission

Probationary Admission is available to applicants who have completed a BA or BS in Sociology or a related discipline from an accredited institution but who do not qualify for Unconditional Admission due to a GPA below 3.0, as calculated by Graduate Studies. Applicants admitted on probationary admission meet the following two criteria:

1. Two letters of recommendation that favorably assess the applicant's potential for success in a graduate program in Sociology.
2. A satisfactory 2-3 page statement of interest describing the applicant's academic background, research or study interests, and professional goals as they relate to the field of Sociology.

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

Provisional Admission is available to applicants unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline, but who otherwise appear to meet admission requirements. Provisionally admitted students must satisfy any incomplete documentation by the end of the semester in which they are admitted.

DEFERRAL

An applicant may be deferred when a file is incomplete or when a denial decision is not appropriate.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

To qualify for admission, international students must satisfy UTA requirements, including any necessary English language test scores. To learn more, please visit: https://www.uta.edu/admissions/apply/international-graduate

DUAL DEGREE PROGRAM

Students in sociology may participate in a dual degree program where by they can earn a Master of Arts in Sociology and another field, such as Master of Public Administration or Master of Science in Social Work. By participating in a dual degree program, students can apply a number of semester hours jointly to meet the requirements of both degrees, thus reducing the total number of hours which would be required to earn both degrees separately. Six or more hours may be jointly applied depending on the total number of hours required for both degrees, and subject to the approval of graduate advisors from both programs.

To participate in the dual degree option, students must make separate application to each program and must submit a separate Program of Work for each program. Those interested should consult each of the appropriate graduate advisors for coursework requirements and refer to Graduate Studies catalog entry on Dual Degree Program in the Advanced Degrees and Requirements section for further details.

GRADUATE ASSISTANTSHIPS AND FELLOWSHIPS IN SOCIOLOGY

Graduate teaching and research assistantships and other forms of financial support will be awarded on a competitive basis. In addition to performance in any graduate courses the student may have taken, the same criteria used to determine admission status will be used in evaluating applications for such awards. No single factor will be used to end consideration of any graduate assistantships.

Bachelor of Art in Anthropology

About This Program

The Bachelor of Art in Anthropology has the objective of grounding students in three main subfields of anthropology: cultural anthropology (the comparative analysis of human lifeways around the world), archaeology (the systematic analysis of the material remains of past cultures), and physical anthropology (the study of humans as a biological species). The program prepares students both for graduate work in anthropology and for many careers in which anthropological perspectives and training are useful.

Competencies

1. Graduates will demonstrate basic content knowledge in all sub-disciplines, including human history and cultural diversity; human and non-human primate evolution and diversity; and the interaction between human culture and biology.
2. Graduates will demonstrate a general knowledge of significant methods that have guided research in the sub-disciplines, including an understanding of and appreciation for their evolution within the larger context of intellectual history.
3. Graduates will have general knowledge of the major theoretical perspectives in anthropology and be able to apply that knowledge to present-day issues.
4. Graduates will be able to read, independently and critically, anthropological, and related literature.
5. Graduates will be able communicate ideas or research findings in anthropology, both orally and in writing.

Bachelor of Art of Sociology

About This Program

The Bachelor of Art of Sociology has three principle objectives: to foster the ability to analyze human relationships from a sociological perspective, to develop the theoretical, methodological, and statistical skills necessary for asking and answering sociological questions, and to enhance individuals' awareness of the relationship between events in their own lives and the structure of the society in which they live. The program is designed to prepare students both to pursue graduate work in sociology and to seek a career in a variety of private and public settings where knowledge of human relationships and/or social research skills is particularly useful. Students seeking certification to teach in the public schools can use sociology as a teaching area.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students be able to use sociological theories and concepts to analyze social institutions and cultural practices across diverse contexts.
2. Upon completion, students be able to critically assess the impact of social structures and power dynamics on individual and groups experiences.
3. Upon completion, students be able to apply quantitative or qualitative research methods to investigate social phenomena and effectively communicate research findings.

Bachelor of Science in Applied Sociology to Master of Arts in Sociology Fast Track

About This Program

Bachelor of Science in Applied Sociology to Master of Arts in Sociology Fast Track allows outstanding undergraduate students in sociology at UT Arlington to take up to three graduate seminars in sociology that will earn credit toward both the bachelor's degree and the master's degree in Sociology. It is designed to encourage high standards of performance, to facilitate the transition from undergraduate to graduate study, and to reduce time needed to complete the MA.

Students who successfully complete the fast track program will be admitted automatically to graduate studies to continue their graduate work in the Sociology MA once the bachelor's degree is awarded. They will not be required to complete an additional application for admission to graduate studies, supply letters of recommendation, or pay an application fee. An undergraduate student completing the maximum of nine graduate hours with a grade of B or better would be admitted to the Sociology MA Program with only five additional courses and a thesis remaining to complete the requirements for the thesis option (requirements for other degree tracks will vary).

ASSOCIATED PROGRAMS

For detailed information about the programs associated with this Fast Track, refer to their individual degree pages.

Applied Sociology BS (p. 1331)

Sociology MA (p. 1325)

Admissions Criteria

Undergraduate students can apply to the Department of Sociology and Anthropology by completing a fast track application form available from the Sociology academic advisor. Students will be notified by the Department of their acceptance into the fast track program.

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

1. The student must be within 30 hours of completing a BS in Applied Sociology at UTA.

2. The student must have completed 30 hours of coursework at UTA.

3. The student must have an overall GPA of at least 3.3 in all coursework at all schools and an overall GPA of at least 3.3 in all coursework completed at UTA.

4. Before entering the fast track, students must have already taken at least two additional 3000-4000 level sociology courses with a GPA of 3.5 or higher.

5. Before entering the fast track, students must also have completed four of the following required core courses in the Sociology major with a GPA of at least 3.5: SOCI 1311, SOCI 3352, SOCI 3362, SOCI 3372, SOCI 3355, SOCI 3373, SOCI 3351, SOCI 4306.

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

A student may gain provisional admission if, by the semester in which application is made, they have already completed three required Sociology courses (listed above) with a GPA of at least 3.66 in those courses, and with a fourth required course to be completed in the semester of application. All other requirements above must be met.

Provisional admission will be changed to unconditional admission upon satisfactory completion of remaining requirements. Students failing to meet all requirements at the end of their semester of application will be removed from the fast track program. Any credits earned prior to removal from the program will be applied to the undergraduate degree only. Provisionally admitted students who have been removed from the program may subsequently apply to graduate programs via the normal application process, paying all fees and meeting all relevant admission criteria.

DENIAL

Students who do not meet the requirements set out shall be denied admission to the fast track program. They may still apply to the graduate program through the regular application process.

GOOD STANDING

In the fast track program, students will choose to enroll in up to three sociology graduate electives, selected with the advice and approval of the Sociology Graduate Advisor. To remain in the fast track program, students must maintain an overall GPA of at least 3.0 and must earn grades of B or better in all fast track-approved courses that will be used to satisfy undergraduate and graduate degree requirements. Students must enroll in at least two sociology graduate courses and earn a B or better in all graduate courses taken prior to receiving their bachelor's degree. If a student does not complete the two graduate courses or fails to make adequate grades, she or he will be unable to continue in the fast track program but, if the courses are completed with a passing grade, will still receive credit toward their undergraduate degree requirements.

Students who, at any time, do not meet these requirements will be obliged to leave the fast track program. If a student opts out or does not meet the requirements of the fast track program, any graduate credits earned will be applied only to the undergraduate degree, and none of the other benefits of participation in the fast track program will apply. Additionally, graduate courses already taken for undergraduate credit may not be repeated for graduate credit. Students may still apply to the Sociology MA Program via the normal application process, paying all fees and meeting all relevant admission criteria.

A fast track student in good standing may skip one Fall or Spring semester (and contiguous summer) after being awarded the BA degree before continuing in the MA program. Further delay will result in losing fast track status, after which the regular application process for admission must be followed and no graduate credits will be retained.

Bachelor of Art in Sociology to Master of Arts in Sociology Fast Track

About This Program

Bachelor of Art in Sociology to Master of Arts in Sociology Fast Track allows outstanding undergraduate students in sociology at UT Arlington to take up to three graduate seminars in sociology that will earn credit toward both the bachelor's degree and the master's degree in Sociology. It is designed to encourage high standards of performance, to facilitate the transition from undergraduate to graduate study, and to reduce time needed to complete the MA.

Students who successfully complete the fast track program will be admitted automatically to graduate studies to continue their graduate work in the Sociology MA once the bachelor's degree is awarded. They will not be required to complete an additional application for admission to graduate studies, supply letters of recommendation, or pay an application fee. An undergraduate student completing the maximum of nine graduate hours with a grade of B or better would be admitted to the Sociology MA Program with only five additional courses and a thesis remaining to complete the requirements for the thesis option (requirements for other degree tracks will vary).

Sociology MA

Admissions Criteria

Undergraduate students can apply to the Department of Sociology and Anthropology by completing a fast track application form available from the Sociology academic advisor. Students will be notified by the Department of their acceptance into the fast track program.

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

1. The student must be within 30 hours of completing a BA in Sociology at UTA.

2. The student must have completed 30 hours of coursework at UTA.

3. The student must have an overall GPA of at least 3.3 in all coursework at all schools and an overall GPA of at least 3.3 in all coursework completed at UTA.

4. Before entering the fast track, students must have already taken at least two additional 3000-4000 level sociology courses with a GPA of 3.5 or higher.

5. Before entering the fast track, students must also have completed four required core courses in the Sociology major with a GPA of at least 3.5: SOC 1311, SOCI 3352 or SOCI 4306, SOCI 3362, SOCI 3372 or SOCI 3373.

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

A student may gain provisional admission if, by the semester in which application is made, they have already completed three required Sociology courses (listed above) with a GPA of at least 3.66 in those courses, and with a fourth required course to be completed in the semester of application. All other requirements above must be met.

Provisional admission will be changed to unconditional admission upon satisfactory completion of remaining requirements. Students failing to meet all requirements at the end of their semester of application will be removed from the fast track program. Any credits earned prior to removal from the program will be applied to the undergraduate degree only. Provisionally admitted students who have been removed from the program may subsequently apply to graduate programs via the normal application process, paying all fees and meeting all relevant admission criteria.

DENIAL

Students who do not meet the requirements set out shall be denied admission to the fast track program. They may still apply to the graduate program through the regular application process.

GOOD STANDING

In the fast track program, students will choose to enroll in up to three sociology graduate electives, selected with the advice and approval of the Sociology Graduate Advisor. To remain in the fast track program, students must maintain an overall GPA of at least 3.0 and must earn grades of B or better in all fast track-approved courses that will be used to satisfy undergraduate and graduate degree requirements. Students must enroll in at least two sociology graduate courses and earn a B or better in all graduate courses taken prior to receiving their bachelor's degree. If a student does not complete the two graduate courses or fails to make adequate grades, she or he will be unable to continue in the fast track program but, if the courses are completed with a passing grade, will still receive credit toward their undergraduate degree requirements.

Students who, at any time, do not meet these requirements will be obliged to leave the fast track program. If a student opts out or does not meet the requirements of the fast track program, any graduate credits earned will be applied only to the undergraduate degree, and none of the other benefits of participation in the fast track program will apply. Additionally, graduate courses already taken for undergraduate credit may not be repeated for graduate credit. Students may still apply to the Sociology MA Program via the normal application process, paying all fees and meeting all relevant admission criteria.

A fast track student in good standing may skip one Fall or Spring semester (and contiguous summer) after being awarded the BA degree before continuing in the MA program. Minor in Popular Culture

About This Program

The Popular Culture Minor allows students from across campus to develop important skills no matter their major. Students in the Popular Culture Minor prepare themselves to 1) work in the entertainment industry; and/or 2) understand the role and power of popular culture in their everyday lives. Whether students seek employment in the creative industries (video games, music, film, social media, etc.) or other employment areas, they will be able to look at complex problems and develop innovative solutions. Students will have the opportunity to analyze popular culture, its production, consumption, and reception. The minor mixes a classic approach to a liberal arts education with opportunities to prepare for real-world employment.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to analyze popular culture, its production, consumption, and reception.
2. Upon completion, students will be able to evaluate sources of popular culture.
3. Upon completion, students will be able to critically think about the role of popular culture in their everyday lives.

Minor in Sociology

About This Program

A minor in sociology provides students with a deeper understanding of cultural factors that shape institutional norms, human behavior, and social issues in society. This knowledge is complementary to any major of study and prepares students for careers in fields like social services, business, education, and public policy by enhancing their analytical and critical thinking skills.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to use sociological theories and concepts to analyze social institutions and cultural practices across diverse contexts.
2. Upon completion, students will be able to critically assess the impact of social structures and power dynamics on individual and group experiences.
3. Upon completion, students will be able to apply a sociological perspective to investigate social issues.

Theatre Arts and Dance

Department Overview

The mission of the Department of Theatre Arts and Dance in the College of Liberal Arts at The University of Texas at Arlington is to provide a comprehensive undergraduate education through theory, research, and practice in the theatre arts and dance.

The objective of the department is to provide an extensive and wide-ranging education in the theatrical and dance professions through applied and practical experiences acquired through performance and production opportunities. Undergraduate students in the Department of Theatre Arts and Dance explore the components which comprise the performance and production event. The research of new theories and their applications to the art, craft, and management of Theatre Arts and Dance is highly encouraged through one-on-one mentoring and supervision by specialized, professional faculty. A primary aspect of the Department of Theatre Arts and Dance is to provide a challenging educational environment for each student characterized by shared values, unity of purpose, diversity of opinion, mutual respect, and a commitment to lifelong learning.

THEATRE PRACTICUM

All Theatre Arts majors shall enroll in THEA 0181 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=THEA%200181) for one hour per semester - six(6) hours of THEA 0181 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=THEA%200181) are required to graduate. Students should see their advisor regarding practicum obligations.

All BA students are encouraged to audition for each major production each semester they are enrolled, though they may choose to decline being considered for a role at the time of the audition. Production activities and Theatre Arts disciplinary rules are governed by a student handbook that is available to the student through the Department of Theatre Arts and Dance.

GPA

A minimum 2.0 overall grade point average is required for all courses, including theatre courses, taken at UT Arlington in order to remain in the BA degree program. Students currently enrolled at UT Arlington who wish to declare Theatre Arts as a major must have a minimum grade point average of 2.0 in overall coursework taken at UT Arlington in order to be admitted.

ACADEMIC PROBATION

A student will be placed on departmental academic probation in the Department of Theatre Arts and Dance if her/his grade point average drops below the minimum university GPA requirements. The department follows university guidelines regarding Academic Probation, Academic Warning, Academic Continuance, and Academic Dismissal. Theatre Arts and Dance students will work with their Area Head and advisor while on academic probation to create a specific improvement plan. However, if after a regular semester the student's grade point average does not meet the minimum required grade point average, the student may, at the discretion of the program area head and department chair, be removed from the degree program and will be advised as to other degree plan alternatives, should they exist.

DEPARTMENT SCHOLARSHIPS

The Department of Theatre Arts and Dance offers limited talent-based scholarships to deserving students. Work-study positions may be available. Contact the Department of Theatre Arts and Dance for information

Advising Resources

Our advisor is here to help you at all stages of your academic journey. Scheduling an appointment can help current students update their degree plan, assess their academic standing, and plan their educational and career goals. Students should ensure prior to their appointments that they have submitted all transcripts for review. Theatre Arts & Dance students are required to schedule an appointment to receive clearance into their courses each semester. Prospective students with less than 30 college credit hours will need to contact the Division of Student Success. All students, regardless of credits, must be a UTA student with a student ID number to declare a Theatre Arts & Dance degree.

Bachelor of Arts in Theatre Arts (Teaching Certification)

About This Program

Students in the Bachelor of Arts in Theatre Arts with Teaching Certification track take a breadth of courses in theatre and performance such as acting, script analysis, stage management, theatre history, design, and technology. Taken alongside College of Education courses like classroom management and assessment methods, this degree confers EC-12 teaching certification, preparing students to enter the teaching profession upon graduation. Unlike many degrees like it, our program allows for and encourages students to minor in a cognate field or other field of interest.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, graduates will be prepared to write, direct, devise, perform and produce original plays and devised works.
2. Upon completion, graduates will be prepared to take positions in theatre organizations and schools as theatre artists and arts administrators.
3. Upon completion, graduates will be prepared to enter the teaching profession in the state of Texas.

Admissions Criteria

In addition to the general requirements for admission to the University, the aspiring undergraduate must meet the following requirement for admission to the Bachelor of Arts degree program with Teacher Certification:

- Acceptance to UTA
- Program Interview
- Participation in advisement.

To be fully accepted in the Bachelor of Arts (BA) in Theatre Arts with Teaching Certification degree program, all students must earn a 2.5 cumulative grade point average in all courses including theatre and education courses taken at UT Arlington.

Program Completion

THEATRE PRACTICUM

All Theatre Arts majors enroll in two (2) hours of THEA 0181 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=THEA%200181) and two (2) hours of THEA 0182 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=THEA%200182). Students should see their advisor regarding practicum obligations.

Production activities and Theatre Arts disciplinary rules are governed by a student handbook that is available to the student through the Department of Theatre Arts and Dance.

GPA

A minimum 2.5 overall grade point average is required for all courses, including theatre courses, taken at UT Arlington in order to remain in the BA teaching certification degree program.

ACADEMIC PROBATION

A student will be placed on departmental academic probation in the Department of Theatre Arts and Dance if her/his grade point average drops below the minimum university GPA requirements. The department follows university guidelines regarding Academic Probation, Academic Warning, Academic Continuance, and Academic Dismissal. Theatre Arts and Dance students will work with their Area Head and advisor while on academic probation to create a specific improvement plan. However, if after a regular semester the student's grade point average does not meet the minimum required grade point average, the student may, at the discretion of the program area head and department chair, be removed from the degree program and will be advised as to other degree plan alternatives, should they exist.

DEPARTMENT SCHOLARSHIPS

The Department of Theatre Arts and Dance offers limited talent-based scholarships to deserving students. Work-study positions may be available. Contact the Department of Theatre Arts and Dance for information

Advising Resources

Our advisor is here to help you at all stages of your academic journey. Scheduling an appointment can help current students update their degree plan, assess their academic standing, and plan their educational and career goals. Students should ensure prior to their appointments that they have submitted all transcripts for review. Theatre Arts & Dance students are required to schedule an appointment to receive clearance into their courses each semester. Prospective students with less than 30 college credit hours will need to contact the Division of Student Success. All students, regardless of credits, must be a UTA student with a student ID number to declare a Theatre Arts & Dance degree.

Advising Resources

Our advisor is here to help you at all stages of your academic journey. Scheduling an appointment can help current students update their degree plan, assess their academic standing, and plan their educational and career goals. Students should ensure prior to their appointments that they have submitted all transcripts for review. Theatre Arts & Dance students are required to schedule an appointment to receive clearance into their courses each semester. Prospective students with less than 30 college credit hours will need to contact the Division of Student Success. All students, regardless of credits, must be a UTA student with a student ID number to declare a Theatre Arts & Dance degree.

College of Nursing and Health Innovation

College Overview

The mission of the College of Nursing and Health Innovation is to advance global health and the human condition through transdisciplinary collaboration by engaging in high quality teaching, research, scholarship, practice and service to prepare a diverse population of health professionals and to reduce health disparities. The vision of the College of Nursing and Health Innovation is to provide innovative, exceptional education through research and practice to advance health and the human condition globally.

The academic programs in Undergraduate Nursing, Graduate Nursing, and Kinesiology prepare individuals for professional roles in health care, health sciences, and health-related professions. In addition, these programs prepare individuals for collaboration with other professionals and consumers in the delivery of holistic health care, health-related research, exercise science and advocacy for the improvement of health outcomes.

The UT Arlington College of Nursing was established in 1971 as the UT System College of Nursing in Fort Worth and was housed in John Peter Smith Hospital. The first baccalaureate class enrolled in fall of 1972; the graduate program (MSN) began in 1975. In 1976, the school became an academic unit of UT Arlington, moving to the campus in 1977. Degree program offerings continued to expand to include a PhD in Nursing in fall 2003. In fall of 2014, the Department of Kinesiology was combined with the College of Nursing to create the College of Nursing and Health Innovation. Before joining with the College of Nursing, the department of Kinesiology was a department in the College of Education and Health Sciences at UTA.

Policies

HEALTH INSURANCE COVERAGE

All UT Arlington nursing students enrolled in clinical course(s) will be required to provide verification of medical insurance coverage that includes Emergency Department evaluation and follow-up treatment for needle-stick and blood borne disease exposure. This mandatory clinical requirement has been authorized by The University of Texas System Board of Regents.

As such, UT Arlington will not cover initial and follow up treatment for needle-stick injuries and/or exposure to blood borne diseases which may occur while students are enrolled in clinical courses.

While the UT Arlington College of Nursing and Health Innovation recognizes the financial impact this clinical requirement presents for students, we also support the need for students to have health coverage for sudden illness, accidents, emergencies and exposure treatments that may occur in the clinical setting in a variety of clinical agencies.

FEES

Course fee information is available on the UTA website (https://catalog.uta.edu/nursing/graduate/www.uta.edu/fees/). Additional costs beyond tuition, fees and books that may be incurred by a nursing student will include those items listed on the CONHI website. In addition, some clinical agencies charge a nominal fee for parking passes.

E-MAIL ACCOUNTS

Each student will be provided a UT Arlington e-mail address. Official communications from the College of Nursing will be distributed to this e-mail address and learning management system accounts required by many courses. Students will be held responsible for information distributed in this manner.

NURS 5270. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 2 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, P, R. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing and permission of instructor.

NURS 5290. TOPICS IN NURSING. 2 Hours.
Selected topics in advanced nursing. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

NURS 5300. ADVANCED ASSESSMENT, PATHOPHYSIOLOGY, AND PHARMACOLOGY FOR NURSE EDUCATORS. 3 Hours.
Focus on the development and integration of advanced knowledge of health assessment, pathophysiology, and pharmacology across the lifespan. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5302. CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT IN NURSING EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
Explore the nature of nursing education. Focus on the curriculum process and its application to nursing education programs. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5308. NURSING INFORMATICS. 3 Hours.
Focus on application of computer technology that supports the dissemination of health care data, information and knowledge. Selected software packages/applications are presented and used. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURS 5310. TEACHING AND LEARNING THEORIES AND STRATEGIES IN NURSING EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
Teaching/Learning theories, strategies, and evaluation for educators. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5311. NURSING MANAGEMENT IN THE HEALTH CARE ENVIRONMENT. 3 Hours.
Considers development of management and organizational theories as applied to health care organizations and their environment. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURS 5312. ASSESSMENT AND EVALUATION STRATEGIES IN NURSING EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
Integration of concepts of assessment and evaluation into a nursing evaluation framework. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5315. ADVANCED PATHOPHYSIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Builds on a previous understanding of anatomy and physiology and focuses on developing advanced knowledge of physiologic and pathophysiologic concepts across the life span. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS 5318. ADVANCED PATHOPHYSIOLOGY FOR NURSE EDUCATORS. 3 Hours.
This course develops advanced knowledge of pathophysiology. Principles of advanced physiology and pathophysiology are applied to disease processes, plans of care, and teaching plans. This course prepares Nurse Educators to educate clients, students, colleagues to facilitate patients and/or their support systems understanding of the disease process plan of care. Prerequisite: NURS 5367 and NURS 5310 and NURS 5329 and NURS 5302 and NURS 5312.

NURS 5319. ADVANCED PHARMACOLOGY FOR NURSE EDUCATORS. 3 Hours.
This course develops advanced knowledge of clinical pharmacological therapeutics through the evaluation of classes of drugs and pharmacologic plans of care. This course prepares Nurse Educators to educate clients, students, and colleagues to facilitate patients and/or their support systems understanding of the pharmacologic plan of care. Prerequisite: NURS 5318.

NURS 5324. PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL CLINICAL PRACTICE I. 3 Hours.
This course provides application of theoretical knowledge and clinical skills to patients with commonly occurring psychiatric and mental health disorders across the life span in the context of advanced nursing practice. Prerequisite: NURS 5222 and NURS 5223 or Certificate Program Standing. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURS 5325. PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH CLINICAL PRACTICE II. 3 Hours.
This course provides application of theoretical knowledge and clinical skills to patients with various commonly occurring and complex psychiatric and mental health disorders across the life span in the context of advanced nursing practice. Prerequisite: NURS 5324 or concurrent enrollment, or Certificate Program Standing. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURS 5327. EXPLORATION OF SCIENCE AND THEORIES FOR NURSING. 3 Hours.
This course provides a critical examination of the philosophical and theoretical bases for nursing science. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5329. ROLE OF THE NURSE EDUCATOR. 3 Hours.
Investigation of the roles and functions of the nurse educator. Prerequisite: Graduate program standing.

NURS 5334. ADVANCED PHARMACOLOGY FOR NURSE PRACTITIONERS. 3 Hours.
Study of clinical pharmacological therapeutics for advanced nursing practice. Prerequisites: NURS 5315 or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5337. FAMILY CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Initial clinical preceptorship in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the family nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5432, NURS 5433, NURS 5434 and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURS 5338. FAMILY CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continued clinical preceptorship with opportunities for increased clinical knowledge in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the family nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5432, NURS 5433, NURS 5434, NURS 5337 or concurrent enrollment; Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program standing.

NURS 5339. ROLES AND FUNCTIONS OF THE NURSE ADMINISTRATOR. 3 Hours.
Examine and implement administrative and managerial roles in health care organizations. Prerequisite: NURS 5311.

NURS 5340. MANAGEMENT SEMINAR AND PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Synthesize management, organizational, and leadership concepts and theories in selected health care settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5308; NURS 5311; NURS 5339; NURS 5341: NURS 5343; NURS 5342; NURS 5382. Good Academic Standing (3.0 GPA).

NURS 5341. FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Analyze and apply financial management concepts to financial planning, budgeting, and reimbursement systems in health care. Prerequisite: NURS 5311 or admission into Masters of Science in Health Informatics (MSH-HI) program.

NURS 5342. MANAGEMENT OF NURSING OPERATIONS. 3 Hours.
Examine strategic planning for health care systems. Prerequisite: NURS 5311 or admission into Masters of Science in Health Informatics (MSN-HI) program.

NURS 5343. NURSING LEADERSHIP AND COMPLEX HEALTH CARE SYSTEMS. 3 Hours.
Analyze leadership strategies in current and predicted health care systems including dimensions of workforce and workplace issues, leadership, and evidenced-based decision-making. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURS 5348. NURSING CARE AT THE END OF LIFE. 3 Hours.
Addresses concepts of palliative care of patients with life limiting disease and their families. Explores the physiology of end stage disease processes, clinical approaches to pain and symptom management, societal issues and trends in end of life care, models of care delivery and the impact of personal values and beliefs about death. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS 5350. ROLE OF THE NURSE IN ADVANCED PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Theory and application of the multiple roles of the advanced practice nurse within the health care system. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS 5352. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Clinical experience in primary and long term health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common episodic acute and chronic health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5462 or concurrent enrollment; Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURS 5353. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continued clinical experience in primary and long term health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common episodic acute and chronic health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5462 and NURS 5352 or concurrent enrollment and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURS 5354. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Clinical experience in specialty practice and high acuity health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common secondary and tertiary health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5463 or concurrent enrollment and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURS 5355. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continued clinical experience in specialty practice and high acuity health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common secondary and tertiary health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5354 or concurrent enrollment; Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURS 5356. GLOBAL HEALTH POLICY, HEALTH LITERACY, AND MODELS OF CARE FOR OLDER ADULTS. 3 Hours.
This course will focus on healthcare policy issues and models of healthcare delivery for older adults at the state, national and global levels. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS 5357. ADVANCED CLINICAL MANAGEMENT OF OLDER ADULTS WITH COMPLEX MULTIMORBIDITY. 3 Hours.
This course will focus upon an inter-professional approach to develop advanced knowledge in the chronic health care management of older adults, their families, and communities in a variety of health care settings. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing or permission of instructor.

NURS 5358. ADVANCED CLIN MGMT OF OLDER ADULTS W/COMPLEX MULTIMORBIDITY DURING ACUTE ILLNESS CRISIS. 3 Hours.
This course will focus upon an inter-professional approach to develop advanced knowledge in aging issues and paradigms of care for the older adult; in addition, this course will accentuate the management of older adults with acute health problems, their families, and communities in a variety of health care settings. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing or permission of instructor.

NURS 5360. SIMULATION APPLICATION IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
This course provides an in-depth exploration of simulation as a teaching and learning strategy in nursing education. Students will critically analyze various types of simulation, weighing their advantages and disadvantages to determine the most effective approaches for different educational contexts. Prerequisite: NURS 5364 or NURS 5367, NURS 5220 or NURS 5300.

NURS 5362. TEACHING PRACTICUM. 3 Hours.
Nursing education preceptorship in selected health care sites with opportunities to apply clinical and educational knowledge, skills, and concepts in a guided, progressive context of nursing education. Graded Pass/Not Pass - F, I, P, W Prerequisite: Completion of all courses in the Nursing Education Program and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURS 5363. PERSONAL AND PROFESSIONAL LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT. 3 Hours.
This course illustrates the interconnectedness of personal, professional, and leadership development to practice as an advanced-level nurse. This course enables learners to identify resources to assess their well-being and leadership style. You will learn how interprofessional practice, emotional intelligence, conflict management, and communication are critical in advanced nursing practice. The goal is to provide a sustained foundation to build stepping stones for progressive, lifelong learning.

NURS 5364. RESEARCH, THEORY, EVIDENCE-BASED PRACTICE (EBP) AND QUALITY IMPROVEMENT (QI). 3 Hours.
Exploration of the components of research and theory for translation of the best evidence to be used in evidence-based practice and quality improvement projects for clinical practice.

NURS 5365. SOCIAL DETERMINANTS OF HEALTH AND POPULATION MANAGEMENT. 3 Hours.
The course focuses on epidemiology, integrating perspectives on social determinants of health, health equity, data analytics, informatics, and the role of artificial intelligence in enhancing healthcare outcomes. The course highlights the significance of interprofessional partnerships in optimizing patient care. It also addresses patient safety, aiming to reduce preventable harm and enhancing healthcare quality through patient generated data. At the healthcare system level, the course examines population health along with policies and strategies for operational efficiencies and improved economics.

NURS 5366. PRINCIPLES OF RESEARCH IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on integration of theoretical and empirical principles of nursing research to generate evidence for nursing practice. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS 5367. EVIDENCE BASED PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Preparation to lead evidence-based practice teams, to interpret best evidence, to plan for change, to evaluate outcomes, and to disseminate the project. Prerequisite: Graduate standing; NURS 5366 and NURS 5327.

NURS 5368. ADDRESSING CHALLENGES AND ADVANCING SOLUTIONS IN RURAL HEALTH. 3 Hours.
Students completing Certificate coursework will receive academic credit that may be applied toward a Master's degree in nursing (MSN) or non-nursing students may receive the stand alone certificate in Rural Health Care.

NURS 5369. RURAL HEALTH DISPARITIES AND POLICY IMPLICATIONS. 3 Hours.
Students completing Certificate coursework will receive academic credit that may be applied toward a Master's degree in nursing (MSN) or non-nursing students may receive the stand alone certificate in Rural Health Care.

NURS 5370. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F,R,P,W. Permission of instructor. Graduate standing.

NURS 5371. PEDIATRIC PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Initial clinical preceptorship in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5465. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate program standing.

NURS 5372. PEDIATRIC PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continue clinical preceptorship in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5371 or concurrent enrollment. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5373. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Initial clinical preceptorship in selected acute and chronic care health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric acute care nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5467 or concurrent enrollment. NURS 5466 or concurrent enrollment. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate program standing.

NURS 5374. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continue clinical preceptorship in selected acute and chronic care health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5466; NURS 5373 or concurrent enrollment. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate program standing.

NURS 5380. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
Detailed study and participation in a faculty sponsored research project. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by the student and instructor prior to registration. Permission of instructor. Graded F,R,P,W.

NURS 5382. NURSING AND HEALTH CARE POLICY: ISSUES AND ANALYSIS. 3 Hours.
Analyze historical, current, and predicted national, state, and local health care policy processes. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURS 5388. STATISTICS FOR HEALTH CARE. 3 Hours.
This course provides students with the basic knowledge and skills to effectively use biostatistics in different research design and data analysis, and to understand articles in related professional journals. Topics include choosing correct statistical methods and study designs in nursing research and practice; descriptive statistics; probability and probability distributions; estimation and hypothesis testing, simple linear regression, introduction to analysis of variance and an introduction to the use of statistical software packages. Prerequisite: Undergraduate Statistics.

NURS 5390. TOPICS IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Selected topics in advanced nursing. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

NURS 5392. GENOMICS AND NANOTECHNOLOGY IN HEALTH CARE PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Genomics and nanotechnology are emerging as principal drivers to improve human diagnosis and treatment modalities. This course is designed to introduce tools used in these fields. Health care outcomes, in relation to innovations produced from these fields, will be described. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5393. ADVANCED CLINICAL NURSING PRACTICE I. 3 Hours.
Development of advanced knowledge base of specialized clinical concepts and the application of this knowledge in selected clinical areas. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5395. HEART FAILURE PATHOPHYSIOLOGY AND EXERCISE REHABILITATION. 3 Hours.
The goal of this course is to provide students with fundamental knowledge related to heart failure (HF) pathophysiology, and the role of evidence based exercise rehabilitation to improve overall health related physical fitness and quality of life. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing or Approval of Instructor.

NURS 5396. CURRENT BIOTECHNOLOGY IN HEALTH CARE. 3 Hours.
The goal of this course is to provide students with fundamental knowledge and current advances of biotechnology in medicine and healthcare, and train them how to apply these new technologies in their pertinent fields. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing. Approval of instructor.

NURS 5397. ETHICAL RESEARCH AND THE PROPOSED IRB/IACUC PROTOCOL. 3 Hours.
Ethical research practices that the learner will be able to demonstrate through a written research protocol using good clinical practice (GCP) to ensure protection of subjects/animals. Related topics include social-behavioral and biomedical research certifications, and issues related to scientific misconduct. Prerequisite: Graduate standing or permission of instructor.

NURS 5398. THESIS. 3 Hours.
Graded F,R.

NURS 5410. INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH FOR THE PMHNP. 4 Hours.
This course provides the neuroscientific foundations for various psychiatric disorders and mental health problems across the lifespan. An analysis of the relationships between the neurobiology, neurophysiology, genetic, and epigenetic aspects of various psychiatric disorders and mental health problems will be explored. Prerequisite: NURS 5315, NURS 5220, NURS 5120, NURS 5130, or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5432. FAMILY I. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner primary care management of designated acute, chronic and complex health problems of individuals and families across the lifespan. Particular emphasis will be on pediatric wellness, women's health, men's health, and geriatrics concepts and conditions. Prerequisite: NURS 5418 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5120 and NURS 5130; NURS 5334 or Certificate Program standing.

NURS 5433. FAMILY II. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner primary care management of commonly occurring conditions seen in primary care patients across the lifespan. Prerequisite: NURS 5418 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5120 and NURS 5130; NURS 5334 or Certificate Program standing.

NURS 5434. FAMILY III. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner primary care management of designated acute, chronic and complex health problems of individuals and families across the lifespan. Particular emphasis will be on adult wellness, psychiatric, and cardiometabolic concepts and conditions. Prerequisite: NURS 5418 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5120 and NURS 5130; NURS 5334 or Certificate Program standing.

NURS 5447. NEONATAL NURSING III. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts of pharmacological and technological therapies and evidence based knowledge for the management of designated complex acute and chronic health problems affecting infants (birth to 2 years of age) and their families including ethical issues. Prerequisite: NURS 5537 or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5450. NEONATAL NP CLINICAL PRACTICE. 4 Hours.
Integration of clinical management of the high-risk neonate through clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with application of knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisites: NURS 5334 and NURS 5316 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5110 and NURS 5204 and NURS 5537 or concurrent enrollment and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5461. ADULT GERONTOLOGY MANAGEMENT ACROSS THE CONTINUUM OF CARE. 4 Hours.
Foundations of advanced knowledge of common acute and chronic health problems in adolescents, adults, and elders across health care settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5220; NURS 5120 and NURS 5334, and NURS 5367 or concurrent enrollment, or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5462. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE. 4 Hours.
Focus on an inter-professional approach and the development of advanced knowledge in the primary care management of adults from adolescence through old age, their families, and communities in a variety of health care settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5461 or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5463. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE. 4 Hours.
Focuses on a collaborative, inter-professional approach in the evaluation, diagnosis, and management of adolescents, adults, and gerontological patients who are experiencing acute, critical, and complex chronic illnesses across the continuum of care. Prerequisite: NURS 5461 or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5465. PRIMARY PEDIATRIC CARE. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioners management of designated minor acute, chronic and chronic health problems of pediatric patients and their families in primary care healthcare settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5334; NURS 5220; NURS 5130; NURS 5367 or concurrent enrollment.

NURS 5466. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner management of designated critical, acute, chronic and complex health problems of pediatric patients and their families in an acute care facility. Prerequisite: NURS 5465.

NURS 5467. PEDIATRIC COMPLEX CARE. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner management of designated acute, chronic and complex health problems of pediatric patients and their families in multiple healthcare settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5465 or concurrent enrollment or Certificate program standing.

NURS 5470. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 4 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. Graded F,R,P,W.

NURS 5537. NEONATAL NURSING II. 5 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts of pharmacological and technological therapies and evidence based knowledge for the management of designated complex, acute health problems affecting infants (birth to 2 years of age). Graded (A,B,C,D,F,I,W). Prerequisite:NURS 5204 and NURS 5334 and NURS 5316 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5110; NURS 5367 or concurrent enrollment or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5610. NEONATAL NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of neonatal advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: NURS 5447 and NURS 5450. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5640. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of adult gerontology acute care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5640: NURS 5354 and NURS 5355. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5640: NURSC 5354 and NURSC 5355. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5645. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of adult gerontology primary care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5645: NURS 5352 and NURS 5353. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5645: NURSC 5352 and NURSC 5353. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5650. PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of family psychiatric mental health care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: NURS 5324 and NURS 5325. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5660. FAMILY NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of Family Primary Care Advanced Nursing Practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5660: NURS 5337 and NURS 5338. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5660: NURSC 5337 and NURSC 5338. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSG: NURSG 5337 and NURSG 5338. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5670. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 6 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Prereq: Permission of instructor. Graded F,R,P,W.

NURS 5680. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of pediatric acute care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5680: NURS 5373 and NURS 5374. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program standing. For NURSC 5680: NURSC 5373 and NURSC 5374. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program standing.

NURS 5685. PEDIATRIC PRIMARY CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of pediatric primary care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5685: NURS 5371 and NURS 5372. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5685: NURSC 5371 and NURSC 5372. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5698. THESIS. 6 Hours.
Graded F, R, P.

NURS 6102. ISSUES IN STUDYING HEALTH & CULTURE OF SCIENCE. 1 Hour.
Professional, ethical, legal, financial, cultural, and socio-political issues associated with conducting and disseminating research. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing. Enrolled in Nursing PhD program.

NURS 6170. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 1 Hour.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F,R, P.

NURS 6190. SPECIAL TOPICS IN NURSING. 1 Hour.
Selected topics in advanced nursing. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

NURS 6203. ISSUES IN STUDYING HEALTH & CULTURE OF SCIENCE. 2 Hours.
Professional, ethical, legal, financial, cultural, and socio-political issues associated with conducting and disseminating research. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing. Enrolled in Nursing PhD program. Students who are unable to enroll in more than 6 credit hours during Fall & Spring semesters must enroll in this summer course.

NURS 6270. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 2 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, R, P.

NURS 6290. TOPICS IN NURSING. 2 Hours.
Selected topics in advanced nursing. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

NURS 6301. THEORY IN NURSING SCIENCE. 3 Hours.
Analysis and evaluation of theory used to guide health-related research; synthesis of health-related research guided by theory. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 6304. MEASUREMENT IN HEALTH RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
This course presents the process involved in identifying different sources of data and variables and the use of conceptual models to influence choice and measurement of variables. The course presents the processes for designing, testing and/or selecting instruments, methods and procedures for measuring variables in clinical, educational and research settings. Prerequisite: NURS 6319 or permission of instructor. Course is predicated on prior learning related to basic statistics. Corequisites: NURS 6318 or permission of instructor. Course is predicated on prior learning related to basic statistics.

NURS 6305. QUALITATIVE RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
Philosophical foundation for and methodological issues in using qualitative approaches for scientific and knowledge development. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 6306. RESEARCH DESIGN. 3 Hours.
Application of advanced nursing research methods to design studies that improve health outcomes. Prerequisites: Graduate statistics.

NURS 6307. POPULATION HEALTH. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on analyzing determinants of health, then designing health strategies to improve outcomes of populations. Prerequisite: Doctoral Standing. Graduate Level Statistics (with minimum of a B). 6327 if in DNP Program.

NURS 6308. STATE OF THE SCIENCE. 3 Hours.
Application of criteria for appraising strengths and weaknesses of published studies; Synthesis of research literature on a selected topic. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 6310. DISSERTATION PROPOSAL DEVELOPMENT SEMINAR. 3 Hours.
Development and critique of doctoral dissertation proposal. Prerequisite: Completion of all Nursing PhD required courses.

NURS 6311. MANUSCRIPT DEVELOPMENT FOR PUBLICATION. 3 Hours.
This course provides a frame for which students focus their prose in order to disseminate their work to a broad audience of clinical, education, or research oriented practitioners. This course allows participants to critique peers' work to enhance their own skills as a peer reviewer, to enhance their career, and support other authors' writing efforts. The participants will write and explore the differences between peer reviewing and editing by critiquing sample review comments. Prerequisite: Approval of instructor. Doctoral Graduate standing.

NURS 6318. PARAMETRIC STATISTICS FOR HEALTHCARE RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
This course provides basic knowledge and skills to select the appropriate biostatistical analysis for different research designs, analyze data, interpret statistical results, and understand research articles in professional journals. Emphasis will be placed on common research designs in health care research; analysis of variance (ANOVA), factorial ANOVA, ANCOVA, MANCOVA, simple linear regression, multiple linear regression, and power analysis. Proficiency in the use of a statistical software package as well as a power analysis software package will be achieved. Prerequisite: Graduate-level introductory statistics course.

NURS 6319. PSYCHOMETRIC AND NONPARAMETRIC STATISTICS FOR HEALTHCARE RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
This course provides basic knowledge and skills to select the appropriate biostatistical analysis for different research designs, analyze data, interpret statistical results, and understand research articles in professional journals. Emphasis will be placed on reliability and validity of instruments commonly used in healthcare; assumptions testing including non-normality; nonparametric statistics for dependent samples and independent samples; logistic regression; and survival analysis. Proficiency in the use of a statistical software package will be achieved. Prerequisite: Graduate-level introductory statistics course.

NURS 6320. LEADERSHIP IN HEALTH CARE SYSTEMS. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on the DNP nurse influencing health systems change at any level. Prerequisite: Doctoral Standing. Prerequisite or co-requisite with NURS 6327 if full time.

NURS 6322. TRANSLATIONAL RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
This course provides a review of differences in QI, EBP, and Research as a foundation for translation of evidence. New practice-based clinical inquiry methods and strategies are explored to promote application of translational Research in the DNP role. Prerequisite: Doctoral Standing. Graduate Level Statistics (with minimum of a B). NURS 6327, NURS 6320.

NURS 6323. EVIDENCE APPRAISAL. 3 Hours.
In this course, students will use analytical methods to critically appraise existing research and literature to select and implement the best evidence for practice. Prerequisite: Doctoral Standing. Graduate Level Statistics (with minimum of a B). NURS 6327, NURS 6320, and NURS 6322.

NURS 6324. CLINICAL INFORMATION SYSTEMS. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on the selection, assessment, and use of information systems, technology, and data to evaluate and monitor outcomes of care, care systems, and quality improvement. Prerequisite: Doctoral Standing. Graduate Level Statistics (with minimum of a B) NURS 6327, NURS 6320.

NURS 6326. PROJECT PROPOSAL DEVELOPMENT. 3 Hours.
In this course the student will propose an evidence-based scholarly project. Upon completion 180 Practicum Hours will be applied to NURS 6620/6621 Practicums. Prerequisite: Pre-requisites in order of occurrence NURS 6320, NURS 6322, NURS 6323.

NURS 6327. CLINICAL SCHOLARSHIP TO IMPROVE HEALTHCARE OUTCOMES. 3 Hours.
This course will develop clinical scholarship and analytical methods to improve healthcare outcomes. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing; Graduate Level Statistics (with minimum of a B).

NURS 6330. DATA SCIENCE AND POPULATION DATABASES. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to prepare students to analyze population-based health data including the theoretical framework behind the design and administration of such studies. The focus is on datasets containing health and behavioral variables. At the conclusion of this course, students will be prepared to produce descriptive and inferential statistics about a defined population using data collected using complex survey design. With the collaboration of the instructor, this course culminates in the development, analysis, and reporting of a research project conducted using a population health database. Prerequisite: NURS 6318, NURS 6319.

NURS 6331. DNP PRACTICUM I PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
During this course, students implement evidence-based solutions that influence health outcomes. Prerequisite: NURS 6307, NURS 6320, NURS 6321, NURS 6322, NURS 6323, NURS 6324, NURS 6326, NURS 6382. DNP status and good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURS 6333. DNP PRACTICUM II PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
This course is applicable for students who have passed 6326 Project Proposal Development without approval from the Graduate Nursing Review Committee regarding implementation of a DNP Project. In this course students have faculty supervision in creating a successful DNP Project Proposal. Upon completion, 180 Practicum hours will be applied to NURS 6620/6621 Practicums. Prerequisite: NURS 6326.

NURS 6370. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, R, P.

NURS 6381. RESEARCH PRACTICUM. 3 Hours.
With the active guidance and under the supervision of an active researcher, the student will complete at least 75 hours of research activities, such as designing studies, seeking IRB and organizational approvals, obtaining informed consent, collecting and analyzing data, conducting laboratory experiments, or disseminating findings. This is practical research experience in preparation for the student's dissertation in the PhD Program in Nursing. Prerequisite: Doctoral standing. By permission of Research Advisor.

NURS 6382. HEALTH CARE POLICY. 3 Hours.
Critique policies and processes to provide leadership in developing and implementing policies and/or regulations that influence institutional, local, state, federal, and/or international healthcare outcomes. Prerequisite: Doctoral Standing. Graduate Level Statistics (with minimum of a B). NURS 6327 if in DNP program.

NURS 6390. TOPICS IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Selected topics in advanced nursing. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

NURS 6399. DISSERTATION. 3 Hours.
Graded F, R. Prerequisite: Admission to candidacy for the Doctor in Nursing degree.

NURS 6470. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 4 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, R, P.

NURS 6490. TOPICS IN NURSING. 4 Hours.
Selected topics in advanced nursing. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

NURS 6620. DNP PRACTICUM I. 6 Hours.
During this course, students implement evidence-based solutions that influence health outcomes. Prerequisite: NURS 6307, NURS 6320, NURS 6322, NURS 6323, NURS 6324, NURS 6326, NURS 6327, and NURS 6382. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURS 6621. DNP PRACTICUM II. 6 Hours.
During this course, students evaluate evidence-based solutions that influence health outcomes. Prerequisite: NURS 6620 and DNP status, Good academic standing (3.0).

NURS 6699. DISSERTATION. 6 Hours.
Graded F, R, P, W. Prerequisite: Admission to candidacy for the Doctor in Nursing degree.

NURS 6999. DISSERTATION. 9 Hours.
Graded F, R, P. Prerequisite: Admission to candidacy for the Doctor in Nursing degree.

NURS 7399. DOCTORAL DEGREE COMPLETION. 3 Hours.
This course may be taken during the semester in which a student expects to complete all requirements for the doctoral degree and graduate. Enrolling in this course meets minimum enrollment requirements for graduation, for holding fellowships awarded by The Office of Graduate Studies and for full-time GTA or GRA positions. Students should verify that enrollment in this course meets other applicable enrollment requirements. To remain eligible in their final semester of study for grants, loans or other forms of financial aid administered by the Financial Aid Office must enroll in a minimum of 5 hours as required by the Office of Financial Aid. Other funding sources may also require more than 3-hours of enrollment. Additional hours may also be required to meet to requirements set by immigration law or by the policies of the student's degree program. Students should contact the Financial Aid Office, other sources of funding, Office of International Education and/or their graduate advisor to verify enrollment requirements before registering for this course. This course may only be taken twice. Students who do not complete all graduation requirements while enrolled in this course must enroll in a minimum of 6 dissertation hours (6699 or 6999) in their graduation term. Graded P/F/R.

COURSES

NURS-HI 3358. FUNDAMENTAL TELEHEALTH SKILLS. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to provide students with foundational knowledge of skills required for effective telehealth application and delivery. Prerequisite: undergraduate status or special student status.

NURS-HI 3359. INTRODUCTION TO HEALTH INFORMATICS. 3 Hours.
This course provides the foundation for the study of health informatics and covers topics such as health information management, clinical information systems (inpatient, outpatient, nursing, laboratory, pharmacy, radiology, etc.), decision support systems, clinical research and health-assessment systems, technology assessment, population health, ethics, security and confidentiality, social determinants of health and emerging trends. Prerequisite: undergraduate status or special student status.

NURS-HI 3360. INTERPROFESSIONAL COLLABORATIVE PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to provide students with foundational knowledge of interprofessional collaborative practice. Students will explore values and ethics for interprofessional practice, roles and responsibilities for collaborative practice, interprofessional communication strategies, and the interprofessional teamwork and team-based practice. This course will provide a framework for deliberate interprofessional collaborative practice with other health professionals to maintain a climate of mutual respect and shared values in today's complex health care environment, with the common goal of improving patient outcomes. Prerequisite: undergraduate status or special student status.

NURS-HI 5383. PRINCIPLES OF HEALTHCARE INFORMATICS. 3 Hours.
Health information management, clinical information systems, decision support systems, clinical research and health assessment systems, technology assessment, and healthcare accounting. Focus is on US healthcare and the role of informatics within the U.S. healthcare system. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS-HI 5384. HEALTHCARE DATA MANAGEMENT AND ANALYTICS. 3 Hours.
Development, integration, and management of healthcare information systems, patient care systems, and healthcare delivery applications. Utilizes case studies and real-life application scenarios. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS-HI 5385. HEALTH INFORMATION SYSTEMS MANAGEMENT. 3 Hours.
Introduction to project management principles and tools used for managing the development of healthcare analytics projects and information systems. Application of systems theory, hardware requirements, personnel requirements, vendor, negotiations, software, database, telecommunications, and use of the internet. Prerequisite: NURS-HI 5383 or instructor approval.

NURS-HI 5386. SOCIAL DETERMINANTS OF HEALTH AND HEALTHCARE INFORMATICS. 3 Hours.
Introduce the concepts of SDOH and explore the relationships between SDOH and Health informatics. Include how healthcare informatics can be employed to bridge the gaps experienced by vulnerable populations. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS-HI 5687. INFORMATICS PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Synthesize principles and concepts of healthcare informatics as it applies to the nurse informatics role. Prerequisite: GPA 3.0; NURS 5327, NURS 5388, NURS 5367, NURS 5366, NURS 5342, NURS 5334, NURS-HI 5383, NURS-HI 5384, NURS-HI 5385, NURS-HI 5386.

COURSES

NURS-IS 3137. INDEPENDENT STUDY. 1 Hour.
Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by the student and instructor. May be repeated with various topics. Must earn C or better for credit. Prerequisite: Consent of instructor.

NURS-IS 3237. INDEPENDENT STUDY. 2 Hours.
Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by the student and instructor. May be repeated with various topics. Must earn C or better for credit. Prerequisite: Consent of instructor.

NURS-IS 3337. INDEPENDENT STUDY. 3 Hours.
Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by the student and instructor. May be repeated with various topics. Must earn a grade of C or better for credit. Prerequisite: Consent of Instructor.

NURS-IS 5170. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 1 Hour.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, P, R. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS-IS 5270. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 2 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, P, R. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing and permission of instructor.

COURSES

NURS-SS 2232. LEARNING PROFESSIONAL NURSING AND LIFE SKILLS. 2 Hours.
This course focuses on the development and successful use of time management, test-taking skills, study methods, and additional student success strategies that can support students pursuing the BSN Prelicensure Program. Required for students who fail an upper-division nursing course. Prerequisite: Admission to the BSN Prelicensure program.

COURSES

NURSC 5120. ADULT-GERONTOLOGY ASSESSMENT LAB. 1 Hour.
Conduct comprehensive health assessment in the adult-gerontology population. Prerequisite: NURS 5220 or concurrent enrollment or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSC 5130. PEDIATRIC ASSESSMENT LAB. 1 Hour.
Conduct comprehensive health assessment in the pediatric population. Prerequisite: NURS 5220 or concurrent enrollment or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSC 5150. ADVANCED CARE OF A CLIENT POPULATION. 1 Hour.
Conduct comprehensive advanced health assessments of a client population and provide a teaching intervention of a priority health need. Prerequisite: NURS 5220 or NURS 5300.

NURSC 5220. ADVANCED HEALTH ASSESSMENT AND DIAGNOSTIC REASONING. 2 Hours.
Apply theoretical foundations of comprehensive health assessment across the lifespan. Prerequisite: Graduate or Certificate Program Standing. NURS 5315 or Special Permission.

NURSC 5302. CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT IN NURSING EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
Explore the nature of nursing education. Focus on the curriculum process and its application to nursing education programs. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURSC 5308. NURSING INFORMATICS. 3 Hours.
Focus on application of computer technology that supports the dissemination of health care data, information and knowledge. Selected software packages/applications are presented and used. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURSC 5310. TEACHING AND LEARNING THEORIES AND STRATEGIES IN NURSING EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
Teaching/Learning theories, strategies, and evaluation for educators. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURSC 5311. NURSING MANAGEMENT IN THE HEALTH CARE ENVIRONMENT. 3 Hours.
Considers development of management and organizational theories as applied to health care organizations and their environment. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURSC 5312. ASSESSMENT AND EVALUATION STRATEGIES IN NURSING EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
Integration of concepts of assessment and evaluation into a nursing evaluation framework. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURSC 5315. ADVANCED PATHOPHYSIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Builds on a previous understanding of anatomy and physiology and focuses on developing advanced knowledge of physiologic and pathophysiologic concepts across the life span. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURSC 5324. PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL CLINICAL PRACTICE I. 3 Hours.
This course provides application of theoretical knowledge and clinical skills to patients with commonly occurring psychiatric and mental health disorders across the life span in the context of advanced nursing practice. Prerequisite: NURS 5222 and NURS 5223 or Certificate Program Standing. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURSC 5325. PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH CLINICAL PRACTICE II. 3 Hours.
This course provides application of theoretical knowledge and clinical skills to patients with various commonly occurring and complex psychiatric and mental health disorders across the life span in the context of advanced nursing practice. Prerequisite: NURS 5324 or concurrent enrollment, or Certificate Program Standing. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURSC 5329. ROLE OF THE NURSE EDUCATOR. 3 Hours.
Investigation of the roles and functions of the nurse educator. Prerequisite: Graduate program standing.

NURSC 5334. ADVANCED PHARMACOLOGY FOR NURSE PRACTITIONERS. 3 Hours.
Study of clinical pharmacological therapeutics for advanced nursing practice. Prerequisites: NURS 5315 or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSC 5337. FAMILY CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Initial clinical preceptorship in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the family nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5432, NURS 5433, NURS 5434 and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURSC 5338. FAMILY CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continued clinical preceptorship with opportunities for increased clinical knowledge in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the family nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5432, NURS 5433, NURS 5434, NURS 5337 or concurrent enrollment; Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program standing.

NURSC 5339. ROLES AND FUNCTIONS OF THE NURSE ADMINISTRATOR. 3 Hours.
Examine and implement administrative and managerial roles in health care organizations. Prerequisite: NURS 5311.

NURSC 5340. MANAGEMENT SEMINAR AND PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Synthesize management, organizational, and leadership concepts and theories in selected health care settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5308; NURS 5311; NURS 5339; NURS 5341: NURS 5343; NURS 5342; NURS 5382. Good Academic Standing (3.0 GPA).

NURSC 5341. FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Analyze and apply financial management concepts to financial planning, budgeting, and reimbursement systems in health care. Prerequisite: NURS 5311 or admission into Masters of Science in Health Informatics (MSH-HI) program.

NURSC 5342. MANAGEMENT OF NURSING OPERATIONS. 3 Hours.
Examine strategic planning for health care systems. Prerequisite: NURS 5311 or admission into Masters of Science in Health Informatics (MSN-HI) program.

NURSC 5343. NURSING LEADERSHIP AND COMPLEX HEALTH CARE SYSTEMS. 3 Hours.
Analyze leadership strategies in current and predicted health care systems including dimensions of workforce and workplace issues, leadership, and evidenced-based decision-making. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURSC 5350. ROLE OF THE NURSE IN ADVANCED PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Theory and application of the multiple roles of the advanced practice nurse within the health care system. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURSC 5352. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Clinical experience in primary and long term health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common episodic acute and chronic health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5462 or concurrent enrollment; Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURSC 5353. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continued clinical experience in primary and long term health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common episodic acute and chronic health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5462 and NURS 5352 or concurrent enrollment and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURSC 5354. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Clinical experience in specialty practice and high acuity health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common secondary and tertiary health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5463 or concurrent enrollment and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURSC 5355. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continued clinical experience in specialty practice and high acuity health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common secondary and tertiary health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5354 or concurrent enrollment; Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURSC 5362. TEACHING PRACTICUM. 3 Hours.
Nursing education preceptorship in selected health care sites with opportunities to apply clinical and educational knowledge, skills, and concepts in a guided, progressive context of nursing education. Graded Pass/Not Pass - F, I, P, W Prerequisite: Completion of all courses in the Nursing Education Program and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURSC 5367. EVIDENCE BASED PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Preparation to lead evidence-based practice teams, to interpret best evidence, to plan for change, to evaluate outcomes, and to disseminate the project. Prerequisite: Graduate standing; NURS 5366 and NURS 5327.

NURSC 5371. PEDIATRIC PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Initial clinical preceptorship in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5465. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate program standing.

NURSC 5372. PEDIATRIC PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continue clinical preceptorship in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5371 or concurrent enrollment. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSC 5373. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Initial clinical preceptorship in selected acute and chronic care health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric acute care nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5467 or concurrent enrollment. NURS 5466 or concurrent enrollment. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate program standing.

NURSC 5374. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continue clinical preceptorship in selected acute and chronic care health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5466; NURS 5373 or concurrent enrollment. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate program standing.

NURSC 5382. NURSING AND HEALTH CARE POLICY: ISSUES AND ANALYSIS. 3 Hours.
Analyze historical, current, and predicted national, state, and local health care policy processes. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURSC 5388. STATISTICS FOR HEALTH CARE. 3 Hours.
This course provides students with the basic knowledge and skills to effectively use biostatistics in different research design and data analysis, and to understand articles in related professional journals. Topics include choosing correct statistical methods and study designs in nursing research and practice; descriptive statistics; probability and probability distributions; estimation and hypothesis testing, simple linear regression, introduction to analysis of variance and an introduction to the use of statistical software packages. Prerequisite: Undergraduate Statistics.

NURSC 5432. FAMILY I. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner primary care management of designated acute, chronic and complex health problems of individuals and families across the lifespan. Particular emphasis will be on pediatric wellness, women's health, men's health, and geriatrics concepts and conditions. Prerequisite: NURS 5418 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5120 and NURS 5130; NURS 5334 or Certificate Program standing.

NURSC 5433. FAMILY II. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner primary care management of commonly occurring conditions seen in primary care patients across the lifespan. Prerequisite: NURS 5418 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5120 and NURS 5130; NURS 5334 or Certificate Program standing.

NURSC 5434. FAMILY III. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner primary care management of designated acute, chronic and complex health problems of individuals and families across the lifespan. Particular emphasis will be on adult wellness, psychiatric, and cardiometabolic concepts and conditions. Prerequisite: NURS 5418 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5120 and NURS 5130; NURS 5334 or Certificate Program standing.

NURSC 5450. NEONATAL NP CLINICAL PRACTICE. 4 Hours.
Integration of clinical management of the high-risk neonate through clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with application of knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisites: NURS 5334 and NURS 5316 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5110 and NURS 5204 and NURS 5537 or concurrent enrollment and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSC 5461. ADULT GERONTOLOGY MANAGEMENT ACROSS THE CONTINUUM OF CARE. 4 Hours.
Foundations of advanced knowledge of common acute and chronic health problems in adolescents, adults, and elders across health care settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5220; NURS 5120 and NURS 5334, and NURS 5367 or concurrent enrollment, or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSC 5462. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE. 4 Hours.
Focus on an inter-professional approach and the development of advanced knowledge in the primary care management of adults from adolescence through old age, their families, and communities in a variety of health care settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5461 or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSC 5463. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE. 4 Hours.
Focuses on a collaborative, inter-professional approach in the evaluation, diagnosis, and management of adolescents, adults, and gerontological patients who are experiencing acute, critical, and complex chronic illnesses across the continuum of care. Prerequisite: NURS 5461 or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSC 5465. PRIMARY PEDIATRIC CARE. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioners management of designated minor acute, chronic and chronic health problems of pediatric patients and their families in primary care healthcare settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5334; NURS 5220; NURS 5130; NURS 5367 or concurrent enrollment.

NURSC 5466. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner management of designated critical, acute, chronic and complex health problems of pediatric patients and their families in an acute care facility. Prerequisite: NURS 5465.

NURSC 5467. PEDIATRIC COMPLEX CARE. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner management of designated acute, chronic and complex health problems of pediatric patients and their families in multiple healthcare settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5465 or concurrent enrollment or Certificate program standing.

NURSC 5610. NEONATAL NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of neonatal advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: NURS 5447 and NURS 5450. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSC 5640. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of adult gerontology acute care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5640: NURS 5354 and NURS 5355. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5640: NURSC 5354 and NURSC 5355. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSC 5645. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of adult gerontology primary care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5645: NURS 5352 and NURS 5353. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5645: NURSC 5352 and NURSC 5353. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSC 5650. PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of family psychiatric mental health care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: NURS 5324 and NURS 5325. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSC 5660. FAMILY NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of Family Primary Care Advanced Nursing Practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5660: NURS 5337 and NURS 5338. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5660: NURSC 5337 and NURSC 5338. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSG: NURSG 5337 and NURSG 5338. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSC 5680. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of pediatric acute care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5680: NURS 5373 and NURS 5374. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program standing. For NURSC 5680: NURSC 5373 and NURSC 5374. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program standing.

NURSC 5685. PEDIATRIC PRIMARY CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of pediatric primary care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5685: NURS 5371 and NURS 5372. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5685: NURSC 5371 and NURSC 5372. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

COURSES

NURSCIS 5170. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 1 Hour.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, P, R. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURSCIS 5270. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 2 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, P, R. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing and permission of instructor.

NURSCIS 5370. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F,R,P,W. Permission of instructor. Graduate standing.

COURSES

NURSG 5150. ADVANCED CARE OF A CLIENT POPULATION. 1 Hour.
Conduct comprehensive advanced health assessments of a client population and provide a teaching intervention of a priority health need. Prerequisite: NURS 5220 or NURS 5300.

NURSG 5220. ADVANCED HEALTH ASSESSMENT AND DIAGNOSTIC REASONING. 2 Hours.
Apply theoretical foundations of comprehensive health assessment across the lifespan. Prerequisite: Graduate or Certificate Program Standing. NURS 5315 or Special Permission.

NURSG 5302. CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT IN NURSING EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
Explore the nature of nursing education. Focus on the curriculum process and its application to nursing education programs. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURSG 5308. NURSING INFORMATICS. 3 Hours.
Focus on application of computer technology that supports the dissemination of health care data, information and knowledge. Selected software packages/applications are presented and used. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURSG 5310. TEACHING AND LEARNING THEORIES AND STRATEGIES IN NURSING EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
Teaching/Learning theories, strategies, and evaluation for educators. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURSG 5311. NURSING MANAGEMENT IN THE HEALTH CARE ENVIRONMENT. 3 Hours.
Considers development of management and organizational theories as applied to health care organizations and their environment. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURSG 5312. ASSESSMENT AND EVALUATION STRATEGIES IN NURSING EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
Integration of concepts of assessment and evaluation into a nursing evaluation framework. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURSG 5315. ADVANCED PATHOPHYSIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Builds on a previous understanding of anatomy and physiology and focuses on developing advanced knowledge of physiologic and pathophysiologic concepts across the life span. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURSG 5318. ADVANCED PATHOPHYSIOLOGY FOR NURSE EDUCATORS. 3 Hours.
This course develops advanced knowledge of pathophysiology. Principles of advanced physiology and pathophysiology are applied to disease processes, plans of care, and teaching plans. This course prepares Nurse Educators to educate clients, students, colleagues to facilitate patients and/or their support systems understanding of the disease process plan of care. Prerequisite: NURS 5367 and NURS 5310 and NURS 5329 and NURS 5302 and NURS 5312.

NURSG 5319. ADVANCED PHARMACOLOGY FOR NURSE EDUCATORS. 3 Hours.
This course develops advanced knowledge of clinical pharmacological therapeutics through the evaluation of classes of drugs and pharmacologic plans of care. This course prepares Nurse Educators to educate clients, students, and colleagues to facilitate patients and/or their support systems understanding of the pharmacologic plan of care. Prerequisite: NURS 5318.

NURSG 5324. PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL CLINICAL PRACTICE I. 3 Hours.
This course provides application of theoretical knowledge and clinical skills to patients with commonly occurring psychiatric and mental health disorders across the life span in the context of advanced nursing practice. Prerequisite: NURS 5222 and NURS 5223 or Certificate Program Standing. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURSG 5325. PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH CLINICAL PRACTICE II. 3 Hours.
This course provides application of theoretical knowledge and clinical skills to patients with various commonly occurring and complex psychiatric and mental health disorders across the life span in the context of advanced nursing practice. Prerequisite: NURS 5324 or concurrent enrollment, or Certificate Program Standing. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURSG 5327. EXPLORATION OF SCIENCE AND THEORIES FOR NURSING. 3 Hours.
This course provides a critical examination of the philosophical and theoretical bases for nursing science. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURSG 5329. ROLE OF THE NURSE EDUCATOR. 3 Hours.
Investigation of the roles and functions of the nurse educator. Prerequisite: Graduate program standing.

NURSG 5334. ADVANCED PHARMACOLOGY FOR NURSE PRACTITIONERS. 3 Hours.
Study of clinical pharmacological therapeutics for advanced nursing practice. Prerequisites: NURS 5315 or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSG 5339. ROLES AND FUNCTIONS OF THE NURSE ADMINISTRATOR. 3 Hours.
Examine and implement administrative and managerial roles in health care organizations. Prerequisite: NURS 5311.

NURSG 5340. MANAGEMENT SEMINAR AND PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Synthesize management, organizational, and leadership concepts and theories in selected health care settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5308; NURS 5311; NURS 5339; NURS 5341: NURS 5343; NURS 5342; NURS 5382. Good Academic Standing (3.0 GPA).

NURSG 5341. FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Analyze and apply financial management concepts to financial planning, budgeting, and reimbursement systems in health care. Prerequisite: NURS 5311 or admission into Masters of Science in Health Informatics (MSH-HI) program.

NURSG 5342. MANAGEMENT OF NURSING OPERATIONS. 3 Hours.
Examine strategic planning for health care systems. Prerequisite: NURS 5311 or admission into Masters of Science in Health Informatics (MSN-HI) program.

NURSG 5343. NURSING LEADERSHIP AND COMPLEX HEALTH CARE SYSTEMS. 3 Hours.
Analyze leadership strategies in current and predicted health care systems including dimensions of workforce and workplace issues, leadership, and evidenced-based decision-making. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURSG 5350. ROLE OF THE NURSE IN ADVANCED PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Theory and application of the multiple roles of the advanced practice nurse within the health care system. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURSG 5352. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Clinical experience in primary and long term health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common episodic acute and chronic health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5462 or concurrent enrollment; Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURSG 5353. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continued clinical experience in primary and long term health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common episodic acute and chronic health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5462 and NURS 5352 or concurrent enrollment and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURSG 5354. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Clinical experience in specialty practice and high acuity health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common secondary and tertiary health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5463 or concurrent enrollment and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURSG 5355. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continued clinical experience in specialty practice and high acuity health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common secondary and tertiary health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5354 or concurrent enrollment; Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURSG 5360. SIMULATION APPLICATION IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
This course provides an in-depth exploration of simulation as a teaching and learning strategy in nursing education. Students will critically analyze various types of simulation, weighing their advantages and disadvantages to determine the most effective approaches for different educational contexts. Prerequisite: NURS 5364 or NURS 5367, NURS 5220 or NURS 5300.

NURSG 5362. TEACHING PRACTICUM. 3 Hours.
Nursing education preceptorship in selected health care sites with opportunities to apply clinical and educational knowledge, skills, and concepts in a guided, progressive context of nursing education. Graded Pass/Not Pass - F, I, P, W Prerequisite: Completion of all courses in the Nursing Education Program and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURSG 5366. PRINCIPLES OF RESEARCH IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on integration of theoretical and empirical principles of nursing research to generate evidence for nursing practice. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURSG 5367. EVIDENCE BASED PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Preparation to lead evidence-based practice teams, to interpret best evidence, to plan for change, to evaluate outcomes, and to disseminate the project. Prerequisite: Graduate standing; NURS 5366 and NURS 5327.

NURSG 5371. PEDIATRIC PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Initial clinical preceptorship in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5465. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate program standing.

NURSG 5372. PEDIATRIC PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continue clinical preceptorship in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5371 or concurrent enrollment. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSG 5373. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Initial clinical preceptorship in selected acute and chronic care health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric acute care nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5467 or concurrent enrollment. NURS 5466 or concurrent enrollment. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate program standing.

NURSG 5374. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continue clinical preceptorship in selected acute and chronic care health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5466; NURS 5373 or concurrent enrollment. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate program standing.

NURSG 5382. NURSING AND HEALTH CARE POLICY: ISSUES AND ANALYSIS. 3 Hours.
Analyze historical, current, and predicted national, state, and local health care policy processes. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURSG 5388. STATISTICS FOR HEALTH CARE. 3 Hours.
This course provides students with the basic knowledge and skills to effectively use biostatistics in different research design and data analysis, and to understand articles in related professional journals. Topics include choosing correct statistical methods and study designs in nursing research and practice; descriptive statistics; probability and probability distributions; estimation and hypothesis testing, simple linear regression, introduction to analysis of variance and an introduction to the use of statistical software packages. Prerequisite: Undergraduate Statistics.

NURSG 5432. FAMILY I. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner primary care management of designated acute, chronic and complex health problems of individuals and families across the lifespan. Particular emphasis will be on pediatric wellness, women's health, men's health, and geriatrics concepts and conditions. Prerequisite: NURS 5418 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5120 and NURS 5130; NURS 5334 or Certificate Program standing.

NURSG 5433. FAMILY II. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner primary care management of commonly occurring conditions seen in primary care patients across the lifespan. Prerequisite: NURS 5418 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5120 and NURS 5130; NURS 5334 or Certificate Program standing.

NURSG 5434. FAMILY III. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner primary care management of designated acute, chronic and complex health problems of individuals and families across the lifespan. Particular emphasis will be on adult wellness, psychiatric, and cardiometabolic concepts and conditions. Prerequisite: NURS 5418 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5120 and NURS 5130; NURS 5334 or Certificate Program standing.

NURSG 5450. NEONATAL NP CLINICAL PRACTICE. 4 Hours.
Integration of clinical management of the high-risk neonate through clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with application of knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisites: NURS 5334 and NURS 5316 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5110 and NURS 5204 and NURS 5537 or concurrent enrollment and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSG 5461. ADULT GERONTOLOGY MANAGEMENT ACROSS THE CONTINUUM OF CARE. 4 Hours.
Foundations of advanced knowledge of common acute and chronic health problems in adolescents, adults, and elders across health care settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5220; NURS 5120 and NURS 5334, and NURS 5367 or concurrent enrollment, or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSG 5610. NEONATAL NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of neonatal advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: NURS 5447 and NURS 5450. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSG 5640. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of adult gerontology acute care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5640: NURS 5354 and NURS 5355. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5640: NURSC 5354 and NURSC 5355. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSG 5645. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of adult gerontology primary care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5645: NURS 5352 and NURS 5353. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5645: NURSC 5352 and NURSC 5353. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSG 5650. PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of family psychiatric mental health care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: NURS 5324 and NURS 5325. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURSG 5680. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of pediatric acute care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5680: NURS 5373 and NURS 5374. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program standing. For NURSC 5680: NURSC 5373 and NURSC 5374. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program standing.

NURSG 5685. PEDIATRIC PRIMARY CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of pediatric primary care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5685: NURS 5371 and NURS 5372. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5685: NURSC 5371 and NURSC 5372. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

COURSES

NURSGIS 5170. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 1 Hour.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, P, R. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURSGIS 5270. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 2 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, P, R. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing and permission of instructor.

NURSGIS 5370. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 3 Hours.

Doctor of Nursing Practice

About This Program

The Doctor of Nursing Practice Program builds on a foundation of previous advanced nursing education and prepares nurses who demonstrate leadership, clinical expertise and innovation in problem recognition and resolution. The required courses identified for the DNP curriculum meet the American Association of Colleges of Nursing Essentials. Our innovative DNP Program prepares clinical leaders to advance nursing and improve health care in our local community and around the world. This program is offered with two formats: accelerated online asynchronous and traditional semester online with synchronous online classes.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to translate clinical and/or administrative science to transform practice.
2. Upon completion, students will demonstrate organizational and systems leadership in promoting inter-professional collaboration and quality improvement.
3. Upon completion, students will be able to appraise and synthesize the evidence for translation in advanced nursing practice.
4. Upon completion, students will be able to apply knowledge of information systems and technology in the evaluation and use of data to improve healthcare outcomes.
5. Upon completion, students will be able to analyze and advocate policy to improve healthcare outcomes.
6. Upon completion, students will be able to evaluate issues and trends in global and population health to improve healthcare outcomes.

Admissions Criteria

The applicant for the Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP) degree must meet the general requirements for graduate admissions (p. 26). Applicants with an MSN that prepares them for a role in advanced nursing practice, as defined in The Doctor of Nursing Practice: Current Issues and Clarifying Recommendations (AACN 2015), are eligible for admission.

The program is open to individuals who have completed their MSN at an institution accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE), Accreditation Commission for Education in Nursing (ACEN), National League for Nursing Commission for Nursing Education Accreditation (NLN-CNEA), or an equivalent accrediting body, including Board-certified Advanced Practice Registered Nurses (APRN's), Nurse Practitioners (NP); Nurse Midwives (CNM); Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetist (CRNA); Clinical Nurse Specialists (CNS); and Nurse Administrators who completed a Master's of Science in Nursing with a Nursing Administration specialty (MSN-ADM), BSN nurses who are Master's prepared with an MBA, MHA, MSN Ed., Informatics, Population Health, or a related Master's degree - approval by the DNP Director or Designee. Students will complete a Scholarly DNP Project applicable to their clinical specialty.

The program does not accept course transfers from other DNP programs. All required courses must be completed at UTA.

All NP students must have an unencumbered APRN and RN license as designated by the Board of Nursing (BON) for practicum courses. It is imperative that any student whose license becomes encumbered by the BON immediately notify the graduate nursing department chair. The complete policy regarding encumbered RN licenses is available online in the DNP student handbook (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/gnurs/dnp_student_handbook.ashx?revision=d9f21e70-7fde-47d0-a24f-1c2220c8b766).

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

Applicants must meet the following criteria for unconditional admission.

- GPA of 3.5 or higher in an earned master's degree in nursing (Master of Science, Master of Arts, Master of Science in Nursing) or a postmaster's Nurse Practitioner (NP) or Nursing Administration (Admin) Certificate from a program or school accredited by the National League for Nursing Accrediting Commission (NLNAC), the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE), or equivalent accrediting body.
- Submission of transcripts from all universities or colleges attended or received a degree.
- Students must complete a graduate-level statistics course with a grade of B or higher before being admitted to the DNP Program. Students can apply before completing the statistics course but cannot be admitted to the DNP Program until the course has been completed.
- Proficiency in using computers for word processing, spreadsheet development, and data and text file creation and manipulation evaluated by the Admissions Committee.
- For APRNs, current certification by an APRN national certifying board with an unencumbered APRN license in any U.S. State or Territory. Students must submit a copy of active certification during admission as evidence of clinical hours evaluated by the Associate Dean or designee.
- For administrators, current national certification as a Nurse Administrator is preferred. Applicants must submit a completed and signed practice/clinical hour verification form with a school seal or a certified letter on university letterhead verifying the number of MSN clinical/practice hours completed during the program of study.
- Current NP practice or current Nurse Administrator practice evaluated by the Admissions Committee.

- A minimum of 1000 clinical practice hours. Up to 500 clinical/practice hours or related certifications obtained during the student's MSN program may be applied to the 1000 post-bachelor practice hours. Evaluation and approval by the DNP Director or designee.

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

Probationary admission may be offered to applicants with a GPA of 3.0 to 3.49 on a 4.0 scale. Evaluation and approval by the DNP Director or Designee.

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

An applicant unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline but whom otherwise appears to meet admission requirements may be granted provisional admission.

DEFERRED STATUS

Deferred decision is granted when a file is incomplete or when a denial decision is not appropriate.

DENIAL OF ADMISSION

An applicant will be denied admission if they have less than satisfactory performance on a majority of admission criteria listed in the DNP Graduate Admission Table.

INDIVIDUALS INELIGIBLE TO CONTINUE GRADUATE STUDY AT ANOTHER UNIVERSITY

If potential students are ineligible to continue graduate study at another university and apply to The University of Texas at Arlington DNP Program, they may request to be reviewed by an admission committee. The admissions committee will be composed of (at a minimum): two representative faculty and the DNP Graduate Advisor and the DNP Program Director or Designee.

The Admissions Committee will make their recommendation for admission or denial based on the following:

- Admission materials (GPA on the Master in Nursing or post-master's certificate, grade of B or higher in graduate statistics, current vita, and English language score if applicable).
- A narrative statement from the potential student providing a rationale for their ineligibility at another university.
- A plan for successful study at UT Arlington.

The committee reserves the right to ask for additional materials as needed. The admissions committee will recommend admission or denial to the Graduate Office for the University.

Curriculum

A degree plan is developed for the student upon admission to the DNP Program. Students are required to have any changes in planned program approved by the DNP Graduate Advisor prior to registration. The DNP Program includes 36 semester hours of required courses.

Core Courses
NURS 6327	CLINICAL SCHOLARSHIP TO IMPROVE HEALTHCARE OUTCOMES	3
NURS 6320	LEADERSHIP IN HEALTH CARE SYSTEMS	3
NURS 6307	POPULATION HEALTH	3
NURS 6322	TRANSLATIONAL RESEARCH	3
NURS 6324	CLINICAL INFORMATION SYSTEMS	3
NURS 6323	EVIDENCE APPRAISAL	3
NURS 6326	PROJECT PROPOSAL DEVELOPMENT	3
NURS 6382	HEALTH CARE POLICY	3
NURS 6620	DNP PRACTICUM I	6
NURS 6621	DNP PRACTICUM II	6
Total Hours		36

Program Completion

DNP SCHOLARLY PROJECT

In addition to coursework, students will complete a Scholarly Project.

Planning the DNP Scholarly Project formally begins in the Course 6323 Evidence Appraisal in which a Prospectus is developed. The DNP Project Proposal is completed in Course 6326 Project Proposal. The Proposal is presented to the Graduate Nursing Review Committee for approval. Following approval, the Project is implemented in Practicum 1. In Practicum 2, the Project is evaluated and presented in virtual Podium Presentations and manuscript is written for publication. The required submission for publication may include manuscript submission to the UTA DNP Repository.

Graduate Nursing Review Committee Approval

The Graduate Nursing Review Committee is a sub-committee of UTA's Institutional Review Board. All DNP Scholarly Projects are approved by the GNRC before implementation of the DNP Scholarly Project in Practicum 1. Students attain 180 practicum hours with GNRC approval of the project proposed.

DNP Independent Study

An Independent Study is applicable to students who:

Skipped a semester between 6323 Evidence Appraisal in which a prospectus for the DNP Scholarly Project is written and the subsequent course 6326 Project Proposal,

Skipped a semester between GNRC Project approval and 6620 Practicum One in which the project is implemented.

Is unable to implement a project due to organizational or job change and needs to develop a new Prospectus or Proposal.

Additional work is needed to meet conditions required by the GNRC for approval.

It is the student's responsibility to notify the DNP program director and Academic Adviser if they have changed jobs or otherwise are unable to complete the project at their work site.

Advising Resources

Graduate nursing students will be assigned a degree plan once admitted to the program. They are encouraged to make phone, in-person, or virtual appointments as needed to discuss their academic progression.

Doctor of Philosophy in Nursing

About This Program

The Doctor of Philosophy in Nursing Program is built on a foundation of prior nursing education and prepares the student for original research and theory development. The PhD in Nursing Program prepares nurse scientists to meet the health needs of a rapidly changing, culturally diverse society and improve human health outcomes by innovating nursing practice, testing healthcare innovations, and conducting responsible health-related research.

The Nursing PhD admits students with the MSN, an alternative BSN to PhD degree option is available.

Competencies

1. Synthesize theoretical and empirical health-related knowledge from nursing and other disciplines.
2. Evaluate resources and strategic health priorities to advance a program of research.
3. Analyze local, national, and global social, economic, environmental, ethical, cultural, and health care issues and policies related to a program of research.
4. Conduct responsible original health-related research.
5. Demonstrate evidence-based leadership and teaching.
6. Disseminate health-related knowledge developed from original research.

Admissions Criteria

The applicant for the Doctor of Philosophy in Nursing (PhD) degree must meet the general requirements of graduate admissions (p. 26) and hold a Master of Science in Nursing (MSN-PhD entry) from a program accredited by the Accreditation Commission for Education in Nursing (ACEN) or the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE) or proof of equivalent education at a foreign institution. Applicants must submit official transcripts from each college or university attended.

ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS

All applicants must meet the following additional criteria.

- A faculty member agrees to be the student's research mentor and future dissertation chair.
- Evidence of current professional nursing licensure/registration in at least one political jurisdiction, evaluated by Associate Dean or designee. Licensure/registration must be maintained throughout the program. If a PhD student is going to perform direct patient care activities or supervise students in clinical agencies, they will be required to obtain an RN license in Texas or a compact state.

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

For unconditional admission the applicant must meet the following requirements:

- A minimum 3.5 GPA on a 4.0 scale for all master's coursework as calculated by UTA Admissions.
- Completion of a graduate level statistics course from an accredited college or university of 3 or more credit hours with a minimum grade of B.
- An interview scoring in the 75th percentile or higher on rating scale, evaluated by the Admissions Committee.
- A written statement of goals scoring in the 75th percentile or higher on rating scale, evaluated by Admissions Committee.

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

The Nursing PhD program may offer probationary admission to applicants meeting the following criteria. When on probation, a student must maintain a 3.0 GPA in the first two semesters of enrollment in the graduate program.

- A minimum 3.0 - 3.49 GPA on a 4.0 scale for all master's coursework as calculated by UTA Admissions.
- Completion of a graduate level statistics course from an accredited college or university of 3 or more credit hours with a minimum grade of B.
- An interview scoring in the 70th percentile or higher on rating scale, evaluated by the Admissions Committee.
- A written statement of goals scoring in the 70th percentile or higher on rating scale, evaluated by Admissions Committee.

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

Applicants who are unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline but who otherwise appear to meet admission requirements may be admitted provisionally.

DEFERRED STATUS

Deferred decision is granted when a file is incomplete or when a denied decision is not appropriate.

DENIAL OF ADMISSION

An applicant will be denied admission if he/she has less than satisfactory performance on a majority of admission criteria listed in the table below. The PhD Admissions Committee will make a recommendation for denial.

HEALTH INSURANCE COVERAGE

All UT Arlington nursing students enrolled in clinical course(s) will be required to provide verification of medical insurance coverage that includes Emergency Department evaluation and follow-up treatment for needle-stick and blood borne disease exposure. This mandatory clinical requirement has been authorized by The University of Texas System Board of Regents.

As such, UT Arlington will not cover initial and follow up treatment for needle-stick injuries and/or exposure to blood borne diseases which may occur while students are enrolled in clinical courses.

While the UT Arlington College of Nursing and Health Innovation recognizes the financial impact this clinical requirement presents for students, we also support the need for students to have health coverage for sudden illness, accidents, emergencies and exposure treatments that may occur in the clinical setting in a variety of clinical agencies.

FEES

Course fee information is available at www.uta.edu/fees. Additional costs beyond tuition, fees and books that may be incurred by a nursing student will include those items listed on the CONHI website. In addition, some clinical agencies charge a nominal fee for parking passes.

E-MAIL ACCOUNTS

Each student will be provided a UT Arlington e-mail address. Official communications from the College of Nursing will be distributed to this e-mail address and learning management system accounts required by many courses. Students will be held responsible for information distributed in this manner.

Requirements Curriculum

Students are required to have each semester's planned program approved by the Research Mentor and Graduate Advisor before registration.

ACADEMIC STANDING

To graduate from the PhD program, the student must have a 3.0 GPA.

1. Student who does not earn at least a B in a course or independent study is required to submit to graduate advisor an evaluation of his or her engagement in the course, reason for less than satisfactory performance, and plan to acquire knowledge and skills to continue.
2. Student who earns a second course or independent study grade that is C or lower will be dismissed from the program

PROGRAM MILESTONES

Diagnostic Evaluation

Before the completion of the first 18 hours beyond appropriate master's level coursework to assess progress and potential for completion

Comprehensive Examination/ Dissertation Proposal Defense

The comprehensive examination is the student's dissertation proposal defense. The examination is scheduled no earlier than during the last nine hours of coursework. If the student has completed all coursework and electives, the student should register in dissertation proposal development until the dissertation proposal is successfully defended. The student's dissertation committee reviews the dissertation proposal and meets with the student privately to approve or not approve the proposal.

Dissertation Defense

Open meeting during which student presents study findings and responds to questions posed by the dissertation committee and other members of the scientific community in attendance. Successful defense of the dissertation is the final step toward completion of the doctoral degree.

Advising Resources

Graduate nursing students will be assigned a degree plan once admitted to the program. They are encouraged to make phone, in-person, or virtual appointments as needed to discuss their academic progression.

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

Applicants who are unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline but who otherwise appear to meet admission requirements may be admitted provisionally.

DEFERRED STATUS

Deferred decision is granted when a file is incomplete or when a denied decision is not appropriate.

DENIAL OF ADMISSION

An applicant will be denied admission if he/she has less than satisfactory performance on a majority of admission criteria listed in the table below. The PhD Admissions Committee will make a recommendation for denial.

HEALTH INSURANCE COVERAGE

All UT Arlington nursing students enrolled in clinical course(s) will be required to provide verification of medical insurance coverage that includes Emergency Department evaluation and follow-up treatment for needle-stick and blood borne disease exposure. This mandatory clinical requirement has been authorized by The University of Texas System Board of Regents.

As such, UT Arlington will not cover initial and follow up treatment for needle-stick injuries and/or exposure to blood borne diseases which may occur while students are enrolled in clinical courses.

While the UT Arlington College of Nursing and Health Innovation recognizes the financial impact this clinical requirement presents for students, we also support the need for students to have health coverage for sudden illness, accidents, emergencies and exposure treatments that may occur in the clinical setting in a variety of clinical agencies.

FEES

Course fee information is available at www.uta.edu/fees. Additional costs beyond tuition, fees and books that may be incurred by a nursing student will include those items listed on the CONHI website. In addition, some clinical agencies charge a nominal fee for parking passes.

E-MAIL ACCOUNTS

Each student will be provided a UT Arlington e-mail address. Official communications from the College of Nursing will be distributed to this e-mail address and learning management system accounts required by many courses. Students will be held responsible for information distributed in this manner.

Curriculum

Students are required to have each semester’s planned program approved by the Research Mentor and Graduate Advisor before registration.

When admitted on probation, a student must maintain a 3.0 GPA in the first two semesters of enrollment in the graduate program. Probationary students are admitted for part-time study only.

If a person does not meet probationary admission requirements, he or she may request review by a Committee of the Graduate Nursing Faculty. The Committee may request completion of coursework and/or additional information to support the individual's petition for admission.
UTA offers probationary admission to the MSN for applicants who have:

- A GPA between 2.8 and 2.99 on the last 60 hours of courses in the bachelor's degree program (as calculated by UTA Admissions).

PROVISIONAL ADMISSION

An applicant unable to supply all required documentation prior to the admission deadline but who otherwise appears to meet admission requirements may be granted provisional admission.

DEFERRED STATUS

Deferred decision is granted when a file is incomplete or when a denial decision is not appropriate.

DENIAL OF ADMISSION

An applicant will be denied admission if they have less than satisfactory performance on a majority of admission criteria listed in the MSN Admission Table.

ADMISSION POLICY FOR INDIVIDUALS INELIGIBLE TO CONTINUE GRADUATE STUDY

Applicants who are on academic probation or who are ineligible to continue graduate study at another university are ineligible for admission. However, applicants may submit a petition to be reviewed by a Committee of the Graduate Nursing Faculty.

The committee will make a decision regarding admission based on the following:

- GPA on the last 60 hours of BSN, graduate GPA, GRE scores (if applicable), and English language score (if applicable);
- Official transcripts from BSN and all universities attended following completion of BSN;
- A narrative statement from the potential student providing a rationale for their ineligibility in the previous graduate program;
- A letter of reference from a graduate faculty in the previous program; and
- A plan for successful study at UT Arlington.

The admission committee reserves the right to ask for additional materials as needed. The committee will make its recommendation regarding admission to the Associate Dean or their designee of the Graduate Nursing Programs.

Curriculum

A degree plan is developed for the student upon admission to the MSN Program. Students are required to have any changes in degree plan approved by a Graduate Academic Advisor prior to registration.

RN to Master of Science in Nursing (Family Nurse Practitioner) Fast Track

About this Program

The RN to Master of Science in Nursing (Family Nurse Practitioner) is designed for licensed registered nurses who wish to earn a BSN and continue their education immediately to a Master of Science in Nursing (MSN). Upon graduation, students are prepared to launch a successful career as a Family Nurse Practitioner.

Students who have successfully met the criteria for the RN-MSN undergraduate portion of the program, will be allowed to take two designated graduate courses that can be used to replace 6 hours of upper-division electives in the BSN program. The 6 hours of graduate courses will be counted toward both degrees

ASSOCIATED PROGRAMS

For detailed information about the programs associated with this Fast Track, refer to their individual degree pages.

RN to BSN (p. 1459)

Family Nurse Practitioner MSN (p. 1399)

Admissions Criteria

Continuing in the RN to MSN program requires a 3.3 GPA on the three indicator courses:

- NURS 3345
- NURS 3315
- NURS 4325

Students who make a 3.3 GPA in the indicator courses and maintain 3.0 each semester are eligible to take the graduate courses when the student is within 12 hours of completing BSN courses. The student completes a short form to indicate the desire to continue in the RN to MSN program and take the graduate courses. There is no need to apply for graduate admission; the graduate application fee and essay are not required. The hours required for them to complete their BSN degree will be adjusted to include the two MSN courses that are replacing upper division electives (NURS 5327 and NURS 5366)

When students complete their undergraduate degree requirements, they may apply for conferral of the BSN degree, while continuing in the RN to MSN program. They will be subject to the usual fees for graduation and diplomas. When the student has applied for conferral of his/her undergraduate degree, the responsibility for advising the student will be transferred to a graduate advisor within the College.

Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Gerontology Healthcare

About This Program

Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Gerontology Healthcare will identify individuals who have advanced expertise in the care and management of older adult individuals and populations. Certificate courses focus upon an inter-professional approach to develop advanced knowledge of the care and management of older adults, their families, and communities in a variety of health care settings.

Older adults are growing in numbers worldwide. By some estimates, adults over age 65 will soon represent a greater proportion of our societies than children. Many health care providers do not have focused gerontological content in their programs of study yet are faced with caring for increasing numbers of older adult patients and seek specific gerontological content to increase their confidence and skill in caring for and managing this population.

This certificate may be combined other programs of study, or applicants can attend strictly for the certificate. Licensed and certified Advanced Practice Registered Nurses may take a Gerontological Specialist exam which identifies them to employers and the broader community as an expert in the care and management of older adults. Courses from this certificate could be used in lieu of required focused continuing education courses for applicants who wish to take that certification exam and seek recognition as a Gerontological Specialist.

Competencies

1. Demonstrate competence in the care and management of aging and of the aged populations
2. Participate in scholarly endeavors related to inter-professional approaches related to older adults, their families and their communities.
3. Provides leadership in nursing or other health related discipline as it relates to the older adult.

Admissions Criteria

Bachelor's Degree in Nursing or Health Related field or a Masters / Doctorate in Nursing or Health related field. These courses are aimed to increase knowledge in the care and knowledge of older adults.

Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Healthcare Informatics

About This Program

The Graduate Certificate in Healthcare Informatics prepares students for advanced practice, education, management, and research endeavors to address a change in the health care landscape. Both full-time and part-time study options are available as well as online and classroom-based programs.

Health Informatics is an evolving discipline at the intersection of data science, health information technology, health information management, and data analytics focused on improving health and healthcare by bringing theory into practice through enabling technologies.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will demonstrate skills in healthcare informatics to improve knowledge and information, decision-making, and effective communication.
2. Upon completion, students will possess data analytical expertise to advise areas of healthcare improvement.
3. Upon completion, students will be able to integrate healthcare-based science with analytical science to assess for patient outcomes, gaps in healthcare delivery, and advise in use of data to improve patient and clinician outcomes.
4. Upon completion, students will be able to integrate healthcare-based science with analytical science to assess for improvement in individuals, populations and communities.

Admissions Criteria

3.0 on last 60 hours of courses of the bachelor's degree program (as calculated by Graduate Admission of UTA) for MSN students. 3.0 GPA in master's degree program for post-master's certificate students.

Department of Undergraduate Nursing

Department Overview

The Undergraduate Nursing Department consists of the BSN and the RN to BSN programs. In addition to the Arlington campus, these programs are offered online through the UT Arlington Academic Partnership program.

Programs

BACCALAUREATE DEGREES

- BSN (p. 1451)
- RN to BSN (p. 1459)

CERTIFICATES

- Rural Health Certificate (p. 1462)
- Telehealth and Health Informatics Certificate (p. 1463)

CONHI UNDERGRADUAte Policies

The Nursing and Health policies are updated yearly. Students are expected to understand the policies and procedures prior to enrollment in the program. This page may link to a full policy or the handbook. Please note that if there is conflicting information between the two sources, the catalog requirements supersede the handbook and/or a policy.

REPEATING COURSES

Students must successfully complete the full Nursing and Health curriculum as noted in the plan of study. Specific courses are subject to the Two Attempt policy. Under the Two-Attempt Policy each course taken at UT Arlington and/or any other approved institution may be attempted a maximum of two times to earn a passing grade. By the second attempt a grade of “C” or better must be earned.

- Withdrawals (W) are exempt from this policy.
- Any non-passing grade is valid for a three-year period. At the conclusion of three years, a non-passing grade is no longer considered an attempt.

GRADE IMPROVEMENT

The Grade Improvement Policy is unique to the BSN Prelicensure program and is used for the selection process only. This policy differs from the BSN Prelicensure program's Two Attempt Policy and from the University's Grade Replacement, Exclusion, and Forgiveness policies. Grades of C or above may be replaced to improve GPAs for the selection process with the following limitations:

- A limit of four courses may be retaken. The identified Nursing preparatory courses are not eligible for the Grade Improvement Policy.
- All earned grades of C or higher are valid indefinitely.
- The first four courses retaken are the grades used in the selection process. Any courses retaken thereafter are not used in the selection process.
- The higher of the two grades is used in the selection process.
- Withdrawals (W) are exempt from this policy.
- Repeated courses are subject to financial aid restrictions.

UPPER-DIVISION COURSES IN NURSING AND HEALTH PROGRAM

Upper-division Nursing preparatory courses include NURS 3366 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=NURS%203366) Pathophysiologic Processes: Implication for Nursing, is subject to the Failure of Nursing Preparatory Course Policy. One failed grade = probationary status with the BSN Prelicensure program indefinitely.

PROBATIONARY STATUS

- A student who earned a failed grade (D or F) in the term prior to BSN application deadline must re-take the course, pass with a C or better, and have not violated the UT Arlington or College policies to be considered a viable applicant.
- A student who earned a failed grade (D or F) in the term directly following the BSN application deadline may not start the program, even if the course is retaken and passed during the subsequent term. A student is eligible to re-apply for the following application period; however, the failed grade will be used in the selection process.

Two failed grades = inability to continue with BSN Prelicensure program for a period of three years. Upon return, a student is eligible to apply under the conditions of the BSN Prelicensure program Re-entry policy.

Re-entry policy refers to a student who is ineligible to continue a BSN Prelicensure program due to academic failure. This includes a student who was accepted into a prelicensure program and has not completed an Associate Degree in Nursing (ADN) or Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) program. During this three-year timeframe, a student may not enroll in the University as a BSN Prelicensure student or apply to the BSN Prelicensure program from another major for three years.

CONDITIONS OF RE-ENTRY

- A student must provide a letter from previous nursing school stating program dismissal was for academic reasons.
- Must meet the eligibility requirements of the application requirements and submit a new application by the desired start date application deadline.
- Pathophysiologic Processes: Implication for Nursing, and Pharmacology in Nursing Practice must be re-taken.

CRITERIA FOR READMISSION OF UNDERGRADUATE NURSING STUDENTS

Students who withdraw from the UT Arlington BSN Prelicensure program for more than one semester in good standing who wish to return to complete the program must submit a written request for readmission to the Office of Enrollment and Student Services by the following deadlines:

Returning spring – September 1st Returning summer - March 1st Returning fall - June 1st

- Readmission is dependent upon space availability.
- A student is eligible for readmission to the program only once.
- If a clinical course is to be repeated, the student must repeat both the theory and clinical components of the course.
- Student must repeat the drug screening process.

Time out of the Program

One Semester

- All of requirements listed above plus:
- Completion of a clinical skills assessment. This assessment will be completed no later than three weeks prior to the start of the semester in which the student is planning to return. The assessment will focus on the skills associated with the last clinical course completed. Input related to skills to be assessed may be sought from faculty in the previous course(s) completed. Should clinical deficiencies be identified, faculty will remediate clinical skill areas that are questionable or inadequate and provide the results to the lead teacher of the course the student is scheduled to enter. Failing to demonstrate adequate clinical skills after three attempts will result in the student being required to retake the last clinical course taken to re-establish clinical competency.

- If the student is in the AO BSN program, he/she will be required to come to the UT Arlington campus to complete the special skills assessment.

Two Long Semesters CB or Two Semesters AO (based on course availability)

- All of requirements listed above plus:
- Repeat criminal background check.

More than two long semesters CB or Two Semesters AO

- Not eligible for readmission. Student must apply for admission as a beginning student.

TRANSFER FROM ANOTHER NURSING PROGRAM

Transfer students who have successfully completed prerequisite courses with a C or above and Junior I courses for the BSN Program: Holistic Health Assessment and Clinical Nursing Foundations at another college or university may be eligible to apply to the BSN Prelicensure program. Students who have not completed the required courses will be ranked with the incoming junior class. Admission as a transfer student to the Undergraduate Nursing Program is contingent upon available space. Transfer students must attend orientation. Transfer students ready to start as a Junior 2 can be admitted in either the CB or AO programs.

- Transfer students must transfer all nursing courses and the grade received from those courses.
- No Ds or Fs in nursing courses.

Students must:

- Meet minimum requirements as stated in the published admission requirements.
- Submit a course syllabus and a content outline of the course(s) to the Office of Enrollment and Student Services. If the course is a clinical course, a list of nursing skills learned in the course(s) must also be submitted.
- The lead teacher in the course, using the Field of Study Criteria Guidelines and other criteria related to the course, will review courses provided by the student for substitution of UT Arlington courses. Faculty may request additional information to clarify their decision. The course is then accepted as a substitution for a core nursing course, as an elective, or denied.
- Submit a letter from previous school stating that the student is in good standing.
- Meet minimum 2.75 GPA in the prerequisite natural science and prerequisite lower-division courses.
- Meet application deadlines of:
  - March 1 - Fall Semester
  - September 1 - Spring Semester

Processing of the transfer admission review will not be initiated until the student has also applied to the BSN Prelicensure program in the College of Nursing and Health Innovation.

ORIENTATIONS

All students are required to complete the general online orientation in the Learning Management System and attend the mandatory in-person orientation held prior to the fall and spring semesters.

Clinical orientation is mandatory for all Undergraduate Nursing students, as established by the Dallas/Fort Worth Hospital Council. Undergraduate Nursing students are required to complete the Standard Hospital Student Orientation annually. Clinical requirements must be valid through the entire semester. If the annual orientation will expire during the current semester, it must be updated.

SPECIAL PARAPHERNALIA/EQUIPMENT REQUIREMENTS

All students enrolled in the CONHI must have internet access and a laptop computer meeting minimum computing recommendations. A list of computer specifications is outlined on the CONHI website (https://www.uta.edu/conhi/). Students may be asked to purchase and download software to meet course and/or program requirements.

Smart Phone or similar device highly recommended.

IMMUNIZATIONS

The UT Arlington CONHI standards require that all students in the BSN Prelicensure program complete immunizations by the time of acceptance.

Students are encouraged to start the immunization process one year before applying to the BSN Prelicensure program.

Program eligibility is dependent upon valid documentation submitted and approved at the time of program acceptance.

View the website (https://www.uta.edu/academics/schools-colleges/conhi/academics/undergrad-programs/imm-prelic/) for more information on the vaccines, titers and valid documentation options.

If you know you will be applying to our BSN Prelicensure program within the next year, you need to start the immunization process now because it can take up to 6 months to complete.

To be eligible to start the program, you will need to submit valid documentation that you have completed the following by Friday of the 2nd full week in March for Fall starts or Friday of the 2nd full week in September for Spring starts.

View the website (https://na01.safelinks.protection.outlook.com/?url=http%3A%2F%2Fwww.uta.edu%2Fconhi%2Fstudents%2Fimm-prelic%2Findex.php&data=02%7C01%7Chwoods%40uta.edu%7C24d15f45992841752c3708d6605814f0%7C5cdc5b43d7be4caa8173729e3b0a62d9%7C0%7C0%7C636802328753838757&sdata=RrfP6ezM2%2B0xhUucl9X for more information on the vaccines, titers and valid documentation options.

CERTIFICATION-CARDIOPULMONARY RESUSCITATION

Undergraduate nursing students are required to obtain American Heart Association Basic Life Support (BLSC) CPR for Healthcare Providers.

Evidence of current CPR certification is required during clinical course enrollment from admission to graduation. Certification must be valid throughout an entire semester with a clinical. If the current card will expire during the semester, the student must retake the course and have a card that will not expire during the semester.

HEALTH INSURANCE COVERAGE

All UT Arlington nursing students enrolled in clinical course(s) will be required to provide verification of medical insurance coverage that includes Emergency Department evaluation and follow-up treatment for needle-stick and blood borne disease exposure. This mandatory clinical requirement has been authorized by The University of Texas System Board of Regents.

As such, UT Arlington will not cover initial and/or follow up treatment for needle-stick injuries and/or exposure to blood borne diseases which may occur while students are enrolled in clinical courses.

While the UT Arlington CONHI recognizes the financial impact this clinical requirement presents for students, we also support the need for students to have health coverage for sudden illness, accidents, emergencies, and exposure treatments that may occur in the clinical setting in a variety of clinical agencies.

DRUG SCREEN

All students accepted to the BSN Prelicensure AO or CB programs will complete a drug screen.

At any time if there is a confirmation of a positive drug screening, the student will be removed from clinical courses for a period of one calendar year. Upon returning to the program, random drug screenings will be conducted throughout the program. A second positive test will result in immediate dismissal from the nursing program.

Random and / or for cause drug screens are at the student's expense and must be completed as required. Failure/refusal to undergo a drug screen on the designated day will result in immediate dismissal from the nursing program. Full Policy (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/consubstanceabusepolicyandprocedure.ashx?revision=ac30e000-f708-407a-a6ff-99e006d04491)

CRIMINAL BACKGROUND SCREEN

Accepted students complete two criminal background checks (CBC): Texas Board of Nursing (BON) and a 3rd party provider as designated by CONHI.

Students accepted into the BSN Prelicensure program must complete the Texas BON CBC prior to program application. Students who have completed or are currently enrolled in NURS 3364, Introduction to Professional Nursing, should submit their BON CBC during that course. Students, who have not taken NURS 3364 by the application deadline, should contact CONHIadmin@uta.edu, provide the necessary information, give permission to send the information to the BON, and schedule the fingerprinting appointment within one month of the application deadline. Full Policy (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/cbcdeclaratoryorderpolicyguidelines.ashx?revision=078fd965-bd24-486e-a567-5a3ff9af61d3)

The second CBC is completed after program acceptance.

A student with a positive criminal background screen will not be admitted into the BSN Prelicensure program without a Declaratory Order from the Texas Board of Nursing stating that the individual has been granted permission to sit for the National Council Licensure Examination for Registered Nurses (NCLEX-RN Examination) upon completion of the requirements for graduation and payment of any required fees. Eligibility to take the NCLEX-RN Examination may be affected by any inaccuracies in the petition, and any subsequent violations of the Nursing Practice Act that may affect eligibility to sit for the examination or the later revocation of a license obtained through misrepresentation.

ELIGIBILITY TO WRITE THE NATIONAL COUNCIL LICENSURE EXAMINATION FOR REGISTERED NURSES (NCLEX RN) - DECLARATORY ORDERS

The Texas Board of Nursing (BON) has set out guidelines and criteria on the eligibility of persons with criminal convictions to obtain a license as a registered nurse. The BON may refuse to admit persons to its licensure examinations, may refuse to issue a license or certificate of registration, or may refuse to issue a temporary permit to any individual who has any criminal offense. Detailed information related to determining eligibility and required processes to determine eligibility for your specific circumstances is available from the Texas Board of Nursing and on their website (https://www.bon.texas.gov/). Students who are unable to obtain clearance from the BON will not be allowed to begin the nursing program.

Once admitted to the BSN Prelicensure program, any student that commits an offense that would require a Declaratory Order will be removed from current and future clinical courses until the Declaratory Order is obtained from the Texas BON and submitted to the College of Nursing and Health Innovation Director of Student Support.

Professional Liability Insurance

Students in the BSN Prelicensure program are required to have evidence of professional liability insurance coverage for a minimum of $1,000,000 limit each claim and $3,000,000 limit aggregate. The charge for coverage will be assessed as a mandatory fee at the time of registration.

FEES

Course fee information is available at www.uta.edu/fees (http://www.uta.edu/fees/). Additional costs beyond tuition, fees and books that may be incurred by a nursing student will include those items listed on the CONHI website. In addition, some clinical agencies charge a nominal fee for parking passes and utilizing their scrubs.

ORAL COMMUNICATION PROFICIENCY REQUIREMENT

Oral proficiency is recognized to be a critical component of providing safe nursing care. In addition to content-specific presentations in various nursing courses, all students in the Undergraduate Nursing program are required to communicate effectively with clients, members of the health care team, and faculty. Contact the Associate Chair of Undergraduate Programs for more information.

E-MAIL ACCOUNTS

Each student will be provided a UT Arlington e-mail address. Official communications from the CONHI will be distributed to this e-mail address and Learning Management System accounts required by many courses. Students will be held responsible for information distributed in this manner.

NURSING COURSE WITHDRAWAL

Students within the BSN Prelicensure program, enrolled in nursing courses are permitted to drop the course one time. Enrolling (on or after the census date) in a course for a second time is considered an attempt. The grade earned on the second attempt is retained. All drops including academic and non-academic drops are also considered an attempt. Compassionate withdrawals and withdrawal exceptions will be reviewed on an individual basis by Undergraduate Nursing Appeals Committee.

Students may drop no more than three upper-division NURS courses during their undergraduate career. Students may drop no more than three upper-division NURS courses during their undergraduate career. All drops for academic and non- academic reasons are considered. Drops due to corequisite and prerequisite violations are also counted in this policy.

Students are required to meet with their academic advisor before dropping/withdrawing. All drops are finalized by the BSN Academic Advisors. Exceptions to this policy may be entertained because of extraordinary non-academic circumstances by Undergraduate Nursing leadership.

Elective and nursing preparatory courses are exempt from this policy.

MOVEMENT BETWEEN PROGRAMS

Movement between the AO and CB BSN Prelicensure programs is at the discretion of program administration. Students will be required to sign a Program Transfer Agreement.

PRELICENSURE BSN STUDENTS WHO DROP OR FAIL A COURSE

Prelicensure BSN students who withdraw or fail a course can repeat the course the next available time the course is offered.

AO Students:

- Students who seek readmission after failing or withdrawing for any reason must meet with an academic advisor to discuss clinical and course options.
- If no seats are available, the student will be delayed until a seat is available at a future admission date. See the student handbook (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/bsn_student_handbook.ashx?revision=5a3d6773-b0aa-4557-bc77-1e795e79ffbd) for full policy.

*If there are more students than seats available, the students will be placed in the order in which they request the move (first come, first placed).

CLINICAL COURSES

To pass a clinical course, the student must pass both the didactic and the clinical components of that course. Clinical attendance expectations, Clinical Performance Requirements and Evidence of Clinical Competence information can be found in the Undergraduate Student Handbook. (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/bsn_student_handbook.ashx?revision=5a3d6773-b0aa-4557-bc77-1e795e79ffbd)

CLINICAL ATTENDANCE DURING SCHEDULED UNIVERSITY CLOSINGS

Some programs in the CONHI, such as the AO BSN Program, may require students to attend clinical on evenings, nights, weekends, or holidays. Students are expected to attend their assigned clinical rotation as scheduled, even when the University is otherwise scheduled for closure, i.e., Spring Break.

PROGRESSION IN THE UNDERGRADUATE NURSING PROGRAM

Students in the Prelicensure BSN Program will not be permitted to continue in the program nor to enroll for additional courses if they:

- receive a grade of D or F in more than one required Nursing or Nursing preparatory course, or
- receive any combination of grades of D or F on two attempts of the same course
- score less than 70% on weighted exam or assignment average
- do not meet requirements of the Comprehensive Assessment and Preparation Program (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/capp_procedure.ashx?revision=e4109778-d947-4ae9-8960-9cdb1d306706)
- do not achieve minimum score requirements on Medication Administration Competency Assessment (p.)
- receive a Clinical Failure (more information in the BSN Handbook (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/bsn_student_handbook.ashx?revision=5a3d6773-b0aa-4557-bc77-1e795e79ffbd))

If a student fails a course, they must take NURS2232 if they have not already taken it.

HONORS DEGREE IN NURSING

Nursing students who wish to graduate with an Honors Degree in Nursing must be members of the Honors College in good standing. Students must complete the Nursing degree requirements and the requirements of the Honors College. Contact the College of Nursing and Health Innovation Honors Coordinator for further information. Due to the accelerated nature of the AO program the Honors Degree is limited to students in the Campus-based program.

NURS 5110. NEONATAL ASSESSMENT LAB. 1 Hour.
Conduct comprehensive health assessment in the neonatal population. Prerequisite: NURS 5220 or concurrent enrollment or permission of instructor or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5112. THERAPY CONCEPTS FOR PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH NURSE PRACTITIONERS. 1 Hour.
This course provides evidenced based practice principles of non-pharmacological individual, family and group therapies for psychiatric disorders and mental health problems across the lifespan. Prerequisite: NURS 5315, NURS 5410 or concurrent enrollment, NURS 5140 or concurrent enrollment, or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5120. ADULT-GERONTOLOGY ASSESSMENT LAB. 1 Hour.
Conduct comprehensive health assessment in the adult-gerontology population. Prerequisite: NURS 5220 or concurrent enrollment or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5130. PEDIATRIC ASSESSMENT LAB. 1 Hour.
Conduct comprehensive health assessment in the pediatric population. Prerequisite: NURS 5220 or concurrent enrollment or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5140. PSYCHIATRIC ASSESSMENT LAB FOR THE PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH NURSE PRACTITIONER. 1 Hour.
Introduces the PMHNP student to the psychiatric mental health assessment applied to the pediatric, adult, and geriatric patient with a mental health disorder through knowledge acquisition and skill development. Prerequisite: NURS 5220, NURS 5120, and NURS 5130, NURS 5410 or concurrent enrollment, NURS 5112 or concurrent enrollment, or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5150. ADVANCED CARE OF A CLIENT POPULATION. 1 Hour.
Conduct comprehensive advanced health assessments of a client population and provide a teaching intervention of a priority health need. Prerequisite: NURS 5220 or NURS 5300.

NURS 5170. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 1 Hour.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, P, R. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5190. TOPICS IN NURSING. 1 Hour.
Selected topics in advanced nursing. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

NURS 5204. NEONATAL NURSING I. 2 Hours.
Clinical management of the high-risk neonate with a focus on the perinatal and transition periods as well as stabilization of the ill newborn at birth. Includes fluid and electrolyte management, nutrition, and identification of the indications and complications associated with invasive skills and procedures relevant to the high-risk neonate. Prerequisite: NURS 5315; NURS 5316 or NURS 5220 or concurrent enrollment and NURS 5110 or concurrent enrollment or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5213. PSYCHOPHARMACOLOGY FOR THE PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH NURSE PRACTITIONER. 2 Hours.
This course provides advanced study of clinical psycho-pharmacological therapeutics for the psychiatric mental health nurse practitioner. Foundations of advanced psychopharmacology in common and complex mental health disorders and conditions in populations across the lifespan are explored. Prerequisite: NURS 5334, NURS 5410, NURS 5140, NURS 5112, NURS 5222 or concurrent enrollment, NURS 5223 or concurrent enrollment.

NURS 5220. ADVANCED HEALTH ASSESSMENT AND DIAGNOSTIC REASONING. 2 Hours.
Apply theoretical foundations of comprehensive health assessment across the lifespan. Prerequisite: Graduate or Certificate Program Standing. NURS 5315 or Special Permission.

NURS 5222. CHILD, ADOLESCENT, AND SPECIAL POPULATIONS PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH FOR THE PMHNP. 2 Hours.
This course provides the scientific foundations and evidence- based practice principles necessary for managing children, adolescents, and special populations (and/or at risk for) various commonly occurring and complex psychiatric disorders and mental health problems as well as comorbid medical illnesses. Prerequisite: NURS 5410, NURS 5213, NURS 5112, NURS 5223 or concurrent enrollment, or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5223. ADULT AND GERIATRIC PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH FOR THE PMHNP. 2 Hours.
This course provides the scientific foundations and evidence-based practice principles necessary for managing adult and geriatric populations with (and/or at risk) for commonly occurring and complex psychiatric disorders and mental health problems as well as co-morbid medical illnesses. Prerequisite: NURS 5410, NURS 5140, NURS 5213 or concurrent enrollment, NURS 5222 or concurrent enrollment, or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5270. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 2 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, P, R. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing and permission of instructor.

NURS 5290. TOPICS IN NURSING. 2 Hours.
Selected topics in advanced nursing. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

NURS 5300. ADVANCED ASSESSMENT, PATHOPHYSIOLOGY, AND PHARMACOLOGY FOR NURSE EDUCATORS. 3 Hours.
Focus on the development and integration of advanced knowledge of health assessment, pathophysiology, and pharmacology across the lifespan. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5302. CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT IN NURSING EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
Explore the nature of nursing education. Focus on the curriculum process and its application to nursing education programs. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5308. NURSING INFORMATICS. 3 Hours.
Focus on application of computer technology that supports the dissemination of health care data, information and knowledge. Selected software packages/applications are presented and used. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURS 5310. TEACHING AND LEARNING THEORIES AND STRATEGIES IN NURSING EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
Teaching/Learning theories, strategies, and evaluation for educators. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5311. NURSING MANAGEMENT IN THE HEALTH CARE ENVIRONMENT. 3 Hours.
Considers development of management and organizational theories as applied to health care organizations and their environment. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURS 5312. ASSESSMENT AND EVALUATION STRATEGIES IN NURSING EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
Integration of concepts of assessment and evaluation into a nursing evaluation framework. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5315. ADVANCED PATHOPHYSIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Builds on a previous understanding of anatomy and physiology and focuses on developing advanced knowledge of physiologic and pathophysiologic concepts across the life span. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS 5318. ADVANCED PATHOPHYSIOLOGY FOR NURSE EDUCATORS. 3 Hours.
This course develops advanced knowledge of pathophysiology. Principles of advanced physiology and pathophysiology are applied to disease processes, plans of care, and teaching plans. This course prepares Nurse Educators to educate clients, students, colleagues to facilitate patients and/or their support systems understanding of the disease process plan of care. Prerequisite: NURS 5367 and NURS 5310 and NURS 5329 and NURS 5302 and NURS 5312.

NURS 5319. ADVANCED PHARMACOLOGY FOR NURSE EDUCATORS. 3 Hours.
This course develops advanced knowledge of clinical pharmacological therapeutics through the evaluation of classes of drugs and pharmacologic plans of care. This course prepares Nurse Educators to educate clients, students, and colleagues to facilitate patients and/or their support systems understanding of the pharmacologic plan of care. Prerequisite: NURS 5318.

NURS 5324. PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL CLINICAL PRACTICE I. 3 Hours.
This course provides application of theoretical knowledge and clinical skills to patients with commonly occurring psychiatric and mental health disorders across the life span in the context of advanced nursing practice. Prerequisite: NURS 5222 and NURS 5223 or Certificate Program Standing. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURS 5325. PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH CLINICAL PRACTICE II. 3 Hours.
This course provides application of theoretical knowledge and clinical skills to patients with various commonly occurring and complex psychiatric and mental health disorders across the life span in the context of advanced nursing practice. Prerequisite: NURS 5324 or concurrent enrollment, or Certificate Program Standing. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURS 5327. EXPLORATION OF SCIENCE AND THEORIES FOR NURSING. 3 Hours.
This course provides a critical examination of the philosophical and theoretical bases for nursing science. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5329. ROLE OF THE NURSE EDUCATOR. 3 Hours.
Investigation of the roles and functions of the nurse educator. Prerequisite: Graduate program standing.

NURS 5334. ADVANCED PHARMACOLOGY FOR NURSE PRACTITIONERS. 3 Hours.
Study of clinical pharmacological therapeutics for advanced nursing practice. Prerequisites: NURS 5315 or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5337. FAMILY CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Initial clinical preceptorship in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the family nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5432, NURS 5433, NURS 5434 and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURS 5338. FAMILY CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continued clinical preceptorship with opportunities for increased clinical knowledge in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the family nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5432, NURS 5433, NURS 5434, NURS 5337 or concurrent enrollment; Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program standing.

NURS 5339. ROLES AND FUNCTIONS OF THE NURSE ADMINISTRATOR. 3 Hours.
Examine and implement administrative and managerial roles in health care organizations. Prerequisite: NURS 5311.

NURS 5340. MANAGEMENT SEMINAR AND PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Synthesize management, organizational, and leadership concepts and theories in selected health care settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5308; NURS 5311; NURS 5339; NURS 5341: NURS 5343; NURS 5342; NURS 5382. Good Academic Standing (3.0 GPA).

NURS 5341. FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Analyze and apply financial management concepts to financial planning, budgeting, and reimbursement systems in health care. Prerequisite: NURS 5311 or admission into Masters of Science in Health Informatics (MSH-HI) program.

NURS 5342. MANAGEMENT OF NURSING OPERATIONS. 3 Hours.
Examine strategic planning for health care systems. Prerequisite: NURS 5311 or admission into Masters of Science in Health Informatics (MSN-HI) program.

NURS 5343. NURSING LEADERSHIP AND COMPLEX HEALTH CARE SYSTEMS. 3 Hours.
Analyze leadership strategies in current and predicted health care systems including dimensions of workforce and workplace issues, leadership, and evidenced-based decision-making. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURS 5348. NURSING CARE AT THE END OF LIFE. 3 Hours.
Addresses concepts of palliative care of patients with life limiting disease and their families. Explores the physiology of end stage disease processes, clinical approaches to pain and symptom management, societal issues and trends in end of life care, models of care delivery and the impact of personal values and beliefs about death. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS 5350. ROLE OF THE NURSE IN ADVANCED PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Theory and application of the multiple roles of the advanced practice nurse within the health care system. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS 5352. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Clinical experience in primary and long term health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common episodic acute and chronic health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5462 or concurrent enrollment; Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURS 5353. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continued clinical experience in primary and long term health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common episodic acute and chronic health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5462 and NURS 5352 or concurrent enrollment and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURS 5354. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Clinical experience in specialty practice and high acuity health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common secondary and tertiary health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5463 or concurrent enrollment and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURS 5355. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continued clinical experience in specialty practice and high acuity health care settings with focus on managing adolescents, adults, and elders with common secondary and tertiary health care needs. Prerequisite: NURS 5354 or concurrent enrollment; Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or certificate program standing.

NURS 5356. GLOBAL HEALTH POLICY, HEALTH LITERACY, AND MODELS OF CARE FOR OLDER ADULTS. 3 Hours.
This course will focus on healthcare policy issues and models of healthcare delivery for older adults at the state, national and global levels. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS 5357. ADVANCED CLINICAL MANAGEMENT OF OLDER ADULTS WITH COMPLEX MULTIMORBIDITY. 3 Hours.
This course will focus upon an inter-professional approach to develop advanced knowledge in the chronic health care management of older adults, their families, and communities in a variety of health care settings. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing or permission of instructor.

NURS 5358. ADVANCED CLIN MGMT OF OLDER ADULTS W/COMPLEX MULTIMORBIDITY DURING ACUTE ILLNESS CRISIS. 3 Hours.
This course will focus upon an inter-professional approach to develop advanced knowledge in aging issues and paradigms of care for the older adult; in addition, this course will accentuate the management of older adults with acute health problems, their families, and communities in a variety of health care settings. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing or permission of instructor.

NURS 5360. SIMULATION APPLICATION IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
This course provides an in-depth exploration of simulation as a teaching and learning strategy in nursing education. Students will critically analyze various types of simulation, weighing their advantages and disadvantages to determine the most effective approaches for different educational contexts. Prerequisite: NURS 5364 or NURS 5367, NURS 5220 or NURS 5300.

NURS 5362. TEACHING PRACTICUM. 3 Hours.
Nursing education preceptorship in selected health care sites with opportunities to apply clinical and educational knowledge, skills, and concepts in a guided, progressive context of nursing education. Graded Pass/Not Pass - F, I, P, W Prerequisite: Completion of all courses in the Nursing Education Program and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURS 5363. PERSONAL AND PROFESSIONAL LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT. 3 Hours.
This course illustrates the interconnectedness of personal, professional, and leadership development to practice as an advanced-level nurse. This course enables learners to identify resources to assess their well-being and leadership style. You will learn how interprofessional practice, emotional intelligence, conflict management, and communication are critical in advanced nursing practice. The goal is to provide a sustained foundation to build stepping stones for progressive, lifelong learning.

NURS 5364. RESEARCH, THEORY, EVIDENCE-BASED PRACTICE (EBP) AND QUALITY IMPROVEMENT (QI). 3 Hours.
Exploration of the components of research and theory for translation of the best evidence to be used in evidence-based practice and quality improvement projects for clinical practice.

NURS 5365. SOCIAL DETERMINANTS OF HEALTH AND POPULATION MANAGEMENT. 3 Hours.
The course focuses on epidemiology, integrating perspectives on social determinants of health, health equity, data analytics, informatics, and the role of artificial intelligence in enhancing healthcare outcomes. The course highlights the significance of interprofessional partnerships in optimizing patient care. It also addresses patient safety, aiming to reduce preventable harm and enhancing healthcare quality through patient generated data. At the healthcare system level, the course examines population health along with policies and strategies for operational efficiencies and improved economics.

NURS 5366. PRINCIPLES OF RESEARCH IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on integration of theoretical and empirical principles of nursing research to generate evidence for nursing practice. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS 5367. EVIDENCE BASED PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Preparation to lead evidence-based practice teams, to interpret best evidence, to plan for change, to evaluate outcomes, and to disseminate the project. Prerequisite: Graduate standing; NURS 5366 and NURS 5327.

NURS 5368. ADDRESSING CHALLENGES AND ADVANCING SOLUTIONS IN RURAL HEALTH. 3 Hours.
Students completing Certificate coursework will receive academic credit that may be applied toward a Master's degree in nursing (MSN) or non-nursing students may receive the stand alone certificate in Rural Health Care.

NURS 5369. RURAL HEALTH DISPARITIES AND POLICY IMPLICATIONS. 3 Hours.
Students completing Certificate coursework will receive academic credit that may be applied toward a Master's degree in nursing (MSN) or non-nursing students may receive the stand alone certificate in Rural Health Care.

NURS 5370. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F,R,P,W. Permission of instructor. Graduate standing.

NURS 5371. PEDIATRIC PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Initial clinical preceptorship in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5465. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate program standing.

NURS 5372. PEDIATRIC PRIMARY CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continue clinical preceptorship in selected primary health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5371 or concurrent enrollment. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5373. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 1. 3 Hours.
Initial clinical preceptorship in selected acute and chronic care health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric acute care nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5467 or concurrent enrollment. NURS 5466 or concurrent enrollment. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate program standing.

NURS 5374. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE CLINICAL PRACTICE 2. 3 Hours.
Continue clinical preceptorship in selected acute and chronic care health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge and concepts of advanced nursing practice implementing the pediatric nurse practitioner role in evidenced based patient care. Prerequisite: NURS 5466; NURS 5373 or concurrent enrollment. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate program standing.

NURS 5380. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
Detailed study and participation in a faculty sponsored research project. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by the student and instructor prior to registration. Permission of instructor. Graded F,R,P,W.

NURS 5382. NURSING AND HEALTH CARE POLICY: ISSUES AND ANALYSIS. 3 Hours.
Analyze historical, current, and predicted national, state, and local health care policy processes. Prerequisite: NURS 5367.

NURS 5388. STATISTICS FOR HEALTH CARE. 3 Hours.
This course provides students with the basic knowledge and skills to effectively use biostatistics in different research design and data analysis, and to understand articles in related professional journals. Topics include choosing correct statistical methods and study designs in nursing research and practice; descriptive statistics; probability and probability distributions; estimation and hypothesis testing, simple linear regression, introduction to analysis of variance and an introduction to the use of statistical software packages. Prerequisite: Undergraduate Statistics.

NURS 5390. TOPICS IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Selected topics in advanced nursing. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

NURS 5392. GENOMICS AND NANOTECHNOLOGY IN HEALTH CARE PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Genomics and nanotechnology are emerging as principal drivers to improve human diagnosis and treatment modalities. This course is designed to introduce tools used in these fields. Health care outcomes, in relation to innovations produced from these fields, will be described. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5393. ADVANCED CLINICAL NURSING PRACTICE I. 3 Hours.
Development of advanced knowledge base of specialized clinical concepts and the application of this knowledge in selected clinical areas. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 5395. HEART FAILURE PATHOPHYSIOLOGY AND EXERCISE REHABILITATION. 3 Hours.
The goal of this course is to provide students with fundamental knowledge related to heart failure (HF) pathophysiology, and the role of evidence based exercise rehabilitation to improve overall health related physical fitness and quality of life. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing or Approval of Instructor.

NURS 5396. CURRENT BIOTECHNOLOGY IN HEALTH CARE. 3 Hours.
The goal of this course is to provide students with fundamental knowledge and current advances of biotechnology in medicine and healthcare, and train them how to apply these new technologies in their pertinent fields. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing. Approval of instructor.

NURS 5397. ETHICAL RESEARCH AND THE PROPOSED IRB/IACUC PROTOCOL. 3 Hours.
Ethical research practices that the learner will be able to demonstrate through a written research protocol using good clinical practice (GCP) to ensure protection of subjects/animals. Related topics include social-behavioral and biomedical research certifications, and issues related to scientific misconduct. Prerequisite: Graduate standing or permission of instructor.

NURS 5398. THESIS. 3 Hours.
Graded F,R.

NURS 5410. INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH FOR THE PMHNP. 4 Hours.
This course provides the neuroscientific foundations for various psychiatric disorders and mental health problems across the lifespan. An analysis of the relationships between the neurobiology, neurophysiology, genetic, and epigenetic aspects of various psychiatric disorders and mental health problems will be explored. Prerequisite: NURS 5315, NURS 5220, NURS 5120, NURS 5130, or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5432. FAMILY I. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner primary care management of designated acute, chronic and complex health problems of individuals and families across the lifespan. Particular emphasis will be on pediatric wellness, women's health, men's health, and geriatrics concepts and conditions. Prerequisite: NURS 5418 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5120 and NURS 5130; NURS 5334 or Certificate Program standing.

NURS 5433. FAMILY II. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner primary care management of commonly occurring conditions seen in primary care patients across the lifespan. Prerequisite: NURS 5418 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5120 and NURS 5130; NURS 5334 or Certificate Program standing.

NURS 5434. FAMILY III. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner primary care management of designated acute, chronic and complex health problems of individuals and families across the lifespan. Particular emphasis will be on adult wellness, psychiatric, and cardiometabolic concepts and conditions. Prerequisite: NURS 5418 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5120 and NURS 5130; NURS 5334 or Certificate Program standing.

NURS 5447. NEONATAL NURSING III. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts of pharmacological and technological therapies and evidence based knowledge for the management of designated complex acute and chronic health problems affecting infants (birth to 2 years of age) and their families including ethical issues. Prerequisite: NURS 5537 or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5450. NEONATAL NP CLINICAL PRACTICE. 4 Hours.
Integration of clinical management of the high-risk neonate through clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with application of knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisites: NURS 5334 and NURS 5316 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5110 and NURS 5204 and NURS 5537 or concurrent enrollment and Good academic standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5461. ADULT GERONTOLOGY MANAGEMENT ACROSS THE CONTINUUM OF CARE. 4 Hours.
Foundations of advanced knowledge of common acute and chronic health problems in adolescents, adults, and elders across health care settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5220; NURS 5120 and NURS 5334, and NURS 5367 or concurrent enrollment, or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5462. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE. 4 Hours.
Focus on an inter-professional approach and the development of advanced knowledge in the primary care management of adults from adolescence through old age, their families, and communities in a variety of health care settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5461 or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5463. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE. 4 Hours.
Focuses on a collaborative, inter-professional approach in the evaluation, diagnosis, and management of adolescents, adults, and gerontological patients who are experiencing acute, critical, and complex chronic illnesses across the continuum of care. Prerequisite: NURS 5461 or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5465. PRIMARY PEDIATRIC CARE. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioners management of designated minor acute, chronic and chronic health problems of pediatric patients and their families in primary care healthcare settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5334; NURS 5220; NURS 5130; NURS 5367 or concurrent enrollment.

NURS 5466. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner management of designated critical, acute, chronic and complex health problems of pediatric patients and their families in an acute care facility. Prerequisite: NURS 5465.

NURS 5467. PEDIATRIC COMPLEX CARE. 4 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts and knowledge for nurse practitioner management of designated acute, chronic and complex health problems of pediatric patients and their families in multiple healthcare settings. Prerequisite: NURS 5465 or concurrent enrollment or Certificate program standing.

NURS 5470. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 4 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. Graded F,R,P,W.

NURS 5537. NEONATAL NURSING II. 5 Hours.
This course focuses on advanced concepts of pharmacological and technological therapies and evidence based knowledge for the management of designated complex, acute health problems affecting infants (birth to 2 years of age). Graded (A,B,C,D,F,I,W). Prerequisite:NURS 5204 and NURS 5334 and NURS 5316 or NURS 5220 and NURS 5110; NURS 5367 or concurrent enrollment or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5610. NEONATAL NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of neonatal advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: NURS 5447 and NURS 5450. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5640. ADULT GERONTOLOGY ACUTE CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of adult gerontology acute care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5640: NURS 5354 and NURS 5355. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5640: NURSC 5354 and NURSC 5355. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5645. ADULT GERONTOLOGY PRIMARY CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of adult gerontology primary care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5645: NURS 5352 and NURS 5353. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5645: NURSC 5352 and NURSC 5353. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5650. PSYCHIATRIC MENTAL HEALTH NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of family psychiatric mental health care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: NURS 5324 and NURS 5325. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5660. FAMILY NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of Family Primary Care Advanced Nursing Practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5660: NURS 5337 and NURS 5338. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5660: NURSC 5337 and NURSC 5338. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSG: NURSG 5337 and NURSG 5338. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5670. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 6 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Prereq: Permission of instructor. Graded F,R,P,W.

NURS 5680. PEDIATRIC ACUTE CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of pediatric acute care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5680: NURS 5373 and NURS 5374. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program standing. For NURSC 5680: NURSC 5373 and NURSC 5374. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program standing.

NURS 5685. PEDIATRIC PRIMARY CARE NP ADVANCED PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Clinical preceptorships in selected health practice sites with opportunities to apply knowledge, skills and concepts in a guided, progressive context of pediatric primary care advanced nursing practice. The ratio of credit to clinical hours is 1:4. Prerequisite: For NURS 5685: NURS 5371 and NURS 5372. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing. For NURSC 5685: NURSC 5371 and NURSC 5372. Good Academic Standing (GPA 3.0) or Certificate Program Standing.

NURS 5698. THESIS. 6 Hours.
Graded F, R, P.

NURS 6102. ISSUES IN STUDYING HEALTH & CULTURE OF SCIENCE. 1 Hour.
Professional, ethical, legal, financial, cultural, and socio-political issues associated with conducting and disseminating research. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing. Enrolled in Nursing PhD program.

NURS 6170. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 1 Hour.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F,R, P.

NURS 6190. SPECIAL TOPICS IN NURSING. 1 Hour.
Selected topics in advanced nursing. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

NURS 6203. ISSUES IN STUDYING HEALTH & CULTURE OF SCIENCE. 2 Hours.
Professional, ethical, legal, financial, cultural, and socio-political issues associated with conducting and disseminating research. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing. Enrolled in Nursing PhD program. Students who are unable to enroll in more than 6 credit hours during Fall & Spring semesters must enroll in this summer course.

NURS 6270. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 2 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, R, P.

NURS 6290. TOPICS IN NURSING. 2 Hours.
Selected topics in advanced nursing. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

NURS 6301. THEORY IN NURSING SCIENCE. 3 Hours.
Analysis and evaluation of theory used to guide health-related research; synthesis of health-related research guided by theory. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 6304. MEASUREMENT IN HEALTH RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
This course presents the process involved in identifying different sources of data and variables and the use of conceptual models to influence choice and measurement of variables. The course presents the processes for designing, testing and/or selecting instruments, methods and procedures for measuring variables in clinical, educational and research settings. Prerequisite: NURS 6319 or permission of instructor. Course is predicated on prior learning related to basic statistics. Corequisites: NURS 6318 or permission of instructor. Course is predicated on prior learning related to basic statistics.

NURS 6305. QUALITATIVE RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
Philosophical foundation for and methodological issues in using qualitative approaches for scientific and knowledge development. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 6306. RESEARCH DESIGN. 3 Hours.
Application of advanced nursing research methods to design studies that improve health outcomes. Prerequisites: Graduate statistics.

NURS 6307. POPULATION HEALTH. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on analyzing determinants of health, then designing health strategies to improve outcomes of populations. Prerequisite: Doctoral Standing. Graduate Level Statistics (with minimum of a B). 6327 if in DNP Program.

NURS 6308. STATE OF THE SCIENCE. 3 Hours.
Application of criteria for appraising strengths and weaknesses of published studies; Synthesis of research literature on a selected topic. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS 6310. DISSERTATION PROPOSAL DEVELOPMENT SEMINAR. 3 Hours.
Development and critique of doctoral dissertation proposal. Prerequisite: Completion of all Nursing PhD required courses.

NURS 6311. MANUSCRIPT DEVELOPMENT FOR PUBLICATION. 3 Hours.
This course provides a frame for which students focus their prose in order to disseminate their work to a broad audience of clinical, education, or research oriented practitioners. This course allows participants to critique peers' work to enhance their own skills as a peer reviewer, to enhance their career, and support other authors' writing efforts. The participants will write and explore the differences between peer reviewing and editing by critiquing sample review comments. Prerequisite: Approval of instructor. Doctoral Graduate standing.

NURS 6318. PARAMETRIC STATISTICS FOR HEALTHCARE RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
This course provides basic knowledge and skills to select the appropriate biostatistical analysis for different research designs, analyze data, interpret statistical results, and understand research articles in professional journals. Emphasis will be placed on common research designs in health care research; analysis of variance (ANOVA), factorial ANOVA, ANCOVA, MANCOVA, simple linear regression, multiple linear regression, and power analysis. Proficiency in the use of a statistical software package as well as a power analysis software package will be achieved. Prerequisite: Graduate-level introductory statistics course.

NURS 6319. PSYCHOMETRIC AND NONPARAMETRIC STATISTICS FOR HEALTHCARE RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
This course provides basic knowledge and skills to select the appropriate biostatistical analysis for different research designs, analyze data, interpret statistical results, and understand research articles in professional journals. Emphasis will be placed on reliability and validity of instruments commonly used in healthcare; assumptions testing including non-normality; nonparametric statistics for dependent samples and independent samples; logistic regression; and survival analysis. Proficiency in the use of a statistical software package will be achieved. Prerequisite: Graduate-level introductory statistics course.

NURS 6320. LEADERSHIP IN HEALTH CARE SYSTEMS. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on the DNP nurse influencing health systems change at any level. Prerequisite: Doctoral Standing. Prerequisite or co-requisite with NURS 6327 if full time.

NURS 6322. TRANSLATIONAL RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
This course provides a review of differences in QI, EBP, and Research as a foundation for translation of evidence. New practice-based clinical inquiry methods and strategies are explored to promote application of translational Research in the DNP role. Prerequisite: Doctoral Standing. Graduate Level Statistics (with minimum of a B). NURS 6327, NURS 6320.

NURS 6323. EVIDENCE APPRAISAL. 3 Hours.
In this course, students will use analytical methods to critically appraise existing research and literature to select and implement the best evidence for practice. Prerequisite: Doctoral Standing. Graduate Level Statistics (with minimum of a B). NURS 6327, NURS 6320, and NURS 6322.

NURS 6324. CLINICAL INFORMATION SYSTEMS. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on the selection, assessment, and use of information systems, technology, and data to evaluate and monitor outcomes of care, care systems, and quality improvement. Prerequisite: Doctoral Standing. Graduate Level Statistics (with minimum of a B) NURS 6327, NURS 6320.

NURS 6326. PROJECT PROPOSAL DEVELOPMENT. 3 Hours.
In this course the student will propose an evidence-based scholarly project. Upon completion 180 Practicum Hours will be applied to NURS 6620/6621 Practicums. Prerequisite: Pre-requisites in order of occurrence NURS 6320, NURS 6322, NURS 6323.

NURS 6327. CLINICAL SCHOLARSHIP TO IMPROVE HEALTHCARE OUTCOMES. 3 Hours.
This course will develop clinical scholarship and analytical methods to improve healthcare outcomes. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing; Graduate Level Statistics (with minimum of a B).

NURS 6330. DATA SCIENCE AND POPULATION DATABASES. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to prepare students to analyze population-based health data including the theoretical framework behind the design and administration of such studies. The focus is on datasets containing health and behavioral variables. At the conclusion of this course, students will be prepared to produce descriptive and inferential statistics about a defined population using data collected using complex survey design. With the collaboration of the instructor, this course culminates in the development, analysis, and reporting of a research project conducted using a population health database. Prerequisite: NURS 6318, NURS 6319.

NURS 6331. DNP PRACTICUM I PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
During this course, students implement evidence-based solutions that influence health outcomes. Prerequisite: NURS 6307, NURS 6320, NURS 6321, NURS 6322, NURS 6323, NURS 6324, NURS 6326, NURS 6382. DNP status and good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURS 6333. DNP PRACTICUM II PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
This course is applicable for students who have passed 6326 Project Proposal Development without approval from the Graduate Nursing Review Committee regarding implementation of a DNP Project. In this course students have faculty supervision in creating a successful DNP Project Proposal. Upon completion, 180 Practicum hours will be applied to NURS 6620/6621 Practicums. Prerequisite: NURS 6326.

NURS 6370. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, R, P.

NURS 6381. RESEARCH PRACTICUM. 3 Hours.
With the active guidance and under the supervision of an active researcher, the student will complete at least 75 hours of research activities, such as designing studies, seeking IRB and organizational approvals, obtaining informed consent, collecting and analyzing data, conducting laboratory experiments, or disseminating findings. This is practical research experience in preparation for the student's dissertation in the PhD Program in Nursing. Prerequisite: Doctoral standing. By permission of Research Advisor.

NURS 6382. HEALTH CARE POLICY. 3 Hours.
Critique policies and processes to provide leadership in developing and implementing policies and/or regulations that influence institutional, local, state, federal, and/or international healthcare outcomes. Prerequisite: Doctoral Standing. Graduate Level Statistics (with minimum of a B). NURS 6327 if in DNP program.

NURS 6390. TOPICS IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Selected topics in advanced nursing. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

NURS 6399. DISSERTATION. 3 Hours.
Graded F, R. Prerequisite: Admission to candidacy for the Doctor in Nursing degree.

NURS 6470. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 4 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, R, P.

NURS 6490. TOPICS IN NURSING. 4 Hours.
Selected topics in advanced nursing. May be repeated for credit as topics change.

NURS 6620. DNP PRACTICUM I. 6 Hours.
During this course, students implement evidence-based solutions that influence health outcomes. Prerequisite: NURS 6307, NURS 6320, NURS 6322, NURS 6323, NURS 6324, NURS 6326, NURS 6327, and NURS 6382. Good academic standing (GPA 3.0).

NURS 6621. DNP PRACTICUM II. 6 Hours.
During this course, students evaluate evidence-based solutions that influence health outcomes. Prerequisite: NURS 6620 and DNP status, Good academic standing (3.0).

NURS 6699. DISSERTATION. 6 Hours.
Graded F, R, P, W. Prerequisite: Admission to candidacy for the Doctor in Nursing degree.

NURS 6999. DISSERTATION. 9 Hours.
Graded F, R, P. Prerequisite: Admission to candidacy for the Doctor in Nursing degree.

NURS 7399. DOCTORAL DEGREE COMPLETION. 3 Hours.
This course may be taken during the semester in which a student expects to complete all requirements for the doctoral degree and graduate. Enrolling in this course meets minimum enrollment requirements for graduation, for holding fellowships awarded by The Office of Graduate Studies and for full-time GTA or GRA positions. Students should verify that enrollment in this course meets other applicable enrollment requirements. To remain eligible in their final semester of study for grants, loans or other forms of financial aid administered by the Financial Aid Office must enroll in a minimum of 5 hours as required by the Office of Financial Aid. Other funding sources may also require more than 3-hours of enrollment. Additional hours may also be required to meet to requirements set by immigration law or by the policies of the student's degree program. Students should contact the Financial Aid Office, other sources of funding, Office of International Education and/or their graduate advisor to verify enrollment requirements before registering for this course. This course may only be taken twice. Students who do not complete all graduation requirements while enrolled in this course must enroll in a minimum of 6 dissertation hours (6699 or 6999) in their graduation term. Graded P/F/R.

COURSES

NURS-EL 3300. COOPERATIVE NURSING WORK EXPERIENCE. 3 Hours.
Designed for nursing cooperative education students to integrate classroom study with career-related practical experience in the workplace. Must earn a C or better to earn credit. Prerequisite: Admission into nursing degree program.

NURS-EL 3347. SPECIALIZED TOPICS IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
Areas of special interest. May be repeated with varied topics. Must earn a C or better to earn credit.

NURS-EL 3352. THE LEGACY OF THE FAMILY. 3 Hours.
Explore and enhance understanding and application of the principles of family science knowledge in therapeutic relationships with families across the lifespan.

COURSES

NURS-HI 3358. FUNDAMENTAL TELEHEALTH SKILLS. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to provide students with foundational knowledge of skills required for effective telehealth application and delivery. Prerequisite: undergraduate status or special student status.

NURS-HI 3359. INTRODUCTION TO HEALTH INFORMATICS. 3 Hours.
This course provides the foundation for the study of health informatics and covers topics such as health information management, clinical information systems (inpatient, outpatient, nursing, laboratory, pharmacy, radiology, etc.), decision support systems, clinical research and health-assessment systems, technology assessment, population health, ethics, security and confidentiality, social determinants of health and emerging trends. Prerequisite: undergraduate status or special student status.

NURS-HI 3360. INTERPROFESSIONAL COLLABORATIVE PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to provide students with foundational knowledge of interprofessional collaborative practice. Students will explore values and ethics for interprofessional practice, roles and responsibilities for collaborative practice, interprofessional communication strategies, and the interprofessional teamwork and team-based practice. This course will provide a framework for deliberate interprofessional collaborative practice with other health professionals to maintain a climate of mutual respect and shared values in today's complex health care environment, with the common goal of improving patient outcomes. Prerequisite: undergraduate status or special student status.

NURS-HI 5383. PRINCIPLES OF HEALTHCARE INFORMATICS. 3 Hours.
Health information management, clinical information systems, decision support systems, clinical research and health assessment systems, technology assessment, and healthcare accounting. Focus is on US healthcare and the role of informatics within the U.S. healthcare system. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS-HI 5384. HEALTHCARE DATA MANAGEMENT AND ANALYTICS. 3 Hours.
Development, integration, and management of healthcare information systems, patient care systems, and healthcare delivery applications. Utilizes case studies and real-life application scenarios. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS-HI 5385. HEALTH INFORMATION SYSTEMS MANAGEMENT. 3 Hours.
Introduction to project management principles and tools used for managing the development of healthcare analytics projects and information systems. Application of systems theory, hardware requirements, personnel requirements, vendor, negotiations, software, database, telecommunications, and use of the internet. Prerequisite: NURS-HI 5383 or instructor approval.

NURS-HI 5386. SOCIAL DETERMINANTS OF HEALTH AND HEALTHCARE INFORMATICS. 3 Hours.
Introduce the concepts of SDOH and explore the relationships between SDOH and Health informatics. Include how healthcare informatics can be employed to bridge the gaps experienced by vulnerable populations. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing.

NURS-HI 5687. INFORMATICS PRACTICUM. 6 Hours.
Synthesize principles and concepts of healthcare informatics as it applies to the nurse informatics role. Prerequisite: GPA 3.0; NURS 5327, NURS 5388, NURS 5367, NURS 5366, NURS 5342, NURS 5334, NURS-HI 5383, NURS-HI 5384, NURS-HI 5385, NURS-HI 5386.

COURSES

NURS-IS 3137. INDEPENDENT STUDY. 1 Hour.
Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by the student and instructor. May be repeated with various topics. Must earn C or better for credit. Prerequisite: Consent of instructor.

NURS-IS 3237. INDEPENDENT STUDY. 2 Hours.
Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by the student and instructor. May be repeated with various topics. Must earn C or better for credit. Prerequisite: Consent of instructor.

NURS-IS 3337. INDEPENDENT STUDY. 3 Hours.
Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by the student and instructor. May be repeated with various topics. Must earn a grade of C or better for credit. Prerequisite: Consent of Instructor.

NURS-IS 5170. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 1 Hour.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, P, R. Prerequisite: Graduate standing.

NURS-IS 5270. INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NURSING. 2 Hours.
Detailed in-depth study in a specific topic area. Topic and mode of study are agreed upon by student(s) and instructor prior to registration. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Graded F, P, R. Prerequisite: Graduate Standing and permission of instructor.

COURSES

NURS-SS 2232. LEARNING PROFESSIONAL NURSING AND LIFE SKILLS. 2 Hours.
This course focuses on the development and successful use of time management, test-taking skills, study methods, and additional student success strategies that can support students pursuing the BSN Prelicensure Program. Required for students who fail an upper-division nursing course. Prerequisite: Admission to the BSN Prelicensure program.

COURSES

NURS-UL 3333. PROMOTING HEALTHY LIFESTYLES. 3 Hours.
Focus on health promotion and disease prevention strategies that promote healthy lifestyles and empower individuals, families, and populations to achieve optimal health and wellness. Positive health communication techniques for behavioral change, including motivational interviewing are discussed.

NURS-UL 3352. THE LEGACY OF THE FAMILY. 3 Hours.
Explore and enhance understanding and application of the principles of family science knowledge in therapeutic relationships with families across the lifespan.

NURS-UL 3365. PHARMACOLOGY IN NURSING PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
Introduction to current concepts of pharmacology and their relationship to nursing practice. Included are basic principles of drug actions, side effects for major drug classifications, and the role of the nurse in drug therapeutics. Prerequisite: Admission into the upper division nursing program.

NURS-UL 3366. PATHOPHYSIOLOGIC PROCESSES: IMPLICATIONS FOR NURSING. 3 Hours.
Pathophysiologic alterations, their interactions, and effects on persons across the life span as a basis for therapeutic nursing interventions. Must be taken no more than three years prior to acceptance into the nursing program. Prerequisite: BIOL 2457, BIOL 2458, CHEM 1451.

NURS-UL 3632. CLINICAL NURSING FOUNDATIONS. 6 Hours.
Basic therapeutic nursing interventions with individuals and families in diverse settings using nursing process framework. Prerequisite: Acceptance into the upper division nursing program. Co-req: NURS 3365 and NURS 3320.

COURSES

NURSU 3300. COOPERATIVE NURSING WORK EXPERIENCE. 3 Hours.
Designed for nursing cooperative education students to integrate classroom study with career-related practical experience in the workplace. Must earn a C or better to earn credit. Prerequisite: Admission into nursing degree program.

NURSU 3309. MEDICAL TERMINOLOGY FOR HEALTHCARE PROVIDERS. 3 Hours.
This course will enable the student to speak, use, and understand commonly used terms in the healthcare field. This course can be used as the upper division elective. Formerly taught as BIOL 3309. Credit will not be given for both.

NURSU 3315. RN-BSN HOLISTIC HEALTH ASSESSMENT ACROSS THE LIFESPAN. 3 Hours.
Theory and practice of holistic health assessment of individuals and families across the life span designed for the registered nurse. RN-BSN students only. Prerequisite: NURS 3345.

NURSU 3325. RN-BSN HOLISTIC CARE OF THE OLDER ADULT. 3 Hours.
Introduction to gerontologic nursing principles and standards. Selected concepts and issues related to aging and its impact on society and health care. RN-BSN students only. Previously listed as NURS 3322. Prerequisite: NURS 3345.

NURSU 3335. RN-BSN PROMOTING HEALTHY LIFESTYLES. 3 Hours.
Focus on health promotion and disease preventions strategies that promote healthy lifestyles and empower individuals, families, and populations to achieve optimal health and wellness. The role of the nurse in health promotion is emphasized. Students will examine the impact of nurses' overall wellness on patient safety. RN-BSN students only. Previously NURS 3435. Prerequisite: NURS 3345.

NURSU 3345. ROLE TRANSITION TO PROFESSIONAL NURSING. 3 Hours.
Course addresses the role transition to Professional Nursing, nursing theory, ethics, decision making, critical thinking/clinical judgment, introduction to evidence-based practice, and informatics/technology in practice. Identifies strategies for personal and professional empowerment. Prerequisite: Admission into nursing degree program.

NURSU 3352. THE LEGACY OF THE FAMILY. 3 Hours.
Explore and enhance understanding and application of the principles of family science knowledge in therapeutic relationships with families across the lifespan.

NURSU 3375. RN-BSN HEALTH POLICY, LEGAL ASPECTS AND INFORMATICS IN NURSING. 3 Hours.
This course provides an introduction to legal and ethical concepts, values, and behaviors necessary for transitioning to a professional nursing role. Topics include health care policy development, legal overview and peer-review process, health care informatics, economic and political issues, laws, rules, challenges, boundaries, malpractice and societal issues and trends influencing health care. Prerequisite: NURS 3345.

NURSU 4300. COOPERATIVE NURSING WORK EXPERIENCE. 3 Hours.
Designed for nursing cooperative education student to integrate classroom study with career-related practical experience in the workplace. Prerequisite: NURS-EL 3300 or NURS 3300.

NURSU 4325. RN-BSN NURSING RESEARCH. 3 Hours.
Basic concepts, processes and applications of nursing research. Research role of the nurse in decision making and clinical practice. RN-BSN students only. Prerequisite: ENGL 2338 or equivalent, Math 1308 or equivalent, and NURS 3345 or NURS 3645.

NURSU 4455. RN-BSN NURSING LEADERSHIP & MANAGEMENT. 4 Hours.
Exploration of organizational strategies, leadership theories and societal trends with implications for decision making in health care. Introduction to management skills needed by professional nurses with clinical application in diverse settings. RN-BSN students only. Prerequisite: NURS 3345.

NURSU 4465. RN-BSN POPULATION AND COMMUNITY HEALTH NURSING. 4 Hours.
Integrates knowledge from nursing theory and public health science in assessing health care needs of aggregates, communities, and society for the Registered Nurse. RN-BSN students only. Prerequisite: NURS 3345.

NURSU 4685. RN-BSN CAPSTONE. 6 Hours.
Synthesis of knowledge acquired in the RN-BSN curriculum and development of the Nurse Role with evolving professional issues, health care environment, lifelong learning, and promotion of the Nursing profession designed for Registered Nurses RN-BSN student only. Prerequisite: NURS 4325, NURS 4455 Corequisite: NURS 4465.

COURSES

UNIV-NU 1000. FIRST YEAR EXPERIENCE. 0 Hours.
A course that orients students to life on UTA's campus and emphasizes engagement beyond the classroom. Students in this course will experience the UTA community by attending campus events and making connections beyond their studies, including interaction with career services, the library and financial literacy services. Students will also be able to identify campus resources to support their wellness from multiple aspects of their lives, both the social and the physical. Each UNIV 1000 class section has a Peer Academic Leader (PAL), who is a student that has already taken the course and assists as a discussion leader for the class under the supervision of the instructor. PALs will work with students on finding their place on campus, learning academic success skills, and developing a degree map.

UNIV-NU 1101. CAREER PREPARATION AND STUDENT SUCCESS. 1 Hour.
A course for new transfer students that will help students transition into UTA and achieve academic and personal success through recognition of campus resources and community building. Students will discover effective ways to balance personal and career obligations with academic goals. The course will allow for the discovery of marketable skills within a chosen academic discipline and the professions associated with that program of study. Experiential learning opportunities will be discussed, including undergraduate research, leadership, international engagement, community engagement and career development. Students will understand how critical thinking and study skills can be applied to academic content, explore chosen majors and possible career pathways, and connect to activities and resources on campus.

UNIV-NU 1131. STUDENT SUCCESS. 1 Hour.
A first-year seminar that introduces new students to academic and success skills to aid their transition into college. The goal of the course is to help students identify their individual needs, determine what resources are appropriate, recognize the faculty role in their development, and formulate a plan for an actively engaged and enriched experience from campus to career. Experiential learning opportunities will be discussed, including undergraduate research, leadership, international engagement, community engagement and career development. Students will understand how critical thinking and study skills can be applied to academic content, explore chosen majors and possible career pathways, and connect to activities and resources on campus.

Bachelor of Science in Nursing

About this Program

The BSN Prelicensure program consists of nursing courses, university core courses and other required prerequisite courses. Upon successful completion of the program, the student is awarded the Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree and is eligible to take the National Council Licensure Examination (NCLEX) for licensure as a Registered Nurse. The BSN Prelicensure program is a competitive admission, limited-access program offered as a campus-based or accelerated online option.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to integrate foundational knowledge to apply the art and science of nursing by providing evidence-based care in delivering competent, culturally sensitive, and developmentally appropriate holistic car
2. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to ethically apply public health knowledge across the age continuum through patient advocacy and interdisciplinary collaboration by coordinating resources to protect the health and safety of diverse patient populations
3. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to integrate scholarly research knowledge, evidence-based practice, and theory into nursing policy and practice to provide innovative care for individuals, families, and communities.
4. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to utilize standards of practice to provide safe nursing care in all patient care settings while promoting quality improvement, minimizing risk, and preventing errors to patients, self, and others, with an awareness of the nursing role within the interprofessional team.
5. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to communicate, collaborate, and delegate respectfully and effectively to promote and maintain diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging for optimal health outcomes.
6. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to integrate the principles of organizational structure in healthcare systems and coordinate resources to provide cost-effective, safe, quality, and equitable care to diverse populations.
7. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to utilize informatics and advanced technology to integrate concepts of electronic health, mobile health, and telehealth systems in planning, implementing, and evaluating patient-centered care.
8. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to apply the principles of ethical/legal behavior, collaborative practice, accountability, and patient advocacy while integrating diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging into the development of nursing professional identity.
9. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to demonstrate personal, professional, and leadership growth by applying self-reflection of one's practice that fosters self-care behaviors that promote wellness, lifelong learning, resiliency, knowledge, and expertise.

Admissions Requirements

CORE PERFORMANCE STANDARDS FOR ADMISSION AND PROGRESSION IN BSN PRELICENSURE PROGRAM

It is the philosophy of the University of Texas at Arlington College of Nursing and Health Innovation that the Undergraduate Nursing Program is designed to prepare a competent, self-directed, general practitioner of nursing who can assume increasing responsibility and leadership in the delivery of nursing care. In consideration of the preparation of a general practitioner, all individuals who apply for admission and are enrolled in the BSN Prelicensure Program must be able to perform the essential functions of a student of nursing.

The College of Nursing and Health Innovation has identified essential nursing skills: communication, cognitive, motor, and sensory, observation, tactile, hearing, smell, psychomotor and ethical and professional integrity. The student enrolled in the program must demonstrate mastery of these components. Because providing direct patient care is physically demanding, students need to meet the physical requirements of a staff nurse in the same setting in which they are completing a clinical rotation. Upon BSN program acceptance, students must attest to their ability to meet these standards with or without an accommodation. If at that time a student requests an accommodation, the Student Access & Resource Center (SARC) and the CONHI must determine if the accommodation is reasonable PRIOR to the student beginning Upper-Division coursework.

If a student requires an accommodation to meet these standards, the student must initiate the review process with SARC within five (5) business days of being accepted to prevent a delay in the start of the program.

Qualified applicants are admitted without discrimination with regard to race, color, national origin or ancestry, gender, age, religion, sexual orientation, veteran status, or disability (reasonable accommodations will be made within the Americans with Disabilities Act guidelines).

More detailed information related to the core performance standards is available in the Undergraduate Nursing Program Policy Library (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/bsn_student_handbook.ashx?revision=5a3d6773-b0aa-4557-bc77-1e795e79ffbd).

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

Students may be admitted to UT Arlington upon meeting the admission requirements established by the University. Official transcripts must be submitted to the UT Arlington Office of Admissions.

The BSN Prelicensure program is a competitive admission program; students interested in admission to the BSN Prelicensure program will be placed in the Nursing and Health program—a preparatory health professions program designed to prepare students for application to the Undergraduate Nursing Program (BSN Nursing) or admission the Public Health Program (BS Public Health). Nursing and Health students will be advised by the CONHI Office of Enrollment and Student Services.

NOTE: All freshmen are advised by the University Advising Center. A designated CONHI advisor will advise students in the Freshman Nursing Scholars and Maverick Nursing Scholars Programs.

Students applying for admission to the BSN Prelicensure Program leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Nursing must:

- Submit a BSN Prelicensure application and official transcripts by January 15 for following fall semester or June 1 for following spring semester.
- Complete with a C or better all specified nursing preparatory courses in the Nursing and Health curriculum (NURS 3364 Introduction to Professional and Clinical Concepts in Nursing and NURS 3366 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=NURS%203366) Pathophysiologic Processes: Implications for Nursing) prior to starting Junior I nursing courses. (See Nursing and Health curriculum for details.) NURS 3366 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=NURS%203366) must be taken within 3 years of starting the nursing program.
- Complete all 5 Natural Sciences.
- Have two GPAs calculated: science and overall prerequisite.
- Have minimum science and prerequisite GPAs of 2.75.
- Completion of designated sections of the Test of Essential Academic Skills (TEAS) with a score in the proficient range (58.7 - 77.3) for each of the following sections:
  - Reading
  - Math
  - Science
  - English and Language Usages

Admission to the BSN Prelicensure program is by ranking order based on space availability. A student who accepts their spot but decides not to start will get 2 (two) times to do this before they must wait 1 year (two application cycles) to reapply.

Additional consideration will be given to applicants who complete the following by the application deadline:

- Thirty (30) or more required prerequisite lower division credit hours earned at UT Arlington
- Twelve (12) or more required prerequisite lower-division natural science credit hours earned at UT Arlington.
- Nine (9) hours of UT Arlington ROTC courses (Must be active in ROTC) (Campus-based only)
- Previous baccalaureate, masters or doctorate degree earned in the United States or international degree approved by UTA Office of Admissions.
- Veteran, including Reservist and National Guard
- First-time full-time freshman: all four Natural Sciences and the identified Nursing preparatory courses in the Nursing and Health curriculum are completed at UTA. NURS 3364 Intro to Professional Nursing and NURS 3366 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=NURS%203366) Pathophysiologic Processes: Implication for Nursing must be completed by application deadline.
- Students who have completed non-expired Pathophysiology (NURS 3366) course on their first attempt with an earned grade of B or higher by the application deadline will receive an additional consideration.

NOTE: Students entering the AO (Accelerated Online) BSN program must complete the full Nursing and Health curriculum including the upper-division elective prior to beginning the program. Priority will be given to AO applicants employed by partner hospital systems offering clinical sites during that semester of admission. Partner hospital clinical sites vary each semester. To receive AO priority, an applicant must be employed at the time of application through the first day of class. For consideration, applicants must submit documentation of employment at time of application. Employment at a partner hospital is not a guarantee of admission into the BSN Program.

NURSING AND HEALTH POLICIES

The Nursing and Health policies are updated yearly and can be found on the CONHI website (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/bsn_pre-lic_ldiv_prereq-and-eligiblity-policies.ashx). Students are expected to understand the policies and procedures prior to enrollment in the program.

TWO-ATTEMPT POLICY

Students must successfully complete the full Nursing and Health curriculum as noted in the plan of study. Specific courses are subject to the Two Attempt policy. Under the Two-Attempt Policy each course taken at UT Arlington and/or any other approved institution may be attempted a maximum of two times to earn a passing grade. By the second attempt a grade of “C” or better must be earned.

- Withdrawals (W) are exempt from this policy.
- Any non-passing grade is valid for a three-year period. At the conclusion of three years, a non-passing grade is no longer considered an attempt.

GRADE IMPROVEMENT POLICY

The Grade Improvement Policy is unique to the BSN Prelicensure program and is used for the selection process only. This policy differs from the BSN Prelicensure program's Two Attempt Policy and from the University's Grade Replacement, Exclusion, and Forgiveness policies. Grades of C or above may be replaced to improve GPAs for the selection process with the following limitations:

- A limit of four courses may be retaken. The identified Nursing preparatory courses are not eligible for the Grade Improvement Policy.
- All earned grades of C or higher are valid indefinitely.
- The first four courses retaken are the grades used in the selection process. Any courses retaken thereafter are not used in the selection process.
- The higher of the two grades is used in the selection process.
- Withdrawals (W) are exempt from this policy.
- Repeated courses are subject to financial aid restrictions.

UPPER-DIVISION COURSES IN NURSING AND HEALTH PROGRAM

Upper-division Nursing preparatory courses include NURS 3366 (https://catalog.uta.edu/search/?P=NURS%203366) Pathophysiologic Processes: Implication for Nursing, is subject to the Failure of Nursing Preparatory Course Policy.

One failed grade = probationary status with the BSN Prelicensure program indefinitely

Conditions of Probationary Status

- A student who earned a failed grade (D or F) in the term prior to BSN application deadline must re-take the course, pass with a C or better, and have not violated the UT Arlington or College policies to be considered a viable applicant.
- A student who earned a failed grade (D or F) in the term directly following the BSN application deadline may not start the program, even if the course is retaken and passed during the subsequent term. A student is eligible to re-apply for the following application period; however, the failed grade will be used in the selection process.

Two failed grades = inability to continue with BSN Prelicensure program for a period of three years. Upon return, a student is eligible to apply under the conditions of the BSN Prelicensure program Re-entry policy.

RE-ENTRY POLICY

Re-entry policy refers to a student who is ineligible to continue a BSN Prelicensure program due to academic failure. This includes a student who was accepted into a prelicensure program and has not completed an Associate Degree in Nursing (ADN) or Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) program. During this three-year timeframe, a student may not enroll in the University as a BSN Prelicensure student or apply to the BSN Prelicensure program from another major for three years.

Conditions of Re-entry

- A student must provide a letter from previous nursing school stating program dismissal was for academic reasons.
- Must meet the eligibility requirements of the application requirements and submit a new application by the desired start date application deadline.
- Pathophysiologic Processes: Implication for Nursing, and Pharmacology in Nursing Practice must be re-taken.

CRITERIA FOR READMISSION OF UNDERGRADUATE NURSING STUDENTS

Students who withdraw from the UT Arlington BSN Prelicensure program for more than one semester in good standing who wish to return to complete the program must submit a written request for readmission to the Office of Enrollment and Student Services by the following deadlines:

- Returning spring – September 1st
- Returning summer - March 1st
- Returning fall - June 1st

Conditions of Readmission

- Readmission is dependent upon space availability.
- A student is eligible for readmission to the program only once.
- If a clinical course is to be repeated, the student must repeat both the theory and clinical components of the course.
- Student must repeat the drug screening process.
- Additional conditions depending on time out of the program.
- Out one semester:
  - All of requirements listed above plus:
  - Completion of a clinical skills assessment. This assessment will be completed no later than three weeks prior to the start of the semester in which the student is planning to return. The assessment will focus on the skills associated with the last clinical course completed. Input related to skills to be assessed may be sought from faculty in the previous course(s) completed. Should clinical deficiencies be identified, faculty will remediate clinical skill areas that are questionable or inadequate and provide the results to the lead teacher of the course the student is scheduled to enter. Failing to demonstrate adequate clinical skills after three attempts will result in the student being required to retake the last clinical course taken to re-establish clinical competency.

    - If the student is in the AO BSN program, he/she will be required to come to the UT Arlington campus to complete the special skills assessment.
- Out two long semesters CB or two semesters AO (based on course availability):
    - All of requirements listed above plus
    - Repeat criminal background check.
- Out more than two long semesters CB or two semesters AO:
    - Not eligible for readmission. Student must apply for admission as a beginning student.

TRANSFER FROM ANOTHER NURSING PROGRAM

Transfer students who have successfully completed prerequisite courses with a C or above and Junior I courses for the BSN Program: Holistic Health Assessment and Clinical Nursing Foundations at another college or university may be eligible to apply to the BSN Prelicensure program. Students who have not completed the required courses will be ranked with the incoming junior class. Admission as a transfer student to the Undergraduate Nursing Program is contingent upon available space. Transfer students must attend orientation. Transfer students ready to start as a Junior 2 can be admitted in either the CB or AO programs.

- Transfer students must transfer all nursing courses and the grade received from those courses.
- No Ds or Fs in nursing courses.

Students must:

- Meet minimum requirements as stated in the published admission requirements.
- Submit a course syllabus and a content outline of the course(s) to the Office of Enrollment and Student Services. If the course is a clinical course, a list of nursing skills learned in the course(s) must also be submitted.
- The lead teacher in the course, using the Field of Study Criteria Guidelines and other criteria related to the course, will review courses provided by the student for substitution of UT Arlington courses. Faculty may request additional information to clarify their decision. The course is then accepted as a substitution for a core nursing course, as an elective, or denied.
- Submit a letter from previous school stating that the student is in good standing.
- Meet minimum 2.75 GPA in the prerequisite natural science and prerequisite lower-division courses.
- Meet application deadlines of:
    - March 1 - Fall Semester
    - September 1 - Spring Semester

Processing of the transfer admission review will not be initiated until the student has also applied to the BSN Prelicensure program in the College of Nursing and Health Innovation.

ORIENTATIONS

All students are required to complete the general online orientation in the Learning Management System and attend the mandatory in-person orientation held prior to the fall and spring semesters.

Clinical orientation is mandatory for all Undergraduate Nursing students, as established by the Dallas/Fort Worth Hospital Council. Undergraduate Nursing students are required to complete the Standard Hospital Student Orientation annually. Clinical requirements must be valid through the entire semester. If the annual orientation will expire during the current semester, it must be updated.

SPECIAL PARAPHERNALIA/EQUIPMENT REQUIREMENTS

All students enrolled in the CONHI must have internet access and a laptop computer meeting minimum computing recommendations. A list of computer specifications is outlined on the CONHI website (https://www.uta.edu/conhi/). Students may be asked to purchase and download software to meet course and/or program requirements.

Smart Phone or similar device highly recommended.

IMMUNIZATIONS

The UT Arlington CONHI standards require that all students in the BSN Prelicensure program complete immunizations by the time of acceptance.

Students are encouraged to start the immunization process one year before applying to the BSN Prelicensure program.

Program eligibility is dependent upon valid documentation submitted and approved at the time of program acceptance.

View the website (https://www.uta.edu/academics/schools-colleges/conhi/academics/undergrad-programs/imm-prelic/) for more information on the vaccines, titers and valid documentation options.

If you know you will be applying to our BSN Prelicensure program within the next year, you will need to start these now because some will take up to 6 months to complete.

To be eligible to start the program, you will need to submit valid documentation that you have completed the following by Friday of the 2nd full week in March for Fall starts or Friday of the 2nd full week in September for Spring starts.

View the website (https://na01.safelinks.protection.outlook.com/?url=http%3A%2F%2Fwww.uta.edu%2Fconhi%2Fstudents%2Fimm-prelic%2Findex.php&data=02%7C01%7Chwoods%40uta.edu%7C24d15f45992841752c3708d6605814f0%7C5cdc5b43d7be4caa8173729e3b0a62d9%7C0%7C0%7C636802328753838757&sdata=RrfP6ezM2%2B0xhUucl9X for more information on the vaccines, titers and valid documentation options.

CERTIFICATION-CARDIOPULMONARY RESUSCITATION

Undergraduate nursing students are required to obtain American Heart Association Basic Life Support (BLSC) CPR for Healthcare Providers.

Evidence of current CPR certification is required during clinical course enrollment from admission to graduation. Certification must be valid throughout an entire semester with a clinical. If the current card will expire during the semester, the student must retake the course and have a card that will not expire during the semester.

HEALTH INSURANCE COVERAGE

All UT Arlington nursing students enrolled in clinical course(s) will be required to provide verification of medical insurance coverage that includes Emergency Department evaluation and follow-up treatment for needle-stick and blood borne disease exposure. This mandatory clinical requirement has been authorized by The University of Texas System Board of Regents.

As such, UT Arlington will not cover initial and/or follow up treatment for needle-stick injuries and/or exposure to blood borne diseases which may occur while students are enrolled in clinical courses.

While the UT Arlington CONHI recognizes the financial impact this clinical requirement presents for students, we also support the need for students to have health coverage for sudden illness, accidents, emergencies, and exposure treatments that may occur in the clinical setting in a variety of clinical agencies.

DRUG SCREEN POLICY

All students accepted to the BSN Prelicensure AO or CB programs will complete a drug screen.

At any time if there is a confirmation of a positive drug screening, the student will be removed from clinical courses for a period of one calendar year. Upon returning to the program, random drug screenings will be conducted throughout the program. A second positive test will result in immediate dismissal from the nursing program.

Random and / or for cause drug screens are at the student's expense and must be completed as required. Failure/refusal to undergo a drug screen on the designated day will result in immediate dismissal from the nursing program. Full Policy (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/consubstanceabusepolicyandprocedure.ashx?revision=ac30e000-f708-407a-a6ff-99e006d04491)

CRIMINAL BACKGROUND SCREEN

Accepted students complete two criminal background checks (CBC): Texas Board of Nursing (BON) and a 3rd party provider as designated by CONHI.

Students accepted into the BSN Prelicensure program must complete the Texas BON CBC prior to program application. Students who have completed or are currently enrolled in NURS 3364, Introduction to Professional Nursing, should submit their BON CBC during that course. Students, who have not taken NURS 3364 by the application deadline, should contact CONHIadmin@uta.edu, provide the necessary information, give permission to send the information to the BON, and schedule the fingerprinting appointment within one month of the application deadline. Full Policy (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/cbcdeclaratoryorderpolicyguidelines.ashx?revision=078fd965-bd24-486e-a567-5a3ff9af61d3)

The second CBC is completed after program acceptance.

A student with a positive criminal background screen will not be admitted into the BSN Prelicensure program without a Declaratory Order from the Texas Board of Nursing stating that the individual has been granted permission to sit for the National Council Licensure Examination for Registered Nurses (NCLEX-RN Examination) upon completion of the requirements for graduation and payment of any required fees. Eligibility to take the NCLEX-RN Examination may be affected by any inaccuracies in the petition, and any subsequent violations of the Nursing Practice Act that may affect eligibility to sit for the examination or the later revocation of a license obtained through misrepresentation.

ELIGIBILITY TO WRITE THE NATIONAL COUNCIL LICENSURE EXAMINATION FOR REGISTERED NURSES (NCLEX RN) - DECLARATORY ORDERS

The Texas Board of Nursing (BON) has set out guidelines and criteria on the eligibility of persons with criminal convictions to obtain a license as a registered nurse. The BON may refuse to admit persons to its licensure examinations, may refuse to issue a license or certificate of registration, or may refuse to issue a temporary permit to any individual who has any criminal offense. Detailed information related to determining eligibility and required processes to determine eligibility for your specific circumstances is available from the Texas Board of Nursing and on their website (https://www.bon.texas.gov/). Students who are unable to obtain clearance from the BON will not be allowed to begin the nursing program.

Once admitted to the BSN Prelicensure program, any student that commits an offense that would require a Declaratory Order will be removed from current and future clinical courses until the Declaratory Order is obtained from the Texas BON and submitted to the College of Nursing and Health Innovation Director of Student Support.

PROFESSIONAL LIABILITY INSURANCE

Students in the BSN Prelicensure program are required to have evidence of professional liability insurance coverage for a minimum of $1,000,000 limit each claim and $3,000,000 limit aggregate. The charge for coverage will be assessed as a mandatory fee at the time of registration.

FEES

Course fee information is available at www.uta.edu/fees (http://www.uta.edu/fees/). Additional costs beyond tuition, fees and books that may be incurred by a nursing student will include those items listed on the CONHI website. In addition, some clinical agencies charge a nominal fee for parking passes and utilizing their scrubs.

ORAL COMMUNICATION PROFICIENCY REQUIREMENT

Oral proficiency is recognized to be a critical component of providing safe nursing care. In addition to content-specific presentations in various nursing courses, all students in the Undergraduate Nursing program are required to communicate effectively with clients, members of the health care team, and faculty. Contact the Associate Chair of Undergraduate Programs for more information.

E-MAIL ACCOUNTS

Each student will be provided a UT Arlington e-mail address. Official communications from the CONHI will be distributed to this e-mail address and Learning Management System accounts required by many courses. Students will be held responsible for information distributed in this manner.

NURSING COURSE WITHDRAWAL POLICY

Students within the BSN Prelicensure program, enrolled in nursing courses are permitted to drop the course one time. Enrolling (on or after the census date) in a course for a second time is considered an attempt. The grade earned on the second attempt is retained. All drops including academic and non-academic drops are also considered an attempt. Compassionate withdrawals and withdrawal exceptions will be reviewed on an individual basis by Undergraduate Nursing Appeals Committee.

Students may drop no more than three upper-division NURS courses during their undergraduate career. Students may drop no more than three upper-division NURS courses during their undergraduate career. All drops for academic and non- academic reasons are considered. Drops due to corequisite and prerequisite violations are also counted in this policy.

Students are required to meet with their academic advisor before dropping/withdrawing. All drops are finalized by the BSN Academic Advisors. Exceptions to this policy may be entertained because of extraordinary non-academic circumstances by Undergraduate Nursing leadership.

Elective and nursing preparatory courses are exempt from this policy.

MOVEMENT BETWEEN PROGRAMS

Movement between the AO and CB BSN Prelicensure programs is at the discretion of program administration. Students will be required to sign a Program Transfer Agreement.

PRELICENSURE BSN STUDENTS WHO DROP OR FAIL A COURSE

Prelicensure BSN students who withdraw or fail a course can repeat the course the next available time the course is offered.

AO Students:

- Students who seek readmission after failing or withdrawing for any reason must meet with an academic advisor to discuss clinical and course options.
- If no seats are available, the student will be delayed until a seat is available at a future admission date. See the student handbook (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/bsn_student_handbook.ashx?revision=5a3d6773-b0aa-4557-bc77-1e795e79ffbd) for full policy.

*If there are more students than seats available, the students will be placed in the order in which they request the move (first come, first placed).

CLINICAL COURSES

To pass a clinical course, the student must pass both the didactic and the clinical components of that course. Clinical attendance expectations, Clinical Performance Requirements and Evidence of Clinical Competence information can be found in the Undergraduate Student Handbook. (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/bsn_student_handbook.ashx?revision=5a3d6773-b0aa-4557-bc77-1e795e79ffbd)

CLINICAL ATTENDANCE DURING SCHEDULED UNIVERSITY CLOSINGS

Some programs in the CONHI, such as the AO BSN Program, may require students to attend clinical on evenings, nights, weekends, or holidays. Students are expected to attend their assigned clinical rotation as scheduled, even when the University is otherwise scheduled for closure, i.e., Spring Break.

PROGRESSION IN THE UNDERGRADUATE NURSING PROGRAM

Students in the Prelicensure BSN Program will not be permitted to continue in the program nor to enroll for additional courses if they:

- receive a grade of D or F in more than one required Nursing or Nursing preparatory course, or
- receive any combination of grades of D or F on two attempts of the same course
- score less than 70% on weighted exam or assignment average
- do not meet requirements of the Comprehensive Assessment and Preparation Program (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/capp_procedure.ashx?revision=e4109778-d947-4ae9-8960-9cdb1d306706)
- do not achieve minimum score requirements on Medication Administration Competency Assessment (p.)
- receive a Clinical Failure (more information in the BSN Handbook (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/bsn_student_handbook.ashx?revision=5a3d6773-b0aa-4557-bc77-1e795e79ffbd))

If a student fails a course, they must take NURS2232 if they have not already taken it.

HONORS DEGREE IN NURSING

Nursing students who wish to graduate with an Honors Degree in Nursing must be members of the Honors College in good standing. Students must complete the Nursing degree requirements and the requirements of the Honors College. Contact the College of Nursing and Health Innovation Honors Coordinator for further information. Due to the accelerated nature of the AO program the Honors Degree is limited to students in the Campus-based program.

Bachelor of Science in Nursing (RN entry)

About this Program

This program is designed for Registered Nurses who have completed an accredited Associate Degree or Diploma nursing program. Full-time students may complete the Upper-Division nursing courses in one academic year. Upon successful completion of the program, the student is awarded the Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree. This program is not limited-access and is offered as a campus-based or accelerated online option.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to integrate foundational knowledge to apply the art and science of nursing by providing evidence-based care in delivering competent, culturally sensitive, and developmentally appropriate holistic car
2. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to ethically apply public health knowledge across the age continuum through patient advocacy and interdisciplinary collaboration by coordinating resources to protect the health and safety of diverse patient populations
3. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to integrate scholarly research knowledge, evidence-based practice, and theory into nursing policy and practice to provide innovative care for individuals, families, and communities.
4. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to utilize standards of practice to provide safe nursing care in all patient care settings while promoting quality improvement, minimizing risk, and preventing errors to patients, self, and others, with an awareness of the nursing role within the interprofessional team.
5. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to communicate, collaborate, and delegate respectfully and effectively to promote and maintain diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging for optimal health outcomes.
6. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to integrate the principles of organizational structure in healthcare systems and coordinate resources to provide cost-effective, safe, quality, and equitable care to diverse populations.
7. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to utilize informatics and advanced technology to integrate concepts of electronic health, mobile health, and telehealth systems in planning, implementing, and evaluating patient-centered care.
8. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to apply the principles of ethical/legal behavior, collaborative practice, accountability, and patient advocacy while integrating diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging into the development of nursing professional identity.
9. Upon completion, the graduate will be able to demonstrate personal, professional, and leadership growth by applying self-reflection of one's practice that fosters self-care behaviors that promote wellness, lifelong learning, resiliency, knowledge, and expertise.

Admissions Requirements

CORE PERFORMANCE STANDARDS FOR ADMISSION AND PROGRESSION IN THE RN TO BSN PROGRAM

It is the philosophy of the University of Texas at Arlington College of Nursing and Health Innovation (CONHI) that the baccalaureate program is designed to prepare a competent, self-directed, general practitioner of nursing who can assume increasing responsibility and leadership in the delivery of nursing care. In consideration of the preparation of a general practitioner, all individuals who apply for admission and are enrolled in the undergraduate program must be able to perform the essential functions of a student of nursing.

The CONHI has identified essential nursing skills: communication, cognitive, motor, and sensory, observation, tactile, hearing, smell, psychomotor and ethical and professional integrity. The student enrolled in the Undergraduate Nursing program must demonstrate mastery of these components. Because providing direct patient care is physically demanding, students need to meet the physical requirements of a staff nurse in the same setting in which they are completing a clinical rotation. Upon BSN program acceptance, students must attest to their ability to meet these standards with or without an accommodation. If at that time a student requests an accommodation, the Student Access & Resource Center (SARC) and the CONHI must determine if the accommodation is reasonable PRIOR to the student beginning Upper-Division coursework.

If a student requires an accommodation to meet these standards, the student must initiate the review process with SARC within five (5) business days of being accepted to prevent a delay in the start of the program.

Qualified applicants are admitted without discrimination with regard to race, color, national origin or ancestry, gender, age, religion, sexual orientation, veteran status, or disability (reasonable accommodations will be made within the Americans with Disabilities Act guidelines).

More detailed information is available in the UG Nursing Policy Library (https://cdn.web.uta.edu/-/media/project/website/conhi/documents/unurs/bsn_student_handbook.ashx?revision=5a3d6773-b0aa-4557-bc77-1e795e79ffbd).

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

Students may be admitted to UT Arlington upon meeting the admission requirements established by the university which are described in the university catalog and website. Official transcripts must be submitted to the university Office of Admissions.

Registered nurses desiring admission to the RN to BSN program must:

- Apply for admission to the University of Texas at Arlington
- Meet the University of Texas at Arlington transfer student admission requirements.
- Have a current, unencumbered license as an RN in the U.S.A.
- Be complete in Texas Success Initiative (TSI) requirements.
- Meet the University of Texas at Arlington English proficiency requirement, TOEFL, if applicable

CREDIT BY RN LICENSURE

Transcripts of RN students are evaluated with consideration of the Coordinating Board Field of Study Curriculum guidelines. Credit is given for all courses listed in the Field of Study Curriculum as transferable as well as any additional courses that may be applicable for transfer for a total of 29 hours.

Certain other conditions apply:

- If the student earned one D or F in a nursing course at another college or school of nursing, they will be admitted unconditionally. If the student earns a subsequent D or F at UT Arlington, he/she will be placed on probation. The student must earn a C or above in all subsequent courses to remain in the program.
- If the student has earned more than one D or F, but no more than two, in nursing courses at another college or school of nursing, the student will enter UT Arlington on a probationary basis. The student must earn a C or above in all subsequent courses at UT Arlington to remain in the program.

ORIENTATION

Prior to entering their junior semester, all students are required to attend the general orientation.

PROGRESSION IN THE RN TO BSN NURSING PROGRAM

The University grade replacement/exclusion policy is limited by the College of Nursing and Health Innovation and is not applicable to nursing courses.

- A student in the RN to BSN program who earns a second D or F will be placed on probation. The student must earn a C or above in all subsequent courses to remain in the program.

ORAL COMMUNICATION PROFICIENCY REQUIREMENT

Oral proficiency is recognized to be a critical component of providing safe nursing care. In addition to content-specific presentations in various nursing courses, all Undergraduate Nursing students are required to communicate effectively with clients, members of the health care team, and faculty. Contact RN-BSN Program Director for more information.

E-MAIL ACCOUNTS

Each student will be provided a UT Arlington e-mail address. Official communications from the College of Nursing and Health Innovation will be distributed to this e-mail address and Learning Management System accounts required by many courses. Students will be held responsible for information distributed in this manner.

MOVEMENT BETWEEN PROGRAMS

Movement between AO and CB RN-BSN program is at the discretion of program administration.

Certificate in Telehealth and Health Informatics

About this Program

This 9-hour Telehealth and Health Informatics Certificate will prepare upper division undergraduate students from any related discipline to have fundamental skills needed for telehealth and health informatics. Telehealth is the distribution of health-related services via electronic and telecommunication technology. Health Informatics is the storage and use of health care information to foster better collaboration among various health-related providers.

competencies

1. Upon completion, students will demonstrate effective use of technologies and information systems to support safe processes of care and evaluate impact on quality and safety.\\n\\n
2. Upon completion, students communicate effectively with other health professionals to manage and coordinate care.
3. Upon completion, students will use information and communication technologies to gather data, inform decisions, and improve outcomes.

4. Upon completion, students will demonstrate the use of technologies to support communication, clinical decision-making, error prevention, and care coordination.

Curriculum

The courses for this certificate are offered all online, but are campus based. They are not available in the accelerated online format. Students may enroll in the certificate alone or include the certificate as part of an undergraduate degree plan from any related major. There are 3 required courses in the certificate.

Department of Kinesiology

Department Overview

The undergraduate programs within the Department of Kinesiology are organized into four areas: exercise science, physical education teacher education, sports leadership & management and public health. The graduate programs include a Graduate Certificate in Public Health, a Master of Science in Exercise Science, a Master of Science in Athletic Training and a PhD in Kinesiology. Each of these academic programs provide students with a strong foundation in the sciences of their respective fields and provides a comprehensive discipline-specific program of study designed to prepare students for a specific career path. Some of the degree options work towards meeting the prerequisite requirements for admission to physical therapy, occupational therapy and physician's assistant graduate programs, as well as medical and dental schools (e.g., BS in Exercise Science - Clinical Health Professions). Other degree plans prepare students for state and national certification/licensure (e.g., Physical Education Teacher Education and Athletic Training) programs. The Public Health programs prepare students for careers in public health, as well as preparation for advanced degrees in public health. The PhD in Kinesiology prepares students for careers in research, academic and related industry settings.

COURSES

KINE 1100. LAB SKILLS IN KINESIOLOGY AND EXERCISE SCIENCE. 1 Hour.
The course is designed to provide basic lab measurement and testing experiences for Kinesiology and Exercise Science students. Prerequisite: or Co-requisite: KINE 1300.

KINE 1230. FIRST AID / CPR / AED TRAINING. 2 Hours.
This course is designed to cover the components of Standard First Aid, Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) for the Professional Rescuer, and Automated External Defibrillator (AED) training. Certification is possible upon successful course completion. Offered as HEED 1230 and KINE 1230. Students seeking credit in HEED should enroll in HEED 1230 and students seeking credit in KINE should enroll in KINE 1230. Credit will not be granted for both courses.

KINE 1300. INTRODUCTION TO KINESIOLOGY AND EXERCISE SCIENCE. 3 Hours. (TCCN = PHED 1301)
Introduction to key concepts concerning the anatomical, motor, biomechanical, and physiological basis of exercise science. The student is introduced to cardiovascular responses to training, analysis of human and motor behavior, and basic principles of exercise prescription.

KINE 1315. INTRODUCTION TO PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND SPORT. 3 Hours.
This course is an introduction to, and observation of, practices in pedagogical kinesiology and sports leadership.

KINE 1400. INTRODUCTION TO EXERCISE SCIENCE. 4 Hours.
Introduction to key concepts concerning the anatomical, biomechanical, and physiological basis of exercise science. Through lecture and laboratory experiences, the student is introduced to cardiovascular responses to training, analysis of human movement, and basic principles of exercise prescription. Credit cannot be given for both KINE 1400 and the combination of courses it replaces: KINE 1124 and KINE 1314.

KINE 2130. ATHLETIC TRAINING CLINICAL PRACTICUM I. 1 Hour.
Laboratory and clinical experiences designed to provide students with formal instruction and evaluation in the Entry Level Athletic Training Clinical Proficiencies with an instructional emphasis on preventive and protective taping and wrapping procedures. This course requires the completion of 120 clinical hours under the supervision of an Approved Clinical Instructor (ACI) or Clinical Instructor (CI).

KINE 2230. INTRODUCTION TO MUSCULOSKELETAL INJURIES. 2 Hours.
This course is designed to introduce students to the mechanisms of musculoskeletal injury and their associated signs, symptoms, and tissue responses. Students will also be introduced to the basic principles of musculoskeletal assessment. This course is a prerequisite for admission to the Athletic Training Education Program. Prerequisite: KINE 2120, KINE 2320; must be concurrently enrolled in KINE 2130.

KINE 2301. TEACHING GAMES FOR UNDERSTANDING. 3 Hours.
The course will provide students with theoretical concepts with which they can design and analyze various short- and long-term plans related to the Teaching Games for Understanding theoretical model. Students will learn various tactical strategies and modification principles for applying learned concepts in instructional settings. The instructor will use expertise from given sports to help students transfer the common themes across the spectrum of the model's category of games. KINE 1315 is a co-requisite for this course. Prerequisite: Co-requisite KINE 1315.

KINE 2302. DANCE AND MOVEMENT ACTIVITIES. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to enhance the students performance knowledge of skills and strategies in dance and movement activities to acquaint them with effective teaching behaviors appropriate for these activities. Co-requisite KINE 1315. Prerequisite: Co-requisite KINE 1315.

KINE 2307. SPORTS AND SOCIETY. 3 Hours.
This course will examine the bidirectional impact of sport and societal institutions. The class will explore the co-dependent nature of sport and society and attempt to separate fact from fiction to aid in the understanding of the true role of sport as it fits into society. Topics to be addressed include the potentially controversial areas of race, gender, disability, institutional rule violations, and ethics in the contemporary sports arena. This is a lower level elective. Credit cannot be received for this course and KINE 3307.

KINE 2330. CARE AND PREVENTION OF ATHLETIC INJURIES. 3 Hours. (TCCN = PHED 2356)
An introduction to the profession of Athletic Training. Common sports-related injuries and illnesses will be discussed with an emphasis on the proper methods for prevention, recognition, and immediate care. Offered as HEED 2330 and KINE 2330. Kinesiology majors must take KINE 2330.

KINE 2350. PUBLIC HEALTH: PRINCIPLES AND POPULATIONS. 3 Hours.
This course will provide students with an overview of Public Health: what it is, how it works, and why it is important. Topics include current health issues, global health, health disparities and how Public Health impacts community settings. Class requirement includes participation in community-based, experiential-learning activities. Examination of public health concepts, values and functions. Exploration of the underlying science of human health and disease as that is impacted by socioeconomic, behavioral, biological, environmental and other factors that impact human health and contribute to health disparities. This course satisfies the University of Texas at Arlington core curriculum requirement in Social and Behavioral Sciences.

KINE 2351. HEALTH ISSUES IN DIVERSE & VULNERABLE POPULATIONS. 3 Hours.
Cultural competence is attracting increased attention across the spectrum of public health. However, many vulnerable populations continue to be "invisible," resulting in a lack of awareness and knowledge in public health and healthcare workers. This course provides students with information related to the multi-faceted disparities that exist beyond ethnic differences to investigate the many other facets of cultural diversity and health issues.

KINE 2420. INTRODUCTION TO ATHLETIC TRAINING. 4 Hours.
Classroom and laboratory experiences that provide an introduction to the profession of Athletic Training with an emphasis on prevention and immediate care of sports related injuries. Specific topics will include injury prevention techniques; emergency first aid and acute care; superficial application of therapeutic modalities; proper use and fitting of protective equipment; and environmental considerations. Credit cannot be given for KINE 2420 and the combination of courses it replaces: KINE 2320 and KINE 2120.

KINE 3130. ATHLETIC TRAINING CLINICAL PRACTICUM II. 1 Hour.
Laboratory and clinical experiences designed to provide students with formal instruction and evaluation in the Entry Level Athletic Training Competencies and Clinical Proficiencies. This course requires the completion of 250 hours of clinical experience performed under the supervision of an Approved Clinical Instructor (ACI) or Clinical Instructor (CI). Prerequisites: BIOL 2457, Athletic Training Majors only or permission of instructor. Corequisite: KINE 3320.

KINE 3131. ATHLETIC TRAINING CLINICAL PRACTICUM III. 1 Hour.
Laboratory and clinical experiences that provide students with formal instruction and evaluation in the Entry Level Athletic Training Competencies and Clinical Proficiencies. This course requires the completion of 250 hours of clinical education experience performed under the supervision of an Approved Clinical Instructor (ACI) or Clinical Instructor (CI). Prerequisite: BIOL 2457, Athletic Training Majors only or permission of instructor. Corequisite: KINE 3324.

KINE 3300. FUNCTIONAL ANATOMY. 3 Hours.
A study of the musculoskeletal anatomy to include bony landmarks, muscle origin, insertion and action, as well as nerve innervation. Knowledge of the functional anatomy is crucial to the understanding of sports performance, the design of strength training programs, and injury prevention. Prerequisite: KINE 1300, KINE 1100 and BIOL 2457.

KINE 3302. SPORT AND EXERCISE PSYCHOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Analysis of exercise and sport activities in terms of psychological skills and strategies. Topics include motivation, arousal regulation, focus, concentration, group cohesion & imagery.

KINE 3303. ORGANIZATIONAL PRINCIPLES OF EXERCISE AND SPORT ACTIVITIES. 3 Hours.
An organizational analysis of exercise and sport in terms of participation rules, regulations, and responsibilities. Emphasis on knowledge and understanding of the principles governing the organization and conduct of exercise and sport activities.

KINE 3304. ADAPTED PHYSICAL EDUCATION & SPORT. 3 Hours.
Analysis of conditions that impact individuals with disabilities in society, schools and disability sport. Emphasis is placed on adapted physical education and sport strategies that facilitate the learning of this population. Prerequisite: Instructor Permission.

KINE 3306. MOTOR INTEGRATION. 3 Hours.
Principles of motor skill acquisition, performance, and control. Topics include practice strategies, memory, neuromotor functioning, attention, and learning (assessment, transfer & stages). Prerequisite: KINE 1315, and KINE 1400, or permission of instructor.

KINE 3307. SPORT AND SOCIETY: ISSUES AND DEBATES. 3 Hours.
This course will examine the bidirectional impact of sport and societal institutions. The class will explore the co-dependent nature of sport and society and attempt to separate fact from fiction to aid in the understanding of the true role of sport as it fits into society. Topics to be addressed include the potentially controversial areas of race, gender, disability, institutional rule violations, and ethics in the contemporary sports arena. This is an upper level elective. Credit cannot be received for this course and KINE 2307.

KINE 3309. FOUNDATIONS OF RECREATION. 3 Hours.
Leisure time in our social structure and the agencies which have developed to provide leisure time activities. Program development and leadership skills in the recreation profession.

KINE 3311. RECREATION AND LEISURE SERVICE. 3 Hours.
Application of management and organizational principles, objectives, and procedures involved in implementing recreational and leisure service programs.

KINE 3312. SPORTS LEADERSHIP AND COACHING. 3 Hours.
This course will provide students with theoretical concepts and principles to design, lead, and manage sport programs. The instructor will use expertise from given sports and invasion games to help students learn and apply coaching strategies and leadership principles in a collaborative community sport program.

KINE 3313. COACHING OF NET/WALL GAME PRINCIPLES. 3 Hours.
The course will provide students with theoretical concepts with which they can design and analyze various short and long-term plans related to net/wall games. Students will learn various tactical strategies and modification principles for applying learned concepts in instructional settings. The instructor will use expertise from given sports to help students transfer the common themes across the spectrum of net/wall games.

KINE 3320. LOWER EXTREMITY EVALUATION. 3 Hours.
A study of the common orthopedic and musculoskeletal injuries involving the lower extremities and lumbar spine, with a special emphasis on recognition, evaluation, diagnosis, and initial management. Prerequisite: BIOL 2457, Athletic Training Majors only or permission of instructor. Corequisite: KINE 3130.

KINE 3324. UPPER EXTREMITY EVALUATION. 3 Hours.
A study of the common orthopedic and musculoskeletal injuries involving the upper extremities, spine, head, face, abdomen, and thorax, with a special emphasis on recognition, evaluation, diagnosis, and initial management. Prerequisite: BIOL 2457, Athletic Training Majors only or permission of instructor. Corequisite: KINE 3131.

KINE 3325. UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH METHODS. 3 Hours.
Current practices in the conduct of quantitative research, measurement, and evaluation processes applied to programs related to exercise science, pedagogical kinesiology, athletic training and related fields will be examined. Enrolled students will develop and conduct a research project based on their declared discipline. Prerequisite: KINE 1300, KINE 1100, MATH 1302 OR MATH 1402, MATH 1308.

KINE 3330. PATHOLOGY AND PHARMACOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Study of acute and chronic illness and their response to, and impact on, physical activity. Discussion of pharmacological agents used in the care of general illnesses and musculoskeletal disorders in the physically active. Prerequisite: BIOL 2458, acceptance into the Athletic Training Education Program or permission of instructor.

KINE 3333. THERAPEUTIC INTERVENTION II. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to provide the student with an understanding of upper extremity and low back rehabilitation protocols and the use of electric therapeutic modalities like ultrasound, diathermy, laser, and electric stimulation. Emphasis will be placed on understanding the disablement model and learning how to plan, implement, document, and evaluate programs for the rehabilitation and reconditioning of injuries and illnesses of athletes and others involved with physical activity. Operation of electrical therapeutic modalities and how they can be incorporated into a rehabilitation program will be investigated. The underlying principles and application techniques for each modality, therapeutic exercise progressions, patient clinical goals, legal and safe practice guidelines, and evidence based therapeutic modality science will allow for critical thinking and problem solving in relation to common upper extremity and low back injuries. Both surgical and non-surgical rehabilitation models for the upper extremity and low back will be discussed with a special emphasis on the use of functional progressions. Prerequisites: BIOL 2457 and BIOL 2458. Concurrent enrollment in KINE 4131 is required for all Athletic Training Education Program students.

KINE 3342. SOCIOLOGY OF THE HUMAN BODY. 3 Hours.
Drawing from the social sciences, cultural and gender studies, and exercise physiology, this course in body sociology addresses several contemporary issues relating to diet, nutrition and exercise. Specific topics include eating disorders, factory farming, and "body industries" involving weight-loss diets, gyms, fashion, and cosmetic and bariatric surgery. The medical model of bodies is also examined. Also listed as SOCI 3342; credit will not be granted for both KINE 3342 and SOCI 3342.

KINE 3350. URBANIZATION AND VULNERABLE POPULATIONS. 3 Hours.
Investigation of diversity of individuals and populations in a community, including how diversity may influence policies, programs, services, and the health of a community, and the importance for a diverse public health workforce.

KINE 3352. INTRODUCTION TO PUBLIC HEALTH EPIDEMIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Analysis of factors that affect the health of a community, including how disease spreads, legal aspects of epidemics, and how data is used to drive public health decision making. Overview of how public health practice and science come together to protect the health of the public, or of a specific population. Prerequisite: MATH 1301 or MATH 1302 or MATH 1303 or MATH 1426 and MATH 1308 and KINE 2350 required.

KINE 3353. HEALTH AND THE HUMAN CONDITION IN THE GLOBAL COMMUNITY. 3 Hours.
Study of the history, philosophy and contemporary issues of public health as those apply to public health in both urban and global societies.

KINE 3354. EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS & MANAGEMENT. 3 Hours.
Inquiry into the structures, functions, and authorizations of governmental public health programs. Identification of tools, processes, and activities related to both practice and policy used to support community responses to public health emergencies and other disasters. Prerequisite: KINE 2350.

KINE 3355. ADDICTIVE BEHAVIORS. 3 Hours.
Students will examine substance abuse including alcohol, drugs (illegal and prescription), smoking, vaping, and gaming from a population-based approach. There will also be a focus on compulsive behaviors including topics such as food over- and undereating, gambling, shopping and internet/technology addictions. While the course emphasis is on addictive behaviors, material and learning activities will also address how diverse and vulnerable populations are impacted by addictive behaviors as those relate to injury and illness prevention.

KINE 3356. PUBLIC HEALTH IN ACADEMIC SETTINGS. 3 Hours.
Public Health in Academic Settings This course addresses common health issues found throughout educational settings. Topics include chronic stress, health and well-being, school violence and the roles of hunger and obesity as concerns in the school environment. A focus on school climate, the role of school-based healthcare and preventing dropout from public health perspectives will be included.

KINE 3357. PHYSICAL ACTIVITY IN PUBLIC HEALTH. 3 Hours.
Designed for public health and health/fitness/wellness professionals who are interested in the promotion of physical activity in a variety of areas of public health. Emphasis on advocating for the importance of integration of physical activity in community health. This course prepares students to sit for the American College of Sports Medicine/National Physical Activity Society Physical Activity in Public Health Specialist certification examination.

KINE 3358. COMMUNICATION FOR HEALTH PROFESSIONALS. 3 Hours.
Information and experiences that identify the health literacy of populations, including addressment of barriers and unique situations for vulnerable populations. Communication of information through appropriate, culturally competent methodologies. Integration of basic concepts of public health-specific communication into technical and professional writing. The use of mass media and electronic technology. Prerequisite: KINE 2350 and KINE 3350.

KINE 3388. THEORY AND APPLICATION IN MOTOR DEVELOPMENT. 3 Hours.
A study of motor skill development from infancy to adolescence with emphasis upon motor development theory and aspects that effect motor competence, underlie movement control, and influence change in the acquisition of motor skills. Prerequisite: KINE 1100 and KINE 1300.

KINE 3401. BIOMECHANICS OF HUMAN MOVEMENT. 4 Hours.
Quantitative and qualitative analyses of human movement. Emphasis is on the application of the principles of human movement, with consideration of functional anatomy, kinesiology and mechanical concepts to exercise, sport, and activities of daily living. Course credit may not be granted for both KINE 3301 and KINE 3401. Prerequisite: KINE 1300, KINE 1100, BIOL 2457 and MATH 1302 OR MATH 1402.

KINE 3415. PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE. 4 Hours.
Provides the physiology background necessary for an understanding of the acute and chronic effects of exercise on the body. Physiological concepts and their relationship to exercise, sport, and health programs are examined. Laboratory experiences are designed for evaluating physiological responses to exercise. Course credit may not be granted for both KINE 3315 and KINE 3415. Prerequisite: Restricted to Kinesiology, Athletic Training and Exercise Science Majors. KINE 1300, KINE 1100, BIOL 2457, BIOL 2458, and MATH 1302 OR MATH 1402 required.

KINE 4130. ATHLETIC TRAINING CLINICAL PRACTICUM IV. 1 Hour.
Laboratory and clinical experiences designed to provide students with formal instruction and evaluation in the Entry Level Athletic Training Competencies and Clinical Proficiencies. The instructional emphasis is the development of functional rehabilitation programs for musculoskeletal injuries and common orthopedic surgeries. This course requires the completion of 250 hours of clinical experience performed under the supervision of an Approved Clinical Instructor (ACI) or Clinical Instructor (CI). Prerequisite: BIOL 2457 and BIOL 2458; Athletic Training Majors only or permission of instructor. Corequisite: KINE 4336.

KINE 4131. ATHLETIC TRAINING CLINICAL PRACTICUM V. 1 Hour.
Laboratory and clinical experiences designed to provide students with formal instruction and evaluation in the Entry Level Athletic Training Competencies and Clinical Proficiencies. Instructional emphasis is on the selection and clinical application of therapeutic modalities. This course requires the completion of 250 hours of clinical experience performed under the supervision of an Approved Clinical Instructor (ACI) or Clinical Instructor (CI). Prerequisite: BIOL 2457 and BIOL 2458; Athletic Training Majors only or permission of instructor. Corequisite: KINE 3333.

KINE 4132. ATHLETIC TRAINING CLINICAL PRACTICUM VI. 1 Hour.
Laboratory and clinical experiences designed to provide students with formal instruction and evaluation in the Entry Level Athletic Training Competencies and Clinical Proficiencies. This course requires the completion of 200 hours of clinical experience performed under the supervision of an Approved Clinical Instructor. Prerequisite: KINE 3130, KINE 3131, KINE 3320, KINE 3324, KINE 3330, KINE 3333, KINE 4130, KINE 4131, KINE 4336, and acceptance into the Athletic Training Education Program or approval of instructor. Must be concurrently enrolled in KINE 4233.

KINE 4188. CLINICAL HEALTH PROFESSIONS INTERNSHIP. 1 Hour.
Individualized academic training in an internal or external clinical health professions setting (e.g. university, hospital, physical therapy clinic, or physician's office) under the direct supervision of a health care professional (MD, PT, OT, PA). Prerequisite: Corequisite: KINE 4315 or successful completion of KINE 4315 and proof of sufficient professional liability insurance.

KINE 4191. CONFERENCE COURSE. 1 Hour.
Topics assigned on an individual basis covering personal research or study in the designated area. Prerequisite: permission of department chairperson.

KINE 4193. PHYSICAL EDUCATION TEACHER CERTIFICATION PRACTICUM. 1 Hour.
In this course students will be prepared for the TExES PE-EC-12 and PPR- EC-12 exams and prepared for the professional dispositions associated with being a Physical Educator with an emphasis on ethics, interviewing, and role modeling. The students will take and review the PE Content and Pedagogy and Professional Responsibilities practice teaching licensure exams. Through this process teacher candidates will be cleared for official TExES registration. This course is to be taken the semester immediately prior to the student teaching semester.

KINE 4201. ADVANCED TECHNIQUES AND TACTICS OF BASEBALL. 2 Hours.
Development and analysis of skills, offensive and defensive strategies used in the sport of baseball.

KINE 4202. ADVANCED TECHNIQUES AND TACTICS OF BASKETBALL. 2 Hours.
Development and analysis of skills, offensive/defensive strategies used in the sport of basketball.

KINE 4203. ADVANCED TECHNIQUES AND TACTICS OF FOOTBALL. 2 Hours.
Development and analysis of skills, offensive and defensive strategies used in the sport of football.

KINE 4204. ADVANCED TECHNIQUES AND TACTICS OF TRACK AND FIELD. 2 Hours.
Development and analysis of track and field event techniques and strategies.

KINE 4205. ADVANCED TECHNIQUES AND TACTICS OF VOLLEYBALL. 2 Hours.
Development and analysis of skills, offensive and defensive strategies used in the sport of volleyball.

KINE 4233. ATHLETIC TRAINING ORGANIZATION & ADMINISTRATION. 2 Hours.
A study of the administrative issues and management theories that may be encountered in athletic training. Special emphasis is placed on the practical application of concepts related to legal liability, facility design and maintenance, documentation, financial management, health insurance, and general day-to-day operations. Prerequisite: KINE 3130, KINE 3131, KINE 3320, KINE 3324, KINE 3330, KINE 3333, KINE 4130, KINE 4131, KINE 4336, and acceptance into the Athletic Training Education Program or approval of instructor.

KINE 4291. CONFERENCE COURSE. 2 Hours.
Topics assigned on an individual basis covering personal research or study in the designated area. Prerequisite: permission of department chairperson.

KINE 4293. SEMINAR IN ATHLETIC TRAINING. 2 Hours.
Synthesis of theories and concepts in athletic training. Review of the competencies and proficiencies in athletic training with special emphasis on professional development and the refinement of clinical decision-making. Prerequisite: KINE 3320, KINE 3324, KINE 3330, KINE 3333, KINE 4233, KINE 4336; Athletic Training Majors only.

KINE 4296. SPECIAL TOPICS IN EXERCISE AND SPORT. 2 Hours.
Designed to meet the current needs of students. May be repeated for credit when the topic changes.

KINE 4307. OVERVIEW OF MEDICINE. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to provide undergraduate students an overview of the basic, preclinical, and clinical sciences, emphasizing the main principles and logic of medicine, how doctors think, and how the healthcare system works. Specific topics covered include an Introduction to Medicine, Embryology & Principles of Anatomy, General & Systems Physiology, Molecular Biology & Biochemistry, Neuroscience, Microbiology & Immunology, Pathology, Pharmacology, Epidemiology & Public Health, Internal Medicine specialties (Cardiology, Pulmonology, Nephrology, Gastroenterology, Infectious Diseases, Endocrinology, Rheumatology, Hematology / Oncology), Neurology, Pediatrics, Obstetrics & Gynecology, Surgery, Anesthesiology, Surgical Subspecialties (Cardiovascular Surgery, Orthopedic Surgery, Ophthalmology, Otorhinolaryngology, Dermatology, Urology, Neurosurgery), Psychiatry, Radiology and Radiation Oncology. Importantly, it spans both the scientific and humanistic aspects of medicine, referencing the visual arts, music, film, and other forms of art to highlight key points. Though primarily designed for students aiming for a career in the health professions, it should appeal to anyone curious about how health and medicine works. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 4316. FITNESS PROGRAMMING. 3 Hours.
This course will provide students with practical and theoretical applications of fitness programming. The successful student will acquire a level of proficiency in the development of fitness programs and plans based upon client specific fitness assessment characteristics. Fitness programs shall include, but not be limited to: musculoskeletal symmetry, strength, and flexibility; body composition; cardiovascular endurance, and nutritional recommendations. Additionally, successful students will become proficient in the application of client related historical, nutritional, medical, psychological, and psychosocial factors that impact the development of a properly designed exercise program. Prerequisite: Current CPR certification, MATH 1302, KINE 3300, KINE 3315, and KINE 4315, or permission of instructor.

KINE 4317. EXERCISE PRESCRIPTION FOR SPECIAL POPULATIONS. 3 Hours.
This course will discuss the pathophysiology of prevalent cardiovascular, metabolic and pulmonary diseases. Methods of exercise prescription and issues of concern will also be presented for these populations, as well as, low back pain, pregnancy, osteoporosis, cancer, children, older adults, fibromyalgia, multiple sclerosis and cardiac disease. Prerequisite:MATH 1302, MATH 1308, BIOL 2457, BIOL 2458, KINE 3300, KINE 3415 and KINE 3325.

KINE 4319. FITNESS, HEALTH AND OUTDOOR ADVENTURE ACTIVITIES EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
The course will provide students with theoretical health-related concepts with which they can design and apply fitness learning into various physical education settings. In addition, this course is designed to introduce students to outdoor and adventure education activities and adventure-based learning. Time will be spent on low element group initiatives and high element adventure activities. Prerequisite: KINE 2301 and KINE 2302.

KINE 4320. TEACHING SECONDARY PHYSICAL EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
Designed to enhance teacher candidates' understanding of curriculum development as it applies to theory of motor learning and the sciences of kinesiology. These progressions are synthesized into a collaborative service-learning project with secondary public school partner(s). Candidates take responsibility for creating, coordinating, and facilitating learning experiences that are developmentally appropriate, motivating, and based on research. Prerequisite: KINE 3304, KINE 3388.

KINE 4321. TEACHING ELEM PHYSICAL EDUCATION. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to synthesize the sciences of anatomy and physiology, biomechanics, motor integration and motor control with sound pedagogical knowledge into an applied elementary physical education setting. Criminal background check required. Prerequisite: KINE 3304 and KINE 3388.

KINE 4323. MOTOR CONTROL AND LEARNING. 3 Hours.
This course will expose students to the theoretical perspectives and current principles associated with the control and learning of movement skills. Specifically, the neural and mechanical mechanisms underlying motor behavior and the variables influencing motor learning will be addressed. Throughout the course, application of theoretical concepts to instructional and clinical settings will be emphasized. Prerequisite: KINE 1300, KINE 1100, MATH 1308, and KINE 3325.

KINE 4329. STRENGTH & CONDITIONING IN SPORT AND PERFORMANCE. 3 Hours.
This course covers the physiology and biomechanics of strength training and conditioning. Additional topics include: testing and evaluation of athletes, resistance training techniques, training program design, and organization administration of a strength training facility. This course is designed to prepare students to take the CSCS, Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialist, certification examination. Prerequisite: MATH 1302, MATH 1308, BIOL 2457, BIOL 2458, KINE 3300, KINE 3415, KINE 3325.

KINE 4330. PROGRAM DESIGN & ADMINISTRATION. 3 Hours.
The development and operation of health/wellness programs and facilities will be presented, including: program design and administration, facility design, organizational development, management theory, marketing, financial management, legal issues, strategic planning, and evaluation models. The student will participate in all phases of program and facility development, such as budget development, recruiting and retaining employees and clients, market niche, and conflict resolution. Prerequisite: KINE 3415 and KINE 3325.

KINE 4331. OBESITY & WEIGHT MANAGEMENT. 3 Hours.
This course is a review of the scientific literature on the causes and consequences of obesity. Topics include: techniques for assessing body composition, metabolic factors promoting obesity, the role of obesity in metabolic and cardiovascular disease, traditional and non-traditional weight loss programs, economic consequences and contributors of obesity, and psychosocial consequences and contributors of obesity. Prerequisite: KINE 3415 and KINE 3325.

KINE 4335. GRADED EXERCISE TESTING & PRESCRIPTION. 3 Hours.
The knowledge and skills necessary for assessment of health history and appraisal, blood pressure, electrocardiogram, cardiovascular fitness and function will be acquired in lecture and laboratory sessions. Various test modalities and protocols will be discussed for health and diseased populations. Prerequisite: BIOL 2457, BIOL 2458, and KINE 3315, KINE 4315, or permission of instructor.

KINE 4336. THERAPEUTIC INTERVENTION I. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to provide the student with an understanding of the scientific theory and the basic principles of musculoskeletal rehabilitation and therapeutic modalities. Emphasis will be placed on understanding the disablement model and learning how to plan, implement, document, and evaluate programs for the rehabilitation and reconditioning of injuries and illnesses of athletes and others involved with physical activity. Operation of superficial heating and cooling therapeutic modalities and how manual treatments (e.g., traction, muscle energy and massage) can be incorporated into a rehabilitation program will be investigated. The underlying principles and application techniques for each modality, therapeutic exercise progressions, patient clinical goals, legal and safe practice guidelines, and evidence based therapeutic modality science will allow for critical thinking and problem solving in relation to common lower extremity injuries. Both surgical and non-surgical rehabilitation models for the lower extremity will be discussed with a special emphasis on the use of functional progressions. Prerequisites: BIOL 2457 and BIOL 2458. Concurrent enrollment in KINE 4130 is required for all Athletic Training Education Program students.

KINE 4337. STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING IN GENERAL POPULATIONS: HEALTH AND DISEASE. 3 Hours.
This course covers the physiology and biomechanics of strength training and conditioning as it applies to the general populations across the spectrum of health and disease. This includes: testing, evaluation, resistance training techniques and training program design for individuals with orthopedic injuries and rehabilitation concerns, metabolic conditions (e.g., diabetes), youth, elderly, and pregnant or post-prenatal women. This course is designed to prepare students to take the NSCA-CPT, and apply the skills needed to be a leader within the personal training and physical therapy career paths. Prerequisite: KINE 3415 and KINE 3325.

KINE 4339. SPORTS LEADERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT INTERNSHIP. 3 Hours.
Individualized training and experience in a youth, college, professional or other sport-based organization. Students will work with a mentor and university supervisor in a community-based setting to better understand, explore, and apply principles of coaching and operations. Prerequisite: KINE majors and Senior standing.

KINE 4349. PUBLIC HEALTH INFORMATICS. 3 Hours.
Explain and apply ethical principles that apply to the use of information technology as those pertain to accessing, collecting, analyzing, using, maintaining, and disseminating data and information. Prerequisite: KINE 2350, KINE 3350, KINE 3358, KINE 3352, and KINE 3353.

KINE 4350. SPORTS PSYCHOLOGY. 3 Hours.
The course will provide an overview of the growing field of Sports Psychology, which involves applying psychological science to sports. Topics such as maximizing sports performance, elite performance and personality, motivation techniques in sports, leadership skills in sports, etc., will be covered.

KINE 4351. PUBLIC HEALTH ETHICS. 3 Hours.
Study of ethical standards and how those are incorporated into practice and decision-making that relate to interactions with individuals, organizations, and communities. Exploration of strategies for public health, health care, and other allied healthcare organizations to work together or individually to impact the health of a community. Prerequisite: Junior status, KINE 2350 and KINE 3350.

KINE 4352. PUBLIC HEALTH SCIENCES AND METHODS. 3 Hours.
Identify scientific concepts and research methods of population health, along with the basic processes, approaches, and interventions that identify and address the major health-related needs and concerns of populations. Analysis of project implementation such as planning, assessment and evaluation. Prerequisite: KINE 2350, KINE 3350, KINE 3352, KINE 3353, and KINE 3358. Minimum GPA of 2.5 required to enroll in the course.

KINE 4353. EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS & MANAGEMENT. 3 Hours.
Inquiry into the structures, functions, and authorizations of governmental public health programs. Identification of tools, processes, and activities related to both practice and policy used to support community responses to public health emergencies and other disasters. Credit may not be given for both KINE 3354 and KINE 4353. Prerequisite: KINE 2350, KINE 3350, KINE 3352, KINE 3353, and KINE 3358.

KINE 4354. PUBLIC HEALTH ADVOCACY AND LEADERSHIP. 3 Hours.
Appraisal of leadership philosophies and actions that reflect and model effective strategies for protecting and promoting the public's health. Prerequisite: KINE 2350, KINE 3350, KINE 3352, KINE 3353, KINE 3354, KINE 3358, MANA 4326, KINE 4352, KINE 4349, KINE 4357. Concurrent enrollment in KINE 4359 recommended. 2.5 GPA required for course enrollment.

KINE 4356. PUBLIC HEALTH PROJECT DESIGN & ADMINISTRATION. 3 Hours.
This course includes content designed to develop the knowledge, skills and competencies necessary for public health project management. The course includes experiential learning activities and case studies that integrate practice-based learning on topics such as project design, team dynamics, project evaluation and quality improvement measures. Prerequisite: KINE 2350 and junior status.

KINE 4357. PREPARATION FOR THE PUBLIC HEALTH WORKFORCE. 3 Hours.
The development and operational systems and processes in public health programs and facilities will be presented, including: concepts and experiences necessary for success in the workplace, community dynamics, independent work and development of a personal work ethic, networking and professional communication, and teamwork. The student will participate in multiple career readiness learning experiences through a co-curricular collaboration with UTA Career Services. Prerequisite: KINE 2350, KINE 3350, KINE 3352, KINE 3353, KINE 3358, and MANA 4326.

KINE 4358. APPLIED APPROACHES TO DIVERSITY AND CULTURAL AWARENESS IN PUBLIC HEALTH ORGANIZATIONS. 3 Hours.
Applied Approaches to Diversity and Cultural Awareness in Public Health Organizations This course examines the changing demographics of the public health workforce and organizations, presenting students with varied perspectives, approaches and competencies required for understanding and appreciation of greater diversity across the public health and healthcare systems.

KINE 4359. PUBLIC HEALTH CUMULATIVE EXPERIENCE. 3 Hours.
Individualized learning opportunity to integrate, synthesize and apply knowledge through cumulative and experiential activities. All students complete a cumulative, integrative and scholarly or applied experience or inquiry project that serves as an optimum point to the education experience. These experiences may include, but are not limited to, internships, service-learning projects, senior seminars, portfolio projects, research papers or honors theses. Students are encouraged to gain exposure to local-level public health professionals and/or agencies that engage in public health practice. To be taken during the final semester prior to graduation. Prerequisite: KINE 2350, KINE 3350, KINE 3352, KINE 3353, KINE 3358, KINE 4352, KINE 4349, KINE 4357 and MANA 4326 required. Corequisite: KINE 4354. Minimum GPA of 2.5 required for enrollment.

KINE 4387. EXERCISE SCIENCE PRACTICUM. 3 Hours.
Academic training within the internal setting of U.T. Arlington's exercise science laboratories. Each student will receive 135 hours of professional practicum experience in a variety of exercise science settings including wellness, physical fitness activity classes, physical fitness theory classes, the physical fitness center, and/or other exercise science settings. Prerequisite: Current CPR certification, KINE 4315, KINE 4316, and permission of instructor.

KINE 4388. EXERCISE SCIENCE INTERNSHIP. 3 Hours.
Individualized academic training in an external professional exercise science setting (e.g., hospital, physical therapy, cardiac rehabilitation, fitness center) under the direct supervision of an exercise science professional or licensed therapist. Proof of sufficient professional liability insurance is required for enrollment. A minimum of 135 hours in the field is required for completion of the course. Prerequisite: KINE 4415 (or Corequisite).

KINE 4389. FITNESS MANAGEMENT INTERNSHIP. 3 Hours.
Individualized academic training in an external professional exercise science setting (e.g., hospital, physical therapy, cardiac rehabilitation, fitness center) under the direct supervision of an exercise science professional or licensed therapist. Proof of sufficient professional liability insurance is required for enrollment. A minimum of 135 hours in the field is required for completion of the course. Prerequisite: KINE 4415 (or Corequisite).

KINE 4390. PRACTICUM IN SPORT PERFORMANCE. 3 Hours.
Designed on an individual basis as a field experience in the observation of sport performance, and the application of performance principles to sport participation. Students must make application for enrollment prior to October 1 for Spring Semester and prior to April 1 for Fall Semester.

KINE 4391. CONFERENCE COURSE. 3 Hours.
Topics assigned on an individual basis covering personal research or study in the designated area. Prerequisite: permission of department chairperson.

KINE 4394. HONORS THESIS/SENIOR PROJECT. 3 Hours.
Required of all students in the University Honors College. During the senior year, the student must complete a thesis or a project under the direction of a faculty member in the major department.

KINE 4395. INDIVIDUAL STUDY IN EXERCISE AND SPORT. 3 Hours.
The completion of an existing course on an individual basis as contracted with an approved faculty member. This procedure is limited to emergency situations, and must be identified through the departmental advising process.

KINE 4396. SPECIAL TOPICS IN EXERCISE AND SPORT. 3 Hours.
Designed to meet the current needs of students. May be repeated for credit when the topic changes.

KINE 4400. APPLIED EXERCISE PHYSIOLOGY. 4 Hours.
Application of physiological principles of training of physical fitness and sport; examination of factors influencing anaerobic and aerobic training methods and their effect on fitness. Physiological responses studied include cardiovascular, bioenergetics, and extreme environments. Site visits, laboratory experiences and a research project enhance the student's understanding of physiological changes and career paths in exercise science. Prerequisite: KINE 3415, KINE 3325, MATH 1302 (or MATH 1402) and MATH 1308. KINE 4415 is a co/pre-requisite.

KINE 4415. FITNESS ASSESSMENT/PROGRAMMING. 4 Hours.
Classroom and laboratory experiences provide the student with an opportunity to become familiar with the assessment of physical fitness including graded exercise testing, metabolic studies, basic ECG interpretation, and body composition. The student will also learn risk factor identification and exercise prescription. Course credit may not be granted for both KINE 4315 and KINE 4415. Prerequisite: KINE 3415 and KINE 3325.

KINE 4420. APPLIED MOTOR BEHAVIOR. 4 Hours.
Application of motor behavior and biomechanical principles as well as factors influencing learning, re-learning and enhancing motor skills will be examined. Students will craft a research project to enhance their understanding of principles of motor behavior and will be involved in several case studies that can help understand how to apply motor behavior in their career paths. Prerequisite: KINE 3325; KINE 3388; KINE 4323.

KINE 4490. EXERCISE SCIENCE INTERNSHIP. 4 Hours.
Individualized academic training in an external professional exercise science setting (e.g., hospital, physical therapy, cardiac rehabilitation, fitness center) under the direct supervision of an exercise science professional or licensed therapist. Proof of sufficient professional liability insurance is required for enrollment. A minimum of 180 hours in the field is required for completion of the course. Prerequisite: KINE 4415 (or Corequisite).

KINE 4491. MRS INTERNSHIP. 4 Hours.
Individualized academic training in an external professional movement or rehabilitation setting (e.g., hospital, OT clinic, SLP clinic, school, recreation center, therapy setting, etc) under the direct supervision of an exercise science professional or licensed therapist. Proof of sufficient professional liability insurance is required for enrollment. A minimum of 180 hours in the field is required for completion of the course. Prerequisite: KINE 3388; KINE 3415.

KINE 4589. EXERCISE SCIENCE INTERNSHIP. 5 Hours.
Individualized academic training in an external professional exercise science setting (e.g., hospital, physical therapy, cardiac rehabilitation, fitness center) under the direct supervision of an exercise science professional or licensed therapist. Proof of sufficient professional liability insurance is required for enrollment. A minimum of 225 hours in the field is required for completion of the course. Prerequisite: KINE 4415 (or Corequisite).

KINE 4639. SPORTS LEADERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT INTERNSHIP II. 6 Hours.
Individualized training and experience in a youth, college, professional or other sport-based organization. Students will work with a mentor and university supervisor in a community-based setting to better understand, explore, and apply principles of coaching and operations. Prerequisite: KINE majors and Senior standing.

KINE 4647. CLINICAL TEACHING PHYSICAL EDUCATION EC-12. 6 Hours.
This supervised course is designed as a culminating field experience of pre-service professional preparation giving an opportunity to practically apply theoretical and pedagogical knowledge in real school settings. Applied experience will be attained in both Elementary and Secondary settings. Criminal background check required. Prerequisite: KINE 1315, KINE 2301, KINE 3304, KINE 3306, KINE 3325, KINE 3388, KINE 4193, KINE 4319, KINE 4320, KINE 4321, LIST 4343, and EDUC 4340.

KINE 4659. PUBLIC HEALTH EXTENDED CUMULATIVE EXPERIENCE. 6 Hours.
Individualized practice-based public health work experience in a professional public health-related setting (e.g., public health agency, nonprofit organization, legislative representative office, hospital) under the direct supervision of a public health professional. To be taken during the final semester prior to graduation. Prerequisite: KINE 2350, KINE 3350, KINE 3351, KINE 3352, KINE 3353, KINE 3354, KINE 4352, KINE 4355, KINE 4357 and MANA 4326 required. Corequisite: KINE 4354.

KINE 4689. FITNESS MANAGEMENT INTERNSHIP. 6 Hours.
Designed on an individual basis to allow the student to apply academic training in a professional fitness center under the direct supervision of a fitness specialist. Prerequisite: Current CPR certification, KINE 4315, KINE 4316, KINE 4387 (or concurrent enrollment), proof of sufficient professionally liability insurance, and permission of instructor.

KINE 4988. EXERCISE SCIENCE INTERNSHIP. 9 Hours.
Individualized academic training in an external professional exercise science setting (e.g., hospital, physical therapy, university laboratory) under the direct supervision of an exercise science professional. Prerequisite: KINE 4315, KINE 4316, KINE 4387 (or concurrent enrollment), current CPR certification, proof of sufficient professional liability insurance, and permission of instructor.

KINE 4989. FITNESS MANAGEMENT INTERNSHIP. 9 Hours.
Designed on an individual basis to allow the student to apply academic training in a professional fitness center under the direct supervision of a fitness specialist. Prerequisite: Current CPR certification, KINE 4315, KINE 4316, KINE 4387 (or concurrent enrollment), proof of sufficient professionally liability insurance, and permission of instructor.

KINE 5120. ATHLETIC TRAINING CLINICAL I. 1 Hour.
An introduction to clinical experiences in athletic training. Students will be introduced to ethical and confidentiality standards, basic clinical skills, communication and interprofessional practice skills, and cultural competency and humility. Prerequisite: Admission to the MSAT Program. Prerequisite: Admission to the MSAT Program.

KINE 5121. FUNCTIONAL ANATOMY AND BIOMECHANICS FOR THE ATHLETIC TRAINER II. 1 Hour.
This course builds on prerequisite knowledge of human musculoskeletal anatomy to describe human movement. Principles of biomechanics and kinesiology will guide an advanced, applied understanding of arthrokinematics, kinetic chain principles, functional movement, and the anatomy of common musculoskeletal injuries. Prerequisite: KINE 5229.

KINE 5122. DOCUMENTATION AND HEALTH INFORMATICS FOR THE ATHLETIC TRAINER. 1 Hour.
This course is designed to introduce and develop effective medical documentation skills. Health informatic concepts and disablement classification models will be introduced to support quality of care and to measure functional outcomes/treatment goals. Prerequisite: KINE 5120, KINE 5229, KINE 5230, KINE 5236.

KINE 5123. PHARMACOLOGY IN ATHLETIC TRAINING. 1 Hour.
This course will provide background information on pharmacological agents for the management of general medical and orthopedic conditions. Emphasis will be placed on the development of patient education in the areas of indication, contraindication, dosing, interaction, route of administration, and adverse reaction related to various medications and therapeutic agents. Prerequisite: KINE 5222, KINE 5237, KINE 5324, KINE 5325.

KINE 5125. IMMUNOLOGY. 1 Hour.
This course will include a brief review of the immune system and factors that affect immune function with emphasis on the effect of exercise and stress on muscle and overall immune function. The effect of nutrition and over-training on the immune system and associated syndromes/diseases will also be presented.

KINE 5128. CLINICAL DIAGNOSTIC PROCEDURES. 1 Hour.
This course provides fundamental clinical knowledge of commonly utilized diagnostic procedures and tests in medical practice. Emphasis will be placed on understanding of indications, contraindications, and clinical implications of diagnostic tests and understanding of normal and diseased states. Correlation and integration of test results into clinical examination findings and clinical plan of care will be addressed. Prerequisite: Admission to MSAT Program.

KINE 5130. CLINICAL ATHLETIC TRAINING II. 1 Hour.
Clinical experiences in selected health care settings that provide students the opportunity to integrate their knowledge and skills into actual patient care. Emphasis will be placed on the development of clinical decision-making skills. This course requires the completion of 250 hours of clinical experience under the supervision of a program approved clinical preceptor. Prerequisites: KINE 5420, KINE 5220, KINE 5120.

KINE 5140. CLINICAL ATHLETIC TRAINING III. 1 Hour.
Clinical experiences in selected health care settings that provide students the opportunity to integrate their knowledge and skills into actual patient care. Emphasis will be placed on the development of clinical decision-making skills. This course requires the completion of 250 hours of clinical experience under the supervision of a program approved clinical preceptor. Prerequisite: KINE 5130.

KINE 5150. CLINICAL ATHLETIC TRAINING IV. 1 Hour.
Clinical experiences in selected health care settings that provide students the opportunity to integrate their knowledge and skills into actual patient care. Emphasis will be placed on the development of clinical decision-making skills. This course requires the completion of 250 hours of clinical experience under the supervision of a program approved clinical preceptor. Prerequisite: KINE 5140.

KINE 5160. CLINICAL ATHLETIC TRAINING V. 1 Hour.
Clinical experiences in selected health care settings that provide students the opportunity to integrate their knowledge and skills into actual patient care. Emphasis will be placed on the development of clinical decision-making skills. This course requires the completion of 250 hours of clinical experience under the supervision of a program approved clinical preceptor. Prerequisite: KINE 5150.

KINE 5170. JOURNAL CLUB IN PHYSIOLOGY. 1 Hour.
This course is designed to provide the students an opportunity to learn the art of critically reading and interpreting research articles. There will be emphasis on identifying strengths and weakness of research studies. There will also be an opportunity for the students to present their research study ideas and / or their preliminary findings of their research to the class. This will provide an opportunity for students to interact and receive / provide feedback regarding methodological approaches and interpretation of findings. Lastly, the student will learn how to prepare and deliver presentations to an audience.

KINE 5171. JOURNAL CLUB IN MOVEMENT & REHABILITATION SCIENCES. 1 Hour.
There is a growing emphasis on research and in particular student involvement in research at UTA. A fundamental skill that will be critical in the successful growth of student involvement in research is their ability to read and critically analyze / interpret journal articles. In addition to this important skill set the students will also gain valuable experience by presenting their research study ideas and / or their preliminary findings of their research to the class. This will provide an opportunity for students to interact and receive / provide feedback regarding methodological approaches and interpretation of findings.

KINE 5190. SPECIAL TOPICS IN KINESIOLOGY. 1 Hour.
In-depth study of selected topics in physical education and exercise science. May be repeated when topics vary. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

KINE 5191. INTERNSHIP IN CARDIOPULMONARY REHABILITATION. 1 Hour.
The student will complete 400 internship hours in an approved Cardiopulmonary rehabilitation setting. The student may take two semesters of KINE 5191 at 200 hours each. The student will be involved in patient/client assessment, training, rehabilitation, risk factor identification and lifestyle management services provided for individuals with or at risk for cardiovascular, pulmonary, and metabolic diseases. In addition the student will observe common cardiac surgeries and diagnostic procedures to better understand the pathophysiology and treatment of cardiovascular, pulmonary and metabolic disease.

KINE 5192. INTERNSHIP IN GRADED EXERCISE TESTING FOR HIGH RISK POPULATIONS. 1 Hour.
The student will complete 200 hours of graded exercise testing in an approved hospital or outpatient clinical setting which conducts exercise tests for high risk populations, including clients with suspected cardiopulmonary and metabolic diseases. The student will be exposed to noninvasive (echocardiography and graded exercise testing) and invasive methods used to diagnose cardiopulmonary and metabolic disease, including procedures conducted in cath and nuclear testing laboratories.

KINE 5193. PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE INTERNSHIP. 1 Hour.
Individualized academic training in an external professional exercise physiology setting (e.g., physical medicine, athletic training, external laboratory, health/fitness facility, professional teams or sports management) under the direct supervision of an exercise science professional.

KINE 5194. RESEARCH IN KINESIOLOGY. 1 Hour.
Individually approved research projects selected from the various areas of Kinesiology.

KINE 5195. INTERNSHIP IN GRADED EXERCISE TESTING FOR HIGH RISK POPULATIONS. 1 Hour.
The student will complete 200 hours of graded exercise testing in an approved hospital or outpatient clinical setting which conducts exercise tests for high risk populations, including clients with suspected cardiopulmonary and metabolic diseases. The student will be exposed to noninvasive (echocardiography and graded exercise testing) and invasive methods used to diagnose cardiopulmonary and metabolic disease, including procedures conducted in cath and nuclear testing laboratories.

KINE 5196. LABORATORY TECHNIQUES IN EXERCISE SCIENCE. 1 Hour.
A primary objective of this course is to further your understanding of exercise physiology. A second but equally important objective is to enhance your ability for critical thinking on exercise physiology through the scientific process. This includes formation of a research question, hypothesis, designing an experiment, and inferring conclusions from data. Secondary objectives include improving technology skills to assist collecting and analyzing data, and writing and oral communication skills for demonstrating understanding of the physiological principles.

KINE 5198. THESIS. 1 Hour.

KINE 5220. PREVENTATIVE AND ACUTE CARE TECHNIQUES IN ATHLETIC TRAINING. 2 Hours.
Classroom and laboratory experiences designed to provide students with formal instruction and evaluation in the prevention and acute care of activity related injuries and illnesses.

KINE 5221. CLINICAL ATHLETIC TRAINING II. 2 Hours.
This course will include clinical experiences and simulation, providing students the opportunity to integrate their knowledge and skills into actual patient care. Emphasis will be placed on the development of clinical decision-making skills. This course requires the completion of clinical experience under the supervision of a program approved preceptor. The course will also provide opportunities for simulation and mastery of clinical skills. Prerequisite: KINE 5120, KINE 5229, KINE 5230, KINE 5236.

KINE 5222. CLINICAL ATHLETIC TRAINING III. 2 Hours.
This course will include clinical experiences and simulation, providing students the opportunity to integrate their knowledge and skills into actual patient care. Emphasis will be placed on the development of clinical decision-making skills. This course requires the completion of clinical experience under the supervision of a program approved preceptor. Prerequisite: KINE 5121, KINE 5221, KINE 5321, KINE 5332.

KINE 5224. CLINICAL ATHLETIC TRAINING V. 2 Hours.
This course will include clinical experiences and simulation providing students the opportunity to integrate their knowledge and skills into actual patient care. Emphasis will be placed on the development of clinical decision-making skills as well as exam review and test-taking strategies. This course requires the completion of clinical experience under the supervision of a program approved preceptor. Prerequisite: KINE 5123, KINE 5306, KINE 5339, KINE 5343.

KINE 5226. PATHOPHYSIOLOGY AND PHARMACOLOGY II. 2 Hours.
Further study of acute and chronic illnesses and their response to, and impact on, physical activity. Discussion of pharmacological agents used in the care of general illnesses and musculoskeletal disorders in the physically active. Prerequisite: KINE 5348.

KINE 5227. LITERATURE AND RESEARCH FOR THE ATHLETIC TRAINER. 2 Hours.
This course is an overview of concepts and procedures necessary for designing, conducting, and critically appraising research in Athletic Training from multiple research paradigms. The course will focus on the steps involved in the administration of a research project, including literature review, design, data collection and analysis. Prerequisite: KINE 5223, KINE 5234, KINE 5341, KINE 5356.

KINE 5228. SEMINAR IN ATHLETIC TRAINING. 2 Hours.
A capstone course designed to provide students the opportunity to synthesize and integrate the athletic training theories and concepts taught in the previous courses. Class discussions and projects will emphasize health care administration, professional development, cultural competence, transition to practice, inter-professional education and skills required of the entry-level athletic trainer. Prerequisite: KINE 5333, KINE 5227, KINE 5224.

KINE 5229. FUNCTIONAL ANATOMY AND BIOMECHANICS FOR THE ATHLETIC TRAINER. 2 Hours.
This course builds on prerequisite knowledge of human musculoskeletal anatomy to describe human movement. Principles of biomechanics and kinesiology will guide the understanding of mechanical and physiologic interactions between muscles and joints to form the basis of understanding normal and pathological movement. This course will specifically focus on identifying musculoskeletal landmarks through lecture, virtual cadaver learning, and hands-on palpation. Prerequisite: Admission to MSAT Program.

KINE 5230. FOUNDATIONS OF ORTHOPEDIC ASSESSMENT AND THERAPEUTIC INTERVENTIONS. 2 Hours.
This course is designed to develop foundational skills in orthopedic injury assessment and an understanding of the theory and the basic principles of diagnostic testing and therapeutic interventions for the rehabilitation and reconditioning of injuries and illnesses of those involved with physical activity. The focus of the course is on patient-centered care and will include principles related to the injury evaluation process, healing and pain physiology, and therapeutic interventions commonly utilized during the initial phases of acute and chronic injuries and conditions, The use of patient rated outcome scales along with quality improvement through planning, implementing, documenting, and evaluating clinical techniques used in orthopedic injury assessment and intervention programs will be discussed. Prerequisite: Admission to MSAT Program.

KINE 5231. FUNDAMENTALS OF ATHLETIC TRAINING I. 2 Hours.
This course is designed to provide the entry level athletic training student with classroom and laboratory experiences to provide an introduction to the profession and the role of athletic trainers in the overall health care environment. Emphasis will be placed on the epidemiology of orthopedic injuries, orthopedic trauma, emergency planning and care, cold and hot therapeutic modalities, and prevention of sudden death. Prerequisite: Admission to MSAT Program.

KINE 5232. FUNDAMENTALS OF ATHLETIC TRAINING II. 2 Hours.
This course is designed to provide the entry level athletic training student with classroom and laboratory experiences to further their development as an athletic trainer in a dynamic health care system. Emphasis will be placed on interprofessional practice, prevention of sudden death, nutrition for the physically active, ergonomics, body composition assessment, and fitness assessment/programming. Prerequisite: Admission to MSAT Program.

KINE 5233. THERAPEUTIC MODALITIES. 2 Hours.
This course is designed to provide the entry level athletic training student with classroom and laboratory experiences to provide an understanding of the theory and application of common therapeutic modalities for the treatment of musculoskeletal injuries. Emphasis will be placed on using the disablement model to plan, implement, and document the use of therapeutic modalities for the treatment and rehabilitation of injuries and illnesses of those involved with physical activity. Critical appraisal of research studies regarding the effectiveness and efficacy of therapeutic modalities will also be emphasized. Prerequisite: Admission to MSAT Program.

KINE 5234. CLINICAL REASONING AND DECISION MAKING. 2 Hours.
This course is designed to provide an understanding and application of theories and frameworks to clinical decision making. Students will work toward becoming an effective practitioner, able to make clinical decisions by studying clinical situations and how health care professionals make clinical decisions. Emphasis will be placed on problem solving strategies, decision making and evidence based rationale. Clinical reasoning will be developed while integrating knowledge and skills in management of complex clinical conditions using scientific and contemporary evidence-based clinical knowledge. Prerequisite: Admission into MSAT Program.

KINE 5235. ADVANCED FUNCTIONAL ASSESSMENT AND CORRECTIVE EXERCISE. 2 Hours.
This course will introduce functional movement assessments and corrective exercises as a preventative and therapeutic approach to musculoskeletal conditions. Specific topics will include advanced techniques designed to restore body symmetry and theories of functional movement. Evidence-based application of functional assessment, evaluation and assignment of corrective exercises will be emphasized. Prerequisite: KINE 5123, KINE 5306, KINE 5339, KINE 5343.

KINE 5236. PREVENTION, HEALTH PROMOTION, AND WELLNESS. 2 Hours.
This course will highlight the athletic trainer's role in promoting and maintaining the health and well-being of individuals and populations before and after injuries and illnesses. Emphasis will be placed on the epidemiology and prevention of musculoskeletal injuries, medial conditions, and chronic disease, emergency planning and care, environmental monitoring, nutrition and dietary interventions, biometrics, and other determinants including social, economic, and individual factors that affect health outcomes. Prerequisite: Admission to the MSAT Program.

KINE 5237. BEHAVIORAL AND POPULATION HEALTH. 2 Hours.
This course will highlight the athletic trainer's role in promoting and maintaining the health and well-being of individuals and populations. The athletic trainer's role in behavioral health will be emphasized, as well as development, implementation, and assessment of preventative measures to reduce injury risk and long-term health conditions across the lifespan. Emphasis will also be placed on population-level problems, including health risks and determinants as well as individual and behavioral factors that affect health outcomes. Prerequisite: KINE 5121, KINE 5221, KINE 5321, KINE 5332.

KINE 5238. ADVANCED MANUAL THERAPY AND INTEGRATED MODALITIES. 2 Hours.
This course is designed to introduce students to advanced manual therapy and integrated therapeutic modalities that are currently used in musculoskeletal rehabilitation. Both the theoretical and scientific basis of novel therapeutic interventions will be examined using an evidence-based approach. Emphasis will be placed on the foundational concepts and techniques associated with selection and application and how to make effective clinical decisions. Prerequisite: KINE 5123, KINE 5306, KINE 5339, KINE 5343.

KINE 5239. HEALTH CARE ADMINISTRATION. 2 Hours.
A study of the administrative issues and management theories that may be encountered in overseeing an athletic training/sports medicine program. Special emphasis is placed on the practical application of concepts related to legal liability, facility design and maintenance, financial and budget management, common health insurance models, insurance contract negotiation, strategic planning as a means to assess and promote organizational improvement, the impact of organizational structure on the daily operations of a healthcare facility, components of developing and implementing a basic business plan, medical record and documentation systems, federal and state infection control regulations and guidelines, risk management plan development, emergency action planning, and general day to day operations. Prerequisite: KINE 5123, KINE 5306, KINE 5339, KINE 5343.

KINE 5240. ADVANCED IMMEDIATE AND EMERGENCY CARE. 2 Hours.
This course is designed to provide knowledge and skills related to the immediate and emergent care of injuries/conditions in work settings of athletic trainers. Prerequisite: KINE 5123, KINE 5306, KINE 5339, KINE 5343.

KINE 5241. PERFORMANCE ENHANCEMENT FOR THE ATHLETIC TRAINER. 2 Hours.
Concepts, theories, and foundational background information will be presented to optimize human movement and performance. An emphasis on sports science, technology and data analysis will be discussed to enhance program design and patient goals. Prerequisite: KINE 5123, KINE 5306, KINE 5339, KINE 5343.

KINE 5250. PUBLIC HEALTH PRACTICUM I. 2 Hours.
This is a required community-based internship for all students pursuing the Master of Public Health degree. Students will complete 150 to 200 hours of their internship during the semester in which they are enrolled in this course. Prerequisite: KINE 5375 and KINE 5376 and KINE 5372 and KINE 5377 and KINE 5378.

KINE 5252. PUBLIC HEALTH INTEGRATED LEARNING EXPERIENCE. 2 Hours.
This course is the culmination of all previous coursework for Master of Public Health (MPH) students, requiring the student to complete a final paper, poster and oral presentation about the project completed as part of the Community-Based Internship. In addition, the student will complete a professional portfolio comprised of work illustrating the competencies learned during the MPH program and applied during the Internship. Prerequisite: KINE 5375 and KINE 5376 and KINE 5372 and KINE 5377 and KINE 5378.

KINE 5290. SPECIAL TOPICS IN KINESIOLOGY. 2 Hours.
In-depth study of selected topics in physical education and exercise science. May be repeated when topics vary. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

KINE 5291. INTERNSHIP IN CARDIOPULMONARY REHABILITATION. 2 Hours.
The student will complete 400 internship hours in an approved Cardiopulmonary rehabilitation setting. The student may take two semesters of KINE 5191 at 200 hours each. The student will be involved in patient/client assessment, training, rehabilitation, risk factor identification and lifestyle management services provided for individuals with or at risk for cardiovascular, pulmonary, and metabolic diseases. In addition the student will observe common cardiac surgeries and diagnostic procedures to better understand the pathophysiology and treatment of cardiovascular, pulmonary and metabolic disease.

KINE 5292. SPECIAL TOPICS IN KINESIOLOGY. 2 Hours.

KINE 5293. PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE INTERNSHIP. 2 Hours.
Individualized academic training in an external professional exercise physiology setting (e.g., physical medicine, athletic training, external laboratory, health/fitness facility, professional teams or sports management) under the direct supervision of an exercise science professional.

KINE 5294. RESEARCH IN KINESIOLOGY. 2 Hours.
Individually approved research projects selected from the various areas of Kinesiology.

KINE 5298. THESIS. 2 Hours.

KINE 5300. RESEARCH METHODS. 3 Hours.
This course is an overview of concepts and procedures necessary for designing, conducting, and analyzing hypothesis driven research across multiple academic disciplines with a focus on multiple research paradigms. The course will focus on the steps involved in the administration of a research project, including literature review, design, data collection and analysis.

KINE 5305. APPLIED STATISTICAL PRINCIPLES IN KINESIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
The course covers descriptive statistics, elementary probability, one- and two-population mean and variance comparisons, ANOVA, simple linear regression, and correlations. In addition, more advanced principles in parametric and non-parametric statistics will be emphasized.

KINE 5306. CLINICAL ATHLETIC TRAINING IV. 3 Hours.
This course will include clinical experiences, providing students the opportunity to integrate their knowledge and skills into actual patient care. Emphasis will be placed on the development of clinical decision-making skills. This course requires the completion of clinical experience under the supervision of a program approved preceptor. Prerequisite: KINE 5222, KINE 5237, KINE 5324, KINE 5325.

KINE 5307. OVERVIEW OF MEDICINE. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to provide undergraduate students an overview of the basic, preclinical, and clinical sciences, emphasizing the main principles and logic of medicine, how doctors think, and how the healthcare system works. Specific topics covered include an Introduction to Medicine, Embryology & Principles of Anatomy, General & Systems Physiology, Molecular Biology & Biochemistry, Neuroscience, Microbiology & Immunology, Pathology, Pharmacology, Epidemiology & Public Health, Internal Medicine specialties (Cardiology, Pulmonology, Nephrology, Gastroenterology, Infectious Diseases, Endocrinology, Rheumatology, Hematology / Oncology), Neurology, Pediatrics, Obstetrics & Gynecology, Surgery, Anesthesiology, Surgical Subspecialties (Cardiovascular Surgery, Orthopedic Surgery, Ophthalmology, Otorhinolaryngology, Dermatology, Urology, Neurosurgery), Psychiatry, Radiology and Radiation Oncology. Importantly, it spans both the scientific and humanistic aspects of medicine, referencing the visual arts, music, film, and other forms of art to highlight key points. Though primarily designed for students aiming for a career in the health professions, it should appeal to anyone curious about how health and medicine works. Prerequisite: Instructor Permission.

KINE 5308. ADVANCED STATISTICAL ANALYSIS. 3 Hours.
This course presents an applied approach on the use of mixed effects and/or multilevel models for clustered, repeated, and longitudinal experimental designs. Develops the skills to implement and interpret random effects, variance component models of time varying and time invariant predictors on outcome variables. Included topics: transitioning from general linear model to mixed effects model, interpretation of population-average and subject specific models containing random intercept and random slopes. Discussion of special topics including importance of graphing data, model fitting, centering, variance/covariance matrix, sample size, sample power, missing data in repeated measures designs. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 5320. ADVANCED PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE. 3 Hours.
Lecture and laboratory sessions are designed to investigate concepts of energy metabolism, lactate production and accumulation, energy expenditure, excess post exercise oxygen consumption, cardiovascular and temperature regulation, neuromuscular control, aerobic and anaerobic adaptations and ergonomics.

KINE 5321. THERAPEUTIC INTERVENTIONS I. 3 Hours.
This course will present the theoretical and scientific basis for traditional therapeutic interventions including taping, wrapping, padding, durable medical equipment, cryotherapy, thermotherapy, joint mobilizations, exercise, and manual therapy techniques commonly used in the treatment of orthopedic injuries and conditions. Discussions will include the study of physical rehabilitation theory including basic physics, physiological effects, indications, and contraindications for traditional therapeutic interventions. Emphasis will be placed on the critical analysis of clinical practice and existing research to establish quality patient care. This course includes the execution of clinical and home care plans, the use of patient rated outcome scales, and the integration of pharmacological interventions. Prerequisite: KINE 5120, KINE 5229, KINE 5230, KINE 5236.

KINE 5322. METABOLISM & EXERCISE BIOCHEMISTRY. 3 Hours.
This course will address the regulation of exercise metabolism as well as the distinct biochemical pathways through which energy transduction occurs. This will allow the student to appreciate not only the end result of metabolism, ultimately the production and maintenance of cellular ATP levels, but also the pathways that biological machines use to achieve ATP homeostasis. Calorimetry, respiratory exchange ratio, and substrate utilization during exercise will be assessed as part of the laboratory section of this course.

KINE 5323. MOTOR CONTROL AND LEARNING. 3 Hours.
This course advances on fundamental concepts of motor behavior and performance combining theoretical principles to a variety of realistic contexts to provide the basis of skilled behavior. Contemporary research in human motor behavior models is used to identify effective solutions to practical problems and to spark ideas for optimizing development, learning, and control of motor skills.

KINE 5324. ASSESSMENT AND MANAGEMENT II. 3 Hours.
This course will focus on examination and initial management of chronic musculoskeletal pathologies. Emphasis will be placed on diagnostic testing and development of a care plan. Prerequisite: KINE 5121, KINE 5221, KINE 5321, KINE 5332.

KINE 5325. THERAPEUTIC INTERVENTIONS II. 3 Hours.
This course will present the theoretical and scientific basis for traditional therapeutic interventions including taping, wrapping, padding, durable medical equipment, thermotherapy, electrotherapy, acoustic therapy, exercise, and manual therapy techniques commonly used in the treatment of orthopedic injuries and conditions. Discussions will include the study of physical rehabilitation theory including basic physics, physiological effects, indications, and contraindications for traditional therapeutic interventions. Emphasis will be placed on the critical analysis of clinical practice and existing research to establish quality patient care. This course includes the execution of clinical and home care plans, the use of patient rated outcome scales, and the integration of pharmacological interventions. Prerequisite: KINE 5121, KINE 5221, KINE 5321, KINE 5332.

KINE 5326. CARDIOCIRCULATORY PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE. 3 Hours.
The structure and function of the cardiovascular and circulatory system will be studied, as well as, cardiac control, the cardiac cycle, cardiac output, hemodynamics, vascular resistance, arterial-venous oxygen difference and oxygen delivery and consumption. Heat production and thermal control during exercise will also be addressed in lecture and laboratory sessions.

KINE 5327. PULMONARY PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE. 3 Hours.
Examines the structure and function of the pulmonary system including mechanics of breathing, lung capacity tests, pulmonary circulation, lung diseases, gas exchange, ventilation, diffusing capacity, acid/base balance, neural and chemical regulation of breathing, and blood flow with respect to rest and exercise values in healthy and diseased populations. Prerequisite: KINE 5320.

KINE 5328. NEUROMUSCULAR PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE. 3 Hours.
The structure and function of muscle, including the motor unit, control and integration, central and peripheral modifiers of neuromuscular control and biochemical characteristics of fibers will be studied. These concepts will also be applied to concepts in strength and power development.

KINE 5329. STRENGTH & CONDITIONING IN SPORT AND PERFORMANCE. 3 Hours.
The course covers the physiology and biomechanics of strength training and conditioning. Additional topics include: testing and evaluation of athletes, resistance training techniques, training program design, and organization administration of a strength training facility. This course is designed to prepare students to take the CSCS certification examination. Prerequisite: current CPR certification, KINE 3300, KINE 3301, KINE 3315, or permission of the instructor.

KINE 5330. ENVIRONMENTAL PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE. 3 Hours.
This course will address the impact of environmental stress (e.g., thermal, gravitational, microgravity, etc.) on the cardiovascular system. Related focus will be given to cardiac function, blood pressure regulation and thermoregulation. Topics will be addressed in lecture and laboratory sessions. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment.

KINE 5331. OBESITY & WEIGHT MANAGEMENT. 3 Hours.
This course is a review of the scientific literature on the causes and consequences of obesity. Topics include techniques for assessing body composition, factors promoting fat metabolism and deposition, traditional and non-traditional weight-loss programs, and adherence to weight-loss programs. Offered as KINE 4331 and KINE 5331. Credit will be granted only once. Prerequisite: KINE 5320 or permission of department.

KINE 5332. ASSESSMENT AND MANAGEMENT I. 3 Hours.
This course builds on the foundation from functional anatomy and biomechanics. Examination skills and immediate management interventions that apply to acute orthopedic and medical conditions are reviewed.

KINE 5334. SEMINAR IN ATHLETIC TRAINING. 3 Hours.
Graduate seminar discussing current issues in athletic training. Class discussions and projects will prepare students for entry-level practice.

KINE 5335. GRADED EXERCISE TESTING AND PRESCRIPTION. 3 Hours.
The knowledge and skills necessary for assessment of health history and appraisal, blood pressure, electrocardiogram, cardiovascular fitness and function will be acquired in lecture and laboratory sessions. Various test modalities and protocols will be discussed for health and diseased populations.

KINE 5336. ECG INTERPRETATION. 3 Hours.
Principles of electrocardiography will be explored, with emphasis on interpretation of resting and stress ECGs. Interpretation of dynamic rhythm strips will prepare students to work in cardiac rehabilitation and other allied health professions.

KINE 5337. STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING IN GENERAL POPULATIONS: HEALTH AND DISEASE. 3 Hours.
This course covers the physiology and biomechanics of strength training and conditioning as it applies to the general populations across the spectrum of health and disease. This includes: testing, evaluation, resistance training techniques and training program design for individuals with orthopedic injuries and rehabilitation concerns, metabolic conditions (e.g., diabetes), youth, elderly, and pregnant or post-prenatal women. This course is designed to prepare students to take the NSCA-CPT, and apply the skills needed to be a leader within the personal training and physical therapy career paths. Prerequisite: KINE 3300, KINE 3315, and KINE 3325.

KINE 5338. EXERCISE PRESCRIPTION FOR SPECIAL POPULATIONS. 3 Hours.
This course will discuss the pathophysiology of prevalent cardiovascular, metabolic and pulmonary diseases. Methods of exercise prescription and issues of concern will also be presented for these populations, as well as, low back pain, pregnancy, osteoporosis, cancer, children, older adults, fibromyalgia, multiple sclerosis and cardiac disease.

KINE 5339. ASSESSMENT AND MANAGEMENT III. 3 Hours.
This course introduces the study of acute and chronic illnesses and their response to, and impact on, physical activity. An emphasis will be placed on clinical examination skills and tools to screen patients for the presence of signs and symptoms related to acute and chronic illness. Prerequisite: KINE 5222, KINE 5237, KINE 5324, KINE 5325.

KINE 5340. ENVIRONMENTAL PHYSIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This course will address the impact of environmental stress (e.g., thermal, gravitational, microgravity, etc.) on the cardiovascular system. Related focus will be given to cardiac function, blood pressure regulation and thermoregulation. Topics will be addressed in lecture and laboratory sessions.

KINE 5342. IMMEDIATE AND EMERGENCY CARE 2. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to build off of Immediate and Emergency Care 1 and include didactic and clinical experiences surrounding best practices in general emergency care and acute management of injuries and illness. Students will also be required to complete a scholarship project concerning general emergency care and acute management of injuries and illnesses. Clinical hours will be required in an emergency medicine environment.

KINE 5343. LITERATURE AND RESEARCH FOR THE ATHLETIC TRAINER. 3 Hours.
This course is an overview of concepts and procedures necessary for designing, conducting, and critically appraising research in Athletic Training from multiple research paradigms. The course will focus on the steps involved in the administration of a research project, including literature review, design, data collection and analysis. Prerequisite: KINE 5222, KINE 5237, KINE 5324, KINE 5325.

KINE 5344. SCHOLARSHIP IN ATHLETIC TRAINING PRACTICE. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to build off of the foundations of Literature and Research for the Athletic Trainer with further study of data collection and analysis as well as evidence-based practice principles. Students will be expected to complete a scholarship project related to athletic training practice. Prerequisite: KINE 5227.

KINE 5345. SPORT NUTRITION. 3 Hours.
Overview of nutrients necessary for healthful living and nutritional impact on reducing risk factors of lifestyle diseases. Application of nutrient recommendations for sports and exercise activities, including fluid replacement, sports supplements, and ergogenic aids. In addition, students will construct plans for dietary intake of athletes during training and competition for both endurance and resistance training. Offered as KINE 5345 and KINE 3301. Credit will be granted only once.

KINE 5346. ADVANCED FUNCTIONAL ASSESSMENT AND CORRECTIVE EXERCISE. 3 Hours.
Classroom and laboratory experiences that provide an introduction to functional assessment and corrective exercises. Specific topics will include an analysis of common biomechanics of movement and the evidence-based application of functional assessment and assignment of corrective exercises. Prerequisite: KINE 5420, KINE 5430, KINE 5431, KINE 5433, KINE 5434.

KINE 5347. ADVANCED FUNCTIONAL ASSESSMENT AND CORRECTIVE EXERCISE. 3 Hours.
Classroom and laboratory experiences that provide an introduction to functional assessment and corrective exercises. Specific topics will include an analysis of common biomechanics of movement and the evidence-based application of functional assessment and assignment of corrective exercises. Prerequisite: KINE 5420, KINE 5430, KINE 5431, KINE 5433, KINE 5434.

KINE 5348. PATHOPHYSIOLOGY AND PHARMACOLOGY I. 3 Hours.
This course provides an introduction to the study of acute and chronic illnesses and their response to, and impact on, physical activity. Discussion of pharmacological principles will be incorporated as it relates to the care of general illnesses and musculoskeletal disorders in the physically active. Prerequisite: KINE 5120, KINE 5231.

KINE 5350. APPLIED BIOMECHANICS. 3 Hours.
Application of Newtonian mechanics to human movement analysis. Biomechanical models using three-dimensional video and force plate data will be used to analyze human movement.

KINE 5353. LOWER EXTREMITY ASSESSMENT AND REHABILITATION. 3 Hours.
This course will focus on common orthopedic injuries involving the lower extremities, with a special emphasis on recognition, evaluation, diagnosis, and initial management. Additionally, students will learn to implement rehabilitation programs and therapeutic techniques for lower extremity injuries. Prerequisite: Admission to MSAT Program.

KINE 5354. UPPER EXTREMITY ASSESSMENT AND REHABILITATION. 3 Hours.
This course will focus on common orthopedic injuries involving the upper extremities, with a special emphasis on recognition, evaluation, diagnosis, and initial management. Additionally, students will learn to implement rehabilitation programs and therapeutic techniques for upper extremity injuries. Prerequisite: Admission to MSAT Program.

KINE 5355. PATHOPHYSIOLOGY & PHARMACOLOGY II. 3 Hours.
This course provides further study of acute and chronic illnesses and their response to, and impact on, physical activity. Discussion of pharmacological principles will be incorporated as it relates to the care of general illnesses and musculoskeletal disorders in the physically active. Prerequisite: KINE 5348.

KINE 5356. HEAD AND SPINE ASSESSMENT AND REHABILITATION. 3 Hours.
This course will focus on common orthopedic injuries involving the head and spine, with a special emphasis on recognition, evaluation, diagnosis, and initial management. Additionally, students will learn to implement rehabilitation programs and therapeutic techniques for head and spine injuries. Prerequisite: KINE 5353, KINE 5354.

KINE 5357. PREVENTATIVE MEDICINE AND POPULATION HEALTH. 3 Hours.
This course will highlight the athletic trainer's role in promoting and maintaining the health and well-being of individuals and populations. Development, implementation, and assessment of preventative measures to reduce injury risk and long-term health conditions across the lifespan will be addressed. Emphasis will also be placed on population-level problems, including health risks and determinants as well as individual and behavioral factors that affect health outcomes. Prerequisite: Admission to MSAT Program.

KINE 5360. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES OF INTEGRATIVE PHYSIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to provide a fundamental understanding of human physiology. Physiological function is a complex process that involves a complex interaction among the various physiological systems. As such there will be an emphasis on the integration of cellular, cardiovascular, renal, autonomic, respiratory, and endocrine physiology.

KINE 5362. PRINCIPLES OF MOVEMENT NEUROSCIENCE. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on principles of movement that have emerged from the computational study of motor control. The principles and application to processes such as motor planning, control, estimation, prediction and learning are explored.

KINE 5363. CONDITIONS OF THE MOTOR SYSTEM IN CHILDHOOD. 3 Hours.
This course explores a prevalent dysfunction of the motor system in childhood, known as Developmental Coordination Disorder (DCD). This class explores potential causes of DCD, common mechanisms and impairments, intervention methods and their effectiveness, and associated co-morbidities. In addition, students will understand the current state of research in the field and understand future avenues for research.

KINE 5364. CURRENT PERSPECTIVES IN MOTOR LEARNING AND CONTROL. 3 Hours.
This course explores five aspects of the new directions in research in the Motor Learning and Control field: Perception-Action mechanisms, Dynamical systems, Motor disorders, Learning and intervention for motor behavior, and neural mechanisms.

KINE 5365. ADVANCED MOTOR DEVELOPMENT. 3 Hours.
This course explores the current field of research in Motor Development applied to typical and special populations. More specifically, it discusses issues related to motor skill learning in childhood, the development of motor control, the relationship between motor competence and general health, and how lack of appropriate motor skills affect several domains of development (Developmental Coordination Disorder). To that, we use current research articles that discuss each one of these topics from different perspectives.

KINE 5370. GLOBAL HEALTH. 3 Hours.
Today's public health practice requires an awareness of health threats beyond U.S. borders. "Global health" implies health concerns and solutions that are shared worldwide. In this course, students will study global health priorities among different populations, cultures, and health systems. Students will examine health challenges and disease threats faced in resource-constrained countries, and the roles of health determinants, socioeconomics and health equity in improving health outcomes. In addition, students will learn about the foundational elements of global health, including globalization and health, water, sanitation, the burden of infectious and chronic diseases, human rights and global health partnerships.

KINE 5371. PUBLIC HEALTH PROGRAM PLANNING AND EVALUATION. 3 Hours.
Before we can effectively receive funding and implement programs that benefit our communities, we have to answer many questions. Who is the target audience? What are the program's goals? What are the intended outcomes of the program? How can we measure program effectiveness? Program evaluation is the methodology to developing scientifically sound answers to these questions. This course will teach you how evaluators work with stakeholders and project teams to tailor an intervention to a target audience, and document program activities, outcomes and impact on a community health issue. This course will allow you to have hands-on experience designing and conducting program evaluation.

KINE 5372. INTRODUCTION TO EPIDEMIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
By participating in this course students will learn the critical role that epidemiology plays in preventing and controlling disease. This course provides students with a foundation of the methods and concepts used in epidemiology. Students will learn the measures used in epidemiology and apply principles of causality, study design, disease surveillance, and outbreak investigations. In addition, students will be introduced to sources of data used in epidemiologic studies. The major course project will provide students with hands-on experience using skills sought by employers in public health agencies.

KINE 5373. INTRODUCTION TO ENVIRONMENTAL AND OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH. 3 Hours.
This course provides an overview of the critical environmental health problems in industrialized and developing countries, discusses their causes and solutions, and emphasizes the role of science in environmental policy decisions. Topics include climate change, water and air contaminants, injury risk and prevention in the workplace, food and water-borne disease, toxic metals, and how the body reacts to environmental pollutants.

KINE 5374. RACE, ETHNICITY AND HEALTH. 3 Hours.
Despite advances in medicine and health policies, racial and ethnic health disparities persist. Americans of color have higher mortality rates and an unequal burden of many health concerns compared to their white counterparts. Such health inequities compromise the cultural and economic fabric of our country. This course will discuss the complex relationship between socioeconomic status, race/ethnicity, and health. In addition, this course will examine the economic and societal threats that health disparities pose to our communities and nation, as well as policies and approaches to addressing such disparities.

KINE 5375. COMMUNITY HEALTH. 3 Hours.
This course explores population health, providing students with learning experiences that facilitate an understanding of what public health is and why it is important. Course activities guide students in exploring their role in population health dynamics of their communities. The course will provide students an investigation of theoretical and evidence-based strategies designed to improve community health from population-based approaches. Students will then narrow those areas of foci to contemplate real-world, practice-based learning experiences.

KINE 5376. INTRODUCTION TO BIOSTATISTICS. 3 Hours.
The course will introduce students to analysis skills applied in the public health sciences. Students will learn how to apply descriptive statistics, t-tests, ANOVA, correlation, multiple regression, and non-parametric statistics to public health problems.

KINE 5377. INTRODUCTION TO HEALTH SYSTEMS AND POLICY. 3 Hours.
What is "population health" and why does it matter? Why are U.S. health care costs so high? How is the U.S. health system financed? What are the basic principles of health insurance? Who are the uninsured? It is critical that public health professionals be able to answer these questions and understand the basic functions that comprise the U.S. health care system. This course will help students answer these questions through an introduction to health systems and policy, including the delivery, quality and costs of health care for individuals and populations. The course will also examine the structure, processes and outcomes of health services, financing, organization, outcomes and accessibility of care.

KINE 5378. FOUNDATIONS OF PUBLIC HEALTH. 3 Hours.
This courses teaches students what public health is and how it works. The mission of public health is to assure conditions in which people can be healthy. This course will present the history, frameworks, values, and goals of public health which support this mission. Students will study the principles and core responsibilities of public health from a multidisciplinary perspective, with emphasis on the public health core functions of assessment, policy development, and assurance. This course will provide the foundation for further studies in public health practice through developing public health problem solving and decision-making skills through case studies and applied coursework.

KINE 5379. FUNDAMENTALS OF POPULATION HEALTH. 3 Hours.
Public health is charged with advancing health while reducing health care costs. This requires us to move away from a reactionary model of health care delivery and towards models of disease prevention and health promotion. Students will consider how collaborations among organizations within and outside the health care system, and the integration of public health into clinical care, impacts population health. The course will use case studies and applied learning to discuss the role of incentives, financing, data, measurement, structure of health care delivery, and policy in advancing population health.

KINE 5380. URBAN COMMUNITY HEALTH ASSESSMENT. 3 Hours.
We must learn the health needs in a community before we can address those needs to improve the health of the community. Assessment skills allow us to learn what health needs exist in a community by using sounds scientific methods to collect evidence about gaps in health. In this course, students will apply quantitative and qualitative methods, data analysis, community mobilization, and capacity building to assess community health needs and strategies for health improvement.

KINE 5381. SOCIAL AND BEHAVIORAL EPIDEMIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Social epidemiology considers how social determinants impact population health. Behavioral epidemiology studies how lifestyle and behaviors affect health conditions. The class will explore how social, political, cultural and economic forces influence our health and health behaviors. The course will focus on social and health inequities, and resulting health behaviors. Theory from social science is integrated with epidemiological methods to learn how social circumstances influence behavior and health, and determine how we can target interventions to reduce health inequities in our community, nation and world. Prerequisite: KINE 5372 Introduction to Epidemiology.

KINE 5382. CHRONIC DISEASE EPIDEMIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Chronic diseases are the leading causes of death in the United States and globally. Chronic diseases, such as cardiovascular disease, cancer, diabetes, HIV/AIDS, respiratory conditions, and neurologic disorders have devastating consequences for population health. This class will explore and apply epidemiologic methods which help identify strategies to prevent and treat chronic diseases, emphasizing modifiable risk factors. Coursework will aim to increase student understanding of how epidemiologic methods are used to identify determinants of chronic diseases, and how to identify and target interventions to reduce the burden of chronic disease locally, nationally, and across the globe. Prerequisite: KINE 5372.

KINE 5383. COMMUNITY-BASED INTERNSHIP. 3 Hours.
This course is a required 200-hour service learning experience for Master of Public Health (MPH) students which combines specific learning objectives with reflection. The student will apply skills learned in the MPH program in a "real-life" environment. The student will complete a defined project, mutually agreed upon between the MPH Graduate Advisor and the partner organization, which benefit both the student and the partner organization. Students will keep a log of hours, work performed, and competencies addressed throughout the internship experience, and comply with specified reporting periods. Prerequisite: KINE 5372, KINE 5373, KINE 5376, KINE 5305, KINE 5377, KINE 5375, KINE 5371, and KINE 5378.

KINE 5384. PUBLIC HEALTH CAPSTONE EXPERIENCE. 3 Hours.
This course is the culmination of all previous coursework for Master of Public Health (MPH) students, requiring the student to complete a final paper, poster and oral presentation about the project completed as part of the Community-Based Internship. In addition, the student will complete a professional portfolio comprised of work illustrating the competencies learned during the MPH program and applied during the Internship. Prerequisite: KINE 5372, KINE 5373, KINE 5376, KINE 5305, KINE 5377, KINE 5375, KINE 5371, KINE 5378, and KINE 5383, and completion of all MPH coursework required for graduation, or concurrent enrollment in final courses needed for graduation.

KINE 5385. COMMUNICATION AND HEALTH. 3 Hours.
Students will learn how interpersonal, organizational and mass media communications influence health behaviors and health outcomes. Students will study theories and applied techniques of interpersonal communication in health care and health education settings, as well as the theory and practice of media in achieving desired effects from public health messages.

KINE 5386. BIG DATA FOR EPIDEMIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Big Data have revolutionized science, including the future of public health. This course prepares future public health practitioners to integrate knowledge of epidemiology methods with the data analytics savvy. Students will gain competence in conducting analysis using large, commonly used health-related databases. Learn how to use large datasets to advance your practice of epidemiology by enrolling in this course. Prerequisite: KINE 5376 or KINE 5305. Prior completion or concurrent enrollment in KINE 5372.

KINE 5387. INFECTIOUS DISEASE EPIDEMIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
From Ebola to COVID-19, tuberculosis to hepatitis A--every outbreak has a team of behind-the-scenes disease detectives tracking its source and pathways. Students will learn the methods of infectious disease epidemiology, studying outbreak investigations, disease surveillance, study designs, laboratory diagnosis, and dynamics of transmission. Students must have completed KINE 5372 Introduction to Epidemiology to enroll in this course. Prerequisite: Prior or concurrent enrollment in KINE 5372.

KINE 5388. GLOBAL HEALTH ON-SITE EXPERIENCE ABROAD. 3 Hours.
Students will study the factors impacting health for populations in a selected country outside of the U.S. Then, students will travel to that country at the end of the course for a real life experience learning from people who are impacted by, and/or who help address the health factors in that region. Prerequisite: MPH student or Instructor Permission.

KINE 5389. RESEARCH MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSION. 3 Hours.
The student will collect scientific data in the Physiology of Exercise laboratories or in a work-related environment under the supervision of a faculty member. The student will analyze the data, write a manuscript, and submit a manuscript for publication in a peer-reviewed journal. This course must be taken in the final semester of graduate work and requires approval of the Graduate Advisor.

KINE 5390. SPECIAL TOPICS IN KINESIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
In-depth study of selected topics in physical education and exercise science. May be repeated when topics vary. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

KINE 5391. INTERMEDIATE BIOSTATISTICS FOR PUBLIC HEALTH. 3 Hours.
This course builds on the foundational skills taught in Intro to Biostatistics. Students will learn how to conduct multivariate regression analysis and code using the statistical analysis program "R." It counts towards the required coursework for the Epidemiology concentration in the MPH. It is open to all graduate students who have completed an introductory statistics course at the graduate level. Prerequisite: KINE 5376 Intro to Biostatistics and KINE 5372 Intro to Epidemiology.

KINE 5392. SPECIAL TOPICS IN KINESIOLOGY. 3 Hours.

KINE 5393. PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE INTERNSHIP. 3 Hours.
Individualized academic training in an external professional exercise physiology setting(e.g., physical medicine, athletic training, external laboratory, health/fitness facility, professional teams or sports management) under the direct supervision of an exercise science professional.

KINE 5394. RESEARCH IN KINESIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Individually approved research projects selected from the various areas of Kinesiology.

KINE 5395. EPIDEMIOLOGIC METHODS. 3 Hours.
This course will teach students how to craft research questions, research objectives, plans for data analysis, and other important skills needed when designing original research. Examples and objectives will be tailored to the field of public health. Prerequisite: KINE 5376 Intro to Biostatistics and KINE 5372 Intro to Epidemiology.

KINE 5396. RESEARCH IN ATHLECTIC TRAINING. 3 Hours.
Independent research under the supervision of an individual faculty member; may be repeated for credit with consent of Graduate Advisor. Prerequisite: consent of the instructor.

KINE 5397. INTERNSHIP ATHLETIC TRAINING. 3 Hours.
Individualized clinical experience in an external athletic training or other medical setting (e.g., physician's office, rehabilitation clinic, professional sports teams) under the direct supervision of a health care professional.

KINE 5398. THESIS. 3 Hours.
This is a thesis course for student to take to satisfy their MS in Exercise Science degree requirements.

KINE 5399. MENTAL HEALTH IN PUBLIC HEALTH. 3 Hours.
This course explores topics in mental health facing public health researchers and practitioners, including substance use disorder, interpersonal violence, suicidality, and other topics. These topics are explored from the perspective of public health practice.

KINE 5420. CONCEPTS IN ATHLETIC TRAINING. 4 Hours.
Classroom and laboratory experiences that provide an introduction to the profession of Athletic Training with an emphasis on prevention and acute care of activity related injuries and illnesses. Specific topics will include injury prevention strategies; emergency first aid and acute care; superficial application of therapeutic modalities; nutritional considerations; and environmental considerations.

KINE 5430. ORTHOPEDIC ASSESSMENT I. 4 Hours.
A study of the common orthopedic injuries involving the lower extremities, with a special emphasis on recognition, evaluation, diagnosis, and initial management. Prerequisites: KINE 5120, KINE 5220, and KINE 5420.

KINE 5431. ORTHOPEDIC ASSESSMENT II. 4 Hours.
A study of the common orthopedic injuries involving the upper extremities, spine, head, and face with a special emphasis on recognition, evaluation, diagnosis, and initial management. Prerequisite: KINE 5430.

KINE 5432. PATHOPHYSIOLOGY AND PHARMACOLOGY. 4 Hours.
A study of acute and chronic illnesses and their response to, and impact on, physical activity. Discussion of pharmacological agents used in the care of general illnesses and musculoskeletal disorders in the physically active. Prerequisite: KINE 5430, KINE 5433, KINE 5130.

KINE 5498. THESIS. 4 Hours.

KINE 5520. CLINICAL ATHLETIC TRAINING VI. 5 Hours.
This course will include clinical experiences providing students the opportunity to integrate their knowledge and skills into actual patient care. Emphasis will be placed on the development of clinical decision-making skills. This course requires the completion of clinical experience under the supervision of a program approved preceptor. Prerequisite: KINE 5123, KINE 5306, KINE 5339, KINE 5343.

KINE 5598. THESIS. 5 Hours.

KINE 5647. CLINICAL TEACHING PHYSICAL EDUCATION EC-12. 6 Hours.
This supervised course is designed as a culminating field experience of pre-service professional preparation giving an opportunity to practically apply theoretical and pedagogical knowledge in school settings with a mentor teacher. Applied experience will be attained in both Elementary and Secondary settings. Additionally, a field-research project will be required to be arranged with course supervisor. Criminal background check required. Prerequisite: KINE 1315, KINE 2301, KINE 2302, KINE 3304, KINE 3388, KINE 4319, KINE 4320, KINE 4321, EDUC 5310, EDUC 5314, and LIST 5345.

KINE 5693. PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE INTERNSHIP. 6 Hours.
Individualized academic training in an external professional exercise physiology setting (e.g., physical medicine, athletic training, external laboratory, health/fitness facility, professional teams or sports management) under the direct supervision of an exercise science professional.

KINE 5694. RESEARCH IN KINESIOLOGY. 6 Hours.
Individually approved research projects selected from the various areas of Kinesiology.

KINE 5698. THESIS. 6 Hours.

KINE 5994. RESEARCH IN KINESIOLOGY. 9 Hours.
Individually approved research projects selected from the various areas of Kinesiology.

KINE 6100. SEMINAR IN KINESIOLOGY. 1 Hour.
Implements the research process with faculty guidance. Students will attend regularly scheduled lectures from internal and external faculty members. Learning activities based on student and faculty interest.

KINE 6105. LABORATORY TECHNIQUE ROTATIONS IN KINESIOLOGY I. 1 Hour.
A primary objective of this course is to further your understanding of lab work in Kinesiology. A second objective is to enhance your ability for critical thinking in Kinesiology through the scientific process. This includes formation of a research question, hypothesis, designing an experiment, and inferring conclusions from data. Secondary objectives include improving technology skills to assist collecting and analyzing data, and writing and oral communication skills for demonstrating understanding of the kinesiology principles. Prerequisite: Consent of faculty.

KINE 6106. LABORATORY TECHNIQUE ROTATIONS IN KINESIOLOGY II. 1 Hour.
A primary objective of this course is to further your understanding of lab work in Kinesiology. A second objective is to enhance your ability for critical thinking in Kinesiology through the scientific process. This includes formation of a research question, hypothesis, designing an experiment, and inferring conclusions from data. Secondary objectives include improving technology skills to assist collecting and analyzing data, and writing and oral communication skills for demonstrating understanding of the kinesiology principles. This section must occur in a different laboratory than KINE 6105. Prerequisite: KINE 6105 and consent of faculty.

KINE 6126. JOURNAL CLUB IN EX PHYSIOL. 1 Hour.
This course is designed to provide doctoral students an opportunity to learn the art of critically reading and interpreting research articles. There will be emphasis on identifying strengths and weakness of research studies. There will also be an opportunity for the students to present their research study ideas and/or their preliminary findings of their research to the class. This will provide an opportunity for students to interact and receive/provide feedback regarding methodological approaches and interpretation of findings. Lastly, the student will learn how to prepare and deliver presentations to an audience. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6170. JOURNAL CLUB IN PHYSIOLOGY. 1 Hour.
There is a growing emphasis on research and in particular student involvement in research at UTA. A fundamental skill that will be critical in the successful growth of student involvement in research is their ability to read and critically analyze / interpret journal articles. In addition to this important skill set the students will also gain invaluable experience by presenting their research study ideas and / or their preliminary findings of their research to the class. This will provide an opportunity for students to interact and receive / provide feedback regarding methodological approaches and interpretation of findings. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research related topic.

KINE 6171. JOURNAL CLUB IN MOVEMENT & REHABILITATION SCIENCES. 1 Hour.
There is a growing emphasis on research and in particular student involvement in research at UTA. A fundamental skill that will be critical in the successful growth of student involvement in research is their ability to read and critically analyze / interpret journal articles. In addition to this important skill set the students will also gain invaluable experience by presenting their research study ideas and / or their preliminary findings of their research to the class. This will provide an opportunity for students to interact and receive / provide feedback regarding methodological approaches and interpretation of findings. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research related topic.

KINE 6194. RESEARCH IN KINESIOLOGY. 1 Hour.
Individually approved research projects selected from the various areas of Kinesiology. May be repeated for credit with consent of the Graduate Advisor. Graded P/F/R. Prerequisite: Consent of Instructor.

KINE 6293. GRANT WRITING. 2 Hours.
Students will learn strategies associated with grant applications. Students will prepare an individual proposal associated with a research grant application. Although submission for funding (e.g., pre-doctoral fellowship) is not required for the course, students will develop and complete a grant application.

KINE 6294. RESEARCH IN KINESIOLOGY. 2 Hours.
Individually approved research projects selected from the various areas of Kinesiology. May be repeated for credit with consent of the Graduate Advisor. Graded P/F/R. Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor.

KINE 6300. RESEARCH METHODS IN KINESIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This course is an overview of concepts and procedures necessary for designing, conducting, and analyzing research in Kinesiology from multiple research paradigms. The course will focus on the steps involved in the administration of a research project, including literature review, design, data collection and analysis. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research related topic. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6303. PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT. 3 Hours.
The philosophy and methods of conducting a university class for undergraduates are examined. Specific tips and suggestions for managing course materials, lectures, audiovisual aids, grading, etc. will be presented. The role of the university instructor as a researcher as well as a teacher will be elaborated. Specific topics will include the ethics and regulation of research, service as a journal referee, corresponding with peers, participating in a research team, manuscript preparation, presentation at professional conferences, and submitting material for publication.

KINE 6305. APPLIED STATISTICAL PRINCIPLES IN KINESIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
The course covers descriptive statistics, elementary probability, one- and two-population mean and variance comparisons, ANOVA, simple linear regression, and correlations. In addition, more advanced principles in parametric and non-parametric statistics will be emphasized. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research related topic. Prerequisite: Instructor Permission.

KINE 6308. ADVANCED STATISTICAL ANALYSIS. 3 Hours.
This course presents an applied approach on the use of mixed effects and/or multilevel models for clustered, repeated, and longitudinal experimental designs. Develops the skills to implement and interpret random effects, variance component models of time varying and time invariant predictors on outcome variables. Included topics: transitioning from general linear model to mixed effects model, interpretation of population-average and subject specific models containing random intercept and random slopes. Discussion of special topics including importance of graphing data, model fitting, centering, variance/covariance matrix, sample size, sample power, missing data in repeated measures designs. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research related topic. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6320. ADVANCED PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE. 3 Hours.
Lecture and laboratory sessions are designed to investigate concepts of energy metabolism, lactate production and accumulation, energy expenditure, excess post exercise oxygen consumption, cardiovascular and temperature regulation, neuromuscular control, aerobic and anaerobic adaptations and ergonomics. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research related topic. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6322. METABOLISM & EXERCISE BIOCHEMISTRY. 3 Hours.
This course will address the regulation of exercise metabolism as well as the distinct biochemical pathways through which energy transduction occurs. This will allow the student to appreciate not only the end result of metabolism, ultimately the production and maintenance of cellular ATP levels, but also the pathways that biological machines use to achieve ATP homeostasis. Calorimetry, respiratory exchange ratio, and substrate utilization during exercise will be assessed as part of the laboratory section of this course. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6323. MOTOR CONTROL AND LEARNING. 3 Hours.
This course advances on fundamental concepts of motor behavior and performance combining theoretical principles to a variety of realistic contexts to provide the basis of skilled behavior. Contemporary research in human motor behavior models is used to identify effective solutions to practical problems and to spark ideas for optimizing development, learning, and control of motor skills. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6326. CARDIOCIRCULATORY PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE. 3 Hours.
The structure and function of the cardiovascular and circulatory system will be studied, as well as, cardiac control, the cardiac cycle, cardiac output, hemodynamics, vascular resistance, arterial-venous oxygen difference and oxygen delivery and consumption. Heat production and thermal control during exercise will also be addressed in lecture and laboratory sessions. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6327. PULMONARY PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE. 3 Hours.
Examines the structure and function of the pulmonary system including mechanics of breathing, lung capacity tests, pulmonary circulation, lung diseases, gas exchange, ventilation, diffusing capacity, acid/base balance, neural and chemical regulation of breathing, and blood flow with respect to rest and exercise values in healthy and diseased populations. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6328. NEUROMUSCULAR PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE. 3 Hours.
The structure and function of muscle, including the motor unit, control and integration, central and peripheral modifiers of neuromuscular control and biochemical characteristics of fibers will be studied. These concepts will also be applied to concepts in strength and power development. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6330. ENVIRONMENTAL PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE. 3 Hours.
This course will address the impact of environmental stress (e.g., thermal, gravitational, microgravity, etc.) on the cardiovascular system. Related focus will be given to cardiac function, blood pressure regulation and thermoregulation. Topics will be addressed in lecture and laboratory sessions. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6338. EXERCISE PRESCRIPTION FOR SPECIAL POPULATIONS. 3 Hours.
This course will discuss the pathophysiology of cardiovascular, metabolic and pulmonary diseases. Methods of exercise prescription and issues of concern will also be presented for these populations, as well as, low back pain, pregnancy, osteoporosis, cancer, children, older adults, fibromyalgia, multiple sclerosis, and cardiac disease. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. A student may not receive course credit for both KINE 5338 and KINE 6338. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6350. APPLIED BIOMECHANICS. 3 Hours.
Application of Newtonian mechanics to human movement analysis. Biomechanical models using three-dimensional video and force plate data will be used to analyze human movement. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6360. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES OF INTEGRATIVE PHYSIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This course is designed to provide a fundamental understanding of human physiology. Physiological function is a complex process that involves a complex interaction among the various physiological systems. As such there will be an emphasis on the integration of cellular, cardiovascular, renal, autonomic, respiratory, and endocrine physiology. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6362. PRINCIPLES OF MOVEMENT NEUROSCIENCE. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on principles of movement that have emerged from the computational study of motor control. The principles and application to processes such as motor planning, control, estimation, prediction and learning are explored.*Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. A student may not receive course credit for both KINE 5362 and KINE 6362.

KINE 6363. CONDITIONS OF THE MOTOR SYSTEM IN CHILDHOOD. 3 Hours.
This course explores a prevalent dysfunction of the motor system in childhood, known as Developmental Coordination Disorder (DCD). This class explores potential causes of DCD, common mechanisms and impairments, intervention methods and their effectiveness, and associated co-morbidities. In addition, students will understand the current state of research in the field and understand future avenues for research. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. A student may not receive course credit for both KINE 5363 and KINE 6363.

KINE 6364. CURRENT PERSPECTIVES IN MOTOR LEARNING AND CONTROL. 3 Hours.
This course explores five aspects of the new directions in research in the Motor Learning and Control field: Perception-Action mechanisms, Dynamical systems, Motor disorders, Learning and intervention for motor behavior, and neural mechanisms.*Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. A student may not receive course credit for both KINE 5364 and KINE 6364.

KINE 6365. ADVANCED MOTOR DEVELOPMENT. 3 Hours.
This course explores the current field of research in Motor Development applied to typical and special populations. More specifically, it discusses issues related to motor skill learning in childhood, the development of motor control, the relationship between motor competence and general health, and how lack of appropriate motor skills affect several domains of development (Developmental Coordination Disorder). To that, we use current research articles that discuss each one of these topics from different perspectives. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. A student may not receive course credit for both KINE 5365 and KINE 6365.

KINE 6389. RESEARCH MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSION. 3 Hours.
The student will collect scientific data in the Physiology of Exercise laboratories or in a work-related environment under the supervision of a faculty member. The student will analyze the data, write a manuscript, and submit a manuscript for publication in a peer-reviewed journal. This course must be taken in the final semester of graduate work and requires approval of the Graduate Advisor. *Doctoral students will be required to complete an additional research-related assignment. Prerequisite: Instructor Approval.

KINE 6394. RESEARCH IN KINESIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Individually approved research projects selected from the various areas of Kinesiology. May be repeated for credit with consent of the Graduate Advisor. Graded P/F/R. Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor.

KINE 6399. DISSERTATION. 3 Hours.
Preparation and submission of a doctoral dissertation in an area of kinesiology. Graded R/F only. Prerequisite: Admission to candidacy for the Ph.D. in Kinesiology.

KINE 6694. RESEARCH IN KINESIOLOGY. 6 Hours.
Individually approved research projects selected from the various areas of Kinesiology. May be repeated for credit with consent of the Graduate Advisor. Graded P/F/R. Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor.

KINE 6699. DISSERTATION. 6 Hours.
Preparation and submission of a doctoral dissertation in an area of kinesiology. Graded R/F only. Prerequisite: Admission to candidacy for the Ph.D. in Kinesiology.

KINE 6999. DISSERTATION. 9 Hours.
Preparation and submission of a doctoral dissertation in an area of kinesiology. Graded R/F only. Prerequisite: Admission to candidacy for the Ph.D. in Kinesiology.

KINE 7399. DOCTORAL DEGREE COMPLETION. 3 Hours.
This course may be taken during the semester in which a student expects to complete all requirements for the doctoral degree and graduate. Enrolling in this course meets minimum enrollment requirements for graduation, for holding fellowships awarded by The Office of Graduate Studies and for full-time GTA or GRA positions. Students should verify that enrollment in this course meets other applicable enrollment requirements. To remain eligible in their final semester of study for grants, loans or other forms of financial aid administered by the Financial Aid Office must enroll in a minimum of 5 hours as required by the Office of Financial Aid. Other funding sources may also require more than 3-hours of enrollment. Additional hours may also be required to meet to requirements set by immigration law or by the policies of the student's degree program. Students should contact the Financial Aid Office, other sources of funding, Office of International Education and/or their graduate advisor to verify enrollment requirements before registering for this course. This course may only be taken twice. Students who do not complete all graduation requirements while enrolled in this course must enroll in a minimum of 6 dissertation hours (6699 or 6999) in their graduation term. Graded P/F/R.

COURSES

KINE-HI 5373. INTRODUCTION TO HEALTH INTELLIGENCE AND PUBLIC HEALTH INFORMATICS. 3 Hours.
This course provides the foundation for the study of health intelligence and public health informatics and prepares students to effectively use public health data to create more timely actionable intelligence for emergency responses while addressing inequities and health disparities.

KINE-HI 5374. HEALTH LITERACY AND SOCIAL MEDIA LISTENING FOR PUBLIC HEALTH. 3 Hours.
This course provides an overview of the role played by health literacy in public health and safety and how social media and other emerging communication technologies can connect millions of voices to create a more adaptive and effective public health response.

Doctor of Philosophy in Kinesiology (BS Entry)

About This Program

The Doctor of Philosophy in Kinesiology prepares students to be scholarly researchers who generate new knowledge in the field of Kinesiology, with the skills to apply existing scholarship to questions concerning the prevention, assessment, and treatment of motor difficulties, chronic diseases, and musculoskeletal injuries.

The program's interprofessional and multidisciplinary curriculum, as well as research focus, incorporates basic and clinical science approaches to identify disease markers and mechanisms, as well as evidence-based interventions designed to prevent and treat specific health conditions such as chronic illnesses and injuries in vulnerable and at-risk populations comprised of obese, older, and/or minority persons. This program builds and extends the Department of Kinesiology's existing research, education, and community outreach initiatives in health and the human condition across the lifespan. Students will work with their advisor to design an individualized program of study to meet their research interests and career goals.

The PhD in Kinesiology offers the following area of specialization.

- Movement and Rehabilitation Sciences
- Integrative and Applied Physiology
- Physical Education
- Public Health

Contact a graduate advisor for guidance on applying to and participating in this program.

Competencies

1. Graduates will be able to conduct teaching and advanced original research in their specialization area and to be able to identify relevant components of research design and methodology associated with original research literature.
2. Graduates will be able to develop and maintain effective collaborations among different health professionals to conduct research associated with improvement of health outcomes.
3. Graduates will be able to advance their area of specialization through regional and national professional scholarship activities (i.e., presentation and publication of research findings).
4. Graduates will be able to develop the basic principles / knowledge related to the ability to critically evaluate topics related to the general field of kinesiology and be prepared to apply, integrate, and synthesize their knowledge.
5. Students will demonstrate proficiency in presenting research related topics via an oral presentation and written communication.

Admissions Criteria

PhD applicants must meet these preconditions to be considered for admission.

- Have a bachelor's degree from an accredited US or international institution.
- Have an agreement (letter/email correspondence) from a faculty member in the department to serve as their primary supervisor based on the alignment of the applicant's and faculty member's interests.
- All international students must meet the minimum requirements for English Language proficiency as outlined in the UTA University Catalog UTA Catalog - English Proficiency. (https://catalog.uta.edu/academicregulations/admissions/graduate/)

The following criteria are evaluated for admission into the Kinesiology BS to PhD program. The program considers all of the listed criteria in making admission

- GPA in the last 60 hours of study: Higher GPAs (at least a B or better) benefit applicant evaluations.
- GPA in all Kinesiology-related work: Higher GPAs (at least a B or better) benefit applicant evaluations.
- A resume or CV of the applicant (maximum of 3 pages). This should highlight the educational background of the applicant, work / volunteer history, awards, research experience etc.
- A Statement of Purpose (maximum of 3 pages). This should highlight the previous achievements and experiences of the applicant that have led to the decision to consider a Doctoral graduate degree in Kinesiology as well as the previous achievements that would qualify the applicant for admission into the Kinesiology PhD program. The statement should also include future career goals following obtaining the PhD.
- Three (3) letters of reference. These letters should outline the readiness for academic preparation and the pursuit of doctoral studies of the prospective student.

ADMISSION DECISIONS

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

Unconditional admission will be considered when applicants have a strong record of academic accomplishment in undergraduate coursework, a promising record of relevant professional and/or academic work, strong letters of reference and clear goals and aspirations that match the academic and research opportunities available in the Kinesiology program.

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

Probationary admission will be considered when applicants do not meet the GPA requirements listed above for undergraduate coursework; however, he/she demonstrates a promising record of relevant professional and/or academic work and has strong letters of reference and clear goals and aspirations that match the academic and research opportunities available in the Kinesiology program. Applicants admitted on probation will be required to maintain a B or better average during the first 12 hours of graduate study.

NOTE: Admission to the Kinesiology PhD is competitive and there is limited space. Therefore, while meeting standards for unconditional or probationary admission, significantly improves an applicant’s chance for acceptance, they do not guarantee acceptance.

DEFERRED ADMISSION

A deferred admission decision may be granted when an application file is incomplete.

DENIAL OF ADMISSION

A candidate may be denied admission in the Kinesiology PhD (BS Entry) if he/she does not meet the criteria for unconditional acceptance and/or probationary admission.

GRADUATE ASSISTANTSHIPS

The Department of Kinesiology offers financial support to qualified#Doctoral#graduate students in the form of graduate teaching (GTA) and research assistantships (GRA).

Graduate Teaching Assistantship (GTA)

Funding:

- Funding will be in the form of a monthly stipend with consideration made to offset a portion of tuition and associated fees.
- Renewable the second year based on positive performance evaluation and the maintenance of a minimum GPA of 3.00
- Out-of-state and international students#qualify#for in-state tuition

Eligibility Criteria:

- 3.0 GPA in their last 60 undergraduate#credit#hours
- 3.0 GPA in any graduate level credit hours
- Admission to the Department of Kinesiology Doctoral Program
- International students must submit a TSE score of at least 45, or a score on the Speaking section of the TOEFL iBT of at least 23 or a score of at least 7 on the Speaking section of the IELTS. Responsibilities:

- Teach 5 to 6 semester credit hours of kinesiology and/or activity courses each semester
- Register for and complete no fewer than 9 semester hours per semester in the fall and spring terms

How to Apply:

- All GTAs must remain in good academic standing.
- Interested students should reach out to their primary faculty mentor to express interest in a GTA position.

Selection (Award) Criteria:

- Quality of application package
- Availability of the candidates preferred research mentor to accept the candidate as a graduate research mentor
- Common research interest by the candidate and the candidate's preferred research mentor
- Candidates academic record and GRE scores
- Candidates career goals and future directions after completing their graduate study at UTA.

Graduate Research Assistantship (GRA)

Funding:

- The payscale will vary depending on the faculty grant and availability of funds.
- Differ from GTA in that that these funds are paid by a graduate faculty member (most often funds come from research grants). Therefore the duration can differ from a GTA (can be longer or shorter) depending on the availability of funds.

Responsibilities:

- Register#for and complete no fewer than 9 semester hours per semester in the fall and spring terms
- Conduct the activities in accordance with agreements made by the funding faculty member.

Selection Criteria:

- GRAs are awarded by the funding faculty member based upon the following criteria. Interested students should reach out to their primary faculty mentor to express interest in a GTA position.
- Alignment of research interests with a graduate faculty member who has agreed to serve as your faculty mentor.
- Availability of funds from the graduate faculty member's laboratory.

Program Completion

DISSERTATION COMMITTEES AND CANDIDACY

The Dissertation requirement for the PhD in Kinesiology includes two components:

1. A written Dissertation to include at least 2 manuscripts of quality and format that are submitted to a peer-reviewed scientific journal.
2. A successful oral defense of the Dissertation.

In addition, students must:

1. Pass the comprehensive examination prior to defending his/her proposal.
2. Successfully present his/her dissertation proposal before he/she can enroll in dissertation hours.

The Dissertation Committee is responsible for the evaluation of both the written dissertation and oral defense. The Committee must be comprised of a minimum of four members, including the Committee Chair who will be the student's primary faculty mentor. This Committee Chair must be a member of the Department of Kinesiology Graduate Studies Committee or have status on the Department of Kinesiology Graduate Studies Committee. The remaining Committee members must include at least one additional faculty member from the Department of Kinesiology. If the Committee Chair is not a full time member of the Department of Kinesiology Graduate Studies Committee the remaining Committee members must include at least two members from the Department of Kinesiology. Academic Professional Track faculty members in the Department of Kinesiology are eligible to serve in this role with prior approval from the KINE Graduate Advisory Committee and they must serve as a co-chair with another tenured Kinesiology faculty member. In addition the Committee must include at least one member who is external to the Department of Kinesiology. The external member may include individuals not working within UT Arlington if applicable. All Committee members must hold a terminal degree in their field and/or demonstrate the required expertise and appropriate faculty status for serving on dissertation committees.

COMPREHENSIVE EXAMINATION

BS to PhD students will become eligible for the comprehensive examination when they have completed 36 hours of their graduate work.

These completed course hours represent the minimum requirement; however, eligibility for the comprehensive examination will be dependent on approval from the Chair of the Dissertation Committee.

Successful completion of the comprehensive examination makes students eligible for PhD candidacy. Students must be enrolled in the semester they take the comprehensive examination.

The purpose of the comprehensive examination is to evaluate the extent to which students have acquired the basic principles / knowledge in pertinent coursework. The expectation will be that students will be able to apply, integrate, and synthesize their knowledge.

When students are eligible for the comprehensive examination, the student's graduate mentor/advisor will recommend the student for the examination to the Department of Kinesiology Graduate Studies Committee for approval.

Upon completion, the comprehensive examination committee will meet to discuss the merits of the student's examination. Comprehensive examinations will only be held in regular, long semesters.

The composition of the comprehensive examination committee will be decided by the Department of Kinesiology Graduate Academic Committee. This comprehensive examination committee will be comprised of at least one member of the Graduate Academic Committee and a minimum of 2 additional members with relevant content expertise.

Following completion of the examination the Committee may recommend any of the following outcomes:

1. Unconditional pass. With an unconditional pass, students become eligible for PhD candidacy and prepare for the defense of their dissertation proposal.
2. Pass with conditions. A pass with conditions requires that students perform each of the conditions satisfactorily in order to become eligible for PhD candidacy
3. Unsatisfactory with opportunity to retake the examination. With this recommendation, the committee will specify when the retake will occur
4. Unsatisfactory, do not continue in program.

If the outcome of the comprehensive examination is an unconditional pass, students immediately become eligible for PhD candidacy. If the outcome is a pass with conditions, students may only become eligible for candidacy when the examining committee determines that the student has successfully met the conditions stipulated by the committee.

DISSERTATION PROPOSAL

Following successful completion of the oral examination the student will be required to draft a grant application to be written in a format that is standard for most external funding agencies. This grant will describe the student's proposed dissertation projects and will also serve as the written portion of the student's dissertation proposal. The application should be up to 10 pages in length and should consist of the following sections: 1) Significance, 2) Innovation, and 3) Research Approach (e.g. for each aim - any preliminary data, planned methodological approach, data analysis, statistical approach, expected results, and anticipated limitations). The student will give an oral presentation of the research proposal outlined in the application and must provide a copy of the grant proposal to his/her dissertation committee a minimum of 2 weeks prior to the oral presentation. The presentation will be in a standard power point format and will be an open seminar that will be advertised across the University. Immediately following this presentation, the student will have a separate meeting with his/her dissertation committee. This proposal defense must occur within two long semesters following successful completion of the oral comprehensive examination.

DISSERTATION COMMITTEES AND CANDIDACY

The Dissertation requirement for the PhD in Kinesiology includes two components:

1. A written Dissertation to include at least 2 manuscripts of quality and format that are submitted to a peer-reviewed scientific journal
2. A successful oral defense of the Dissertation.

In addition students must:

- Pass the comprehensive examination prior to defending their proposal.
- Must successfully present his/her dissertation proposal before he/she can enroll in dissertation hours.

The Dissertation Committee is responsible for the evaluation of both the written dissertation and oral defense. The Committee must be comprised of a minimum of four members, including the Committee Chair who will be the student's primary faculty mentor. This Committee Chair must be a member of the Department of Kinesiology Graduate Studies Committee or have status on the Department of Kinesiology Graduate Studies Committee. The remaining Committee members must include at least one additional faculty member from the Department of Kinesiology. If the Committee Chair is not a full time member of the Department of Kinesiology Graduate Studies Committee the remaining Committee members must include at least two members from the Department of Kinesiology. Academic Professional Track faculty members in the Department of Kinesiology are eligible to serve in this role with prior approval from the KINE Graduate Advisory Committee and they must serve as a co-chair with another tenured Kinesiology faculty member. In addition the Committee must include at least one member who is external to the Department of Kinesiology. The external member may include individuals not working within UT Arlington if applicable. All Committee members must hold a terminal degree in their field and/or demonstrate the required expertise and appropriate faculty status for serving on dissertation committees.

COMPREHENSIVE EXAMINATION

MS to PhD students will become eligible for the comprehensive examination when they have completed 18 hours of their graduate work (at UT Arlington).

These completed course hours represent the minimum requirement; however, eligibility for the comprehensive examination will be dependent on approval from the Chair of the Dissertation Committee.

Successful completion of the comprehensive examination makes students eligible for PhD candidacy. Students must be enrolled in the semester they take the comprehensive examination.

The purpose of the comprehensive examination is to evaluate the extent to which students have acquired the basic principles / knowledge in pertinent coursework. The expectation will be that students will be able to apply, integrate, and synthesize their knowledge.

When students are eligible for the comprehensive examination, the student's graduate mentor/advisor will recommend the student for the examination to the Department of Kinesiology Graduate Studies Committee for approval.

Upon completion, the comprehensive examination committee will meet to discuss the merits of the student's examination. Comprehensive examinations will only be held in regular, long semesters.

The composition of the comprehensive examination committee will be decided by the Department of Kinesiology Graduate Academic Committee. This comprehensive examination committee will be comprised of at least one member of the Graduate Academic Committee and a minimum of 2 additional members with relevant content expertise.

Following completion of the examination the Committee may recommend any of the following outcomes:

1. Unconditional pass. With an unconditional pass, students become eligible for PhD candidacy and prepare for the defense of their dissertation proposal.
2. Pass with conditions. A pass with conditions requires that students perform each of the conditions satisfactorily in order to become eligible for PhD candidacy
3. Unsatisfactory with opportunity to retake the examination. With this recommendation, the committee will specify when the retake will occur
4. Unsatisfactory, do not continue in program.

If the outcome of the comprehensive examination is an unconditional pass, students immediately become eligible for PhD candidacy. If the outcome is a pass with conditions, students may only become eligible for candidacy when the examining committee determines that the student has successfully met the conditions stipulated by the committee.

DISSERTATION PROPOSAL

Following successful completion of the oral examination the student will be required to draft a grant application to be written in a format that is standard for most external funding agencies. This grant will describe the student's proposed dissertation projects and will also serve as the written portion of the student's dissertation proposal. The application should be up to 10 pages in length and should consist of the following sections: 1) Significance, 2) Innovation, and 3) Research Approach (e.g. for each aim - any preliminary data, planned methodological approach, data analysis, statistical approach, expected results, and anticipated limitations). The student will give an oral presentation of the research proposal outlined in the application and must provide a copy of the grant proposal to his/her dissertation committee a minimum of 2 weeks prior to the oral presentation. The presentation will be in a standard power point format and will be an open seminar that will be advertised across the University. Immediately following this presentation, the student will have a separate meeting with his/her dissertation committee. This proposal defense must occur within two long semesters following successful completion of the oral comprehensive examination.

Master of Science in Athletic Training

About This Program

The Master of Science in Athletic Training Program at the University of Texas at Arlington is committed to developing proficient and competent graduates through high-quality classroom and clinical instruction that emphasizes patient-centered holistic healthcare. Graduates will be prepared to pass the Board of Certification exam for Athletic Training, to advance health and the human condition, and will excel in areas of performance healthcare, manual therapy and integrative modalities, emergency preparedness and response, and administration and leadership.

Competencies

1. Students will demonstrate the knowledge needed to deliver patient-centered healthcare.
2. Graduating students will be able to demonstrate knowledge related to administration and leadership.
3. Graduating students will be able to demonstrate knowledge related to emergency preparedness and response.

Admissions Criteria

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

To be considered for unconditional admission students must:

- Document an earned Bachelor's degree, with an undergraduate cumulative GPA of 3.0, or a 3.0 GPA during the last 60 hours of undergraduate course work.
- Document 50 hours of observation with an athletic trainer (LAT and/or ATC credential).
- Meet program technical standards for admission.
- Document Measles, Mumps and Rubella (MMR) vaccination.
- Document Hepatitis B vaccination (three doses).
- Present proof of current certification by the American Heart Association in Basic Life Support (Only AHA BLS certification will be accepted).

- International students are required to receive tuberculosis screening and this must be performed at the UTA Student Health Center or another U.S. facility.
- International applicants must meet the University's English language test score requirements for graduate admission.
- Required prerequisite courses (see advisor for a list) must have been completed with a grade of "C" or better and within the last 10 years.

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

Applicants failing to meet the unconditional admission criteria may be considered for probationary admission with documented previous relevant experience and recommendations describing potential for exceptional personal and professional growth. Students who are admitted on a probationary status will be limited in their clinical experience time, will be required to meet with the MSAT faculty to develop a success plan, and must complete their first term with a 3.0 GPA

Program Completion

MSAT students' academic and clinical progress will be closely monitored each semester by the MSAT Program Director and Coordinator of Clinical Education. To remain in the MSAT program, students must:

- Complete each course with a grade of "C" or better.
- Maintain a 3.0 cumulative GPA
- Adhere to documents which outline professional behaviors, including but not limited to the MSAT Student Handbook, the BOC Standards of Professional Practice, the NATA Code of Ethics, and course syllabi.

Master of Science in Exercise Science

About This Program

The Master's of Science in Exercise Science provides advanced training. Students will interact with world-renowned faculty at the forefront of research and discovery, to accomplish three distinct objectives:

1. Provide students with the academic and research skills needed for doctoral study in integrative and applied physiology, movement and rehabilitation sciences, or physical education.
2. Prepare students for employment in clinically oriented environments, associated with physical activity and rehabilitation such as cardiac rehabilitation, strength and conditioning, or sports medicine.
3. Enhance the theoretical background and skills of students seeking employment in Physical and Health Education.

Students can choose to (1) work directly with a faculty member to complete a manuscript project or a thesis or (2) complete an internship during the final semester in a clinical environment.

Competencies

1. Research study design: students will demonstrate proficiency in designing a research study to test a specific hypothesis.
2. Development and execution of an appropriate statistical approach: students will demonstrate the ability to choose, justify, and conduct the appropriate statistical procedure based on a given research design and study hypothesis.
3. Research presentation skills: students will deliver oral reports based on research involving peer-reviewed articles or other lab or classroom based projects.
4. Ability to analyze factors associated with human motion in walking, running, and jumping: students will demonstrate proficiency in their ability to assess the impact of various factors (age, health status, etc.) on human motion, in walking, running, and jumping.
5. Understanding the impact and importance of physical activity for health and disease prevention: students will demonstrate proficiency in their ability to evaluate critically and understand the function of the human body at rest and during exercise; in addition, students will gain proficiency in understanding the health benefits of exercise and its impact on disease prevention.

Admissions Criteria

- For all applications, the department factors in all components of the application into consideration.
- Course Prerequisites: Listed below are UTA course numbers. Equivalent courses at other institutions of higher education will also be considered. To be considered for admission, students must receive a grade of C or better in these (or their respective equivalent) courses.
    - BIOL 2457 HUMAN ANATOMY AND PHYSIOLOGY I
    - BIOL 2458 HUMAN ANATOMY AND PHYSIOLOGY II
    - MATH 1302 COLLEGE ALGEBRA
    - KINE 3300 FUNCTIONAL ANATOMY
    - KINE 3401 BIOMECHANICS OF HUMAN MOVEMENT
    - KINE 3415 PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE
- Undergraduate degree from an accredited institution or an equivalent foreign institution.
- GPA of 3.0 for undergraduate degree or in any previous graduate program.
- A statement of purpose, (maximum of 3 pages) is also required upon submission of the application. This should highlight the previous achievements and experiences of the applicant that have led to the decision to consider a Master’s degree in Exercise Science as well as the previous achievements that would qualify the applicant for admission into this program. The statement should also include future career goals following obtaining a Master’s degree in Exercise Science.

- Students who do not meet the requirements for unconditional admission (see below) or in the event that additional information is required to make a decision, we may ask the applicant for the name and contact information of 2 references who are familiar with the applicant's academic preparation and readiness to pursue master's studies.
- All international students must meet the minimum requirements for English Language proficiency as outlined in the UTA University Catalog UTA Catalog - English Proficiency. (https://catalog.uta.edu/academicregulations/admissions/graduate/)

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

Applicant meets the minimal grade requirements on the prerequisite courses, meets the minimum GPA standards, has a degree from an accredited U.S. or foreign institution, and submits a personal statement that clearly outlines the requested experiences and career goals of the applicant. All international students must meet the minimum requirements for English Language proficiency as outlined in the UTA University Catalog UTA Catalog - English Proficiency. (https://catalog.uta.edu/academicregulations/admissions/graduate/)

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

Applicants must have received an undergraduate degree from an accredited US or Foreign Institution. All international students must meet the minimum requirements for English Language proficiency as outlined in the UTA University Catalog UTA Catalog - English Proficiency. (https://catalog.uta.edu/academicregulations/admissions/graduate/)

In addition, the following circumstances may meet the requirements for probationary admission:

- The applicant meets the minimum grade requirements on at least 3 of the 6 prerequisite courses and has a GPA of 3.0 or better.
- The applicant meets the minimum grade requirements on at least 4 of the 6 prerequisite courses and has a GPA of 2.75 or better.

In both cases the following additional criteria will also be considered by the Graduate Studies Committee.

- Professionally relevant experience as outlined in the "Statement of Purpose"
- Readiness for academic preparation and the pursuit of master's studies as noted by the 2 references (in the event that they are contacted).
- Additional writing samples and/or information may be requested.
- Applicants admitted on probation will be required to maintain a B or better average during the first 12 hours of graduate study.

Note: The Master of Science in Exercise Science is a competitive program with limited space. Therefore, while meeting standards for unconditional or probationary admission, significantly improves your chance for acceptance into the program, they do not guarantee acceptance.

DEFERRED ADMISSION

A deferred admission decision may be granted when a file is incomplete.

DENIAL OF ADMISSION

A candidate may be denied denied admission in the MS in Exercise Science degree program if he/she does not have an undergraduate degree from an accredited U.S. or Foreign Institution. In addition, the applicant may be denied admission if they do not meet either of the conditions listed for unconditional or probationary admission or the information gained from the references does not suggest adequate readiness or academic preparation to succeed in the program

GRADUATE ASSISTANTSHIPS

The Department of Kinesiology and faculty offers financial assistance to MS students. Assistantships are contingent upon prior acceptance to the Graduate School and are limited and thus offered on a competitive basis. Graduate Assistant applicant evaluation begins on January 1 and continues until all positions are filled. Please direct all inquiries to the graduate program director.

Curriculum

All students are required to complete 30 hours for the master's degree. All students accepted into the Master of Science in Exercise Science will take a core of 15-semester hours of required KINE courses. In addition, all students are required to complete one of the following in their last semester; KINE 5389: Research Manuscript Submission (3 hours), KINE 5689: Thesis (6 hours), or KINE 5389 Physiology of Exercise Internship (3 hours). The remaining required hours will be completed through various course electives.

All MS students are initially accepted on the non-thesis track. The student's academic advisor within the Department of Kinesiology will review transcripts of prospective students to determine what prerequisites are needed prior to enrollment in courses within the proposed program. If deficiencies are identified, a pre-program of study designed to prepare the student for graduate course prerequisites will be written and signed by the prospective student and the student's graduate advisor.

Master of Public Health

About This Program

The Master of Public Health (MPH) degree is a 42-credit hour, professional master degree program designed to prepare graduates to work in public health career fields. Public health training in the core public health disciplines offer foundational public health knowledge necessary to assess, implement interventions, and evaluate the health of a population with an organization or community. Additional core courses build on the foundation to cultivate practice-based skill sets readily applied to the public health setting. The MPH degree may complement students' current job skills, or provide students with new public health knowledge and career opportunities. Coursework will emphasize prevention, interdisciplinary approaches, applied skills, and social justice.

The MPH curriculum has been designed to meet current needs in the field of public health, Council on Education for Public Health (CEPH) accreditation criteria, and the College's mission, goals, and objectives. The degree aims to educate future public health professionals so they may improve the health of urban and underserved communities locally, nationally, and globally by addressing health determinants and applying core public health functions. UTA aspires to be leader in training public health practitioners and advocates to serve communities and organizations, promote collaboration between public health and health care practitioners, and protect and advance community health through applying the core public health functions of assessment, policy development, and assurance.

The MPH degree offer concentrations in Urban Health or Epidemiology.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to apply epidemiological methods to settings and situations in public health practice.
2. Upon completion, students will be able to select quantitative and qualitative data collection methods appropriate for a given public health context.
3. Upon completion, students will be able to analyze quantitative and qualitative data using biostatistics, informatics, computer-based programming and software, as appropriate.
4. Upon completion, students will be able to interpret results of data analysis for public health research, policy or practices.
5. Upon completion, students will be able to compare the organization, structure and function of health care, public health, and regulatory systems across national and international settings.
6. Upon completion, students will be able discuss the means by which structural bias, social inequities and racism undermine health and create challenges to achieving health equity at organizational, community, and systemic levels.
7. Upon completion, students will be able to assess population needs, assets and capacities that affect communities' health.
8. Upon completion, students will be able to apply awareness of cultural values and practices to the design, implementation, or critique of public health policies or programs.
9. Upon completion, students will be able to design a population-based policy, program, project or intervention.
10. Upon completion, students will be able to select communication strategies for different audiences and sectors.

Admissions Criteria

Admission to the Master of Public Health degree is based on completion of general admission requirements of the Graduate School as specified under the Graduate School Admissions Requirements and Procedures in the Graduate Catalog.

Admission criteria include:

- Official transcripts showing an earned bachelor's degree from an accredited school, with a 3.0 or higher grade point average for the last 60 undergraduate or the last 18 graduate/post-baccalaureate credit hours completed.
- ~~Official Graduate Record Examination (GRE) scores taken within the last five years are required of all applicants. Preference will be given to applicants with verbal, quantitative and analytic writing scores above the 50th percentile. Applicants may request a waiver of the GRE requirement if they meet any of the following criteria: hold a graduate or terminal degree from an accredited US university; have ompleted a UTA Graduate Certificate in Public Health Practice and/or a UTA Bachelor of Science in Public Health degree with a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0 and no less than a grade of "B" in any required public health course; have at least 5 years of full-time professional experience in a public health field. An approved GRE waiver does not guarantee admission into the degree program.To apply for a GRE waiver, applicants should submit the following items via email to the Public Health Graduate Advisor: completed GRE Waiver Application, scanned copies of all college or university transcripts (official or unofficial transcripts), current resume or CVA one-page personal statement written in English describing the applicant's interest in earning an MPH degree and potential for contributing to public health, as well as the applicant's career objectives, self-assessment of abilities and preparation for succeeding in a public health graduate program.~~
- ~~The quality of written expression in the applicant's personal statement will be considered.~~
- ~~An applicant whose native language is other than English must demonstrate a sufficient level of skill with the English language to assure success in graduate studies as defined under Admissions Requirements and Procedures in the Catalog.~~
- ~~Three letters of recommendation from academic or professional references.~~
- ~~The applicant's resume or CV, highlighting professional experience such as accomplishments, linguistic abilities, computer expertise, and analytics expertise.~~

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

For an applicant who does not meet all admission criteria but shows promise for completing a graduate program based on some admission criteria, in rare cases probationary admission may be granted. Students on probationary admission conditions specified by the Public Health Graduate Advisor.

PROVISIONAL, DEFERRED AND DENIED ADMISSION

Provisional, deferred and denied admission decisions meet the criteria as defined under Admission Requirements and Procedures in the Graduate Catalog.

Bachelor of Science in Exercise Science (CAP) to Master of Science in Exercise Science Fast Track

About This Program

Bachelor of Science in Exercise Science (CAP) to Master of Science in Exercise Science Fast Track will enable outstanding senior undergraduate students in the bachelor's program to satisfy degree requirements leading to a master's degree in exercise science while completing their undergraduate studies.

Students pursuing the fast-track program will be allowed to take selected master's level courses which can be used to replace specific advanced undergraduate elective courses in BS in Exercise Science program. Importantly, the proposed master's courses were selected because they will not deprive the students of the course content material that the Department faculty feels is important for academic growth. Rather, by taking the proposed graduate level courses, the students will be learning very similar content at a more rigorous level that is consistent with graduate education.

ASSOCIATED PROGRAMS

For detailed information about the programs associated with this Fast Track, refer to their individual degree pages.

Exercise Science BS (CAP) (p. 1517)

Exercise Science MS (p. 1497)

Admissions Criteria

- Undergraduate BS students will be eligible to apply for this program when they are within 30 hours of completing their respective undergraduate degrees.
- They must have completed at least 30 hours at UTA, achieving a GPA of at least 3.2 in those courses.
- The must have an overall GPA of 3.2 or better in all college courses (at all schools), have a GPA of at least 3.2 in all Kinesiology courses taken at UTA.
- The must have completed 11 hours of specified undergraduate fast track foundation courses at UTA that are listed below with a minimum GPA of 3.27 in these courses. If one of these courses is transferred from another school it will not be included, and another 3000-level course determined by the undergraduate advisor will be used as a fast track foundation course.
  a. KINE 3325 UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH METHODS
  b. KINE 3401 BIOMECHANICS OF HUMAN MOVEMENT
  c. KINE 3415 PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE
- When senior-level students are within 30 hours of completing their undergraduate degree requirements, they may take up to 9 hours of graduate level coursework to satisfy both undergraduate and graduate degree requirements.

- Students pursuing this fast track will be allowed to take selected master's level courses which can be used to replace specific advanced undergraduate elective courses in BS in Exercise Science program.

2 Fast track foundation course. All must completed with GPA of 3.27 or better for admission to the fast track.

Program Completion

Fast track students must maintain a minimum GPA of 3.0 for all graduate classes to remain in and graduate from the master’s program. They must earn grades of B or better in all fast track-approved graduate courses that will be used to satisfy undergraduate and graduate degree requirements.

A student must pass at least two graduate courses and earn grades of B or better in all graduate courses before the student graduates with the bachelor's degree to be eligible to remain in the fast track program.

If, at any time, a student fails to satisfy these requirements, the student will be removed from the fast track program. Any graduate credits earned will be applied only to the undergraduate degree, and none of the other benefits of membership in the fast tack program will apply.

Generally, students will not be allowed to continue in the fast track program if they have to drop a class due to poor performance are found responsible for violations of academic integrity policies.

An undergraduate student who successfully completes their fast track graduate coursework with grades of B or better to graduate with their undergraduate degree will be automatically admitted to graduate study at that time. They will not be required to take the Graduate Management Admissions Test (GMAT), will not have to complete the normal graduate application for admission, and will not have to pay the related application fee.

Bachelor of Science in Exercise Science (HFW) to Master of Science in Exercise Science Fast Track

About This Program

Bachelor of Science in Exercise Science (HFW) to Master of Science in Exercise Science Fast Track will enable outstanding senior undergraduate students in the bachelor's program to satisfy degree requirements leading to a master's degree in exercise science while completing their undergraduate studies.

Students pursuing the fast-track program will be allowed to take selected master's level courses which can be used to replace specific advanced undergraduate elective courses in BS in Exercise Science program. Importantly, the proposed master's courses were selected because they will not deprive the students of the course content material that the Department faculty feels is important for academic growth. Rather, by taking the proposed graduate level courses, the students will be learning very similar content at a more rigorous level that is consistent with graduate education.

ASSOCIATED PROGRAMS

For detailed information about the programs associated with this Fast Track, refer to their individual degree pages.

Exercise Science BS (HFW) (p. 1519)

Exercise Science MS (p. 1497)

Admissions Criteria

- Undergraduate BS students will be eligible to apply for this program when they are within 30 hours of completing their respective undergraduate degrees.
- They must have completed at least 30 hours at UTA, achieving a GPA of at least 3.2 in those courses.
- The must have an overall GPA of 3.2 or better in all college courses (at all schools), have a GPA of at least 3.2 in all Kinesiology courses taken at UTA.
- The must have completed 11 hours of specified undergraduate fast track foundation courses at UTA that are listed below with a minimum GPA of 3.27 in these courses. If one of these courses is transferred from another school it will not be included, and another 3000-level course determined by the undergraduate advisor will be used as a fast track foundation course.
  a. KINE 3325 UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH METHODS
  b. KINE 3401 BIOMECHANICS OF HUMAN MOVEMENT
  c. KINE 3415 PHYSIOLOGY OF EXERCISE
- When senior-level students are within 30 hours of completing their undergraduate degree requirements, they may take up to 9 hours of graduate level coursework to satisfy both undergraduate and graduate degree requirements.
- Students pursuing this fast track will be allowed to take selected master's level courses which can be used to replace specific advanced undergraduate elective courses in BS in Exercise Science program.

Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Diversity and Equity in Public Health

About This Program

Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Diversity and Equity in Public Health provides graduate-level introductory knowledge and skill sets in conducting community interventions to improve health equity.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to apply skills to solve public health issues related to issues of equity.
2. Upon completion, students will be able to Identify models to promote behavioral and social changes to improve the health of diverse populations.
3. Upon completion, students will be able to develop public health interventions that address health disparities using a culturally appropriate approach.
4. Upon completion, students will be able to plan and evaluate a public health program aimed to improve the health of an underserved population.
5. Upon completion, students will be able to apply the social determinants of health to proposing and shaping health interventions to address health concerns of an underserved minority population.

Admissions Criteria

PROSPECTIVE UTA STUDENTS

- Official transcripts showing an earned bachelor's degree from an accredited school, with a 3.0 or higher-grade point average for the last 60 undergraduate or the last 18 graduate/post-baccalaureate credit hours completed.
- The Graduate Record Exam (GRE) or other standardized graduate school exam is not required for admission to the certificate program. Only GPA, and not GRE or other standardized graduate admission exams, will be considered for admission to the program.
- A one-page personal statement written in English describing the applicant's interest in and potential for contributing to public health, career objectives, and self-assessment of abilities and preparation for succeeding in a public health graduate program. The quality of written expression in the applicant's personal statement will be considered.
- An applicant whose native language is other than English must demonstrate a sufficient level of skill with the English language to assure success in graduate studies as defined under Admissions Requirements and Procedures in the Graduate Catalog.
- The applicant's resume or CV, highlighting professional experience such as accomplishments, linguistic abilities, computer expertise, and analytics expertise.

CURRENT UTA GRADUATE STUDENTS

Current UTA graduate students who are in good standing in their current UTA graduate program should speak with their advisor about applying to this certificate, and contact the Graduate Public Health Programs faculty advisor for information about admission to the certificate.

Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Public Health Practice

About This Program

The Post-Baccaulaureate Certificate in Public Health Practice provides a graduate-level foundation in core public health disciplines. It is available to currently enrolled UT Arlington graduate students as well as non-degree seeking students who want to improve their knowledge of the field.

Competencies

1. Through the plan of study, students will gain graduate-level introductory knowledge and accompanying foundational skill sets in the five core public health disciplines: biostatistics, epidemiology, health systems and policy, environmental health, and social and behavioral health.
2. Upon completion, students will be prepared to apply fundamental skills from each of the five core public health disciplines to complement current job skills, or gain new public health knowledge and career opportunities.
3. Upon completion, students will be equipped to execute skills to assess, implement interventions, and evaluate the health of a population within their organizations or communities.

Admissions Criteria

UNCONDITIONAL ADMISSION

To be considered for unconditional admission candidates must present:

- Official transcripts showing an earned bachelor's degree from an accredited school, with a 3.0 or higher grade point average for the last 60 undergraduate or the last 18 graduate/post-baccalaureate credit hours completed.
- A one-page personal statement written in English describing the applicant's interest in and potential for contributing to public health, career objectives, and self-assessment of abilities and preparation for succeeding in a public health graduate program. The quality of written expression in the applicant's personal statement will be considered.
- An applicant whose native language is other than English must demonstrate a sufficient level of skill with the English language to assure success in graduate studies as defined in the catalog (p. 26).
- The applicant's resume or CV, highlighting professional experience such as accomplishments, linguistic abilities, computer expertise, and analytics expertise.

The Graduate Record Exam (GRE) or other standardized graduate school exam is not required for admission to the certificate program.

PROBATIONARY ADMISSION

Applicants who fail to meet the admission criteria may be considered for probationary admission. Applicants admitted on a probationary basis must maintain a 3.0 GPA in the first two semesters of program enrollment.

PROVISIONAL, DEFERRED, AND DENIED ADMISSION

Provisional, deferred and denied admission decisions meet the criteria as defined under Admission Requirements and Procedures in the catalog.

TRANSFER CREDIT

Students may transfer one course (3 SCH) into the GCPHP program. The course must have been completed at the graduate level at an accredited university, with a grade of "B" or above, and be determined to be equivalent to the course offered at UTA. The course should not have been used for another degree or certificate program. Determination of course equivalency will be made by the course instructor on a case-by-case basis.

ORAL COMMUNICATION COMPETENCIES

All students declared as majors in the Department of Kinesiology (with the exception of BSPH majors) are required to complete KINE 3325. Embedded in this class is the task of orally presenting research findings as both a formal oral research presentation and also in support of posters presented during the Kinesiology Research Presentation Day. BS Public Health students are required to complete KINE 4352

COMPUTER USE COMPETENCIES

All students declared as majors in the Department of Kinesiology (with the exception of BSPH majors) are required to pass the University computer competency exam or complete KINE 1100 early in their specialization. Embedded in this class are tasks requiring familiarity with the word processor, spreadsheet and Internet browsing programs common on personal computers. BS Public Health students are required to complete KINE 4349 to meet this requirement. Additionally, the department's core curriculum requires the demonstration of computer use competencies for completion of the majority of assignments.

Bachelor of Arts in Kinesiology (Coaching and Youth Sports)

About This Program

The Bachelor of Arts in Kinesiology--Coaching and Youth Sports concentration is designed to provide a scientific and pedagogical foundation with multiple experiences that enable students to observe, assist, coach, and create programs that encourage physical activity across the age spectrum: youth, high school, collegiate, elite-level, or private coaching. In addition to the identified core and specialization courses there are 9 hours available as electives.

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, students will be able to develop, implement and supervise youth sport opportunities that support both physical and mental wellness.
2. Upon graduation, students will be able to effectively communicate with athletes, parents, and community supporters.
3. Upon graduation, students will be able to prevent and treat sport injuries.
4. Upon graduation, students will be able to teach life skills such as sportsmanship, discipline, and goal setting.

Admissions Criteria

To ensure that all students develop a solid academic foundation, all first time, first-year freshman students (regardless of intended major) must obtain academic advising and clearance for registration from a Division of Student Success academic advisor during their first year. After the first year, students should seek advisement from the BA Kinesiology Advisor in the Department of Kinesiology. Transfer students must seek academic advising from the BA Kinesiology Advisor immediately.

- All classes involving field-based experiences require students to pass a criminal background check. This is also a requirement for all certified teachers and professionals that work with school aged children in the State of Texas.

Bachelor of Arts in Kinesiology (Physical Education Teacher Education)

About This Program

The Bachelor of Arts in Kinesiology, Physical Education with All-Level Teacher Certification prepares individuals for teaching and coaching positions in public and private schools. This degree is specifically designed to prepare graduates for certification in teaching PK-12 physical education. The program is designed to provide a scientific and pedagogical foundation with multiple public school experiences that enable students to observe, assist teachers and coaches, experiment with curriculum, create programs, and gain structured experiences in teaching. Because of the emphasis on field experiences, our graduates are well prepared when they enter the workforce. In addition, our graduates work in diverse settings and are able to plan and teach individuals with disabilities successfully. Candidates are also encouraged to earn a second teaching area concentration (such as English, History, Biology/Life Science, Math, Modern Language, Health Education, etc.).

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, students will be able to develop, implement and assess developmentally appropriate lessons for elementary and secondary students.
2. Upon graduation, students will be able to effectively manage all facets of a classroom: behavior, transitions, equipment, and instruction.
3. Upon graduation, students will be able to collect data to analyze and guide instruction.
4. Upon graduation, students will be able to demonstrate professionalism in their communication and interactions with school personnel, students, and parents.

Admissions Criteria

To ensure that all students develop a solid academic foundation, all first time, first-year freshman students (regardless of intended major) must obtain academic advising and clearance for registration from an advisor in the Division of Student Success during their first year. After the first year, students should seek advisement from the PETE Advisor in the Department of Kinesiology. Transfer students must seek academic advising from the PETE Advisor in the Department of Kinesiology immediately.

In order to qualify for admission to the Physical Education Teacher Education (PETE) program, students must:

- Satisfy the University's credit hour requirements for admission to a degree plan
- Provide transcripts from each college or university the student has attended (reflecting all current/completed semesters)
- Petition for admission into the College of Education prior to taking education coursework
- Have a cumulative GPA of at least 2.75 for all classes taken at UT Arlington including classes transferred into the program, and sustain a 3.00 GPA across the education sequence as specified in the degree listing below.
- All classes involving field-based experiences require students to pass a criminal background check. This is also a requirement for all certified teachers in the State of Texas.
- Students who have been suspended or expelled from The University of Texas at Arlington or any other university or program for reasons other than academic reasons may be denied admission or readmission to an educator preparation program in the College of Education.

Note: Many of the courses in the Kinesiology curriculum require prerequisite courses that are identified in the course descriptions.

Program Completion

If a student falls below a 2.75 GPA at any time prior to petitioning for admission into the College of Education, the student will be on departmental probation for one semester. If the student is unable to make up the deficiency in the semester immediately following the probation, the student will lose status as a Bachelor of Arts in Kinesiology with All-Level Certification major and be moved to the Bachelor of Arts in Kinesiology - Sports Leadership and Management major. Courses to make up a GPA deficiency must be taken at UT Arlington. If the student is able to make up the GPA deficiency in the semester immediately following loss of major status, she or he will be eligible to apply for reinstatement as a major by making application to the Departmental Advisor when grades are released. No courses on the degree plan may be taken as pass/fail.

Each candidate in the PETE program will be evaluated on the College of Education Professional Dispositions by faculty and staff. These dispositions have been identified as essential for a highly-qualified professional. Instructors and program directors will work with candidates rated as “unacceptable” in one or more stated criteria. The candidate will have an opportunity to develop a plan to remediate any digressions.

Application for Student Teaching: Students must apply to the Director of Field Experience in the College of Education by the appropriate deadline to begin. Students must also submit any applicable background checks at registration. The student teaching will be performed in both elementary and secondary (high school or middle school) levels.

Advising Resources

Kinesiology students are advised to meet with an advisor each semester to discuss registration and academic progress. When admitted to the program students will receive email information pertaining to their degree plan.

Bachelor of Arts in Kinesiology (Sports Leadership and Management)

About This Program

The Bachelor of Arts in Kinesiology–Sports Leadership and Management (SLAM) program prepares individuals for sport and physical activity program leadership in both the public and private settings. The curriculum examines sport in the contexts of historical and contemporary culture. It looks at sport's cultural relationship with education, the economy, families, the media, and politics, and considers race, class, and gender differences in the sport experience.

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, students will be able to effectively communicate in verbal and written form with community stakeholders, media, athletes, and coaches.
2. Upon graduation, students will be able to plan, organize, and implement sporting events including tickets, logistics, marketing, and facility management.
3. Upon graduation, students will be able to lead and manage team members and make informed problem solving decisions in the sport environment.
4. Upon graduation, students will be able to understand financial issues such as budgeting, cost control, and revenue generation within a sport organization.

Admissions Criteria

To ensure that all students develop a solid academic foundation, all first time, first-year freshman students (regardless of intended major) must obtain academic advising and clearance for registration from a Division of Student Success academic advisor during their first year. After the first year, students should seek advisement from the BA Kinesiology Advisor in the Department of Kinesiology. Transfer students must seek academic advising from the BA Kinesiology Advisor in the Department of Kinesiology immediately.

- All classes involving field-based experiences require students to pass a criminal background check. This is also a requirement for all certified teachers and professionals that work with school aged children in the State of Texas.

Bachelor of Science in Exercise Science (Clinical & Applied Physiology)

About This Program

The Bachelor of Science in Exercise Science is designed to provide a foundation of the movement and exercise science to students interested in pursuing careers associated with therapy and rehabilitation, fitness and training, and research with typical and atypical populations. The Clinical & Applied Physiology (CAP) track is designed for individuals who plan to pursue a graduate degree in the fields of physical therapy, physician assistant, and medical/dental schools, or athletic training, as well as careers and research in physiological sciences applied to exercise.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will demonstrate knowledge of general population health appraisal and fitness assessment.
2. Upon completion, students will demonstrate knowledge of general population exercise prescription and programming.
3. Upon completion, students will demonstrate knowledge of general population pathophysiology and risk factors.
4. Upon completion, students will demonstrate knowledge of general population electrocardiography and diagnostic techniques.
5. Upon completion, students will demonstrate knowledge of medical considerations for special populations and clinical exercise testing.
6. Upon completion, students will demonstrate knowledge of cardiovascular pathophysiology and risk factors.
7. Upon completion, students will demonstrate knowledge of pulmonary pathophysiology and risk factors
8. Upon completion, students will demonstrate knowledge of orthopedic/musculoskeletal pathophysiology and risk factors
9. Upon completion, students will demonstrate knowledge of immunological pathophysiology and risk factor
10. Upon completion, students will demonstrate competency in strength and conditioning assessment and application.
11. Upon completion, students will demonstrate knowledge of motor control and learning.

Admissions Criteria

To ensure that all students develop a solid academic foundation, all first time, first-year freshman students (regardless of intended major) must obtain academic advising and clearance for registration from an advisor in the Division of Student Success during their first year. After the first year, students should seek advisement from the Exercise Science Advisor in the Department of Kinesiology prior to each semester and summer sessions. Transfer students must seek academic advising from the Exercise Science Advisor in the Department of Kinesiology immediately. All incoming freshmen and transfer students wishing to major in Exercise Science are initially classified as Exercise Science pre-majors.

To be classified as an Exercise Science major, students must satisfy the following requirements for the Clinical & Applied Physiology track:

- Completion of 12 hours at UT Arlington
- Overall GPA of 3.00 and KINE GPA of 3.00 by completion of KINE 3415 and a grade of “B” or better at KINE 3415.

Bachelor of Science in Public Health

About This Program

The Bachelor of Science in Public Health (BSPH) degree consists of two program delivery options: a traditional campus-based program and an Accelerated Online program (AO). The AO program is developed by UT Arlington's Department of Kinesiology and College of Nursing and Health Innovation to serve students in Texas by offering a high quality, affordable, and convenient undergraduate public health degree program. The AO program is available to those students who have earned a minimum of 24 transfer-credit hours prior to enrollment.

The BSPH aligns well with current science-based degree programs offered in the Department of Kinesiology. In addition, with a unique positioning of public health aligned with nursing and kinesiology programs along a continuum of health-related coursework and practice-based experiences, students may access an intersection point at which individual health and wellness meets population health and prevention of disease. Potential career opportunities exist in job categories such as government, non-profit organizations, medical/healthcare facilities, and community agencies.

The BSPH features a competency-based curriculum built upon a collaborative, interdisciplinary matrix. Relevant coursework, accompanied by experiential and service learning activities anchored throughout the program support a robust program framework, which includes The Council on Education for Public Health (CEPH) accreditation criteria, Association of Schools and Programs of Public Health (ASPPH) undergraduate competencies, and The Council on Linkages Between Academia and Public Health Practice Tier I Public Health Workforce competencies. These program elements will enable students to gain a broad knowledge base, along with the skills and abilities necessary to be a competent and effective member of the public health workforce.

The BSPH provides students with a rigorous background in public health education, while also providing multi-disciplinary support for each student to pursue his or her own individual interests and passions through minor degrees (e.g., Disability Studies, Diversity Studies, Psychology, Spanish). The degree provides coursework and experiential learning activities that intersect individual health, wellness and prevention with population-based health perspectives. Students have the flexibility to choose 20-21 hours of electives, providing academic flexibility so that students may individualize components of their academic pathway to meet their unique personal, professional, and academic goals.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to discuss the history and philosophy of public health as well as its core values, concepts, and functions locally and globally.
2. Upon completion, students will be able to utilize evidence-based concepts, methods, and tools of public health data collection, use, and analysis.
3. Upon completion, students will be able to apply the concepts of population health, and the basic processes, approaches and interventions that identify and address the major health-related needs and concerns of populations.
4. Upon completion, students will be able to demonstrate understanding of the underlying science of human health and disease, including opportunities for promoting and protecting health across the life course.
5. Upon completion, students will be able to describe the socioeconomic, behavioral, biological, environmental, and other factors that impact human health and contribute to health disparities.
6. Upon completion, students will be able to apply the fundamental concepts and features of project implementation, including planning, assessment, and evaluation.
7. Upon completion, students will be able to communicate to public health audiences using the basic concepts of public health-specific communication, including technical and professional writing and the use of mass media and electronic technology.

Admissions Criteria

To ensure that all students develop a solid academic foundation, all first time, first-year freshman students (regardless of intended major) must obtain academic advising and clearance for registration from an advisor in the Division of Student Success during their first year. After the first year, students should seek advisement from the Public Health Advisor in the Department of Kinesiology prior to each semester and summer sessions. Program Completion

Students accepted as Bachelor of Science in Public Health majors in the Department of Kinesiology must maintain the minimum GPAs required for admission or they will be placed on departmental probation. In order to take additional Public Health courses, approval must be granted by the Department Chair. If the student is unable to make up the deficiency in the semester immediately following the probation, the student will lose status as a Bachelor of Science in Public Health major. Courses to make up the GPA deficiency must be taken at UT Arlington. If the student is able to make up the GPA deficiency in the semester immediately following loss of major status, he or she can be reinstated as a major by making application to the Departmental Advisor when grades are released. No courses on the degree plan may be taken as pass/fail.

BSPH majors must meet the overall GPA minimum of 2.5 in order to enroll in the following courses:

- KINE 4352 Public Health Sciences and Methods
- KINE 4354 Public Health Advocacy and Leadership
- KINE 4359 Public Health Cumulative Experience.

Advising Resources

Kinesiology students are advised to meet with an advisor each semester to discuss registration and academic progress. When admitted to the program students will receive email information pertaining to their degree plan.

Bachelor of Science in Exercise Science (HFW) to Master of Science in Athletic Training 3+2

About This Program

The Department of Kinesiology offers an accelerated Bachelor of Science in Exercise Science (Health, Fitness, & Wellness) to Master of Science in Athletic Training (MSAT) This 3+2 program enables high-achieving undergraduate students to begin taking MSAT courses in their fourth year and complete the MSAT in their fifth year and is designed for students with a goal of becoming an athletic trainer.

Athletic Training MS

Admissions Requirements

To ensure that all students develop a solid academic foundation, all first time, first-year freshman students (regardless of intended major) must obtain academic advising and clearance for registration from an advisor in the Division of Student Success during their first year. After the first year, students should seek advisement from the Exercise Science Advisor in the Department of Kinesiology prior to each semester and summer sessions. Transfer students must seek academic advising from the Exercise Science Advisor in the Department of Kinesiology immediately. All incoming freshmen and transfer students wishing to major in Exercise Science are initially classified as Exercise Science pre-majors.

To be classified as an Exercise Science major, students must satisfy the following requirements for the Health, Fitness, & Wellness Track.

- Completion of 12 hours at UT Arlington
- Overall GPA of 2.5 and KINE GPA of 2.5 by completion of KINE 3415.

To be admitted to the 3+2 program, undergraduates must meet the following requirements.

- Be within 30 hours of graduation with a BS in EXS
- Have completed at least 30 hours of study at UTA with a 3.3 GPA or better
- Have an overall GPA of 3.3 for all college courses
- Have completed 50 hours of observation with an athletic trainer (LAT and/or ATC credential)
- Have current vaccinations for Measles, Mumps and Rubella (MMR) and Hepatitis B (three doses)
- Present proof of current certification by the American Heart Association in Basic Life Support (only AHA BLS certification will be accepted)
- Complete a successful interview with the MSAT admissions committee
- Present a ‘C’ or better and 3.3 GPA in the following prerequisite courses:
  - Anatomy and Physiology I: BIOL 2457
  - Anatomy and Physiology II: BIOL 2458
  - Functional Anatomy: KINE 3300
  - Physiology of Exercise: KINE 3415

- Nutrition: HEED 3301
- Psychology: PSYC 1315
- Statistics/Research Design: MATH 1308 or KINE 3325
- Biology (lecture and lab): BIOL 1441
- Physics (lecture and lab): PHYS 1441
- Chemistry (lecture and lab): CHEM 1441 or CHEM 1451

To progress from the BS to the MSAT students must meet the following requirements.

- Complete with a B or better:
  - KINE 5120
  - KINE 5229
  - KINE 5230
  - KINE 5236
  - KINE 5332
- Complete each additional graduate course with a 'C' or better and maintain a 3.0 cumulative GPA.

Bachelor of Arts Minor in Coaching and Youth Sports

About This Program

The Minor in Coaching and Youth Sports consists of 18 hours, six of which must be upper level.

Competencies

1. Upon graduation, students will be able to develop, implement and supervise youth sport opportunities that support both physical and mental wellness.
2. Upon graduation, students will be able to effectively communicate with athletes, parents, and community supporters.
3. Upon graduation, students will be able to teach life skills such as sportsmanship, discipline, and goal setting.

Curriculum

The minor consists of 18 hours, six of which must be upper level.

Minor in Public Health

About This Program

The Minor in Public Health consists of 18 credit hours. Students must complete at least nine hours toward the minor at UT Arlington.

Competencies

1. Upon completion, students will be able to discuss the history and philosophy of public health and its core values, concepts, and functions locally and globally.
2. Upon completion, students will be able to utilize evidence-based concepts, methods, and tools of public health data collection, use, and analysis.
3. Upon completion, students will be able to apply the concepts of population health and the basic processes, approaches, and interventions that identify and address the major health-related needs and concerns of populations.
4. Upon completion, students will be able to demonstrate understanding of the underlying science of human health and disease, including opportunities for promoting and protecting health across the life course.

College of Science

College overview

The College of Science includes the departments of Biology, Chemistry and Biochemistry, Earth and Environmental Sciences, Mathematics, Physics, Psychology, and the Division of Data Science. These departments and units offer degree programs that prepare students for a broad range of rewarding careers in the sciences, graduate or professional study, and leadership roles in the health professions and education through the UTeach Arlington program.

The College emphasizes close student-faculty interaction, with faculty serving as mentors and advisors to student scientific organizations and engaging students in cutting-edge research. Our faculty conduct research supported by world-class facilities and state-of-the-art scientific equipment. Undergraduate students are strongly encouraged to participate in research, either through supervised faculty-led projects or as part of their coursework, with the opportunity to earn academic credit for their research involvement.

Beyond the undergraduate level, the College of Science offers a range of graduate programs leading to advanced degrees. These include the Master of Science in Applied Statistics and Data Science (ASDS), the Master of Science in Industrial/Organizational Psychology, as well as disciplinary master's and Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) degrees in Biology, Chemistry and Biochemistry, Earth and Environmental Sciences, Mathematics, Physics, and Psychology. These graduate programs provide students with opportunities to conduct independent dissertation research within their chosen scientific disciplines, preparing them for careers in research, industry, entrepreneurship, and academia.

College of Science Undergraduate policies

Admission to the College of Science is based on the University's undergraduate admission requirements for incoming undergraduate students.

ACADEMIC ADVISING

All students in the College of Science have access to academic advisors who provide guidance on course selection, degree requirements, and academic planning. The advising process (https://www.uta.edu/academics/schools-colleges/science/advising/) is designed to support students in making informed decisions throughout their academic journey at The University of Texas at Arlington.

New First-Year Student Advising

Student entering UTA directly from high school or with fewer than 24 transferable credit hours are initially advised by the University Advising and Engagement Center (UAEC). To transition to departmental advising within the College of Science, students must meet the following criteria by the end of their second long semester at UTA:

Transition Requirements:

- Cumulative GPA
  - Minimum 2.00 for Biology, Chemistry, EES, Data Science, Math, Physics, and UTeach majors
  - Minimum 2.25 for Psychology majors
- Credit Hours:
  - Completion of at least 30 credit hours
- Additional Major-Specific Requirements
  - Biology majors- Minimum 2.00 GPA in biology coursework
  - Math majors- Grade of C or higher in MATH 1426
  - Psychology majors: Grade of C or higher in both:
    - PSYC 1315
    - MATH 1402 (or higher-level math course

Students who do not meet the transition criteria after three semesters are strongly encouraged to meet with an advisor to explore alternative majors. Students who do not meet the criteria after four semesters must declare a major outside the College of Science.

New Transfer students with more than 24 credit hours Advising

Students entering UTA with 24 or more transferable credit hours are advised directly by an academic advisor in their major department within the College of Science.

Note: All new students must be advised before registering for classes. Registration holds will remain in place until advising is complete.

ACADEMIC STANDING

Majors

In the College of Science, students are required to maintain a minimum overall GPA of 2.25 in all their course work as well as a minimum GPA of 2.25 in their major course work in order to remain in good standing within their degree program. Students whose overall or major GPA falls below 2.25 will be dropped as a major in the College of Science and must select an alternative major. The general College of Science policy on academic probation may be superseded by more rigorous policies within specific science degree programs.

Minors

A science minor consists of 18 credit hours or more in any one of the departments within the college. At least 6 of the 18 hours must be in advanced 3000 or 4000 level courses. All classes that are to be used toward a minor must also be applicable toward a major in the same discipline. Non-major courses may not be applied toward a minor. A 2.0 grade average must be maintained in the minor to be approved by the minor department. All classes for a science minor must be approved by an academic advisor in the minor department. Transfer students must complete at least nine hours toward the minor at UT Arlington, and six of the nine must be 3000 or 4000 level.

Change of Majors into the College of Science

Current UTA students who wish to switch majors to a department within the College of Science must have a grade point average of 2.25 or higher in all college course work completed prior to pursuing a change of major into the UT Arlington College of Science. Students interested in switching to a COS major should speak directly with the advisor within the COS major they are interested in.

TRANSFER STUDENTS

Students transferring from other institutions are invited to explore opportunities in the College of Science. Inquiries about the equivalency of their transferred courses and other questions related to transferring are welcome to make an appointment with the Transfer Advisor, 107B Life Science Building.

Field of Study- Students who complete an approved field of study curriculum in whole or in part will receive academic credit for the equivalent courses within their selected field of study at UT Arlington. To view the field of study curricula approved by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board, visit THECB website (https://www.highered.texas.gov/our-work/supporting-our-institutions/institutional-resources/workforce-transfer-resources/programs-of-study/).

Core Complete- Students who transfer from a Texas community college or university and are certified as core complete shall have satisfied the core requirements of UT Arlington. Academic departments may, in some instances, require specific courses outside the major as prerequisites for major coursework.

PRE-HEALTH PROGRAMS

UTA’s Office of Health Professions offers comprehensive services and resources to students interested in pursuing professional health careers such as medicine, dentistry, physician assistant, pharmacy, physical therapy, optometry and veterinary medicine. These pre-health tracks require completion of certain classes in conjunction with degree requirements. Most health professional programs do not have a preference regarding an applicant's undergraduate major, leaving students to choose a degree program aligned with interests and career goals. Visit our Health Professions Website for in-depth information:https://www.uta.edu/pre-health.

POST-BACCALAUREATE NON-DEGREE SEEKING PROGRAM

UTA’s Office of Health Professions also offers comprehensive services and resources to students with a completed degree interested in pursuing professional health careers. Since student backgrounds vary, course recommendations are personalized for each student to maximize their success.#Studentsmust meet UTA’s undergraduate admissions requirements. There is no additional criteria or application for this informal undergraduate program. Visit our Health Professions Post Bacc Website for in-depth information Post Bacc Program Page.

TEACHER CERTIFICATION IN THE SCIENCES

Programs leading to teacher certification at secondary levels are available in departments of the College of Science in coordination with UTeach Arlington and the College of Education. Included among these are secondary certification in Composite Science or Life Science offered in the Departments of Biology and Earth & Environmental Sciences; in Physical Science offered in the Departments of Physics and Chemistry & Biochemistry; in Chemistry offered in the Department of Chemistry and Biochemistry; in Physics/Mathematics offered in the Department of Physics; and in Mathematics offered in the Department of Mathematics. Descriptions of these programs are provided in each department’s section of this catalog.

Biology

About the Department

The Department of Biology familiarizes students with basic concepts inherent to biological science and allows them to master new, cutting edge areas of biological research. Its degree programs prepare students to enter exciting and challenging careers in the many diverse and rapidly expanding areas of biological employment, including environmental biology, conservation, microbiology, the health sciences, science teaching, pharmacology, biotechnology, molecular biology, neurobiology, and forensics as well as in basic biological research. Superior teaching and faculty involvement with students is a high priority in the department. Many of its faculty have received university-wide awards for teaching excellence. Biology faculty have internationally recognized research programs in which students are actively encouraged to participate through credit for supervised research. Thus, students can prepare for careers in specific areas of biology by being actively engaged in research related to that career area under faculty supervision.

COURSES

BIOL 1131. BIOLOGY FOUNDATIONS. 1 Hour.
This onboarding course is designed to help you navigate your first year by introducing you to the department, key resources, and an overview of what you'll learn in your biology courses. Through engaging workshops and small-group discussions, you'll meet faculty, learn about research opportunities, and build connections with fellow students. You'll also gain valuable insights into college study skills, lab expectations, and career pathways in biology, setting you up for a confident and successful start in your program.

BIOL 1301. NUTRITION. 3 Hours. (TCCN = BIOL 1322)
This course offers a foundation in nutrition science and explores how food relates to the overall health of an individual. The curriculum includes functions of nutrients, food sources, digestion, absorption, and metabolism. Food labels and nationally established nutrition guidelines are addressed. By understanding classes of nutrients and their respective guidelines, students will gain the skills to make informed dietary choices that promote a healthy lifestyle. May not be used for biology grade point calculation or biology credit toward a degree in biology, microbiology, or medical technology. Credit will be granted in only one department.

BIOL 1333. BIOLOGY FOR NON-SCIENCE MAJORS: CELLS AND DISEASE. 3 Hours. (TCCN = BIOL 1308)
Scientific literacy is crucial for navigating health-related issues in today's society. In this lecture and lab course, non-science majors will learn about the molecules of life, the cell, energy and metabolism, cell division, genetics and inheritance and diseases, such as cancer and diabetes. This course will satisfy the laboratory science requirements for students in the Colleges of Liberal Arts and Business Administration, and in the School of Social Work. Formerly listed as BIOL 1433, credit will not be given for both.

BIOL 1334. BIOLOGY FOR NON-SCIENCE MAJORS: LIFE ON EARTH. 3 Hours. (TCCN = BIOL 1309)
Scientific literacy is crucial for understanding the natural world and our relationship to it. In this lecture and lab course, non-science majors will learn about biologically-based problems facing today's society. Course themes include evolution, antibiotic resistance, genetic diversity, animal and bacterial and plant diversity, ecosystems, ecology and global change. This course will satisfy the laboratory science requirements for students in the Colleges of Liberal Arts and Business Administration, and in the School of Social Work. Formerly listed as BIOL 1434, credit will not be given for both.

BIOL 1345. INTRODUCTION TO CELL BIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on the chemical and molecular basis of life, including metabolism, cell structure and function, and genetics to provide knowledge of these subjects for those pursuing degrees in nursing and health. Note: This course cannot be applied for credit toward a degree in Biology.

BIOL 1441. BIOLOGY I FOR SCIENCE MAJORS: CELL AND MOLECULAR BIOLOGY. 4 Hours. (TCCN = BIOL 1406)
(BIOL 1406) This course focuses on the chemical and molecular basis of life, including metabolism, cell structure and function, and genetics. Laboratory experiments are designed to complement theory presented in lecture. Formerly listed as BIOL 1449; credit will not be given for both.

BIOL 1442. BIOLOGY II FOR SCIENCE MAJORS: ECOLOGY AND EVOLUTION. 4 Hours. (TCCN = BIOL 1407)
Reviews significant aspects of organismal biology and presents current hypotheses concerning the origin and diversification of life on earth. The ecological and behavioral interactions between organisms and their biotic/abiotic environments are considered from an evolutionary perspective. The laboratory will examine evolution, ecology and the diversity of life using hands-on observational and experimental approaches. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441.

BIOL 2317. BASIC CONCEPTS IN HUMAN SEXUALITY. 3 Hours.
The physiological, psychological, and sociological aspects of human sexuality. Offered as BIOL 2317, HEED 2317, PSYC 2317, and GWSS 2317. Credit will be granted for one of these courses only. Students seeking certification in Health Education must enroll in HEED 2317. Students seeking credit toward their science requirement must enroll in BIOL 2317. May not be used for biology grade point calculation or biology credit toward a BS degree in biology, microbiology, medical technology, psychology, or sociology.

BIOL 2444. GENERAL MICROBIOLOGY. 4 Hours. (TCCN = BIOL 2421)
Fundamental principles of microbiology including the structure and function of microbial cells and their activities in nature. Bacteria will be used in the laboratory to provide training and experimental methodology. Formerly listed as BIOL 3444; credit will not be granted for both. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, CHEM 1441 or CHEM 1341.

BIOL 2457. HUMAN ANATOMY AND PHYSIOLOGY I. 4 Hours. (TCCN = BIOL 2401)
Functional morphology of humans, cellular function, principles of support and movement, and neural control systems. Laboratory exercises involve both anatomical and physiological aspects of principles introduced in the lecture. This class is designed for students in sport activities (EXSA), nursing, and health. Prerequisite: BIOL 1345 or BIOL 1441 or equivalent, or approval of the department. May not be used for biology grade point calculation or biology credit toward a degree in biology or microbiology.

BIOL 2458. HUMAN ANATOMY AND PHYSIOLOGY II. 4 Hours. (TCCN = BIOL 2402)
Functional morphology of humans, maintenance of the human body, and continuity of life. Topics will include the endocrine, cardiovascular, respiratory, digestive, urinary, immune, and reproductive systems. Laboratory exercises explore both anatomical and physiological aspects of principles introduced in the lecture. This class is designed for students in sport activities (EXSA), nursing, and health. Prerequisite: BIOL 2457 or equivalent. May not be used for biology grade point calculation or biology credit toward a degree in biology or microbiology.

BIOL 2460. MICROBIOLOGY FOR NON-SCIENCE MAJORS. 4 Hours. (TCCN = BIOL 2420)
This course covers basic microbiology and immunology and is primarily directed at pre-nursing, pre-allied health, and non-science majors. It includes the nature of microorganisms, microbial diversity, the importance of microorganisms and acellular agents in the biosphere, and their roles in human and animal diseases. Major topics include microorganism structure, growth, physiology, pathogenesis, and biochemistry. Emphasis is on medical microbiology, infectious diseases, and public health. The laboratory component covers essential microbiology laboratory skills including aseptic technique, assessment of antimicrobial agents, microscopy, and staining techniques. This course cannot be applied for credit toward a degree in Biology. Prerequisite: BIOL 1345, or BIOL 1441 or equivalent.

BIOL 3101. CURRENT TOPICS IN BIOLOGY. 1 Hour.
Seminar on significant topics and issues in modern biology. Students will attend seminars on selected topics. Topics will vary each semester. May be repeated once for biology credit.

BIOL 3131. SERVICE LEARNING. 1 Hour.
Service learning is a credit-bearing learning experience; therefore, credit is awarded for academic learning and not for service hours. Students engage in classroom activities, assignments, and discussions and in addition, integrate course content and learning outcomes with genuine community needs or issues. Collaborations with the community result in relationship-building and partnerships through intentional, structured service experiences. Students are required to analyze and evaluate these experiences by engaging in reflective activities, such as discussion and journaling. This process of structured service and learning in the community promote a sense of civic responsibility and commitment to others. Students commit to serve weekly time resulting in at least fifteen hours during one semester. This time is agreed upon by student, faculty, and community agency. Prerequisite: Permission of the Instructor.

BIOL 3149. COOPERATIVE PROGRAM IN BIOLOGY. 1 Hour.
The purpose of this course is to allow students to earn college credit for relevant field work in the areas of biology and microbiology. Students must apply for the program and be cleared for registration during the semester prior to enrollment.

BIOL 3231. SERVICE LEARNING. 2 Hours.
Service learning is a credit-bearing learning experience; therefore, credit is awarded for academic learning and not for service hours. Students engage in classroom activities, assignments, and discussions and in addition, integrate course content and learning outcomes with genuine community needs or issues. Collaborations with the community result in relationship-building and partnerships through intentional, structured service experiences. Students are required to analyze and evaluate these experiences by engaging in reflective activities, such as discussion and journaling. Students commit to serve weekly time resulting in at least fifteen hours during one semester. This time is agreed upon by student, faculty, and community agency. Prerequisite: Permission of the Instructor.

BIOL 3249. COOPERATIVE PROGRAM IN BIOLOGY. 2 Hours.
The purpose of this course is to allow students to earn college credit for relevant field work in the areas of biology and microbiology. Students must apply for the program and be cleared for registration during the semester prior to enrollment.

BIOL 3300. BIOSTATISTICS. 3 Hours.
Introduction to the collection, description, and analysis of data with statistical methods appropriate for biological sciences. Specific topics covered include but are not limited to: descriptive statistics, frequency distributions, random sampling, probabilities, binomial distribution, normal distribution theory and calculations, confidence intervals, t-tests (independent sample and paired designs), Chi-square tests (one-way and two-way analysis), analysis of variance, correlation and linear regression. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441.

BIOL 3301. CELL PHYSIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
An introduction to the basic physical, chemical, and biological principles which govern function in eukaryotic cells, and the relationships between cells and their environments. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441. CHEM 2181 and CHEM 2321 are recommended.

BIOL 3302. UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH EXPERIENCE. 3 Hours.
In this laboratory course, students will learn core concepts in Biology through an intense research experience. Students will master skills including quantitative data analysis, oral and written communication, and critical thinking. Permission is required to enroll in this course.

BIOL 3303. DRUGS AND BEHAVIOR. 3 Hours.
A survey of the psychoactive agents, their therapeutic uses, and social abuses. Alcohol, nicotine, caffeine, narcotics, hallucinogens, stimulants, and tranquilizers. Offered as BIOL 3303, HEED 3303, and PSYC 3303; credit will be granted only once. May not be used for biology grade point calculation or biology credit toward a B.S. degree in biology, microbiology, or medical technology. Students seeking certification in health education must enroll in HEED 3303.

BIOL 3304. MICROBIAL GENETICS. 3 Hours.
Consideration of the physical, chemical, and functional nature of genetic processes in micro-organisms. Prerequisite: BIOL 2444, or permission of instructor.

BIOL 3306. BACTERIAL PHYSIOLOGY AND ANTIBIOTICS. 3 Hours.
This course will cover the fundamentals of how bacterial cells work, and how antibiotics interfere with essential functions to stop bacterial cells from working. This class is taught largely through reading and discussion of the primary literature, and with active learning and writing assignments. Prerequisite: BIOL 2444.

BIOL 3307. EVOLUTIONARY MEDICINE. 3 Hours.
The application of evolutionary theory to the practice of medicine from an anthropological perspective. Topics include diet/paleodiets, sleep habits, infectious diseases, the developmental origins of health and disease, mental health, women's health and reproduction, and aging/senescence, among others. Offered as BIOL 3307 and ANTH 3307; credit will only be granted in one department.

BIOL 3308. MICROBIAL ECOLOGY AND EVOLUTION. 3 Hours.
The diversity, ecology and evolution of microorganisms in natural systems. Topics will include the role of bacteria and fungi in the functioning of terrestrial ecosystems; microbial biogeography; taxonomic and metabolic diversity; evolutionary diversification; and interactions among microbes and with plant and animal hosts. Prerequisite: BIOL 2444.

BIOL 3310. SELECTED TOPICS IN BIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Topics in biology not treated in the regular curriculum. Topic, format, and prerequisites to be determined by the instructor. May be repeated for biology elective credit as different topics are offered. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442.

BIOL 3311. SELECTED TOPICS IN MICROBIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Topics in microbiology not treated in the regular curriculum. Topic, format, and prerequisites to be determined by the instructor. May be repeated for microbiology elective credit as different topics are offered. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 2444.

BIOL 3312. IMMUNOLOGY. 3 Hours.
An introduction to the components, properties, and manifestations of the adaptive immune response that occurs in vertebrates. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 2444. CHEM 2181, CHEM 2321 are recommended.

BIOL 3313. HUMAN ADAPTATION AND THE CONCEPT OF RACE. 3 Hours.
The study of modern human biological variation in the context of the history of the concept of race. Detailed historical review explores changing perspectives on variation within our species. Course examines physiological adaptations to environmental stress among a variety of human populations and implications of recent genetic research. Offered as BIOL 3313 and ANTH 3311; credit will only be granted in one department.

BIOL 3314. PRIMATE EVOLUTION AND BEHAVIOR. 3 Hours.
An overview of the Primate Order covering primate origins, evolution, ecology, adaptation, and behavior. Examination of the environmental context within which primates live, how the form of their bodies reflects their activities, and how they relate behaviorally to their environments and to one another. Offered as BIOL 3314 and ANTH 3313; credit will only be granted in one department.

BIOL 3315. GENETICS. 3 Hours.
Principles of molecular and classical genetics. The function and transmission of hereditary material in microorganisms, plants, and animals, including humans. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441.

BIOL 3316. ASTROBIOLOGY I. 3 Hours.
This is an interdisciplinary course between astrophysics, biology and geology. Topics include properties of life, origin and evolution of life on Earth, terrestrial geology and habitability, environmental forcings, extremophiles, mass extinctions, meteorites, searches for life in the solar system. Offered as BIOL 3316, GEOL 3316 and PHYS 3316; credit will be granted only once. Prerequisite: PHYS 1441 & PHYS 1442 or equivalent and PHYS 2315 or PHYS 3315, or permission from instructor. Prerequisites for Biology majors: PHYS 1441 & PHYS 1442 or equivalent.

BIOL 3317. GENOMICS. 3 Hours.
This course presents an integrative approach to genome science, combining elements of genetics, state of the art technologies in genomic analysis. A basic knowledge of genetics and probability concepts is required. Use of the World Wide Web will be an essential part of the course. Prerequisite: BIOL 3315 or permission of instructor.

BIOL 3318. LIMNOLOGY. 3 Hours.
The living and nonliving components of inland waters. An introduction to the geological, physical, and chemical background, and to the major organisms and ecological processes. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441.

BIOL 3319. HUMAN GENETICS. 3 Hours.
This course will enable students to comprehend the basic principles of genetics applied to human inheritance and disease, to interpret the research strategies aimed to identify and study the genes responsible for diverse functions and traits, as well as to assess the consequences of the genetic technologies in our society. Prerequisites: BIOL 1441 and BIOL 3315.

BIOL 3320. BIOLOGY OF TEXAS. 3 Hours.
This course is an introduction to habitat diversity and the number of species found in the state of Texas. Students will learn about the physical, climatological, and human geography of Texas and how that affects animal and plant life within the state. Descriptions of state and federal endangered species listing processes will also be covered. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441 and BIOL 1442.

BIOL 3321. INFECTIOUS DISEASE. 3 Hours.
This course will cover key concepts that relate to the history and background of infectious diseases, as well as the emergence, spread, and control of infectious disease epidemics. Vaccination, antibiotic resistance, and eradication of diseases will also be discussed. Prerequisite: BIOL 3444.

BIOL 3322. BRAIN AND BEHAVIOR. 3 Hours.
An introduction to the anatomical structures and physiological processes that determine behavior. Topics include the acquisition and processing of sensory information, the neural control of movement, and the biological bases of complex behaviors (such as learning, memory, sex, language, and addiction), as well as the basic functioning of the nervous system. Offered as BIOL 3322 and PSYC 3322. Credit will be granted only once. BIOL 3322 prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442. PSYC 3322 prerequisite: BIOL 1441 or PSYC 1315.

BIOL 3323. NEUROBIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
General principles of the function, structure, and organization of the nervous system. Topics include the gross and microscopic anatomy of nervous tissues; physical and chemical basis for action potentials and synaptic transmission; sensory and motor pathways of transduction; molecular, cellular, and systems study of learning and memory; development; and a study of neural diseases and disorders. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442.

BIOL 3324. HUMAN ECOLOGY OF FOOD. 3 Hours.
Modern food production and consumption is a complex, interdisciplinary topic directly relevant to global environmental and public health issues. This course will examine our place in the food web from ecological, biogeographical, historical, cultural, and sociopolitical perspectives. Course participants will examine the implications of our everyday decisions as consumers who play a key role in an intricate ecological system. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441 and BIOL 1442.

BIOL 3326. ANIMAL BEHAVIOR. 3 Hours.
A survey of research and theory comparing behavior at various phyletic levels. Offered as BIOL 3326 and PSYC 3326. Credit will be granted for only one of these courses. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442.

BIOL 3327. MICROBIAL DIVERSITY. 3 Hours.
This course is an introduction to the great diversity of microbial life. The topic material explores this diversity by considering the great age of bacteria, their evolution, biochemistry, habitat and form. The course of study focuses attention on organisms not commonly encountered in General Microbiology laboratories. Prerequisite: BIOL 3444 Microbiology.

BIOL 3328. ENVIRONMENTAL MICROBIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
An introduction to the principles, methodology, and practical applications and implications of environmental microbiology. Lecture topics include habitat and community approaches to environmental microbiology, measures of microbial populations and activities, interactions among microbial communities, the role of microorganisms in the origin of mineral resources, microorganisms and pollution, and current developments on energy flow through microbial communities. Prerequisite: BIOL 3444.

BIOL 3331. SERVICE LEARNING. 3 Hours.
Service learning is a credit-bearing learning experience; therefore, credit is awarded for academic learning and not for service hours. Students engage in classroom activities, assignments, and discussions and in addition, integrate course content and learning outcomes with genuine community needs or issues. Collaborations with the community result in relationship-building and partnerships through intentional, structured service experiences. Students are required to analyze and evaluate these experiences by engaging in reflective activities, such as discussion and journaling. This process of structured service and learning in the community promote a sense of civic responsibility and commitment to others. Students commit to serve weekly time resulting in at least fifteen hours during one semester. This time is agreed upon by student, faculty, and community agency. Prerequisite: Permission of the Instructor.

BIOL 3333. GLOBAL CHANGE BIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This course covers global-scale environmental changes and their consequences for species and ecological communities. We will focus on climate change, habitat loss, and species invasion, with special emphasis on combining physiology, ecology, and evolution to understand past responses and predict future outcomes. Prerequisite: BIOL 1442.

BIOL 3339. INTRODUCTION TO EVOLUTION. 3 Hours.
The goals of this course are: to introduce students to the process of evolution, the patterns that result, and the way that evolutionary history has shaped the diversity of organisms on Earth; to explore how evolutionary biologists formulate and test hypotheses; to investigate applications of evolutionary biology to mainstream medical research; and to investigate current controversies in evolutionary biology. Prerequisites: BIOL 1441 and BIOL 3315 (or equivalent), or permission of instructor.

BIOL 3340. BIOINFORMATICS. 3 Hours.
This course is an applied introduction to bioinformatics and computational genomics. The course is geared toward the student with a biology background and limited programming experience. The course provides an entrance to commonly used programming/scripting languages and an introduction to numerous aspects of modern genomic data analyses (e.g. identification of coding and regulatory features in novel sequences, expression analysis, and comparative/phylogenetic analyses). Prerequisite: BIOL 1442 and BIOL 3315, or permission of instructor.

BIOL 3342. DEVELOPMENTAL BIOLOGY IN HEALTH AND DISEASE. 3 Hours.
An introduction to fundamental developmental events that form complex organisms with an emphasis on human health and disease. Prerequisites: BIOL 1441 and 1442. BIOL 3301 is recommended.

BIOL 3349. COOPERATIVE PROGRAM IN BIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
The purpose of this course is to allow students to earn college credit for relevant field work in the areas of biology and microbiology. Students must apply for the program and be cleared for registration during the semester prior to enrollment.

BIOL 3352. INTRODUCTION TO FORENSIC LAB SCIENCE. 3 Hours.
An introduction to the various disciplines of Forensic Science including DNA analysis, drug analysis, and firearms basics. Laboratory consists of hands-on investigation of mock crime scenes, fingerprint enhancement methods, and biological analysis of fluids. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442, CHEM 1441.

BIOL 3353. FUNDAMENTAL MEDICAL MYCOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Medical mycology deals with those infections in humans, and animals resulting from pathogenic fungi. As a separate discipline, the concepts, methods, diagnosis, and treatment of fungal diseases of humans are specific. Fundamental Medical Mycology balances clinical and laboratory knowledge to provide students with in-depth coverage of the most common fungal diseases and its etiologic agents from both the laboratory and clinical perspective. Prerequisite: BIOL 2444.

BIOL 3355. TOXICOLOGY. 3 Hours.
An introduction to the general principles of toxicology with an emphasis on certain classes of toxic agents, their sources and toxic effects, as well as their environmental fates. Pollution of various media (air, water and soil) and the differences between them will be discussed. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442, CHEM 1441 and CHEM 1442.

BIOL 3356. ENVIRONMENTAL SYSTEMS, BIOLOGICAL ASPECTS. 3 Hours.
Biological components of environmental systems. Population dynamics, species interactions, community structure, biodiversity, bioenergetics, nutrient cycling and human impacts are reviewed. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442.

BIOL 3358. ASTROBIOLOGY II. 3 Hours.
This is an interdisciplinary course between astrophysics, biology and geology. Topics include basic properties of life, habitability of Earth, studies of possible life regarding Mars, Europa & Titan, space missions, exoplanets and exomoons, stellar habitable zones, multistellar systems, exoEarths, biomarkers, SETI, Fermi paradox, Drake equation, cosmology. Offered as BIOL 3358, GEOL 3358, and PHYS 3358; credit will be granted only once. Prerequisite: PHYS 1441 & PHYS 1442 or equivalent and PHYS 2315 or PHYS 3315, or permission from instructor. Prerequisites for Biology majors: PHYS 1441 & PHYS 1442 or equivalent. Note that Astrobiology I is strongly recommended to students to be taken prior to Astrobiology II, but is not a prerequisite.

BIOL 3359. MEDICAL MOLECULAR BIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This course is an introduction to modern molecular biology and human diseases. This course will use medical diseases, class projects, and problem sets to explore and learn modern molecular biology. The molecular mechanisms and underpinnings for several human diseases will be covered. Topics may include, gene regulation, the dynamic genome and how to rewrite it, modern cloning schemes, synthetic biology, and drug design. BIOL 3315 or BIOL 2444 are recommended, but not required. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441.

BIOL 3409. PALEOANTHROPOLOGY. 4 Hours.
Paleoanthropology: an exploration of fossil evidence for human origins and human evolution. Course focuses on the evolution of humans and our close relatives, from our origins as a distinct lineage to "anatomically modern" Homo sapiens, including the relationship between biological and cultural/behavioral evolution. Offered as BIOL 3409 and ANTH 3409; credit will be granted only once.

BIOL 3410. SELECTED TOPICS IN BIOLOGY. 4 Hours.
Topics in biology not treated in the regular curriculum. Topic, format, and prerequisites to be determined by the instructor. May include lab, service learning or any other experiential learning module. May be repeated for biology elective credit as different topics are offered. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441 or BIOL 1442.

BIOL 3420. GENETICS METHODS LAB. 4 Hours.
This course combines computational and experimental approaches to study genome composition, evolution, and disease. Students will learn contemporary laboratory techniques while exploring transposable elements as tools for genetic analysis. Topics include genetic variation, Mendelian genetics, gene regulation, and gene-directed therapy. Prerequisite: BIOL 3315.

BIOL 3427. PLANT SCIENCE. 4 Hours.
A survey of plant science including the importance of plants to people and the human side of botany: the structure, reproduction, physiology, and classification of plants. The laboratory includes the study of structure, function, reproduction, and classification of plants. Replaces BIOL 3327 and BIOL 3183. Credit cannot be given for BIOL 3427 and BIOL 3327 and 3183. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442 or equivalent.

BIOL 3442. HUMAN PHYSIOLOGY. 4 Hours.
A comparative study of vertebrate function. The general principles of physiological mechanisms on the cellular, tissue, organ, and organismal levels will be examined. Laboratory studies will complement lecture material and will stress experimental design, data analysis, and the understanding of critical research in physiology. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442.

BIOL 3445. METHODS IN MOLECULAR MICROBIOLOGY. 4 Hours.
An overview of different techniques used during manipulation of microorganisms. It will allow students to gain an historical perspective of techniques used in microbiology as well as learn state of the art molecular characterization of microorganisms and their genetic manipulation. Introduces biochemical, physiological, and molecular biology methods to assess community diversity and microbial activity in a variety of ecosystems. Bacterial growth and survival, population biology, and microbial interactions will also be discussed. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441 and BIOL 3444.

BIOL 3446. HUMAN ANATOMY. 4 Hours.
Study of the gross functional anatomy of the human body. Students will participate in laboratory exercises designed to familiarize them with human anatomical structures and their functions. Use of eponyms for anatomical terms will be minimized. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442 or 8 hours of Bioltran.

BIOL 3454. GENERAL ZOOLOGY. 4 Hours.
An overview of animal life including the diversity and evolution of major animal phyla, reproduction, development and aspects of physiological function. The laboratory examines form, function and phyletic relationships in a wide variety of animal types. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442, or equivalent, or permission of instructor.

BIOL 3457. GENERAL ECOLOGY. 4 Hours.
An examination of the theoretical and experimental aspects of the relationship between the biological and physical environments (organisms, food, space, and time) at the individual, population, community, and ecosystem levels. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442.

BIOL 4089. RESEARCH IN BIOLOGY. 0 Hours.
Research problems on an individual basis, conducted under the direction of a member of the biology faculty. Prerequisite: written permission of the supervising instructor prior to registration. This is a non-credit course. Prerequisite: Written permission of the supervising instructor prior to registration.

BIOL 4101. CAREER READINESS CAPSTONE. 1 Hour.
This is a career-readiness capstone course for students approaching graduation. Students will build a professional portfolio to be used towards post graduate prospects such as a scientific industry jobs or application to a graduate program.

BIOL 4179. RESEARCH AND DIRECTED STUDY. 1 Hour.
Research or independent study by individual students in biology under the supervision of a biology faculty member. Topics must be approved by the supervising faculty member. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442, and permission of instructor.

BIOL 4189. RESEARCH IN BIOLOGY. 1 Hour.
Research problems on an individual basis, conducted under the direction of a member of the biology faculty. A limit of two hours per semester is imposed and only a total of three hours may be counted toward degree requirements. These courses are offered only on a pass/fail basis. Prerequisite:written permission of the supervising instructor prior to registration.

BIOL 4279. RESEARCH AND DIRECTED STUDY. 2 Hours.
Research or independent study by individual students in biology under the supervision of a biology faculty member. Topics must be approved by the supervising faculty member. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442, and permission of instructor.

BIOL 4289. RESEARCH IN BIOLOGY. 2 Hours.
Research problems on an individual basis, conducted under the direction of a member of the biology faculty. A limit of two hours per semester is imposed and only a total of three hours may be counted toward degree requirements. These courses are offered only on a pass/fail basis. Prerequisite:written permission of the supervising instructor prior to registration.

BIOL 4303. MICROBIOMES: HEALTH AND THE ENVIRONMENT. 3 Hours.
The development, interactions, and change of polymicrobial communities in both humans and the environment with implications in health, nutrition, disease, research, ecology and agriculture. Prerequisite: BIOL 2444.

BIOL 4307. MOLECULAR EVOLUTION. 3 Hours.
This course focuses on understanding how genes and genomes evolve at the molecular level. Molecular biology provides the data while population genetics provides the theoretical framework. Prerequisite: BIOL 3315, BIOL 3339.

BIOL 4309. NEUROPHARMACOLOGY. 3 Hours.
A survey of how drugs affect the nervous system. General topics will include cellular and molecular foundations of neuropharmacology, receptors and modulation of neural signaling. The specific role of neurotransmitter systems (i.e. acetylcholine, dopamine, norepinephrine, serotonin, and opiate) will be explored. Offered as BIOL 4309 and PSYC 4309; credit will be granted only once. Prerequisite: one or more of the following courses or permission of instructor: BIOL 1441 or PSYC 3322/BIOL 3322 or BIOL 3301.

BIOL 4311. HISTOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Histology is a branch of biological science concerned with structure and function of the organism on a cellular level. The objective in this class is to provide students with the skills and knowledge needed to identify and describe tissues and organs in the microscopic images based on the characteristic morphologies of cells and arrangement of tissues. Students will learn about basic histological techniques used in slide preparation, four basic tissue types and types of tissue, followed by the survey of microscopic images of all organ systems. This course bridges the "whole body" disciplines of anatomy and physiology and cell-level sciences such as cell physiology and genomics. It will help students understand how the differential expression of the genome leads to different cell morphology that in turn leads to different functions. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442.

BIOL 4312. INTRODUCTION TO VIROLOGY. 3 Hours.
The nature, reproduction, and host cell interactions of viruses and virus-like agents of bacteria, animals, and plants. Prerequisite: BIOL 2444.

BIOL 4315. HORMONES AND BEHAVIOR. 3 Hours.
A study of the interaction between hormones and behavior. Specific topics covered include; examination of the hormonal influences on sex determination, reproductive behaviors, parental behavior, dominance and aggression, responses to stressful stimuli, homeostasis, and learning and memory. This course uses a comparative approach and draws examples of neuroendocrine function from throughout the animal kingdom including fish, birds, reptiles, and mammals (including humans). Offered as PSYC 4315 and BIOL 4315. Credit will be granted only once. Prerequisite: PSYC 3322/ BIOL 3322 or BIOL 1441 or BIOL 3301.

BIOL 4316. GROWTH, DEVELOPMENT, AND EVOLUTION. 3 Hours.
A survey of topics at the nexus of modern human biological research in growth and development and the evolutionary record of hominid subadults. Offered as BIOL 4316 and ANTH 4315; credit will be granted only in one department. Prerequisite is only required for students registering for ANTH 4315. Prerequisite: ANTH 2307 or permission of the instructor.

BIOL 4317. BACTERIAL PATHOGENESIS. 3 Hours.
Host-pathogen relationships in microbial diseases. Topics include bacterium-host interactions; pathogens and pathogenic factors; techniques in pathogenesis research; molecular mechanisms of pathogenesis by major bacterial pathogens; antimicrobial compounds and resistance to antibiotics; and discussion of human genomics and susceptibility to infections. Prerequisites: BIOL 3312, BIOL 2444.

BIOL 4321. ADVANCED PROBLEM SOLVING IN BIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This course will focus on crucial techniques needed to solve application-based questions in biology. Students will develop and practice reading comprehension, problem solving, critical thinking, and reasoning skills while deepening their understanding of core biological concepts, including cell and molecular biology; biochemistry; anatomy and physiology; and behavior. The goal of this course is to improve students' critical reasoning skills to prepare them for problem-based exams. BIOL 3442 is recommended. Prerequisite: BIOL 1442, BIOL 3301, BIOL 3315.

BIOL 4327. BEHAVIORAL GENETICS. 3 Hours.
Genetic influences on behavioral phenotypes. Research strategies, quantitative methods, and pharmacogenetic approaches to the brain; sociality and altruism; the personality, emotionality and intelligence; psychopathology; chromosomal abnormalities; forensic implications of genetic counseling. Offered as BIOL 4327 and PSYC 4327; credit will be granted only once. Students seeking credit toward the science requirement must enroll in BIOL 4327. Prerequisite: PSYC 1315 or BIOL 1441.

BIOL 4329. NEURAL ENGINEERING. 3 Hours.
This course consists of both lecture/discussion and laboratory. Lecture topics include central and peripheral nervous system injury and regeneration, brain/machine interfacing, primary culture of neural cells, neuroinflammatory and neurodegenerative disease. Laboratories include embryonic and neonatal rat derived neuronal culturing, immunostaining and quantitative analysis. Prerequisites: BIOL 3301, CSE 1310, CHEM 2322, and MATH 3319.

BIOL 4332. POLYMERS IN BIOMEDICAL ENGINEERING. 3 Hours.
This is a foundation course in polymeric biomaterial design, synthesis, characterization, and processing. The topics include design, surface-engineering, functionalization, characterization, as well as micro- and nano-fabrication of polymeric biomaterials. The biomedical applications of the polymeric biomaterials and their interaction with cell/tissue is discussed. Prerequisite: BIOL 3301, CSE 1310, CHEM 2322 and MATH 3319.

BIOL 4333. NANOBIOMATERIALS. 3 Hours.
Synthesis, fabrication, characterization, and biomedical applications of nanobiomaterials. Topics include synthetic nanobiomaterials, biological nanobiomaterials (DNA nanomaterials, protein and peptide nanomaterials, etc.), biofunctionalization of nanobiomaterials, use of nanobiomaterials in tissue engineering, drug delivery, gene delivery. Prerequisites: BIOL 3301, CSE 1310, CHEM 2322, and MATH 3319.

BIOL 4343. RESEARCH METHODS - UTEACH. 3 Hours.
The purpose of this course is to present UTeach students with the tools scientists use to solve scientific problems. These tools enable scientists to develop new knowledge and insights, the most important of which are eventually presented in textbooks and taught in more conventional science classes. These tools include: design of experiments to answer scientific questions; use of statistics to interpret experimental results and deal with sampling errors; mathematical modeling of scientific phenomena; finding and reading articles in the current scientific literature; applying scientific arguments in matters of social importance; writing scientific papers; reviewing scientific papers; oral presentation of scientific work; use of probes and computers to gather and analyze data; ethical treatment of human subjects; laboratory safety. Research Methods is primarily a laboratory course, and most of these topics are developed in connection with 4 independent inquiries UTeach students design and carry out. Written inquiries will be evaluated as examples of scientific writing. Prerequisite: SCIE 1201 or SCIE 1334 or concurrent enrollment; junior or senior standing.

BIOL 4345. MICROBIAL PHYSIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This course considers the anatomy and physiology of the bacterial cell in detail. Lecture topics consider the molecular architecture of cell walls, membranes and organelles, synthesis of wall material and membranes, insertion of proteins into membranes and regulation of biosynthetic systems at the whole cell level. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441 and BIOL 3444. CHEM 4311 recommended.

BIOL 4350. CONSERVATION BIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Introduction to theory and practice of conservation biology, with emphasis on applications of modern quantitative and genetic techniques to preservation of organisms and habitats. Topics include identification and prioritization of units for protection; conservation genetics; preserve design; public policy issues; and case studies. Prerequisite: BIOL 3315 or equivalent (Genetics), or permission of the instructor.

BIOL 4352. FORENSIC BIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
A comprehensive review of biological principles, applied to forensic science, including sample recovery and handling, analytical techniques, profile matching/exclusion, reporting, and testimony. Prerequisite: BIOL 3315; statistics course recommended; or permission of instructor.

BIOL 4355. METHODS IN FORENSIC BIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Analysis of typical biological evidentiary samples including extraction of DNA, quantitation, amplification and electrophoresis of examples. Instrumentation utilized includes thermal cyclers and ABI 377 genetic analyzer. Prerequisite: BIOL 4352 or concurrent enrollment.

BIOL 4357. HEALTH PSYCHOLOGY. 3 Hours.
This course provides a broad introduction to health psychology and its interface with the medical world. The course provides a balanced presentation of the important issues in the field, as well as specific content topics that are especially relevant today to better understand health and illness. Offered as BIOL 4357, HEED 4357, and PSYC 4357. Students seeking science requirement credit must enroll in BIOL 4357; students seeking Certification in Health must enroll in HEED 4357. Prerequisite: PSYC 1315 or BIOL 1333 or BIOL 1441 or BIOL 2457; junior standing recommended.

BIOL 4365. TISSUE ENGINEERING LAB. 3 Hours.
Each student will be given the opportunity to perform the techniques commonly used in tissue engineering and biomaterial research. These techniques are culture media preparation, cell culture/subculture, degradable scaffold preparation, scaffold modification, histological sections and staining, and cell imaging analyses. Prerequisites: BIOL 3301, CSE 1310, CHEM 2322, and MATH 3319.

BIOL 4379. RESEARCH AND DIRECTED STUDY. 3 Hours.
Research or independent study by individual students in biology under the supervision of a biology faculty member. Topics must be approved by the supervising faculty member. Prerequisite: BIOL 1441, BIOL 1442, and permission of instructor.

BIOL 4388. INSTRUCTIONAL TECHNIQUES IN BIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Students will participate in laboratory instruction and student recitation sessions under the supervision of a faculty member. A maximum of 3 hours can be applied to the major for biology or microbiology credit. Enrollment by departmental permission only. A maximum of 6 hours credit from this class will be used to calculate a student's grade point average. Students on probation or who have not qualified for major status may not enroll in this course.

BIOL 4389. RESEARCH IN BIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Research problems on an individual basis, conducted under the direction of a member of the biology faculty. A limit of two hours per semester is imposed and only a total of three hours may be counted toward degree requirements. These courses are offered only on a pass/fail basis. Prerequisite: written permission of the supervising instructor prior to registration.

BIOL 4390. INSTRUCTIONAL TECHNIQUES IN MICROBIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
Students will participate in laboratory instruction and laboratory preparation under the supervision of the lab coordinator. A maximum of 3 hours can be applied to the major for biology or microbiology credit. Enrollment by departmental permission only. A maximum of 6 hours credit from this class will be used to calculate a student's grade point average. Students on probation or who have not qualified for major status may not enroll in this course.

BIOL 4392. INSTRUCTIONAL TECHNIQUES IN MICROBIOLOGY LEADER. 3 Hours.
Students will take on a leadership role in laboratory instruction and preparation under the supervision of the lab coordinator. Students will strengthen their skill set and gain experience in a supervisory role. A maximum of 3 hours can be applied to the major for biology or microbiology credit. Enrollment by departmental permission only. A maximum of 6 hours credit from this class will be used to calculate a student's grade point average. Students on probation or who have not qualified for major status may not enroll in this course.

BIOL 4393. HONORS SENIOR PROJECT IN BIOLOGY. 3 Hours.
A topic will be selected after consultation with a supervising professor and will involve both original research and writing a formal report. The work will be evaluated by a faculty honors committee. Completion of this course will satisfy the thesis requirement for the Honors College described elsewhere in this catalog.

BIOL 4395. FORENSICS-EL PA. 3 Hours.

BIOL 4406. HUMAN OSTEOLOGY. 4 Hours.
Detailed examination of human skeletal morphology. Topics include form and function of all skeletal elements in the human body, differentiation of each bone, left and right side identification, identification or fragmented remains, and muscle attachments and articulations. Content useful in forensic anthropology, archaeology, and hominid paleontology. Offered as BIOL 4406 and ANTH 4406; credit will be granted only in one department.

BIOL 4421. ADVANCED TOPICS IN NEUROSCIENCE. 4 Hours.
